Nine Factories Board At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, April 24 (ENS) —Nine factories of the Campbellford district boarded and sold a total of 364 cheese on the board here Thursday evening making an increase of 105 boxes over the amount listed at the opening of the board on April 16. Prices ranged from 19¼-19 5-16 for white and 19½ cents for 50 boxes of colored. P. J. Murphy of Hodgson & Rosson, Montreal paid 19¼ cents for 150 white while A. J. Meyers bought 164 white at 19 5-16 for Flavelle & Co., Lindsay, and J. Bradbury, Canada Packers, Peterborough, took the balance, 50 colored at the top price 19½ cents.

Factories boarded as follows: Brae 14w; Crow Bay 24w; Cedar Creek 30w; Empire 51w; Hoards 61w; Kimberley 28w; Menie 54w; Riystone 52w; Trent Valley 50c.

Both buyers and salesmen were left confused by a telegram read by Secretary S. A. Maguire who received it from J. F. Singleton, chairman of the Dairy Products Board on Thursday morning. Though it was pointed out that bidding was strictly on a competitive basis buyers warily kept approximately one cent below last week's prices. Text of the message was that the Dairy Products Board had not requisitioned cheese for the British Ministry of Food and hence selling and buying of current make cheese was still on a competitive basis. "Buyers are free to buy at any price not in excess of the WPTB maximum of 25 cents factory shipping point and to sell for domestic requirements at any prices obtainable and legal under orders of the WPTB." Continuing Mr. Singleton's communication pointed out that April cheese tender to this (Dairy Products) Board would be accepted on a basis of 20 cents on board ship for first grade. "White cheese is required for evport but Board will consider acceptance of colored cheese made from April 1 to April 25 inclusive."

After discussing this at some length members decided they would continue to meet weekly "until developments warrant changing this policy transpire." The motion was made by A. J. Meyers and seconded by W. D. Bedell. Only other item of business was that of boosting the secretary's salary from $20 to $25 per year.

Find Winter Spoils

On the southwest front Red army men found 10 big guns and additional small arms abandoned with melting snows. Others encountered the grotesquely-frozen body of a German guard who wore a woman's garb over his uniform and his two iron crosses. Behind him was an ammunition dump of 12,000 shells.

(Germany sent many women's coats to the eastern front during the winter.)

The Moscow radio broadcast a Pravda editorial saying:

"Deep snow that hindered the advance of our troops is melting in the sun. Conditions for an increase in the scope of our attacks as well as for guerilla activity are becoming more favorable. The Red army, which beat the enemy in the winter, will beat him in the spring and summer."

Amid generally increased aerial activity, the army publication Red Star said the Russian Air Force had been supplied new type fighters and bombers and, although the enemy still was not smashed, "we now have everything necessary to win the fight for supremacy of the air."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said the German-Finnish Allies' Kalinin front thrusts—made in a region where the Nazi 16th Army long has been encircled at Staraya Russa—developed fierce fighting on many sectors.

All the counter attacks were repulsed and the Russians pushed west again to capture another settlement, Pravda said.

Referring to operations on one sector, the Soviet information bureau said the Russians had repelled several counter attacks and "the Germans lost in killed alone 1,200 men and officers."

A War Mystery.

(It was not brought out how Finland could spare even token troops for distant operations in view of fierce fighting the last two weeks on the Svir River front.

Speaking of the zone between the Kalinin and the Svir River fronts, the Soviet information bureau said:

"Our units operating on separate sectors of the Leningrad front in two days of fighting killed more than 1,400 German officers and men. They destroyed 12 enemy blockhouses."

Thawing fields of reoccupied territories are said to be yielding huge booty—tons of machine guns, rifles, grenades and other war implements abandoned in the Germans' winter retreat. The Russians are repairing some for use at the front; others are moved to the rear for scrap metal.

Red Star identified the Russian air force's new planes as fighters, the Mig, the Yak and the Lagg, the low-altitude bomber IL and the long-range bombers PE 2 nd PE 3.

It said new Messerschmitts, Junkers and Heinkels which Germany planned to produce had not appeared in large numbers.

said: "The biggest disaster was our naval losses. Forty-seven warships were sunk in the operations off Norway and Dunkirk. And when the evacuation was over half our destroyer fleet lay awaiting repairs in our shipyards.

"Hardy had we emerged from this peril when were called upon to fight the Battle of Britain. And I must tell you that when tha struggle began we had in reserve only five fighter aircraft in the storage units.

"We were defeated in Greece. Crete was a heavy burden and cost us many valuable warship and transports too. Other events followed swiftly, and before the year was out the British army had fought major engagements on seven separate fronts in the Middle East.

"Then came the Japs. They caught us unawares in Malaya and Singapore. We have little to say in defence of our errors, but that is the story of the past. Now the day has come when in almost every part of Britain the cry goes up, 'ATTACK.' 'Attack in support of Russia.' For the passion to set up a western fighting front in aiad of the Russians is deep in the hearts of all our people.

"Ever since a journey to Russia in October last I have been in favor of a second front. The British and American supply missions at that time provided our Ally with aircraft and tanks, and anti-aircraft guns, and with anti-tank guns. And some short-sighted people complained that we did wrong to put weapons in the hands of Communists.

bomb which hit an institution in another area killed eight and injured others.

Home of the Heinkels

Rostok is understood here to be the home of the Heinkel aircraft works.

It previously was bombed on the night of Sept. 11, 1941, when large fires were started.

The blows at the Baltic ports were described as designed particularly to break up the German shipment of munitions and other supplies to the Russian-Finnish front.

Pilots returning from the Rostok raid said the German anti-aircraft batteries apparently shot themselves out of ammunition, leaving the city at the mercw of the last waves of raiders.

The German radio carried a DNB report that a British plane reached the approaches of Berlin but said it dropepd no bombs.

On the home front, there was an attack during the night by a small number of aircraft concentrated mainly on coastal sections of southwest England.

The government said there were some casualties, including a small number of deaths, and some damage.

Two of the invading bombers were destroyed. A government communique announcing destruction of one bomber barely had been issued when authoritative sources said the score had been increased to two.

Burma, he followed his adversary down until he saw him crash in flames.

A Crash Landing.

While the Texan was thus engaged another Japanese plane got on his tail and sent a burst of machine gun fire through his instrument of the difficulty he'd h: i confirming five previous combat victims in board. Oil from a broken line spurted over the Texas, blinding him, and he made a crash landing.

As he sat in his wrecked plane, half-stunned, another enemy plane swooped low with blazing guns and just missed finishing him off.

Wednesday noon (April 8) a fast twin-engined Japanese reconnaissance bomber, possibly a Heinkel or JU-88 (German) model, scouted the field and eluded two pursuing American pilots flying with throttles wide open. Then in mid-afternoon a Japanese fighter formation was reported en route.

The Japanese suddenly swooped over the runway but there were no rows of stationary aircraft. They combed the edges of the field, hunting for concealed prey. Nearly five miles high in the cloud-patched sky, more of the enemy hovered.

Then the Americans counterattacked. Brown streaks of lightning dived at the low-flying strafers. Above the scream of motors and crackling gunfire, stricken Japanese planes sounded like exploding bombs when they crashed to the ground.

The Japanese cruising high in the sky stayed there, just dim silver specks to ground observers, while one after another 10 of their mates died fighting and the remainder broke and fled in their damaged ships.

Japanese air activity the following day dropped off to the point where only one reconnaissance plane wandered into the defensive zone.

Today (Friday, April 10) at dawn Japanese navy Zero planes sneaked over the Chinese hills and roared toward the field. Mechanics were warming up two Curtiss planes and dived for the nearest ditch, bullets nearly dusting their khaki jeans.

Miss Every Plane

Up and down the field, twisting and swerving like playful porpoises, the Japanese emptied their guns. They headed for their base, seemingly reluctantly, for they turned and came back for a farewell sweep before vanishing. But not a single Allied plane on the ground had been burned.

This afternoon the Japanese returned—in confident, buzzing V formations of three planes each—stalking two miles up in puffy thick clouds for the kill. They tested their gun and made ready to dive.

Then machine guns began firing from above and behind the Japanese tails with heavy tracers and armor-piercing bullets slashing at the unarmored navy Zeros.

Smoke geysered from a crashing Japanese plane midway up a mountain; another dug into plowed land beside a river; another burned out of sight across a ridge.

A Prince Of Arabia Sees A "Chicago Piano"

Looking singularly out of place in his picturesque robes and turban aboard a man-o'-war, Emir Mansur, son of King Ibn Saud of Arabia, is shown aboard the H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth, flagship of the British Mediterranean fleet, in Alexandria harbor during his Egyptian visit. He is deeply interested in an anti-aircraft pom-pom, popularly known in the navy as a "Chicago piano."

Tractors At Work On "Owl" Shifts As Spring Work Comes In Fast

Don't register surprise if a farmer friend mentions to you that tractors are humming long into these spring nights.

The novelty of that industrial innovation has worn off up and down the concession lines, but it still seems an extraordinary rural enterprise to city folks who regard it as somewhat theatrical. Their imagination of tractors droning steadily behind powerful headlights, after dark has descended, is sharpened by a notion of the phenomenal so far removed from horse power days.

Even last year some tractors worked twenty-four hours a day in the rush season of cultivating and seeding. So, if you express some wonderment about this week's reports of operations until midnight, you simply reveal to farmers your lack of knowledge of the elements of practical agriculture in these days of stress.

Some of this night shift operations in the county go by the general term of custom work, owners of tractors doing a rush job on farms with only horses available. These specialists take on a job of plowing and cultivating a field, getting it ready for seeding, and they stay with it until it is finished. It doesn't matter much to them when they get through, or whether they have to put another man at the wheel.

Tractor headlights have revolutionized that detail of work, and Colonel Drew or some one else who was across to Britain said that a farmer who did not keep his tractor continuously in use, in similar circumstances, was relieved of it. The government through a local committee took it away from him.

Enquiries by the Examiner all across the county from Fowler's Corners to Westwood and down into Cavan indicate that considerable night tractoring is going on this week, and farmers no longer pay any attention to it.

Dummer Man Still Missing

Fred Armstrong, 70-year-old Dummer township resident, who disappeared on Sunday from the home of George Forbes, White Lake, where he had been living, is still missing today.

Provincial Constables Price Morris of Peterborough and Archie Grayling of Havelock, with Constable W. Parcels of Norwood, tried to locate Armstrong yesterday but were unsuccessful. The officers believe that the missing man has found shelter with some farmer.

He has disappeared several times before, although this is the longest he has been missing. His trail was followed across several fields out to a road and the police are satisfied that he did not go near the lake and that he is not in the woods.

Many farmers have been communicated with by telephone but so far there has been no trace of Armstrong since his footprints leading to the road were discovered.

Music Festival Adds $100 For War Victims

The impressions that are gained in youth are by far the most lasting, and play a most deciding factor in later years, and so it is of vital interest to the community as a whole, that its youth should be trained in those things that are good, pure, lovely, and of good report, for on such a basis, there need be no fear of what they will do, when the years of discretion are reached.

Having this in mind, there can be no doubt that a School Music Festival with a program composed of nothing but the finest in the musical art must have a tremendous influence for good in the lives of its young participants. Such is the background for today's report for the Peterborough and District War Victims' Fund, which has pofited to the extent of the splendid sum of $100 from the Public School Music Festival directed by Miss Musa Cox, A.T.C.M., Public Schools Music Supervisor, which was held in the Collegiate Auditorium on Friday, March 27.

Ranking as one of the outstanding achievements of the school season now drawing to a close, it attracted a capacity audience which was delighted beyond measure with a program rendered by choirs of young folk from each of the public schools and a massed choir of some 180 voices representative of all six public schools in the city.

Then to make the picture complete, the financial result of their efforts, which was considerable has all been given to help others less fortunate than themselves, unconsciously teaching the children the value of doing good for those who are in need, another valuable trait for them to carry through their lives. The cheque for $100 was handed in by Percy Windrum, and is acknowledged in the lists for today, and congratulations are extended to all on the success attained by their labors.

Then, to still further make this a real children's day for the fund, the tiny tots of the Primary Class of the United Church Sunday School at Bridgenorth, taught by Mrs. W. J. Robinson, have made their 6th contribution to the fund. A collection from one of the regular boxes helpers at Loblaws store is also noted in today's list.

Giving further evidence of good work being done for the fund, two events by children are scheduled for Saturday in its interest, first of which is a bazaar to be held at the corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie streets by Dorothy Carr, Joyce Hanes, Catherine Craig, June Moore, Margaret Johnston and Joyce Campbell, who are the first of this season to renew an activity that last year added considerably to the fund.

The pupils of Mrs. R. T. F. Brain are holding a musical tea in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, marking the fourth effort this this group has staged for the fund, for which they have been selling tickets at 25 cents each. Both these groups will be glad of your support and encouragement.

High School Boys On Farm

Most of the boys of Havelock, Norwood and Lakefield High Schools have enlisted for farm work.

It was related to the Examiner that one of the principals reminded his senior boys of the story of builders and their attitude toward their work. One said he was just laying stone, when he was asked what he was doing. Another said he was building a temple of God.

And so the High School boys have been told that although they may be hoeing corn, milking cows, carrying feed to hogs or pitching sheaves, they are part of the huge Canadian agricultural enterprise which has been shipping fabulous quantities of food to the Old Land for three years of war. They are contributing to the nation's war action although they will hear no bugles, and they will probably be overlooked when it comes to furloughs.

From Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, and from Public School Inspector Copp have come warm tributes for the spirit shown by the principals of these three schools: S. S. Breckon at Norwood, R. W. Goheen at Havelock and John Harvey at Lakefield.

"And don't overlook our girls who are planning to work on fruit farms," Mr. Harvey said.

Nearly all the junior farm contingent is already on its way to the countryside. Others will not be leaving until May 1.

"We have had splendid co-operation from those three schools," Mr. Paterson remarked, "and I feel sure their boys will give a good account of themselves."

Old Home At Corner Of Sherbrooke Street And Port Hope Highway Destroyed

A disastrous fire levelled all of the buildings on the Bestard property at Sherbrooke Street and Highway 28 on Thursday afternoon. A one-storey frame house, barn and shed all were destroyed. The burning house is shown ABOVE, just before firemen turned on the hose, and at INSET is 19-year-old Lloyd Cullen of Windsor, now in the C.G.E., who was the first into the burning house to save the furniture. At LOWER LEFT is Leo Charlebois and Babe Rogers, local service station men, who smashed a heavy tow rope three times trying to move a 1936 Pontiac from the path of the flames. They failed and the remains of the car can be seen in the TOP picture at the EXTREME RIGHT. At LOWER LEFT is Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, formerly of Belleville, who were living in the house, and whose furniture was saved. They have been married less than a year.

84-Year-Old Landmark Removed When Fire Destroys Bestard Home

Fire levelled an 84-year-old landmark at the edge of the city on Thursday afternoon, the frame building owned by James Bestard was destroyed along with a large barn, and adjoining sheds. A 1936 Pontiac sedan, parked at the east side of the house, and owned by William Ross, the tenant was also destroyed, as was a 4-wheel completely furnished cabin trailer, stored in the barn and owned by Roland Bestard.

Mr. Ross, who is employed in the C.G.E., had been doing some cleaning up around the yard and set fire to a small pile of rubbish, during the noon. It is believed that this fire spread to the barn, which burned furiously fanned by a strong west wind. When Mrs. Ross, noticed the blaze, flames were licking the roof of the structure. She ran across the field to the home of Harold Bestard, to send in the alarm as they had no telephone, and by the time the firemen arrived the flames had spread to a long shed leading to the dwelling. The firemen, Jim McFarlane, Orville Rome and George Reynolds, strung 1,200 feet of hose from the hydrant at the Prince of Wales school, but found they were still 300 feet from the house. Dr. A. M. Johnston, Port Hope Highway, drove in to the fire hall and brought out the other 600 feet of hose. By this time the fire was eating into the attic of the house and had enveloped one wall.

Car Was Locked

Several people tried to get the car out of the driveway to safety, but the windows were locked and the car was in gear. Finally Babe Rogers and Leo Charlesbois, took a rope from the fire truck and hooked on with their car, a Hupmobile Eight. They broke the rope three times and were unable to budge the Ross car.

Neighbors, and motorists who noticed the blaze rushed in to save the furniture and they did not leave one stick of furniture in the house. Curtains, carpets, blinds, the stove, and everything else was taken out. Lloyd Cullen, a 19-year-old factory worker whose home is in Windsor and who is now in the C.G.E. smashed the glass in the front door to get into the house, and he worked like a Trojan. He even picked Mrs. Ross' diamond rings off the buffet and stowed them away in a glass bowl, where they were afterwards located by the owner who has just been married for eight months. Dr. Johnston, Jim Skinner, and many others aided in removing the furniture.

The wind was so strong that burning embers were carried to Grandview avenue, where a house occupied by Mr. Bell caught fire and another on Kenneth avenue, occupied by a Mr. Staves also took fire but both blazes were doused by roof watchers.

The house is located on the south side of Sherbrooke street, at the intersection of Highway 28, and Sherbrooke street, and it was built 84 years ago this summer. The following year James Bestard, the present owner was born in the house, and he married and raised a family living for more than three quarters of a century in the same spot. He is now in poor health and is living at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Juby.

Firemen and others who tried to save the car said it was a simple matter to get to the back of the car, but the front of it was being licked by the flames, and fanned by a strong west wind, and they were not able to get close enough to break a window in the front of the vehicle.

Many Volunteers Required To Complete ARP

The A.R.P. Civil Defense Committee still need volunteers for certain branches so that the complete organization can be set up before the summer months arrive. There are two more basic courses given commencing on Sunday, May 3rd at 2.15 p.m. and Monday, May 4th at 8 p.m. at the Lyceum, which is opposite the City Buildings on Simcoe street. Mayor James Hamilton and his committee are very hopeful that enough civic minded citizens will come forward in the next week and qualify through the basic lectures to complete their lectures in the other branches. About one night a week is all that is necessary and it is felt that Peterborough should be in the forefront of this effort, when it is realized the number of war industries that are located here. Peterborough has a fine record of enlistments and those who are unable to qualify for active service can at least do their bit in defense by becoming active in Peterborough Civil Defense.

The branches that are in need of recruits with the list of requirements and to those whom they may apply are stated below. In addition you can obtain an application form at the lecture commencing on the 3rd and 4th of May.

BLACKOUT SANDWICHES
Emergency Food For Hungry Families

ALL the family will praise your sandwiches if you will just avoid "flat taste" by the addition of H. P. Sauce. This is the secret to appetizing sandwiches.

"Blackout" Sandwiches are the latest wartime "newey". To make them, whip together ½ lb. of cream cheese with 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce and ½ tablespoon of horseradish; then sauté a 3½ oz. can of chipped beef and a tablespoon of butter until frizzled. Break up fine and add to cheese mixture. Spread on buttered brown bread.

H. P. is a fine old English type, thick, fruity sauce. It is economical because it is concentrated. Try it on meat, fish, fowl, salads, soups, stews, etc. You'll be surprised at the wonderful flavour it gives foods.

St. Andrew's United Church Marks 109th Anniversary On Sunday

The 109th anniversary of St. Andrew's church will be held on Sunday, April 26th, when the moderator of the General Council, the Right Rev. Aubrey S. Tuttle, D.D., will conduct the services. A large choir under R B. Harle, the organist of the church, will render special music. Trinity church will cancel its evening service, and Dr. George Easton will take part in the worship at St. Andrew's.

St. Andrew's church has been associated with Peterborough from the time in which it was but a small village of 500 people. In 1833 the established Church of Scotland sent a young minister, Rev. J. M. Roger, to take charge of the work in this district. In that year he organized the nucleus of this congregation and travelled widely doing evangelistic work at Springville and North Smith. The country at that time was wild and sparsely inhabited. The first session was established in 1834. In 1836 the original building was erected. It was a plain stone building with cottage roof, square topped windows and doors, but it stood for God and spiritual things..

Mr. Roger continued his work from 1833 to 1857. He left because the Church of Scotland demanded possession of the building. Mr. Roger had sided with the Free church in Scotland at the time of the disruption in 1844. His name, however, will always be cherished as the founder of St. Andrew's congregation.

Built Present Church.

Another minister who made a marked contribution to the work was Rev. Alexander Bell, who came in 1877 and served for thirteen years. In his time the new church was erected. Mrs. Robt. Nicholls gave a gift of $5,000 towards the scheme and the people rallied magnificently. The church was formally opened in 1886.

Rev. James G. Potter, B.A., served the congregation from 1896 to 1910, a period of 14 years, and is specially remembered because of his successful work amongst the young people of the congregation He organized a Young Men's Guild, from which has come several of the active officials of the church of today.

Rev. James Rollins, B.A., was minister from 1910 to 1924, and served as a chaplain in the Great War. He brought home collection plates carved from the William the Conqueror oak, a famous tree which grew just outside the walls of Windsor Castle, England.

During his ministry the present organ was installed in 1913 at a cost of $9,000. The church was completely re-decorated and carpeted in 1917 at a cost of $8,500. In 1924 the present Sunday school building was remodelled at a cost of $36,000.

These four ministers have left an abiding influence in St. Andrew's church. But it must be remembered also that the main purpose of the church is a spiritual one and that material projects though important, are secondary In this spiritual realm the results cannot be tabulated, they are known only to God.

Success Assured Price Ceiling House Of Commons Is Informed

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 24—(CP).—With ministerial assurances that the price ceiling policy is going to succeed and that the army is doing some radical things in the elimination of "red tape" before them, members of the House of Commons took time off today for the closing stages of the plebiscite campaign.

The House adjourned last night and will not sit again until Tuesday after the people have spoken on the question of releasing the government from pledges restricting its methods of raising men for military service.

Attendance of members was slim yesterday. Many were absent so they could take part in the plebiscite campaign. Those who were in the House heard Finance Minister Ilsley make the statement on subsidies paid under the price ceiling system and Defence Minister Ralston answer numerous questions on army administration. Prime Minister Mackenzie King promised a statement Tuesday on Canada's relations with the Vichy government in view of developments resulting from the return of Pierre Laval to power.

The House gave second reading to two important post-war measures, and referred them to special House committees. The measures were the vocational training bill sponsored by Labor Minister Mitchell and Pensions Minister Mackenzie's measure for a veterans' land settlement scheme designed to care for 25,000 war veterans.

Dealing with the question of subsidies, Mr. Ilsley said "this policy (the price ceiling) is a test of the capacity of this democracy to organize and discipline itself in such a way as to wage total war on the economic front.

Now Sure of Way

"I had many misgivings at the outset as to whether we could succeed. I now believe we can and will. We can only do so, however, if Parliament approaches its task of criticism in the proper spirit."

The minister invited any member who felt so disposed to make a "frontal attack" on the policy so that the issue could be squarely detailed. If, however, their criticism was on matters of detail, he asked them to have regard to the gravity of the issues involved, take all factors into consideration and make their suggestions constructive rather than destructive.

In five months, Mr. Ilsley said, the Government had paid out $2,126,891 in subsides to prevent price increases in certain commodities. The subsidies benefitted consumers and not producers nor dealers. The largest item was $1,387,630 on milk. Footwear subsidies totalled $584,365 and leather garments $2,777. All these were paid on domestic goods. A total of $154,219 was paid on imported goods, the largest single item being $70,297 on grapefruit juice.

The subsidies, said the finance minister, were an integral part of the price control system. In some cases they were necessitated by the fact that cost of production of certain goods had risen prior to the basic period, Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941, and were not reflected in the prices then prevailing.

All Not Permanent

All subsidies were not permanent, he continued. They were under constant review and efforts were being made to get away from them by standardization and simplification, to reduce costs. A tentative estimate of $50,000,000 had been made of the cost of subsidies this fiscal year. The minister said he was sure the total outlay would not run to the hundreds of millions sometimes predicted although it would increase as time went on.

Mr. Ilsley said the government was convinced that it was necessary to keep a firm hand on prices if the ceiling system was to succeed. It was quite willing to see some non-essential commodities go off the market entirely rather than allow price increases or payment of subsidies on them.

If prices were permitted to rise 20 per cent, the increased cost to the government alone this fiscal year would be $750,000,000 on total expenditures of $3,500,000,000.

"But the increased cost to the government is not the serious feature of the situation at all," said the Finance Minister. "It is not one hundredth part of the trouble the country would be in. "It is not the taxpayer, as such, that is the victim of inflation. It is the workman, the consumer and practically everybody in the country."

Col. Ralston spoke about "red tape" in the army after Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South) supplied instances of officers being kept waiting for weeks for approval of transfers. The Minister said he knew of cases much worse than those Mr. Green cited.

Blames Fast Growth

"Slowly but persistently I think we are improving in that respect," he said. "Some of the most radical things have been done at headquarters with regard to cutting red tape. The trouble is, the organization has grown so fase. There have been so many people appointed who have to look at a thing that it takes a long time to get around."

The Defence Minister said he had in mind one improvement which it took six weeks to get through but which, he was sure, would save a great deal of labor. Sometimes a return to the House on something which amounted to only $100 would cause more backfire than something amounting to $10,000 and as a result everyone was concerned with doing things regularly.

"But we have to take chances in connection with the army as with everything else," he added, "and verbal instructions are given sometimes and confirmed afterwards on the file."

Answering other questions, Col. Ralston said the army is doing its best to get the right man in the right job, to see that "A" men are not doing jobs which can be done by "C" men, to get men with mechanical ability and experience into tradesmen's jobs.

A personnel selection branch has been functioning for six months and has interviewed 76,000 men. Of these 61 per cent have been assigned to normal placement in the army, 34 per cent were picked out to receive training as tradesmen, and 3.7 per cent were recommended for special appointments or transfers to other services.

Very few over-age officers affected by the recent age rulings in the forces overseas had been retired, said Col. Ralston. Most of the officers had been absorbed overseas in holding units and other formations. Some had returned to Canada and were employed in capacities where their experience was useful.

Enlistments Meet Need

The minister said enlistments in the army totalled 11,713 in January; 8,152 in February; 8,821 in March, and 7,070 this month up to April 18. The Navy enlisted 1,200 in January, 1,347 in February and 2,175 in March. The Air Force took on 5,774 in January, 3,104 in February and 4,153 in March.

He said if army enlistments kept up at the present rate they would meet requirements.

Col. Ralston said he could not approve of any general leave from the army to farmers for summer farming operations. Special circumstances might permit a man to obtain leave on compassionate grounds to go home to help on the farm but there could be no general leave even for seeding operations.

NewCheese Deal Sets Three Price Grades

OTTAWA, April 24 — (CP). — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said on Thursday in the House of Commons that the new agreement calling for delivery of 125,000,000 pounds of cheese to Britain in the year ending next March 31 sets three price levels—20 cents a pound for first grade, 19½ cents a pound for second grade, and 19 cents for third grade, basis Montreal.

When completion of the new agreement was announced only the 20-cent price was made public.

Under the agreement the British Food Ministry agrees — subject to freight being available—to purchase "such additional quantities within their requirements, as Canada may have available for export," the minister said.

"A schedule of quantities to be shipped each month from the present time to the end of April 1943, is provided and the ministry assumes responsibility for providing marine transportation," he said.

Payment will be made by the Ministry to the extent of 90 per cent of the value as soon as possible after the cheese is shipped and the remaining 10 per cent of the value will be paid within 28 days after arrival of the cheese in the United Kingdom, "or in the event of the steamer being lost, within 28 days of the estimated due date of arrival."

Mean Much Storage

The shipping schedule will necessitate storing of considerable quantities of cheese in Canada to await shipment during the months of scant production. Last year 90 per cent of the value of cheese held in storage by licensed exporters for later shipment was paid by the Ministry of Food when the cheese were placed in storage. This year the Canadian Government will make the initial payment and when the cheese is shipped the ministry will reimburse the Government.

"This change in procedure of payment is designed to simplify accounting for the Ministry of Food," Mr. Gardiner said.

"The Ministry of Food has intimated that the prices specified are higher than may be desirable in post-war conditions may have on the view of the probable affect that markets for cheese but that subject to due consideration by the Government of Canada of the proposed price in relation to the post-war developments, the Ministry of Food is prepared to approve the agreement, he said.

"Information available indicates that Canada may supply not more than approximately 15 per cent of the cheese which the United Kingdom will receive during the current year and in view of increased costs of labor and supplies required in the production of cheese, the prices provided in the agreement are not considered out of line with increased costs of production."

One Last Bath

London, A pril 24 (CP Cable)

BRITAIN'S Commandos aren't always as tough as they're made out to be.

The last thing one officer did before he boarded his ship for yesterday's Boulogne coast raid was to take a bath.

"Just a precaution," he said. "If I'm taken prisoner, I at least want to be clean.

One hour later he was sitting below deck smudging his face and hands with burnt cork.

NZ Placed Under McArthur Rule

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Apriil 24—(CP.)—Prime Minister Peter Fraser said today that New Zealand and the neighboring islands, including Fiji, had been included in the South Pacific operations area under United States naval command.

"It was our desire that Australia and New Zealand should remain closely linked in one area under Gen. MacArthur," he said.

"We made representations accordingly, but strategical considerations as determined in Washington must prevail and we have accordingly concurred in the above organization."

Mr. Fraser said there would be "the closest co-operation" between the areas, "while the whole area of the Pacific will be co-ordinated by the combined chiefs of staff and the Pacific War Council in Washington."

(Mr. Fraser's statement clarified questions concerning New Zealand's position which were raised last Sunday, when Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia issued an announcement saying he had formally been appointed Allied commander-in-chief in the southwest Pacific with the concurrence of the United States, Australia, Great Britain and the Netherlands.

(There was no immediate explanation of the absence of New Zealand from the list).

Order Textiles On War Fabrics

WASHINGTON, April 24 (AP).—The Government ordered the United States cotton textile industry to-day to convert approximately half of its facilities to war production within the next 60 days.

Under terms of the order, cotton mills must convert specified percentages of their looms, now making various cotton fabrics commonly used in clothing and home furnishings, to production of bag osnaburg—a coarse bagging material—and bag sheetings.

Atlantic Battle Getting Tougher

OTTAWA, April 24—(CP).—Vice-Admiral Percy Nelles, chief of the navy staff, said in a speech here last night that "the war in the Atlantic has been hell."

He added that "this summer unless...every individual Canadian gives his full support to our war effort, it may get so that shipping may not be allowed to cross the ocean."

Admiral Nelles was addressing members of the First Canadian Contingent of the First Great War, at their 23rd annual dinner commemorating the Second Battle of Ypres.

"This bloody war has not got as bloody as it's going to be," he said. "We have had our Ypres, we have had our Festubert, and we are just warming up for our Vimy."

Admiral Nelles said England depends on Atlantic shipping for practically everything. He added it will take work—hard work—to win this war.

"We are going to win it—you bet we are going to win," he continued.

Food Rationing By Coupon Held Unlikely

TORONTO, April 24—Formal food rationing—which means rationing of the coupon variety—is unlikely to come to Canada, in the opinion of the Dominion's food controller, J. C. Taggart, who was in Toronto conferring with groups of dairymen, retail butchers and cattle breeders.

At all these gatherings, Mr. Taggart said, view were exchanged and information set forth with no concrete proposals laid down from either side, "although," he added, "we recognize that we will have to take some action in respect of beef within the next week or two." He admitted that "probably" a winter and summer price would have to be set up.

The Food Controller distinguishes sharply between what he terms formal rationing and rationing of the voluntary variety and expresses his dislike of the "formal" variety because "it is extremely difficult and expensive." But informal rationing may be just around the corner in respect to tea, coffee, cocoa, spices, some dried fruits and nuts, etc., which shipping difficulties have rendered difficult. The sugar situation, he said, had eased slightly but not enough to let down the voluntary rationing barrier.

"I should say," he declared, when asked directly as to the possibilities of rationing in Canada, "that in the essential foods produced in Canada there will be no need for rationing unless an acute shortage developes in Great Britain and we voluntarily shorten our own supplies to help them."

25 Million For Cheese.

The new contract with Britain's Food Ministry means the United Kingdom will pay a total of 25,000,000 for cheese provided in the current fiscal year from the Dominion.

I calls for delivery of 125,000,000 pounds, against 112,000,000 pounds in the previous contract, which now has expired.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board said the new structure of maximum prices "is the result of careful investigation and study by a special committee set up by the board last December to survey the entire question of supplies and prices of milk and dairy products in Canada."

The board statement said it had avoided "anything in the nature of a general price increase to consumers."

The milk subsidies now to be discontinued provided for payments of 30 cents per 100 pounds to producers for the fluid milk trade in areas where no increase in prices had taken place since Aug. 1, 1941, and of 40 cents per 100 pounds to all producers of milk sold to manufacturers of concentrated milk products.

The statement said the subsidy policy was adopted "as a temporary device to ensure adequate supplies during the winter months."

It said the new policy for fluid milk was intended to maintain production by removal of disparities in the structure of retail milk prices in the principal markets.

The new order recognizes normal seasonal variation in butter prices by establishing a schedule of maximum wholesale prices. The announcement said: "These provide a flat price of 35 cents per pound in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, and of 33¼ cents in the Prairie Provinces (a fraction of a cent below present ceilings) for the flush production period, namely, the six months May to October, inclusive, but rising to a maximum of 38½ cents for March and April."

Milk Subsidies Are Shelved; Fix Dairy Prices

OTTAWA, April 24 — (CP). — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board last night announced a complete reorganization of ceiling prices on milk and dairy products, effective on May 1.

The reorganization includes dropping of milk subsidies paid by the Board since last December 22, establishing of maximum retail prices for fluid milk in specified areas and also maximum prices for cheese, f.o.b. factory shipping point, and maximum wholesale prices or butter.

The board announced these new price policies as follows:

1—Cheese: "Bringing domestic cheese prices in line with those of other dairy products, the board establishes a maximum, f.o.b. factory shipping point, which with the Provincial bonus of two cents in Ontario and Quebec and a Dominion premium of two cents for high scoring cheese, will provide a total return of twenty-four cents a pound for first grade (94 score) Canadian cheddar made after May 1 and sold for consumption in Canada. This is about a cent a pound below the yield from current market price and bonuses."

2—Milk: "Milk subsidies, paid by the board since December 22 last, will be discontinued after April 30, and maximum retail prices for fluid milk are established for specified areas or zones. These involve some increases and some decreases."

3—Butter: "Maximum wholesale prices are established for butter, on a sliding scale which provides incentive or winter production and assurance is given that the market will be supported, as necessary, to maintain a schedule of minimum prices at a level of three cents below the maximum established for any month."

The board also announced it has established uniform ceiling prices for manufacturers on a number of concentrated milk products. It said this does not affect the householder except to the extent of a half-cent a tin for evaported milk.

The board said its newly established ceiling price for Canadian cheddar cheese would mean that all cheese of this type, manufactured after May 1, and sold or consumption in Canada, would bring the producer a return corresponding closely to the return he will get under terms of the export contract announced by Mr. Gardiner.

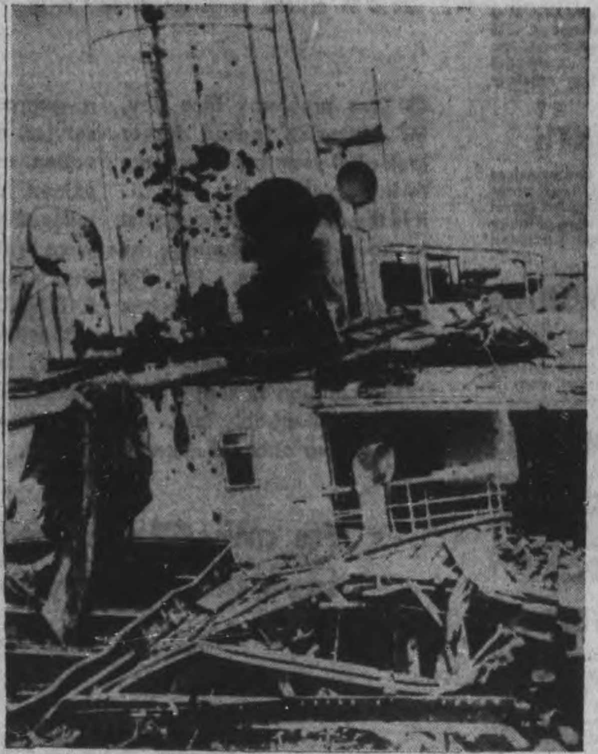
The Flag Still Flies



This dramatic picture, just received, marked one of the closing chapters in the tragedy of Singapore. This Yangtze River steamer, already old in service, was "speeding" from Singapore with the last load of evacuees from that city which was to fall so soon after. A covey of Jap planes spied the unarmed vessel flying Britain's white ensign. Bombs and machine-gun bullets raked and ripped the ship to leave the desolation pictured here. Passengers left the ship in lifeboats, hurriedly, and rowed to a coral island where they found safety, five miles away. Next morning more Jap bombers roared overhead, used the battered hulk of the vessel for a target and sunk it. The evacuated passengers later were taken to safety.

Britain Needs Sports During Wartime

LONDON, April 23 — (CP). — On the theory that members of the armed forces and civilians need sports in wartime both as participants and spectators, continuance of cricket for the duration was urged at the annual meeting of the Club Cricket Conference.

"I am confident that those of us who endeavor to carry on sport are doing a great deal for this country," said Stanley Christopherson, president of the Marylebone Cricket Club. "Sport is a recreation, and in these days recreation is rest. If we can find recreation we are doing something to win the war.

"We who encourage sport must ignore those people who do not understand what we are doing. So carry on with your cricket and don't listen to those outside."

Helps Red Cross.

Christopherson told the representative of nearly 300 clubs that during the last two years conference members had collected approximately $6,650 for the British Red Cross Society.

Sir Perham Warner, leading authority on cricket in Britain and assistant secretary of the M.C.C., said that sports diversion is especially necessary during the nerve-wracking days of war and emphasized that sport had been encouraged by Britain's leaders. As a further inducement towards such diversion, all officers and men in uniform will be admitted free to Lords during the coming cricket season.

Sir Pelham told the conference that in July of 1940, at the request of Ernest Bevin, Labor Minister and Minister of National Services, he had sent a cricket team from London to participate in a game in the industrial north of England.

Great Grass Heaven.

"After Dunkirk, men and women had been working extremely hard and Mr. Bevin was anxious that some recreation be provided for them," Sir Pelham said. "They greatly enjoyed the game."

"War comes first, second, and all the time, but cricket can take off some of the grimness. As Herbert Morrison (Minister of Home Security) reminded us recently, total war need not mean total misery."

Christopherson also told a story of Dunkirk days. He said a haggard-looking Army officer walked to his box at Lords and remarked: "To see this green grass and the bat and ball is heaven."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press).

Red Dutton, then a hard-hitting defenceman with New York Americans, signed a contract to manage that National Hockey League club seven years ago today at Montreal. He succeeded "Bullet" Joe Simpson and led the Americans into the playoffs for the second time in the club's history. The Calgary red-head still manages the Americans, now known as the Brooklyn Americans.

Bob Feller, sensational Cleveland Indian hurler, lost his first professional major league baseball game at Cleveland five years ago today. The 18-year-old Iowa farmboy struck out 11 and allowed four runs in the six innings he worked before being taken out of the game because of a pulled muscle in his arm. St. Louis Browns won the game, 4-3.

"Do not let this parting grieve thee, for the time has come for you and I to say good-by." Such is the unspoken song between Balky Chilotta and her pilot, Charles Bolgiano. Air Casualties Recover Powers In Weird Games

By ALLEN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 20 — (CP). — On the fringe of one of Britain's most famous golf courses many members of the Royal Canadian Air Force frolic about these sunny spring days in what is considered the most advanced form of orthopaedic treatment for rehabilitation of war casualties.

Happy shouts fill the air at this "athletic club," one of four such centres established by the R.A.F., as airmen with cast-encased limbs play weird games of football, softball and cricket, while others hike, ride bicycles or work out in the spacious gymnasium or swimming pool.

From the time a casualty is received at hospital the emphasis is away from the wheel chair, the weight-and-pulley devices and the hospital atmosphere, and towards the patient's condition. As soon as all possible activity consistent with is feasible after the setting of bones or the treatment of spinal injuries, the patient is moved to the rehabilitation centre to join his comrades on the playing fields.

Resume Duties.

More than 85 per cent of the men sent to these special centres have resumed their former duties and Air Force medical experts claim some who might have been injured permanently have been cured. They contend exercise eliminates the former inevitable stage of lack of confidence in limbs and balance and averts atrophy or the wasting away of muscles and tissues.

Here are a few of the cases and all will rejoin their squadrons shortly:

Sgt. Obs. Frank Heron of 540 Blebeholme Boulevard, Toronto, spent three agonizing nights a few months ago with a shattered ankle. He was the only survivor of a Blenheim bomber that plunged into the sea.

To-day, Heron is taking part in strenuous activity, both outdoors and in a gymnasium. While he was in hospital his leg was massaged daily. Although the affected bone and joints were immobilized, muscles and extremities were given full play.

Sgt. G. Douglas Noton of Boissevain, Man., takes daily bicycle jaunts although a few weeks ago his life was despaired of. Dragged from wreckage of his aircraft he was unconscious for five days and suffered head injuries and a fractured ankle.

Sgt. Obs. George Ford, 2324 Halifax Street, Regina, suffered a fractured arm when a Wellington bomber crashed. He has been active most of his three months on the injured list, and the member was but slightly stiff when the cast was removed.

Around the Gym.

Sgt. Ian McKay of Naramata B. C., tosses about a heavy medicine ball as part of the treatment for a fractured shoulder, and Sgt. James Wilson of Orillia, Ont., cavorts about the gym while recuperating from a smashed knee.

Sgt. Air Gnr. Ed. F. Lyons, of 22 Cumberland Street, Toronto, has become an expert with the foil and has a few stabs daily at the fencing instructor although his right arm is just out of a cast after being broken.

Sgt. Robert Moulton of Brockville, Ont., had his thigh shattered in a vehicle accident. Bont grafting was resorted to and there is every chance of a complete recovery. Meanwhile, he gets around under his own power.

Veteran among the R.C.A.F. personnel receiving treatment is Flt. Sgt. David Kinsey of Olympia, Wash., a wireless-air gunner who has had 195 hours of operational flying.

Forced to bail out after an attack on Brest last September Kinsey "spilled" too much air from his parachute when he grabbed the 'chute cords. He made a heavy landing on his feet. He returned to duty but his injured arches gave way and he joined the "athletic family."

Commanding officer of the centre is Sqdn. Ldr. George Dawes, who commanded the Royal Flying Corps in the Balkans during the First Great War. Personally attending difficult cases at all centres is Reginald Watson-Jones, one of the world's most brilliant specialists in his line and civilian consultant to the R.A.F. in Orthopaedic surgery.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, April 24—(CP).—The accident that left Russ Dertell of Saskatoon in Port Arthur to play senior hockey has been worth thousands of dollars to the lakehead club.

Of course, there is no telling how far Bearcats would have travelled along the playoff trail without Dertell. They may have picked up another goalie just as good, although there are people in these parts today who will tell you that isn't possible. Dertell is the answer for much of Ports' progress.

The story behind his transfer to Port Arthur is fairly well known. He tried out with Brooklyn Americans there last fall but couldn't get a passport when Red Dutton wanted to take him into the United States, possibly to Springfield in the American League.

So Red left him in Port Arthur, and now he is getting as much play in the Allan Cup final as such veteran spotlight-snatchers as Milt Schmidt and Edgar Laprade.

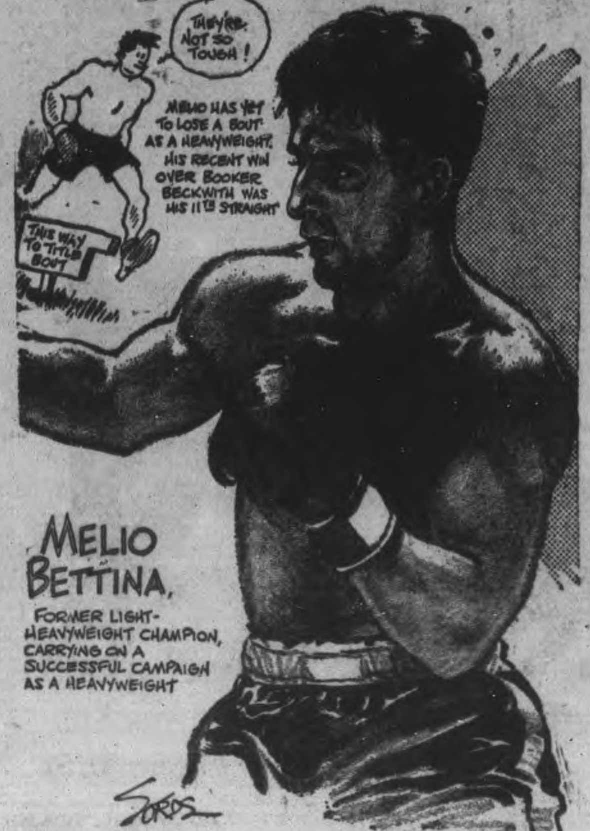
The expert says:

Doug. (Windsor Star) Vaughan, on the retirement of Abe Simon: "It is the same old story of many a fighter—too much heart and not enough ability."

Incidentally:

Kenny Lindsay, Vancouver's smart bantam boxer, is expected to come to Eastern Canada soon for a spot of fighting....His title possibilities are still strong enough to promote arguments...Ken (Edmonton Journal) McConnell put the finger on the Oshawa-Portage Memorial Cup final with a piece in his column that Oshawa would have to be good to open up against the Terriers and survive...That's what they tried to do in the last game and they got a goal full of pucks for their trouble . .Marc T. (Montreal Gazette) McNeil told the other day how Frank Patrick of Canadiens figured the Toronto - Detroit series....Patrick suspects the defeatist attitudes of Sweeney Schriner and Turk Broda after Detroit's three straight wins were "inspired propaganda.....Designed to reduce the incentive of the opposition, lull them into a false sense of security.

WINNING AS A HEAVY — By Jack Sords



Hockey Leaders Attend Banquet

development of the game in this province and generally.

Secretary Hewitt reminded his audience that his predecessor in office had been a Peterborough man, Senator W. A. Buchanan. Delving into early history the speaker remarked that Peterborough had won the junior title in 1894 and 1895 before there was an age limit and that in 1898 it was W. A. Buchanan of Peterborough who had moved that an age limit of 20 years for the junior division should be adopted and that rule had remained in force ever since. It was worthy of note that Peterborough had been one of the first teams to win the junior honors after the age limit was established, taking the title in 1901.

Speaking of future hockey prospects Secretary Hewitt intimated that every effort would be made to carry on the game next winter with the teams cut to 10 men aside and with abbreviated playoffs. He said that there would be many military teams and there would be other players available who would not be physically fit for military service or who were engaged in essential war work.

Frank Buckland introduced the players as they came forward to receive their medals.

Manager Fred C. Scates thanked the fans for their support, the good friends of the club including Spiro Zakos, Ed. Riley and Laurie Mitchell who had supplied transportation, the trainers, Keith Mein and Phil Campanaro for their efficient work, Jim Lavis of the Brock St. Rink for many favors and all who had helped in the season's success, with a special tribute to Treasurer Max Glover.

President R. M. Glover, in thanking the O.H.A. officials for coming to Peterborough to help honor the players declared that Peterborough would do its best to keep hockey going next winter. He paid a tribute to the work of the players, pointing out that they had been under a handicap in having only natural ice facilities. He also contulated the Kinsmen on the success of their Milk for Britain fund and Howard Shimer for the work he was doing in that connection.

Coach Is Honored

The next item was not on the program. It was a surprise presentation of a club bag from the players to Coach Jim Ellis.

"I have played with a lot of hockey teams," said Captain Johnny Godfrey, who did the honors, "but I never struck such a fine bunch of fellows as the boys on the Peterborough team. There had been no dissension, no jealousy. Everybody played for the team and they were a unit, not a bunch of individuals." Much of the credit, he said, should be given to Coach Ellis. "There wasn't a man on the team who wouldn't play his heart out for him" said the Petes' captain.

In expressing his thanks Coach Ellis said that it was an unusual experience to play on a team and win a championship and then coach the same team two years later into another championship.

Kingston's grand old man of hockey Past President James T. Sutherland, after congratulating the Petes and referring to Peterborough's hockey career read a paper on the origin and early history of hockey that had been prepared for the recent meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Norman Elliott, president of the Kinsmen club was the concluding speaker, congratulating the Peterborough players on their achievements during the past winter and thanking them for their co-operation.

The enjoyable affair came to a close with the drinking of a toast to the O.H.A. plapers who are on active service.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Do you have a simple recipe for orange marmalade? I would be very glad to receive it. You recipes are tops and I do enjoy your columns very much.—Marth. G.

ANSWER: Thanks for those kind words.

Orange Marmalade

Six oranges, 2 lemons, about 2 cups water, 1½ pounds sugar. Scrub the fruit well, cut in halves and squeeze out juice and add seeds if any to it and stand aside. Cut rinds very finely with sharp knife on-board (or put through food chopper if less work is desired). Cover with the water, adding a little more if rind is not covered and let stand 24 hours. Then bring to boiling point and boil 30 minutes, and add orange juice to it and let stand 24 hours more. Bring to boiling point, add sugar, and boil until it will give the pectin test on a cold saucer (or add 1 teaspoon of it to 1 tablespoon of methly hydrate—it will form a jellied mass if it is ready to pour into glasses). Gives an excellent flavor.

QUESTION: I follow your column very carefully and was especially interest in the refrigerator rolls, which I made only once, with indifferent success. In that way, if any, are they to be preferred to ordinary buns, made in the ordinary manner. We used to think cold would destroy the yeast.

Now I am enclosing a recipe for bread pudding not made with bread. If you think it worth publishing: 1. Use stale cake, cookies or nut bread, or leftover muffins and line your dish with this and proceed as for bread pudding. You then have the flavoring, nuts, raisins and sugar all through it, so I think it is an economy. I use a lemon sauce for it and it is good.—I.W.

ANSWER: There is a definite knack to bread making so do not be discouraged over the "indifferent" success you had with your refrigerator rolls, although this type is the most fool proof I know. The advantage of refrigerator dough over the ordinary method is that you may have hot rolls whenever you take the notion, by just cutting them off the dough in the ice box, and baking them fresh.

Ice Box Rolls

One yeast cake, ½ cup lukewarm water, 2-3 cup shortening, 1-3 cup sugar or ½ cup corn syrup, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup milk, 7 or 8 cups bread flour, 2 beaten eggs. Dissolve the yeast in the lukewarm water. Dissolve the shortening, sugar and salt in the boiling water. When this mixture is lukewarm, add the dissolved yeast and milk. Stir in about 3½ cups flour, add the beaten eggs, then enough more flour to make a dough that can be handled, but that is still soft. Turn onto a lightly floured board and knead until the dough is smooth and elastic—at least 10 minutes kneading is required. Put in a large well-greased bowl, cover and let stand at room temperature until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour. Then work the dough down in the bowl, grease top of dough, cover very tightly and stand in refrigerator until needed. A greased 5-lb. lard pail is a good container, for the lid fits so well. When ready for them, shape into rolls, let rise to double in bulk and bake at 400 deg. Fahr.

QUESTION: I was wondering if you could forward me the directions of how to starch a crocheted basket to make it stand up in shape. Thanking you.—Mrs. D. Price.

ANSWER: The starch must be very stiff and the basket must not be wrung out at all, it must be allowed to drip dry.

Make the starch by moistening ½ cup cornstarch with 1 cup cold water and when well mixed pour over 1 cup boiling water, and stir alll over heat until starch thickens. Let cool enough that you may work in it, then dip the crocheted basket in it, and when it is saturated with the starch lift out and if possible place over a glass basket the same shape as the crocheted basket. If you have no such form, stuff it with white paper to the desired shape,

C.W.V.S. Leaders Visit Branch

Mrs. H. Willard, Mrs. E. L. Frankel, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. G. Heintzman of the Provincial Executive of the Canadian Women's Voluntary Services visited the local branch on Wednesday.

They were introduced to a meeting of executives and enrollers of the Peter[illegible]ugh branch of the C.W.V.S. by the chairman, Mrs. J. G. Wharry.

In the course of an inspiring and informative address on the work of the organization, Mrs. Frankel stressed the need of early preparedness for emergencies which have arisen already, not so far from our own coasts.

The day after the bombing of Pearl Harbor 25,000 women rushed to enrol for the American W.V.S. in New York city alone. The speaker appealed to enrollers in Peterborough to try to obtain a complete picture of each applicant's possibilities, so that each woman might find her own particular niche in service to her community.

The following members of the Peterborough branch received C.W.V.S. badges for 60 hours' service with, or through, the local organization: Sen. Ira Fallis, hon. vice-chairman; Mrs. John Hornal, Mrs. Paige Howell, Mrs. F. J. Lynch, Mrs. William Fanjoy, Mrs. Harold Rehill, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. D. McCreadie, Mrs. J. H. Turner, Mrs. J. M. King's Own Class Holds Meeting

Mrs. A. H. Davis, Prince street, was hostess to the King's Own Bible class, of St. Jame's United Sunday School for their April meeting, when twenty-eight members and friends were present.

In the absence of Mrs. W. K. Sloane, the convener, the devotions were taken by Mrs. A. Rosborough, using an Easter service of worship as her theme, Mrs. E. Kitney gave a reading and Mrs. Doig sang an appropriate solo. The pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik, led in prayer.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Kitney, 1st vice-president who called for reports from all conveners. Plans were made for a silver bell tea to be held May 20th and a Wear Ever brush demonstration was booked for April 30.

A loyal response was made to the appeal for volunteers to knit socks for the boxes to be sent to soldiers from our church.

Arrangement was made for two class members to assist for a month in extending a welcome to strangers at the church door at each Sunday service.

Mrs. Stanbury then took over the meeting and her program included a beautiful solo, "There is a Blessed Home" by Mrs. L. McLaren, accompanied by Miss Elsie Chambers, who later played a delightful piano solo. Miss Mary Halon's vocal solo, "Love's A Merchant" and "Brown Bird Singing" were also well received.

A clever contest enjoyed by all, was won by Mrs. E. Kent.

Mrs. B. Pitchford and Mrs. Watson voiced the thanks of the class to their hostess and to all taking part in the program.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Agnew, Port Hope highway.

A SENSIBLE LUXURY

By ALICE ALDEN

A FUR JACKET is really an investment, since it teams up perfectly with about everything in the wardrobe, except, perhaps, slacks. And in Hollywood, sables and slacks is a combination often seen, at that! Here is a new model by Dein-Bacher of the Waldorf, a smart and pretty jacket of blue fox in a flattering, smoky shade with silvery overtones. It is made with a full swing, tuxedo revers and parachute cuffs. Blue fox wears as well as any other member of the fox fur family and should give good service.

Of Interest to Women

FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND FANCOTT

The Story. — The week-end guests at Ferdy Lorton's place near Montreal discover that the girl they know as Fay Ransom, beautiful broker's daughter, is really Gay Randall, famous night club singer. This changes the plans of Nigel Monkhouse and Michael Mack, who have fallen in love with her. To Michael's older sister, Myra, and to Ferdy it's only mildly interesting. But to young Peggy Mack, on her first week-end party, it's a challenge.

BALDY BARGES IN

CHAPTER VIII

Fay laughed. "Peggy certainly does have a voice," she said. "With some training she might go places. Someone ought to stop her before it's too late."

There was a note of bitterness in her voice that made the others look at her with sharper interest, but her face showed no sign of it.

"Won't you sing some more?" asked Ferdy's aunt.

"I'd love to, later," she said, sitting down again.

"Let me," said Peggy.

Nothing like the same enthusiasm greeted her remark. She looked at the assembled company. "That's just like people. When a girl is unknown you think she's no good. Just wait. Someday you'll be crawling on hands and knees to buy my records."

Ferdy burst out laughing. "Go to it, Peggy, sock 'em hard."

Peggy stood there, her green eyes resenting the unconcern of the others, her full lips set in a narrow line.

Nigel caught her angry eyes and laughed.

"You too," said Peggy. "And then you'll be sorry you didn't ask me to sing again."

"But I want you to sing again," laughed Nigel.

"Sometime when the rest of us are down at the lake," said Michael with a wink at Myra.

But Peggy did not hear him. She was staring down at the woods.

She pointed. "There's a man down there. I saw him."

Ferdy laughed but Peggy continued to stare through the darkness.

"There is a man down there and he doesn't fit."

"Probably Marie's boy friend." Marie was the daughter of Bilodeau, the French-Canadian farmer who managed Ferdy's property.

"No," said Peggy. "That is just it. He doesn't fit. I saw the moon glinting on a round bald head."

None of them noticed that a startled look had widened the lovely eyes of Fay Ransom. Ferdy and the two soldiers slipped out into the darkness.

Ferdy's aunt was the least concerned of all.

"Probably some stray motorist. We've had them before. They get lost and come and ask the way out."

At that moment there was a squeal from below the house. The three girls looked from one to the other with a slight apprehension. After all, it was a very lonely house, even though they had three men for protection.

Then their faces showed a mixture of feelings as Michael Mack led in a prisoner who was angry, slightly disheveled, and a revelation in the way of clothes.

A stream of unbroken protest was coming from his lips.

"Dat's no way to treat a gennelman! I come quietly and I said I'd come quietly and I was just looking round to see if I was come to the right place. I got business."

Then for the first time he saw Fay Ransom.

"Gay! I got you. I come from New York this afternoon, flew up, and they told me you was here, so I come and got lost, and tell these guys who I am and take their hands off me."

The words came from his mouth in a tumbling stream that wouldn't stop and the others stared in amazement at the little man, round as a ball, with three or four chins hiding his collar and the shiniest dome of a head that glistened with perspiration.

He crossed to Fay, leaned over her, talking almost into her face, waving his hands around her hair as he did so.

"Listen, honey, you got to be sensible! It's the biggest thing you've ever heard of. There's a million dames on Broadway and every one of 'em that would give their eye teeth for the chance I'm giving you. I've got it in my pocket, not one contract, not two contracts, but three contracts all in my big time."

He paused for breath, not noticing the glance of mutual disapproval that slipped between Nigel and Michael.

"All in the big time. Johnny White wants you back. He's jumped the price and he goes on the air in a week for Peppytup Cereals, and it's name your own price because he doesn't get it without you and Benny Shaw's putting on a musical in the Fall and there's a place for you—not the lead but real gravy. It's the biggest thing you ever saw and then you run out on us after all we done for you, built you up, got you the best press in the country, right from nothing. Honey, you got to listen! It's your chance and we got you climbing so fast the top won't be high enough for you next year...."

A strong hand hooked itself in the back of his collar and Michael heaved him away from Fay.

"Thank you, Michael," she laughed, apparently quite unperturbed by the spate of words that had just splashed all over her.

The little man turned on Michael. "You take your hands off me. I'm Irish, I am...."

"So am I," said Michael quietly.

"So you are, eh?" said the man. "So what?"

"So this. If you want to talk to a lady, talk to her. Don't breathe your nasty breath all down her neck."

"So that's it. Listen you...."

Fay spoke up. "Baldy, shut up! Let me introduce you."

His anger subsided a little while Fay performed the necessary introductions. He was Baldy Brien, her late manager from New York.

The little man puffed with importance like the bullfrog in the story. "That's me," he said, "and if there's a better manager I'd like to meet him. I managed Bea Leclaire and made her the top salary in show business until she married some Count. Handle the best names, I do. Wouldn't touch anybody that didn't have the stuff to take 'em to the top. And that's where I'm taking Fay....Oh, that's O.K. Fay. I know this runout is just a line. We'll work up some good press on it. Show girl quits fame and takes farm, public laps it up. Then sacrifices happiness to return to the public that loves her. I'll telephone New York. Get a photographer up here, shoot you grubbing out a pigsty, hoeing potatoes...."

"Easy there," said Ferdy. "If you get a photographer within range of a .22 rifle I'll spend all day shooting at his camera."

Peggy Mack, during all the excitement, had been edging nearer the little man. Now she turned to him with an admiring, a two-admiring glance.

"Are you really a manager, like all the stars have?"

"Sure, I am, the best manager any girl could have. Any girl ought to be grateful for what a man like me could do for her." He went on at great length and at greater speed. Peggy's eyes wandered over his immaculate suit in pale grey, with overbroad shoulders and trousers that ballooned with overfulness below the hip-line. Myra, had she caught the canny look in her sister's bright eyes, might have known a plan was hatching.

QUESTION: Would you please give me some advice in your household hints as to the procedure of taking off wallpaper on a ceiling. The ceiling has three layers of paper.—Mrs. J. LaChapelle.

ANSWER: As I look back on it now my parents were smart psychologists, for we considered it a tremendous honor to be allowed to help with stripping of the wallpaper. I think the paperhanger expected that to be done for him 25 years ago.

This is how we proceeded: Have a pailful of boiling hot water and take it to the top of the ladder and stand it on the rack constructed into the ladder for holding pails, etc.—an adult must do this of course. Using a whitewash brush paint the paper with the boiling water, until it is soaking wet, then scrape off with the scraper which you can buy at the hardware store for the purpose, and is called a wallpaper scraper. If the paper is stubborn to remove, you may have to brush it a second time with the boiling water. Wear a heavy towel over your hair, as you are bound to splash yourself.

QUESTION: A few weeks ago you mentioned that you had other maple syrup recipes if readers would write in. My husband has requested a maple syrup pie. I made one using a recipe that I had but this isn't exactly what I want. This recipe I used called for 3 eggs, 2 cups milk, ½ cup maple syrup, salt. It is really more like a custard pie with a fair maple syrup taste. If you have no pie recipe I wonder if the maple syrup tarts you spoke of would fill the bill. I tried your maple bavarian and it was delicious. I have two gallons of maple syrup so I would appreciate any good recipes you might have. Thanking you so much for your help through the paper at different times.—Mrs. B. J.

ANSWER: The tart filling makes a very good pie filling.

Maple Syrup Pie

One and one-quarter cups whole milk or water, ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon, salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 2-3 cup maple syrup, 2 egg yolks, beaten, 2 eggs whites, 3 additional tablespoons maple syrup. Slowly add the cold milk to the flour and stir until there are no lumps whatever, then add salt and 2-3 cup maple syrup and cook over boiling water stirring until thick, then let cook for 5 minutes. Then pour over the beate yolks and cook for 3 minutes longer, then remove from heat and add butter and either ½ cup washed and dried raisins and ½ cup chopped walnuts or other nuts or fruits—peanuts make a good substitute for the walnuts. Pour into baked shell and cover with meringue made beating the two whites until stiff and slowly adding the 3 tablespoons maple syrup, 1 tablespoon at a time. Many cooks prefer to add a little lemon rind to their maple syrup dishes, but if your husband is very fond of the flavor maybe you had better leave it out of your first pie—when you do use it, add grated rind of ½ lemon to the filling when you add the butter.

Simple Diagrams Show Dance Steps

Toe-Crushing Easy to Avoid

"Oh, oh! I've stepped on her feet again," thinks the poor fellow, miserable over his clumsiness in the Westchester.

No one need feel clumsy — in the Westchester or any other popular dance—for with diagrams you can quickly teach yourself any step.

If you can walk you can Westchester! Try our diagram for the Westchester Three-Step.

This is a casual 1 AND 2 rhythm, swingy but without much knee action. Try it!

Count 1 — Step forward on left foot, heel first. (Place weight on heel, then shift weight to ball of foot.) AND—Step forward on ball of right foot. 2—Step forward on left foot, heel first.

Your partner's feet won't get under yours if you lead her right! You soon are a popular dancer with our 32-page booklet. It diagrams the smart rumba, Conga, Westchester, fox-trot, waltz, tango—including basic steps and variations. Tells how to lead and follow, keep time, dance gracefully.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of "Home Course in New Ballroom Dances" to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

UNBLOCKING IS PRETTY

SOME OF the nicest plays in the game, either to make or to see, are those in which you have to throw away a high card deliberately in order to get it out of the way of lower-rank cards in the opposite hand. Many a contract cannot be made in any other way. It is especially spectacular if an ace has to be discarded, most especially if it is tossed upon not a winning, but a losing card in another suit.

Here we found Charles H. Porter, great Cincinnati product, showing the acumen which has made him an important cog in our war production as a high official of the Anaconda Copper organization. Because of vulnerability, he refused to be satisfied with the score which could be made against the opponents' 4-Spades, which North, he could tell, would be almost sure to double, and which, as it turned out, might be set only about three tricks. When he bid 4-No Trumps, however, and West's double was followed by North's redouble, he set himself a terrific job to make the contract.

He took the third club trick, East having given a high-low signal, and then ran five hearts. This left dummy the diamond K-J and the spade K-Q-J, his own hand possessing the diamond A-4 and three little clubs. West had held on to the spade A-9 and the diamond Q-10-6, and East two spades, two diamonds and the club J.

His only chance was to find two entries to the dummy, one so that he could use a spade to knock out the A, and another to get back in the dummy and score the last two spades. Knowing from the bidding that West had the spade A, and from the first three leads that he did not have the club J, also that West had only a singleton heart originally, West was marked as holding three diamonds, thereby making it almost sure he had the Q.

So he led the diamond 4 and finessed the J successfully. Next the spade K was led and the diamond A discarded. West won this, but then could only lead into North's set-up spades and diamond K.

hinks Two-Cent Beef Boost o End Shortage

OTTAWA, April 24 — (CP). — V. E. Haskins, secretary of the anadian Federation of Agriculture, id yesterday existing beef shortge difficulties could be overcome y an arrangement whereby the rice to the farmer rose by 2 cents pound on grain-fed cattle.

The Federation has made reprentations to the Wartime Prices nd Trade Board for some adjustnent in prices to compensate the armer for increased costs of feedng cattle in winter.

Cattle deliveries to some Canadn markets have been short in reent weeks and Donald Gordon, rices Board chairman, said last eek he had made a recommendaion to the Government for dealing with the situation.

Informed Ottawa sources expectd some steps would be taken to ontrol exports of beef cattle to the nited States but there has been o hint of action to permit any increase in prices which would cause break-through in retail beef costs.

Mr. Haskins said the Prices Board ecognized the principle of seasonal rice increases for products such as amb, potatoes, and fruits. The Federation urged that the same principle be applied to beef to permit of reasonable return to the farmer or his costs of production.

Agricultural authorities were agreed that some steps to bring an ncreased price for grain-fed cattle would have to be taken if fresh beef upplies were to be available to Canadian consumers in the late winter nd spring months, he said.

Under the price-ceiling regulations made effective last Dec. 1, retail beef prices have been held at the level prevailing between Sept. 15 and Oct. 11 last. At that time farmers were marketing grass-fed cattle.

Half A Cent A Month

Mr. Haskins said that following a meeting of federation livestock representatives in Ottawa last week, the suggestion had been made that the farmer should be allowed an increased price of half a cent a pound a month during the period he had to feed grain.

"While there are complaints of beef shortage, statistics show that more than 19,000,000 pounds of beef are in store in Canada, 5,000,000 more than at the same time last year," Mr. Haskins said.

"A considerable part of this total may be represented by frozen beef and is not newly-killed beef such as is marketed in Canadian stores after being hung for a week or more.

"But it is clear that if Canadians do not wish to buy this frozen there are other farm products they are able to buy instead of beef.

"Storage reports show turkey holdings are 2,000,000 pounds over those of last year, chickens, 1,500,000 more, mutton, 2,500,000 pounds more, and veal, 1,000,000 pounds more."

Blackmore Raps Plebiscite, Has No Advice

By The Canadian Press.

Criticism of Monday's manpower plebiscie was voiced Wednesday by John Blackmore, leader of the New Democracy party in the House of Commons, and Hon. C. H. Cahan, former Conservative Secretary of State.

Neither speaker offered any suggestions on how to vote on the plebiscite question: "Are you in favor of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

Premier Aberhart of Alberta said in a statement issued at Edmonton that since the Federal Liberal Government was responsible for "imposing" the plebiscite on the country, "it must, likewise, meet the responsibility for justifying the plebiscite."

At Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que., Hon. Wilfrid Hamel, Minister without portfolio in the Quebec Provincial Cabinet, said if the Government is relieved of its promises by the plebiscite, conscription would be introduced. He said the words plebiscite and conscription are "just about synonymous."

Hon. Oscar Drouin, Provincial Minister of Municipal Affairs in Quebec, and Jacques Dumoulin, Liberal member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly for Montmorency, addressed the same anti-conscription rally, organized by La Ligue Pour la Defense du Canada. They urged a "No" vote.

An affirmative vote was urged by Hon. Philippe Brais, Government leader in the Quebec Provincial Legislative Council, in a radio address broadcast over a Quebec radio station (CKCV). He said if the war was not won in Europe and in the Pacific, "we will have to fight in Canada and may God help us the day when the victorious hordes of Japan and Germany have but our country left to reach the United States."

Macdonald Urges Yes.

Navy Minister Macdonald, speaking in Kingston, Ont., said an affirmative vote in the plebiscite will clear up a misunderstanding of Canada's war effort which has developed in some countries friendly to Canada. He urged his hearers to vote "Yes."

Mr. Blackmore's speech, heard over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's national network, was one of a series by Government leaders. Leaders of the other major parties had advocated a "Yes" vote but Mr. Blackmore said his group would not advise Canadians either way.

"The plebiscite question is indefinite..." Mr. Blackmore said. "The intention of the plebiscite is far from being clear, and it does not place a plain issue before the people on which to make a straightforward and intelligent decision.

"How, then, can voters possibly know what the outcome of their decision will be?"

Mr. Cahan's speech was broadcast (over CFCF) in Montreal. He termed the plebiscite "farcial proceedings" and asked that the Government call a general election. The people of Canada, he said, could not unite and use their full energies under what he called the present "partisan" government.

At Kitchener, Ont., as a pre-plebiscite highlight, the Police Commission refused a request from a committee sponsoring an affirmative vote to include in a parade Saturday 40 young men wearing German uniforms who would be "prodded from behind" by Canadian soldiers.

RAF HITS ROSTOCK ANEW IN WAR'S GREATEST RAID

Home Of Heinkel Bombers, Great Baltic Shipyard Battered, To Complete Ruin

Mass Of Fighters Smashes At Flushing
Biggest Ever To Hit Single Objective
As "Death Ferries" Swarm Over Channel

LONDON, April 25—(CP).—The Baltic port of Rostock was attacked by the Royal Air Force again last night in clear weather and "heavy bombs were dropped on the Heinkel Aircraft Works and the Neptune Shipyards, where large fires were left burning," the Air Ministry said today.

This was one of a series of night operations which cost three planes, and R.A.F. squadrons took to the air again by daylight to strike at Nazi bases across the English Channel.

Docks at Dunkirk were raided anew and air fields in France and the Low Countries were attacked by night by aircraft of the bomber and fighter commands, the Air Ministry said.

A coastal command bomber on patrol off the Norwegian coast bombed an enemy supply ship and set it afire.

British planes crossed and re-crossed Dover Strait in a haze to-day and heavy explosions and gun-fire sounded from France—at times apparently from the areas of Calais, Boulogne and inland.

The new attack upon Rostock—a marshalling point for Nazi war supplies—drew from the London Star the comment:

"Even at the height of its power the Luftwaffe never launched raids of such intensity."

Benefitted by excellent weather, the Fliers were said to have hit with particularly good effect at the Heinkel plant.

Day and Night Battering

The attack sustained a new round-the-clock cycle of British air raids on Germany in which the R.A.F. struck with unprecedented power twice within 24 hours—first with a pre-dawn assault on the important Nazi port where, in one hour Thursday night, the "greatest weight of bombs" in R.A.F. history was loosed and later when the largest fighter force ever sent against a single objective escorted bombers attacking the Nazi-held Netherlands port of Flushing in daylight.

The air ministry's report on the Flushing raid said that nine fighters were lost while five Nazi defending planes were knocked down. The report did not disclose the number of aircraft which took part in the foray.

Canadians participated in the Thursday attack on Rostock. Sgt. R. J. Heather, Toronto navigator, said "great fires" were left behind and Sgt. R. W. Taylor, Victoria, B.C., navigator aboard a Whitley bomber, declared that "all we could see of Rostock was a square of fire as we headed homeward.

"The town was lit up from end to end," he added.

It is not known immediately whether Canadians participated in the latest attack on the Baltic port.

That the British fliers struck on successive nights against the comparatively small city of Rostock was regarded in some quarters as a sign the Germans are using it as a great base for rushing men and supplies both to Russia and Norway.

Nazis Slap Back Kill 12 In Exeter Raid

LONDON, April 25—(CP)—Nazi divebombers screaming down from moonlit skies shortly after midnight last night heavily attacked a south coast city, killed at least 12 persons and leaving hundreds homeless amid wreckage caused by a rain of high explosives and firebombs.

In Berlin the German high command said today that Nazi planes had bombed Exeter, Cathedral City in Devonshire, midway between Plymouth and Bristol.

The British authorities said one of England's most famous schools was damaged. Exeter, city of 70,000 is the home of a famous grammar school founded in 1629.

Among the dead were a number of evacuated teachers. The pupils were on vacation, but members of the headmaster's family and two maids were killed.

One of the Oldest Cities

(Exeter, cathedral town midway between Plymouth and Bristol, is one of the oldest cities of England, dating back to the days of Roman occupation, and famed for its museums, libraries, schools of art and the great cathedral which was started in the 12th century.)

Three men, including two fire-watchers were killed by a bomb which fell in a churchyard. In the

Reds Storm Over Central River

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 25—(AP).—Light Red army forces have driven across a river on the central front, plunged through barbed wire and captured a Nazi-occupied village, hurling the Germans into forest, Soviet dispatches said today.

The Germans counter-attacked by night, but were crushed and suffered heavy losses. The exact site of the action was not announced.

The army newspaper Red Star said German units occupying a sector of the southern front had shifted from small-scale counter attacks to defensive fighting and erection of fortifications.

A Soviet battalion was reported to have recently completed the 36th of a series of night raids in which its members killed 2,070 Germans.

Red Star said the Russians were massing artillery on the Leningrad front and that Cossacks were raiding Axis positions in the Crimea.

The weather was believed to be making operations difficult over huge areas of the front.

'No' Vote Non-Confidence--King

Calls For Yes In Monday Plebiscite

World Outlook Graver
Wrong Impression
On Canada Spreading

OTTAWA, April 25—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King closed the national radio campaign for an affirmative vote in Monday's manpower plebiscite with a warning that if disaster should overtake Canada it would be said "for generations" that it would not have occurred if the government had not been restricted in its powers.

Speaking over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night, he declared that a negative vote to the plebiscite question would be an indication that those who so voted did not trust the government and parliament it elected.

He urged the people to show that trust by voting "yes" to the plebiscite question which asks "are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

The Prime Minister emphasized that the vote was not for or against conscription for service overseas.

"Whom can you trust?" he asked, if trust could not be placed in the government and in the parliament elected since the war started.

For himself, Mr. King said, "If I did not believe that . . . I continued to enjoy the confidence of the people . . . I would not wish to remain in office an hour longer."

Mr. King warned that his statements in his earlier radio speech in the plebiscite campaign April 7 last, describing the gravity of the world situation, were not exaggerations. Conditions now were even worse with the Japanese successes in the Southern Pacific.

Attack Via Canada?

He declared the enemy's plan was to join land forces in the far east and achieve sea supremacy which would open the way for an attack on the western hemisphere—an attack that might come through Canada.

He said the object of the United Nations would be to keep the enemy as far as possible from this hemisphere and that was why Canadians were in England and Americans in Ireland and Australia.

"Despite the magnificence of Canada's war effort the impression

It said 100 soldiers guarded the fuel cache until Mexican tankers arrived and pumped it dry.

New Teeth Added By Ottawa To Rental Rules

OTTAWA, April 25.—(CP).—Important changes in regulations governing rentals throughout Canada were announced in a statement issued last night by rentals administrators of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Cyril R. DeMara and Owen Lobley.

The amendments, which apply to rentals of houses, rooms, tourist accommodation and hotel rooms were described in a broad statement as "designed to reinforce security of tenure for tenants in all tyes of living accommodation and to assist the harassed home hunter."

Hotel room rates are frozen and seasonal hotels are allowed to charge no more than the rates in effect during the 1941 season.

Simultaneously the Board announced that Mr. DeMara and Mr. Lobley will serve as joint administrators. Mr. Lobley was previously administrator of commercial rentals and now will administer rentals control in Quebec and the Maritime provinces.

Mr. DeMara, who has been administrator of housing rentals, will be responsible for administration in the other provinces.

Britons Rally At Last Burma Bases

Chinese Left Wing
Forced Back
In Stubborn Fight

LONDON, April 25 — (CP). — Twin Japanese thrusts on Mandalay and Lashio appeared to be developing rapidly to-day as the British Army, after a brief respite, prepared to defend its last bases of resistance in Burma.

Latest despatches from Burma, a military commentator said, indicate that the Chinese are fighting stubbornly artund Taunggyi and at Hopong and Shwengyaung, east and west of that town, in an effort to halt the deepest enemy penetration —now 100 miles from Mandalay.

A further Japanese advance in this sector would directly threaten Chinese communications on the Sittang front to the west and place the invaders astride roads running into Lashio and Mandalay.

The commentator said that a lull apparently was continuing on the Irrawaddy front at the west end of the Allied line.

Chinese forces there were reported holding positions along the Pinchaung River while British and Indian forces are resting and refitting in the rear for the climax of the campaign expected to take the form of a triple drive on Mandalay by the Japanese.

Japs Ignore Slaughter.

NEW DELHI, April 25.—(CP). — Burma's defenders faced a sudden new peril to-day as the Japanese, with an almost spendthrift use of manpower pushed forward to within about 100 miles of Mandalay in furious and confused fighting.

A Chungking communique indicated the Chinese-held left flank either had been rolled back or was in imminent danger of being turned by the fast-striking Japanese.

Few details amplified the communique, which said the invaders had advanced about 80 miles northward from captured Loikaw to the area of Taunggyi under cover of continuous air attack.

A British communique to-day announced another air raid on Mandalay. It indicated that the front was fluid on the Chinese-defended side.

"Recent reports are confused regarding the Japanese progress in the northward drive through the Shan states," it said. "It is fairly clear that the drive has made progress."

Invasion to Nip Second Front?

See Hitler Striking Isles Before Red Front Warms Up

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The closer we draw to the great Russo-German clash, which likely will be the decisive battle of the war, the greater is the urge among Allied peoples for the opening up of a second front in western Europe to support the Soviet effort.

The most striking advocacy of this adventurous strategy comes from Britain's lease-lend co-ordinator in Washington, the powerful and outspoken Lord Beaverbrook.

"This is a chance," said the 'Beaver,' "to bring the war to an end here and now. But if the Russians are defeated and driven out of the war, never will such a chance come to us again."

In holding that it is possible to end the conflict now, Lord Beaverbrook is following somewhat the line taken by Russian leaders, who have said that Hitler can be smashed this year if the Soviet Union gets help. Indeed, he declares he has been in favor of a second front since his visit to Moscow last October.

That this is the crucial moment to give the Reds every ounce of help possible, "even recklessly," is the consensus of Allied leadership. Whether this is the time to try invasion of western Europe is something which only the supreme command can decide.

What struck me as one of Lord Beaverbrook's shrewdest observations was that the Russians might be the means of bringing the whole Axis structure down merely "by holding the Germans in check." As so often explained, Hitler's main objective is to break through to the

Rush On In Atlantic Bomber Traffic

By LOUIS HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 25—(CP).—Now that the perils of winter flying over the Atlantic have vanished with the Spring, ferry command of the Royal Air Force is busy putting into effect plans to handle a delivery of American aircraft exceeding anything previously brought across the ocean.

Work of the command, impeded temporarily after the United States entered the war, has been stepped up and the flow of bombers to Brittain has begun again at an increased rate. Streams of big Liberator, Fortress and Hudson bombers and Catalina Flying Boats will be flown over to bolster the might of the R.A.F.

Only after the war will it be revealed just how many aircraft have been ferried across but newspaper men who visited a command base in the west of Britain were told that million of dollars worth of bomber aircraft have been put into the nation's striking force against the Axis without the loss of a single machine through enemy action.

There have been casualties from flying accidents, but the loss of all type of aircraft on the Atlantic crossing has been less than one per cent.

No Winter Mishaps

During the winter bombers were flown over without mishap of any kind and weather delays were not long. The planes arrived more punctually than the trains from Glasgow to London. When the aircraft took off from ferry command's western bases of Montreal or Newfoundland the estimated time of arrival was flashed to the terminal on this side and rarely were the calculations more than five minutes out.

No attempts at record-making are permitted in ferry command but nevertheless several notable performances have been registered. An

Strong Air Force Able To Save India

Hard Mobile Army Ready For Troop Landings—See Reds Retaining Initiative

Written for The Canadian Press by MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHAS. GWYNN.

LONDON, April 25 — (CP Cable) —Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell has clearly described the problem of defence of India with limited forces. It is one of counter-attacking by an air striking force with the special role of attacking hostile ships and landing craft. For that task it should have the advantage of near-by shore bases, as opposed to the enemy's carrier-borne and long-range aircraft. Should the Japanese effect a landing they would be subject to attack by a small but well-equipped and highly mobile army with adequate air support.

No attempt obviously can be made to organize defensive positions along the immense coastline on which the enemy can select his points of attack, but the importance of well organized and courageous action and control of the civil population and administration is emphasized.

Gen. Wavell's reminder of Japan's difficulties never should be lost sight of and should be taken to heart. It offers not only encouragement but also a guide to action.

Enterprise Shown in Burma Tactics.

In Burma the situation remains very critical but the successful counter-attack at Yenangyaung and the close co-operation between the Chinese and British forces is encouraging.

The most serious aspect of the situation is the Japanese power of reinforcing their invading army has not yet been checked while reinforcement of the Allies remains a difficulty.

Should the Japanese attempt an attack on Ceylon or India it might have the effect of reducing the pressure in Burma since it would involve the employment of much shipping and probably would entail heavy shipping and air losses.

Continued resistance in the Philippines and the air counter offensive from Australia may also eventually affect the Burma situation. The bombing attack on Japanese home bases may also have far-reaching results though possibly they will be felt less immediately on the fighting front. One result may well be the retention of considerable Japanese naval forces, including carriers, somewhere in the neighborhood of home waters and may imply the necessity of escorting shipping.

If there is the possibility of American bombers operating from Chinese bases, Japanese shipping passing through the Formosa Straits would be vulnerable to air attacks and should it pass east of Formosa the danger from American surface raiders would be increased.

In the Middle East there have been no fresh signs of large-scale operations. Activity in the air and minor operations fluctuate with the weather. Air attacks on Malta persist at heavy cost and apparently with few results of importance.

Russai May Move First

In Russia, except on the Finnish front, the thaw is having its effect though fighting continues and Russian cavalry and guerillas in particular remain active.

Berlin complains of conditions, Moscow is content to adapt its action to them. So much has been said about a German spring offensive that the possibility of a Russian spring offensive has been ignored. Yet it is certain the Russians will not be content to wait passively for

Jap Losses Just A Taste

Attlee Sees Hitler Making Kaiser's Mistakes

LONDON, April 25—(CP)—Clement R. Attlee, Secretary of State for Dominions, declared today the United Nations are just beginning to gather the power which will prove that Japanese losses to date have been only a taste of what is to come.

In an Anzac Day broadcast to Australia, he pledged that Britain and the United States are standing solidly with the island dominions of Australia and New Zealand. He said help would flow more and more and, with unified strategy, would turn the tables on the Axis.

Hitler, he said, has erred as the Kaiser did by failing to understand the "invisible links which bind together the English-speaking nations all over the world."

"The world is a single battlefield, whether the fight is in Europe, Asia, Africa, or Oceania," Mr. Attlee said. "The United Nations form a United front. This unity of purpose demands unity of strategy.

Strong Nazi Leak In Eire

Arrests Show Businesslike Setup Says Senator

NEW YORK, April 25—(AP).—Senator Michael E. MacDermot of Erie said Friday on arrival by clipper that there is "plenty to indicate that there is contact with the Nazis" in Eire.

While declining to elaborate on fifth column activity in Eire, the Senator said arrests had been made which "proved beyond a doubt that a highly businesslike arrangement has been made with some of these criminals."

MacDermot asserted that "the sympathy of the Irish people is overwhelmingly pro-British and pro-American although it is the instinct of every small nation to stay out of the war.

"The great mass of the Irish people are behind Premier De Valera and are anxious to maintain our neutrality."

The Irish senator, here on a three-month visit, was among 30 trans-Atlantic passengers aboard the Pan American clipper from Europe.

7,000,000 CANADIANS CAN VOTE IN THE NATIONAL PLEBISCITE

Expect 4 Million To Cast Vote; No Vehicle Lack

OTTAWA, April 25—(CP)—Canada's manpower plebiscite campaign reached its closing stages today as officials prepared to handle an expected total of more than 4,000,000 civilian votes in the polling next Monday.

Here is the question on which voters will record their verdict: "Are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?

Voters will signify their answer with a cross after a "yes" or "no" printed in bold type on the ballot papers.

Officials said the voters' list prepared by enumerators were expected to contain about 7,000,000 names of those entitled to go to the polls. They estimated that more than 4,000,000 civilians would exercise the right to vote.

As in the general election of 1940, special arrangements were made for members of Canada's armed forces to vote. Voters in the defence services—estimated to number nearly 500,000—have had facilities to record their verdict since April 16. Taking of the service vote ends today.

But the result of the voting by members of the armed forces will experiment bing developed now is that of bringing new bombers over in charge of crews trained in Canada under the Commonwealth Air Training plan.

It is an Australian graduate of the A.T.P. who holds the record for the crossing. Flying in a Hudson with Pilot Officer C. A. Harris of Chauvin, Alta., as his wireless operator, he completed the trip from Newfoundland to Britain in eight hours and 10 minutes, 13 minutes better than the old mark.

The best flying performance, however, was by a civilian pilot whose Liberator was heard over the base on this side six hours and 50 minutes after the take-off from Newfoundland. The bomber had to circle over the airport for three hours before landing because it still had too much gasoline aboard to get down safely in the dark.

Crew Just Over 20

The success of the Empire Air Plan may be gauged by the fact that recently a Hudson was flown safely over by a crew of graduates whose average age was just over 20. They were Pilot Officer H. W. Luss of Lethbridge, Alta., Pilot Officer C. Badham of New South Wales and Sergeant H. G. Black of Arvida, Que. Black, a wireless operator, celebrated his 19th birthday during the crossing.

The trip took 11 hours and 10 minutes despite bad weather in mid-ocean. When airport officials asked them how they did it, the airmen simply replied: "We just followed our instructions."

Ferry Command has reported its first stowaway, a 19-year-old Canadian whose identity was not revealed. On the ground staff at a Canadian airfield he was graded indispensable and refused permission to enter the R.A.F. So he planned to "jump passage" by bomber and enlist in Britain. When the aircraft reached its destination the youngster was reprimanded severely but the authorities granted his wish and allowed him to join up.

But while we have a right to hope that the Russians, with Allied help, can hold and even defeat Hitler, I think we shall make a grave mistake to assume that this holding is a foregone conclusion. The Nazi leader still has vast strength at his disposal and is terribly dangerous. We can be sure that the Bolshevists need all the help they can get, and if by chance things develop better than expected, so much to the good.

Pressure May Turn Nazis

The pressure now being exerted on the Germans by the Royal Air Force is of great assistance to the Russians. But it isn't enough. Hitler must in some way be compelled to split his forces and thereby relieve pressure on the Russians.

In considering the possibility of opening an Allied front in western Europe we mustn't overlook this: The very fact that he is threatened with attack from the west might impel Hitler to counter with a lightning attempt to invade in the immediate future, before the heavy summer fighting opens up along the Russian front.

These remaining days of spring, while great sections of the northern front in Russia are still like morasses from melting snows and thawing ground, are fraught with peril for Britain. That means peril for the whole Allied cause, since a successful invasion of Britain would be catastrophic.

Even after dawn the attack continued spasmodically. Three Nazi fighter planes sprayed a beachfront with bombs and machine-gun bullets, killing one man and wounding another.

Compared with the British raids on Germany, the attacks last night on England were petty. Only 25 Nazi bombers crossed the coast, it was learned authoritatively, and the greatest number that attacked a single area was 12.

a German onslaught when the ground dries.

They may of course continue a policy of local attacks to harass German preparations and secure points of advantage, adapting their methods to the changed conditions. On the other hand there must be the possibility the Russians will employ their reserve armies to anticipate a German offensive instead of husbanding them for an eventual counter offensive if and when the German efforts have exhausted themselves.

Expenditure of Russian reserves in a major offensive would be the less risky in view of the immense manpower resources of Russia. There is the question, however, of whether Russian material resources are sufficient to support a major offensive and at the same time provide equipment for new armies in readiness should the offensive power of the Reichswehr survive the attacks.

The volume of material obtained from the Allies and the extent of the damage inflicted on German production and the transportation system and the possibility of the Allies opening a second front in the west are all factors which may call for delays in delivering a counter stroke. The ascendancy the Russian Air Force has achieved during the winter may well influence the course of action.

The effects of R.A.F. bombings is difficult to estimate but it and the threat of invasion retain a high proportion of the German Air Force in the west. If it is true that the attack on Luebeck destroyed preparations for the dispatch of strong German reinforcements to Finland it shows R.A.F. action may have considerable direct effect on German plans.

On a whole, taking into account Axis difficulties, it would not be surprising if the Russians retain the initiative.

Glancing back 25 years: The spectacular naval action between German and British destroyers in Dover Strait, which brought fame to Cmdr. E.R.G.R. Evans and then men of the Broke, was fought April 20, 1917. The Broke and the Swift, commanded by Cmdr. A. M. Peck, clashed with six enemy destroyer and while the Swift chased the leader of the German flotilla the Broke rammed another warship, the crews fought hand-to-hand until the Germans were overcome and their ship sunk. Although the Broke's engines were disabled by a German shell, Evans managed to torpedo and sink another enemy ship before the action ended.

Runaway Team Drags Field Roller Over Farmer, Smashing His Watch

HASTINGS, April 25 —(ENS)— Dragged and mauled for over 100 yards by a team of rearing, plunging, half-crazed horses and to top it off, partially ran over by a heavy land roller, Fergus McCarthy, 28, of Hastings is resting at his home here with severely bruised legs and serious pelvic injuries.

The mishap occurred as he was returning home after rolling a field about one mile west of Hastings, late Thursday afternoon. Here is the way he recounted his experience to the Examiner:

Team Frightened

"I had just closed the gate and was about to head the team for home when I noticed the reins were lying near the horses' front feet. When I went around to pick them up, some noise in the bushes must have frightened the horses because one reared up and as I attempted to quiet them, both began to gallop down the road with me directly between, and in front of them. Every time I tried to get up on their backs one of them would give a lunge and down I would go. Finally I became exhausted and how the horses missed me with their hoofs I don't know. When the roller hit me I was bunched up and it must have been travelling at such a terrific speed that after rolling over my legs it bounced over me."

Crawled Home

It was nearly an hour before the injured man, partially unconscious was able to stagger the half mile to his home. His sister, Ruth, who had seen the team turn in at the gate after their wild run reached her brother some distance from the house.

Dr. W. N. Campbell stated that a thorough X-ray examination would have to be performed before it was certain that no pelvic bones were cracked or fractured.

"I was lucky to come out of it alive," commented the injured man as he smilingly showed an Examiner reporter his watch which has been completely flattened by the roller.

vacated premises for the ensuing year, under penalty of being forbidden to rent the accommodation for that period if he fails to comply.

New tenants are given assurance of the maximum rental they may be charged under a regulation requiring the landlord to supply the prospective tenant with a statement, on a printed form, of the rental paid by the last occupant and other information. The landlord is required to mail a copy of this statement to the nearest regional rental office within 10 days.

All applications for changes in rentals effective at once must be made on new forms which now are being distributed to branch offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Landlords are protected by a new provision which enables them to apply for increased rental if taxes or water rates have been substantially increased since Jan. 1, 1941.

It now is compulsory, however, that the landlord make application before increasing any rental because of structura alterations or additions, or because of additional service or equipment.

This requirement also applies when premises previously rented unfurnished are to be rented furnished.

The mutual agreement form which formerly could be executed by the landlord and tenant in support of an application for increased maximum rental is eliminated.

Possibility that landlords might charge more than the maximum rental by accepting additional sums for an option to purchase is eliminated by a provision that any sum in excess of $5 paid in excess of the maximum rental will be regarded as rental.

Tenants are entitled to recover any money paid in excess of the maximum rental and it is provided that such recovery may be made by civil action or, if the tenant is still in occupancy, by deducting the excess from rental instalments.

Boarding and lodging houses, described as any house in which accommodation is provided for three or more persons in addition to the members of the operator's family, are required to post in each room a statement showing the maximum rental for the room when occupied by one person and when occupied by more than one person.

Notices with maximum rates must also be posted in tourist cabins and tourist homes.

Mock Traffic Court To Sit Saturday

PORT HOPE, April 25.—(ENS).— The regular meeting of the Safety Club this week boasted forty-three members present. This was a large attendance considering that a special program was not arranged. Much business, however, was discussed at the meeting.

The adoption of a sailor on the H.M.C.S. Port Hope was made authentic and the money for filling the ditty bag for same, voted to be taken from the club funds in the bank. These funds are collected as a 10c fee from each member once a month. This collection fund is kept entirely for the needs of the club as any club parties or pleasures are provided for by the Lions Club members.

Mildred Hodgert was appointed acting secretary for the remaining weeks of the club year to fill the vacancy of Miss Joan Taylor, whose resignation was accepted.

Perhaps the most important business discussed were the plans for next week's meeting which will take the form of a mock court with Magistrate R. B. Baxter in charge and with Mr. Ken Hodgert and Mr. Frank Lewis for the lawyers representing the criminal and the other the Crown. Some twenty-five cases are scheduled to appear at this court.

Much discussion also took place on the forming of a boys' and girls' softball team. It was decided that these teams be formed in the near future and to arrange games at least twice a week.

Play, Program Great Success

GORE'S LANDING, April 25.— (ENS)—A large audience filled the basement of the United Church on Wednesday evening when a one-act play, entitled "Just Like a Woman" was presented by members of the congregation.

The first half of the program consisted of a variety show. Miss Ferris Cheyne recited a poem entitled "Rice Lake" which was written by the late Thomas Boyle of Harwood in 1886. Miss Marjorie Massie, Harwood, rendered a piano solo, "Rustle of Spring" and as an encore "Nola," both of which were greatly enjoyed. A humorous reading, "Our Willie's Letter" in broad Scotch dialect was ably presented by Mr. Milne. The school children of S.S. No. 16, under the direction of Miss Ina Rosevear sang "Thumbs Up." Mrs. Fisher gave a reading, "Mrs. Candid Entertains the Ladies' Aid" which was quite humorous and the audience enjoyed the local references. Mr. Miles MacDonald and his on, Lyn, accompanied by Mrs. Eddie MacFarland sang a duet. Miss Ruby Hoskin reading "Caleb's Courtship" was most entertaining followed by a solo by Miss Emily Pratt, "The White Cliffs of Dover." Mrs. Lou Harris recited and acted a skit on girls in an ice cream parlor that was quite funny; the boys' chorus of the school sang, "To The Stars" and Miss Helen Cheyne, "Betty at the Baseball Game" concluded the first half of the evening program. During intermission, Miss Emily Pratt conducted a community sing-song with Mrs. Meggs at the piano.

The members of the cast in the play, "Just Like a Woman" were Mr. and Mrs. Miles MacDonald, Miss Mary Alice Harris, Mrs. Lou Harris, Norman Waldon and Roy Gilpin. The play was well acted and worthy of the applause which followed the 45 minutes of entertainment. Rev. M. C. and Mrs. Fisher entertained members of the concert party at their home later in the evening.

W.A. Meets

The W.A. of St. George's-on-the-Hill met at the home of Mrs. Melville Harris on Tuesday afternoon, with 7 members present.

Mrs. Cecil Manley read a paper on the Lambeth conference which referred to Japan. It was decided to meet at the home of Mrs. John Dear in two weeks time and pack boxes for the soldiers also for Mrs. Kingsford. The members were requested to bring used clothing suitable for the bale to Mrs. Clare Harris where it will eventually be packed and ready for shipment. Mrs. Melville Harris who was in charge of this meeting read a letter which had been received by Mrs. Dear from relatives in England. It described their experience during an air raid in which their home was partially demolished.

The meeting closed with the benediction and a social half hour followed.

Army Boot Has Science In Its Form

The unbeautiful but utilitarian army boot has science and experiment in the approval of its form and material, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons in response to an enquiry by G. K. Fraser, M.P. Peterboro West.

One of Mr Fraser's questions was: "Have any wearing tests been arranged by the Department of National Defense on leather army boots?"

The information in reply was as follows: 'A joint standing committee on clothing and textiles exists, from which various sub-committees have been formed.

The sub-committee on boots includes boot experts from the inspection board of the United Kingdom and Canada and the Department of Munitions and Supply. This sub-committee meets regularly to discuss changes of patterns and improvements which have been submitted by boot experts and manufacturers. Samples of boots, incorporating the suggested changes of design or material are manufactured under the supervision of Departmental boot inspectors and a number of the new boots are forwarded to selected active army units for wearing tests.

Detailed reports of these tests are carefully studied and if definite improvements are reported the specification is amended accordingly.

In addition, chemical and physical tests are regularly carried out by the National Research Council. These include tannage and chrome oxide tests; wearability, preservation to water, moisture, grease, ash-moisture and grease on a free basis, boiling (shrinkage) and porosity tests. Leather is taken from factories periodically and forwarded to National Research Council for testing. Departmental inspectors inspect all manufacturing operations and materials to ensure that the Department's detailed specification is adhered to. This is the established practice.

Another question by Mr. Fraser, "Has any standard treatment been applied to army boots with a view to extending the average wearing life?" brought the following detailed answer:

"The leather used in manufacture is specially treated and prepared, according to the Department's specification, to extend the life of the boot. Further, each man is issued, upon enlistment, with a tin of boot dressing to be used according to the directions printed on the tin. Additional tins of boot dressing are obtainable at the soldier's expense.

Unit commanders arrange a periodical inspection of boots in possession of soldiers in order that necessary repairs may be carried out before boots become badly worn. At present twenty-one (21) army boot repair shops are in existence throughout Canada which handle all major repairs.

In the case of isolated units where the cost of transporting boots to and from repair shops would be prohibitive, repairs are carried out by Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps shoemakers attached to these units or by local contractors.

All army boot repair shops are adequately equipped with machinery and are staffed with experienced and capable shoemakers. Specific instructions have been issued that half-soles must, in all cases, be stitched on.

Boot-fitting experts of the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom and Canada visit active units regularly to ensure that boots are properly fitted, and that those in wear are in a good state of repair. Any complaints heard on these visits are reported to the oficer commanding with a suggested remedy.

And the answer 'yes' was given to a third question, 'Has the attention of the Department been called to the suggestions in this respect by the select committee of the British House of Commons on national expenditure in theier eleventh report?"

BIRMINGHAM—(CP).—The next few weeks "may be more fateful for the future of the world than any since Dunkirk," L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India and Burma said today. "They will decide whether our enemy has shot his bolt and the end is in sight," he told the Unionist annual meeting here.

With Peterborough Red Cross Branch

The Red Cross course in home nursing provides elementary instruction in the simple care of the sick. It teaches the rules of hygiene and sanitation and emphasizes the importance of the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease.

The value of the expert care given by a registered nurse to a patient who is seriously ill cannot be overestimated. But the Red Cross believes that there is a great need for women in their own homes to be equipped to provide simple, but competent nursing care to the members of their families who may be suffering from minor ailments, and that they should also know how to carry out the doctor's orders in the absence of a registered nurse.

For many years the local branch of the society has been carrying on classes in Home Nursing and First Aid in emergencies and a large number of women have availed themselves of the opportunity to study the approved methods of caring for the sick in their own households.

This year the student body of the Normal School has taken the class as part of their curriculum with the classes held at the school.

The Bridgenorth branch has received help from the Peterborough branch to organize a very successful class.

Four classes are now being organized by the Volunteer Service Women to receive Red Cross Home Nursing. These classes will start in the very near future, and will be taught by competent graduate nurses.

The war has been brought to Peterborough in a great many ways and the Red Cross is always here to help. One part of the Red Cross war effort is the organizing of Emergencies in war classes. These classes have been held once a week since early January at Y.W.C.A. Forty-four women attended the first series of eight lectures and 85% received certificates. Thirty-four women are attending the second series now being held.

These lectures are given by Dr. R. K. Magee with demonstrations and instructions given by capable assistants.

Anyone desiring information as to future classes in Home Nursing or Emergencies in war can obtain information from any member of the Red Cross executive.

Christ Calls All Men To His Work

By REV. E. R. JAMES

When Jesus beheld him He said: Thou are Simon the son of Jona; thou shalt be called Cephas, which is, in interpretation, a stone.—St. John 1; 42.

Your first day at school was a great event. You stood before your schoolmaster. He looked upon you with piercing eye. When your schoolmaster "beheld" you he probably said to himself, "a promising boy."

More than nineteen hundred years ago a young man stood in the presence of the Master, Jesus of Nazareth. He has returned from His forty days' testing in the wilderness; having decided upon the principles of His ministry. He is looking for men to carry on the work after His return to the bosom of the Father. He has been tempted to turn the stones into bread. Behold, He offers to perform a greater miracle. He promises to turn Simon, unstable as water, into a stone—a rock man.

What does He see?

He sees Simon, an individual, a person, one who wears a mask. Philosophers have striven for centuries to define a person. Perhaps for everyday people the old Roman definition of one who wears a mask is sufficiently near the mark. You meet a person who attracts you. How intently you gaze on him, listen to his words and watch his actions. You wish to get beneath the mask and see for yourself what he really is. Simon was a person well known to the fishermen around Bethsaida. They would say he was a first class sailor and fisherman, brave, generous, warm-hearted. He was given to strong language but very impetuous and fickle.

With His piercing eye the Lord saw more. "Thou are the son of Jona." Here we have another side to Simon. There is his heredity—his ancestors behind him, his parents and grandparents, etc. Some call the law of herdity a horror. They have inherited some strain of evil or weakness, which has gravely hindered them. But the law is also a blessing. There are many who thank God for a healthy body, a clean, active mind and spiritual instances they have inherited from their ancestors. Simon has inherited the gift of piety and faith. He was born into a devout Jewish family; and a strong healthy body, the peculiar gift of strict obedience to the Jewish laws of health.

The great Prophet sees still more in Simon. He is "of the city of Bethsaida." There is Simon's environment to be taken into consideration. "Can any good come out of Nazareth," is the prompt comment of Nathanael, verse 46. A man is often damned by his environment, his surrounding. They have much to make him what he is. Students of psychology lay great stress upon the advantages or otherwise of environment, of our surroundings. The influence of his school, his playmates, his friends, the spirit of his village and community had their part in making Simon what he is. What a lesson for us.

Our Lord, knowing what is in man, looks upon Simon, the son of Jona, of the City of Bethsaida and utters His prophecy. "Thou shalt be called, Cephas, a stone, a rock man." It is not because he is Simon, the son of Jona, of the City of Bethsaida. Then this story would be of little benefit to us. It is in spite of the fact that he is the son of Jona, of the City of Methsaida. The prophecy is conditions. The condition: If thou wilt follow Me.

It is interesting for us to remember that Our Lord seldom calls the Apostle by his new name of Peter. He more often calls him Simon. He is slowly qualifying for the new name. The Lord is calling him that he might be with Him. That he might be gripped with His personality; fascinated by His friendship. That he might drink in His Spirit and gradually, through pain and sorrow and the agony of the tears of penitence be transformed into the Peter, the rock man, the stone upon which others may build their faith.

Michael Angelo saw a great, rough rock. He sprang upon it, and cried: "I must let the angel out of it." Then followed long days of toil upon that rock, cutting, rubbing and smoothing. Could the rock speak it would have cried aloud: "Mutilations, mutilations." Only thus could the artist let the angel out of it.

Even so the Lord, the great Architect, looks into your eyes and sees you, your parentage and your surroundings. With supreme assurance in His Voice He utters His prophecy. He calls you by your Christian name, your surname and by the name of your communit. He promises to make you a rock man, a living stone fit to be placed into His living Temple. He promises to let the Angel out of you if you will follow Him. Mutilations will be necessary. Are you willing to pay the price?

Lo, I come to do Thy will, O my God.

Jesus Christ Conducts Wayside Conversations

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 26, is Luke 13:22-35, the Golden Text being Luke 14:27. "Whosoever does not bear his own cross, and come after Me, cannot be My disciple.")

Jesus passed through Perea, on his way to Jerusalem. Perea is a large area in Palestine on the eastern side of the Jordan river. The seventy chosen by the Lord to go about preaching the gospel had passed that way, and Jesus was following in their steps.

"Then some one said unto Him, Lord, are there few that be saved?"

Jesus' answer was not direct. He said, "Strive to enter in at the strait gate, for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able."

Instead of telling how many or few would be saved, Jesus mentions many that would not be. "When once the master of the house is risen up," He said, and hath shut the door, and you begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and He shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are."

Then those without shall try to remind the Lord that they had eaten and drunk with Him and He had preached in their streets, but the answer would be that He knew them not, and that they should depart because they were workers of iniquity."

Weeping and Gnashing of Teeth

How shall these iniquitous ones feel when they find themselves without the gates of heaven? There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." Jesus says, when you shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out."

The saved shall come from every quarter of the earth, Jesus tells them, and they shall sit down in the kingdom of God."

Then they may be surprised to find that earthly standards are not considered in heaven. There are last which shall be first, and there are first that shall be last." Earthly riches, power and station shall be no more considered. Many who on earth had been honored should find themselves placed much lower than the poor, the meek and the humble, who had all their lives followed the Master and done His will. These, Jesus intimated, should be the ones to have the high places in the kingdom of God.

That same day certain Pharisees came to Jesus and told Him to flee for Herod would kill Him. Was Jesus afraid or dismayed? Too well He knew what His fate would be, and He spoke out sternly, 'Go ye, tell that fox (the crafty one), Behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures today, and tomorrow, and the third day I shall be perfected.

"Nevertheless, I must walk today, and tomorrow, and the day following; for it cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem."

Unafraid He would continue on His way to the Holy City, to meet His fate. Then He mourns in heart-broken tones, over this city that He loved and the people who should have been His followers:

"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and yet ye would not!

"Behold, your house is left unto you desolate; and verily I say unto you, ye shall not see Me, until the time come when ye shall say, Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

These seem to me some of the saddest words Christ ever uttered. The Jews had indeed stoned the prophets who had come to them to lead them in the right way. Jesus would have saved them, but they refused to believe He was the Messiah and repudiated Him.

How often since then have we, too, refused to recognize the Master and to follow in His steps. It is not too late for us to "forsake our evil ways," and to try to live as He would have us. We, too, must learn to "bear our own crosses, and come after" the Master, and so be numbered among His disciples.

Parachute Nurses

BERNE, April 25 — (AP). — The latest development on the Russian war front is a specially-trained parachute corps of Soviet Red Cross nurses.

The Berne newspaper Der Bund printed a photograph yesterday of nine members of the corps, equipped with parachutes and first-aid cases.

Their function, a caption said, is to bring aid to wounded in difficult terrain where normal means of communication might prove too slow.

The Plebiscite At Last

The plebiscite, of which we have heard so much during the past few weeks, is now at hand; the voting-day is Monday. Elsewhere on this page we print three letters bearing upon the subject which we have received, and we should like to comment briefly upon them here.

One of them gives some useful advice about how to mark a ballot. Although the directions are sufficiently clear there are a number of people at every election who spoil their ballots. They cannot do this intentionally, for no one would go to the poll merely to spoil a ballot; they must do it because they do not know the rules regarding the marking of ballots. An X is all that is necessary or permissible.

Another letter suggests that the Province of Quebec be penalized if the voting in all other provinces show a Yes majority. We suggest that the point of view upon which this letter is based is a mistaken one. We also suggest that the unity of this country will be ill-served by majorities taking punitive measures against minorities; if this letter expresses the views of the group calling themselves "The Ethical Society of Canada" as the signature suggests, we must inform them that it bears no relation to any system of ethics with which we are familiar.

The third letter reveals some very confused thinking about the nature of military strategy and about the plebiscite itself. No "Powers That Be or Big Shots" are trying to deprive Canada of its defenders in a capricious and ill-considered manner; the Government of Canada will make the decision about overseas service, and the Government of Canada is made up of men whom we have elected and of whom we know a great deal. They will send men overseas when they think it necessary in order to prevent the possible attack on this country which our correspondent postulates. It has been shown again and again in this war that the country which waits until it is attacked to defend itself begins its fighting under a severe handicap; Canada may be best able to defend herself fighting in Europe or in the East. We believe that our correspondent is entirely wrong in his notion that a No majority would protect Canada, and we publish his letter only to show that such opinions are held and that unless we bestir ourselves, they may make a strong showing on Monday.

The need for a great Yes majority on Monday is apparent by this time to anyone who keeps abreast of Canadian affairs. The Prime Minister, the Hon. R. B. Hanson, leader of the Opposition, and Mr. M. J. Coldwell have all spoken over the radio demonstrating this fact to the best of their ability. Quebec has been appealed to by French-Canadian leaders such as the Hon. J. A. Cardin and the Hon. Louis St. Laurent, and well-informed persons believe that the Yes vote in that provnce will be considerably larger than anything which has been anticipated.

Mr. King has put his fate in the hands of the electors as a result of his address on Friday night when he declared a "No" ballot will be regarded as an expression of distrust in his government and its conduct of the war and intimated if such was the vote he would wish no longer to remain in office.

There remains nothing now but to go out and vote on Monday. If there is anyone who is not convinced that a Yes majority is the best thing for Canada and for the United Nations, we despair of him. We are convinced, however, that the majority of citizens of this district know what is needed, and all that we can do is urge them to do their duty at the polls on Monday.

The Bells Of Peterborough

For some time past we have listened with the greatest pleasure to the performances on the bells of St. John's Church which are to be heard almost every afternoon. We hear them while we are at work; we hear them while we are walking; and we hear them sometimes when we are at ease, or reading. That is the proper way to hear bells—incidentally, and not with wholly concentrated attention, as one listens to other music. The sound of bells is, after singing, the purest and freshest of musical sounds but it does not do to be too attentive to it; it should, as it were, steal in upon the consciousness, forming a pleasant musical background to other thoughts.

There is no pleasanter way of learning that one is approaching a city than by hearing its bells in the distance. It was a common enough experience in England, but it is rare in Canada, and Peterborough may be proud of carrying on a fine old custom in a new country. The church bells in England will not ring again until the war is over, or until the enemy lands upon England's shores; their music is mute, and they may speak only as alarms. But here we may still hear the bells every day and it must be a stony-hearted hearer indeed who does not pause for a moment to take pleasure in them.

Babes And Sucklings

Recently we came across an article in an American publication which gave us a good deal of worry. It was about criticism, and the extent to which children have taken over that work in the U.S. In this country we are apt to follow our good neighbor pretty closely in matters relating to arts and letters and we are perturbed by the idea that, in a year or so, the idea of juvenile criticism may have taken root here.

The most striking quality of a child's criticism, the article explained, is its perfect frankness. Quite. We know that already. We have experienced that frankness and found it discouraging; we place a high value upon honesty in criticism but we think that children are inclined to carry it much too far. They are young and uninhibited, and they do not know how to temper the wind to the shorn lamb. Sometimes they blow a gale of criticism which would freeze the wellspring of an artist's invention for the rest of his life. We would rather not meet any child critics, thank you. But it is too late. Juvenile criticism is already on the march.

The National Board of Review, we learn, signs up 600 child critics every year in the U.S. These are the cream of the crop—the Infant Critics' Circle, as it were. There are others. Radio companies have child critics too, passing judgment upon Bedtime Hours and gangster serials and the adventures of those men from Mars who are so popular at present. There are even children who pass upon the serials of domestic life which are called "soap operas." Of these one infant Aristotle says: "They certainly wouldn't hurt a kid any. It might do him good to learn about adult problems so he'll be able to face them when he grows up. Things like how to get out of murders you don't commit and how to get ransomed. Then, too, you learn that when you don't love somebody you shouldn't marry them." Before such wisdom as this we are dumb.

Publishers, we learn, have young critics pass upon books before they print them. Perhaps this is not a bad idea. Children are less apt to be bamboozled by high-sounding hokum than their elders and, within limits, they know a good story when they hear one. But we are informed that children dislike love-interest in movies, plays and books; we suspect, from what we have observed, that their elders are not averse to love-interest and we hope that the children will not deny us romance altogether. After all, they must remember that we are old, and not as clear-minded and emotionally antiseptic as they; we must be indulged in our foibles.

Further we read: "Children as critics on public affairs are not yet in wide demand." Now this, in our opinion, is a pity; we think that public affairs, more than any other sphere, needs child critics. It is a realm where there is plenty of action, plenty of fantasy, and plenty to criticize. We put forward the establishment of a Junior Press Gallery at Ottawa as one of the many plans to be translated into reality at the close of the present war.

A Stricter Censorship

There is to be a stricter censorship in Canada we learn; its purpose is to prevent news and information from reaching the enemy which might be of use to him. Such matters as the location of factories and other important centres, and the state of war production generally, will be closely guarded.

No one will object to this, though there may be a feeling in some quarters that the official silence about war production might be used to disguise inefficiency in that quarter. There has been some official assurance, however, that guarded reports, so expressed as to be of little use to the enemy, will be made public from time to time. As the enemy probably keeps himself better informed about our war production than most of us are able to do, the reports will have to be mysterious indeed, but we doubt if anxiety on this score is well-founded. Too many critics of the Government appear to think that the gentlemen at Ottawa are anxious to lose the war, which is certainly not true.

The only objectionable censorship is the sort which has been in action in Germany since the rise to power of Hitler; that is censorship of opinion and criticism. There has been nothing of this kind in Canada nor is it likely to appear; such ideas simply do not occur to Canadians, and if they were to do so they would have to do battle with the press The present system is one which allows the press to censor itself, and so far it has worked very well. No Canadian newspaper or magazine is anxious to spill any secrets which will be useful to the enemy, though there are many which disapprove of the Government and do not hesitate to say so. But it is clearly understood that such newspapers disagree merely upon matters of policy, and not upon matters of principle and that they exercise their right of free criticism to help and not to hinder the prosecution of the war. In this connection it may be observed that in the past Government departments have, knowingly or inadvertently, revealed things which newspapers were forbidden to publish.

In our opinion, this is the moment to begin an intensified campaign against indiscreet talking. Although posters and other means of spreading information and counsel have made it clear that war workers, soldiers and other members of the armed forces, and their sisters and their cousins and their aunts should be very cautious about spreading information, however meagre, which might help the enemy, it is only necessary to listen in any public place in order to hear plenty of talk which an enemy agent would find most interesting. No details are too small to be useful to spies, and there are undoubtedly spies about. Don't expect them to look like spies; don't expect them to be furtive men with foreign accents and false whiskers; don't even expect them to be strangers. Our advice to everyone who knows anything at all about the war effort is best summed up in the words of an English poster, which shows a small man standing beside his enormous wife: "BE LIKE DAD—KEEP MUM."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Perhaps the French at Vichy are playing host because they do not want to play hostage.

Canadians must now have a license to export onions. Trying to keep all our available strength at home, obviously.

Says the London Free Press: "What this country needs is more people who get behind their work and fewer people who just get behind."

An 18-year-old Toronto girl robbed a man of six $100 bills. In these times you have to give a girl credit who finds a man with that much loose cash.

Mr. F. R. Oliver, Provincial Welfare Minister, says that there are 500 deserted wives in Toronto. Too bad! But we share the curiosity of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, which would like to have some figures on the number of deserted husbands.

"Australian women are so much like American women that I feel quite at home," says Mrs. Douglas MacArthur. And Australian girls are so much like American girls that hundreds of American soldiers are making themselves at home, too.

This is the time of year when it is as well to warn children, and a few adults also, that wild flowers fade and die very shortly after they are plucked; the wise thing to do is to leave them in the woods where they look their best, and where they will ensure a plentiful growth in the future. It would be a pity to kill off the wild flowers merely in order to give ourselves a few moments of pleasure.

UNHAPPY FAR-OFF THINGS

Out of my heart
the bird of time will not depart
but sits and sings
of old, unhappy, far-off things
and remembered Springs.

He will not depart,
this bird of time,
with quietly folded wings;
and whence he came or why he will not go,
I do not know.

The years drift by like phantoms in a rain, and still he sits and sings
of old, unhappy, far-off things and lost delight and love and struggle and pain that will not be again.

A Master Of Power Politics

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IT is the folly and vanity of every age to imagine that its troubles are greater than those of any preceding era. An examination of history, however, seems to show that humanity is capable only of so much suffering and wickedness, and that this generous allowance is strained to its full capacity about once in every century. Europe suffered greatly in the last world war, and she suffers greatly now. It is fruitless to dispute whether this war is 'worse' than the last; in the final analysis the evil of wars expresses itself in the sufferings of individuals. A man can bear a hideous weight of misery for so long, and then he dies. If his capacity for suffering is reached, or almost reached, the war is suffering dreadful for him, and the disputes of historians will have no effect upon his anguish. Suffering is eternal, and no one age may claim to have increased its measure.

These prefatory remarks are the result of reading an unusually brilliant and interesting book by one of the most remarkable writers and thinkers of our day; it is Aldous Huxley's 'Grey Eminence." The book discusses the career and character of one of the most astonishing power politicians who ever lived; he was Francois Leclerc du Tremblay, who was born a French nobleman, became a Capuchin monk under the name of Father Joseph, and who served for many years as the confidant of Cardinal Richelieu and the foreign secretary of Louis XIII of France. To most of us, Richelieu is the dominant Frenchman of his period, but it was Father Joseph who, to a great extent, dominated Richelieu. The reason? Because Richelieu was a worldly man with a worldly man's faults; Father Joseph was an unworldly man, and dangerous as only an unworldly man can be.

BUT how can an unworldly man be dangerous? Very simply. Father Joseph wanted nothing for himself; he lived a life of great austerity, spending many hours each day in meditation and prayer, observing four lenten fasts a year, and concentrating all his singular energies upon one thing. That thing was the welfare of France. He loved God above all things, and he loved France almost as much. Was it remarkable then that he should confuse the good of France with the Will of God? Certainly that is what he did, and in so doing he was responsible for the prolongation of one of the most disastrous and bloody wars in all history, that which is known to us as the Thirty Years War.

A discussion of the many complex issues of the Thirty Years War is inappropriate in a column of this sort. What matters is that the prolongation of that war weakened the Hapsburgs and strengthened the Bourbons, and the strengthening of the Bourbon French power was, in the eyes of Father Joseph, God's way of bringing justice and right to Europe, and thus to the world. The battles of that appalling war swept back and forth, back and forth across Germany, involving forces from almost every great country. Joseph even allowed himself to countenance the fighting, on the French side, of Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, for although the Swedish King was a Protestant the Capuchin felt that his service would be acceptable to God in a good cause. The misery brought about by this war was indescribable; starvation was everywhere, and cannibalism became common among the peasants. Hordes of dispossessed wretches roamed through Europe, pillaging villages and dying like flies outside the walls of the strongly defended cities. The soldiers, sated with brutality, eventually came to like it, and killing for fun succeeded killing for a cause. A notable feature of this war was the frightful seige of La Rochelle, the Huguenot city which was starved from a population of twenty-five thousand to a miserable five thousand before it capitulated. There were many times when Richelieu could have brought it to a close, and might have done so save for the inflexible opposition of Father Joseph.

HOW did this gentle mystic, who founded the order of Calvarian nuns, reconcile power politics with his priestly vocation? That is what Aldous Huxley does his best to explain, and so far as this reviewer is concerned he makes a brilliant job of it. He probes into the system of spiritual training which the Capuchin learned and practiced diligently all his life, and he tries to put his finger on the spot where Father Joseph succumbed to worldly temptation. As Huxley insists, no common temptation would lure such a man as this from the path of righteousness, but it was a temptation suited to his phenomenal spiritual and mental powers which turned Joseph into one of the most powerful and most hated men in Europe.

Of late years this gifted English author, who was once the sprightliest and most sardonic of the post-war novelists, has turned his thoughts toward spiritual and metaphysical problems. He seems to have studied all the ways in which men strive toward God, and his books reflect great sympathy with that striving. But Huxley is no mystic as yet. He is still full of the Old Adam, and it comes out in his writing with startling effect. In this present book his discussion and exposition of the technique of mysticism is lucid and brilliant, and his speculation on the character of Father Joseph is at once sympathetic and penetrating. But his treatment of the theme of Cardinal Richelieu's piles, for instance, is downright ribald and highly entertaining. However mystical Huxley has become he has not forgotten how to tickle the public. And as for Father Joseph, our modern dictators could still learn a thing or two about ruthlessness from him.

• West, Road to Quick Win

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—It is conceivable that the unheralded arrival of an American bomber in Siberia, fresh from blasting Japanese targets, was doubly welcome to the Russians.

Ship and crew were promptly interned, according to Kuibyshev accounts. That was an exercise of the common law of war governing neutrals. It gave the Soviet Union opportunity to demonstrate to Tokyo its present aloofness from the Pacific conflict, although at the same time it is a leading member of the United Nations anti-Axis fraternity.

Those interned American bombardiers enjoy a unique status.

They are at once nominally unwelcome visitors and honored Allied guests in Russia. Had they come by the front, not the back door, they would have been uproariously received. It is to be assumed that the restrictions of internment will rest lightly upon them.

The incident, although it only adds to the mystery of the how and why of the bombing of Japanese cities and increases Japanese puzzlement, serves another purpose. It strongly underscores Lord Beaverbrook's revelation in New York of a British public "passion" for opening a "second front" against Germany.

One purpose of Lord Beaverbrook's speech naturally was to contribute to Nazi jitters over the possibility of British or British-American invasion of Western Europe. British Commando raids and air battering of coastal targets already furnish a diversion which may have a marked effect on Nazi plans.

Lord Beaverbrook stated furthermore the most optimistic concept of war possibilities implicit in British-American grand strategy. He pointed out that it is in Russia, and nowhere else on a battle front that girdles the globe, that a possibility exists of ending the war in a few months instead of years.

"Russia may settle the war for us in 1942," Lord Beaverbrook said. "By holding the Germans in check, possibly even by deefating them, the Russians may be the means of bringing the whole Axis structure down.

"This is a chance, an opportunity to bring the war to an end here and now. But if the Russians are defeated and driven out of the war, never will such a chance come to us again."

That, in a nutshell, is the explanation of the otherwise unaccountable fact that neither Washington nor London seems at any time to have urged Russia to rupture her unnatural neutrality toward Japan. Even limited Russian intervention in the Pacific would go far to ease the threat to India and Australia. Siberian bases could afford opportunity for American air power to make the bombing of Tokyo and Japanese industrial centres a savage business, not the mere token affair it is as yet.

But war with Japan might critically detract from Russian effectiveness against Germany and her western allies, and it is there that the only road to a possible quick victory lies.

Letters To The Editor

THE PLEBISCITE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I have been reading and hearing so much of late about the coming plebiscite I thought I'd like to voice my thoughts of it.

As I see it if we vote Yes it means our Canadian boys will be sent to England, Ireland, Scotland, Africa or what have you. That may be a very nice thing for the powers that be to do. On the other hand if all our fine young men leave Canada and we are attacked on the East or West coast just where do these boys, mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers who are left at home without much protection come out at. Did any of these big shots that are running all over the city and country telling people to vote Yes. Ever stop to think of that.

In other words if you buy out of town and I buy out of town what will become of our town. That's what the plebiscite amounts to. Hoping to see Canada and Canadians protected by a majority NO votes on Monday next.

RONALD R. JOHNSTON.

MARK YOUR BALLOT WITH AN X

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Referring to the item in The Examiner of April 22nd, it may be of some use to citizens voting on Monday to know of some reason why ballots may be rejected as improperly marked. Firstly ballots not marked in either space after the words "Yes" or "No." Secondly, ballots marked otherwise than with a cross, e.g., with a circle, a straight line or any figure other than a cross. Thirdly, any ballot paper which is properly marked with a cross but has added it any additional voluntary mark, or any writing, whether initials, names or words. Finally if a pencil has been provided, ballots marked with ink or colored pencil must be rejected by the D.R.O.

C. H. I.

BLAMING QUEBEC

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—There is no time like the immediate future to fix responsibility especially political responsibility. Considering this plebiscite would not have to take place were it not for the political influence of the people of the Province of Quebec.

Again considering the cost of the plebiscite, just at a time when we need to conserve, I suggest that under the circumstances, that should the "Yes" votes in Quebec show a minority and all other provinces in Canada show a majority of "Yes" votes, that the Government of the Province of Quebec be charged with the total national cost of this plebiscite on April 27, 1942.

Yours for "Yes" for Victory,
W. H. D. ARISS,

A Bible Message For Today . . .

God who commandeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him.

For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life. And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.—Rom. v, 8-11.

Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. And all things are of God, who hath recommended us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation; to wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them: and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.—II Cor. v, 17-20.

Glover Urges Electors To Vote "Yes"

R. M. Glover, Liberal candidate in the last Federal election in Peterborough West addressed the constituency by radio on Friday evening, when he spoke on the forthcoming plebiscite and strongly urged that everyone regard it as a personal responsibility to go to the polls on Monday, and mark the ballot "yes."

His radio address was as follows:

"I wish to address you briefly on the subject of the coming plebiscite. I do so not from the standpoint of a politician, but from the standpoint of a free Canadian citizen.

"You will recollect that in the last election conscription for overseas service was not initial. All parties and all candidates, agreed that they were opposed to conscription for overseas service. All parties and all candidates gave their assurance and pledge to the people that they were so opposed. Much has happened since then and the government has undertaken to submit to the electors the question whether they, the electors, are willing to release the government from the pledges it gave to the people.

"The question is not a political one, in the sense that people from all parties are urging that the government be released from its pledges and thus enabled to deal with the question as conditions demand."

Danger Of Attack

"When we consider the vast amount of territory that has been overrun by the Axis powers and which is now subject to their control, we realize how seriuos the conditions are that confront us. No thinking man or woman can still believe that we ourselves are not open to attack from the enemy. When we realize how quickly Japan has attacked and conquered parts of the world that we considered impregnable we must surely believe that we ourselves may yet have to face all the horrors of war, unless we do everything in our power to avert such a catastrophe.

"It is vitally essential that we vote "yes," on this question submitted. By doing so, we will enable the government to take the full responsibility of deciding when and how our country, can best contribute to the downfall of the enemy, whether it be on our own shores or in any part of the world. This duty the government must then assume, if the majority vote in favour of releasing it from its pledges.

"Peterborough and district have never failed to show their patriotism and love of freedom, whenever the opportunity arose or whenever duty demanded it. I feel certain that without any urging, the electors will turn out to vote in favor of releasing the government from its pledges at the forthcoming plebiscite.

"We cannot help but feel that this is the greatest crisis the world has ever faced and that so far as Canada is concerned, that Germany would rather have this country than all the rest of the countries she has conquered, and the seriouness of the situation, demands that every one of us takes a part in the defence of the free peoples of the world, who have a desire to make their own laws, live their own lives and worship as their conscience dictates.

Everyone Must Vote

A part you and I can play that will be of great significance will be to vote "yes" for the plebiscite. Sentiment here is greatly in its favor, but anxiety is felt that some may not take advanatge of the opportunity to record their vote, through complacency, the feeling they cannot take the time, that theirs is only one vote and will not be missed, or maybe for other reasons.

"You should let nothing stand in the way of your getting to the polls on this momentous occasion, even if the usual facilities offered at an election are not available. The notice the enumerator left with you designates your polling booth—retain it for reference.

"We all should feel that this is the most important decision we have made in our lifetime, greater than the selection of a representative to any office, bigger than our own personal or political feelings, and if we have, up to the present done very little that might be considered as part of the war effort, let us retrieve ourselves by voting "yes" to this question.

"It is not my purpose to tell you how to vote, this is not necessary, you are just as patriotic, have just as much knowledge and understanding of the seriousness of the situation as I have, but I am hoping that you will take every pains to cast your ballot in the affirmative and roll up a tremendous majority for the plebiscite on the 27th, which will be appreciated by everyone who has volunteered for service anywhere.

"Vote 'YES' so that we may continue to be free Canadian citizens."

Married Fifty Years Ago In Otonabee

MR AND MRS HUGH WILLIAM GILLESPIE OF BEAMSVILLE

The anniversary of their wedding was Sunday, April 19. Mrs. Gillespie was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Redpath of Otonabee. Mr. Gillespie is a brother of G. A. Gillespie of Peterborough and Peter Gillespie of Keene. One of their grandsons is shown with them in the picture taken on Sunday last.

Born In Otonabee Couple 50 Years Wed

Both born in Otonabee Township, August 19, 1865, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh William Gillespie quietly observed the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding last Sunday at their home near Grimsby Beach in Clinton Township. They lived in their youth only a few miles apart near Keene.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Gillespie was Elizabeth Redpath, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Redpath. The marriage was solemnized on April 19, 1892, at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Francis Andrews, minister of Keene Presbyterian Church for 51 years.

In 1896 Mr. Gillespie entered the employ of the Dominion Government when work was begun on the construction of the Peterborough Lift Lock, and later was in charge of its operation until 1911. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie moved to their present home in 1914, and formed a wide circle of friends in the Grimsby Beach district. They are members of Beamsville United Church. They have two sons: Robert of Clinton township, and Walter S., now serving with the Royal Canadian Air Force. A third son, William Henry, died a few years ago.

George A. Gillespie of this city, accompanied by his wife, visited the jubilarians last Sunday.

A place in the top flight of three was reserved for this week's war sales with $235 in War Savings Stamps and $556 in Certificates combined to cop third place in the sales of 1941-2 with a total of $791. First position is held by the all-time high of $1,603 on March 10 and runner-up is the $912 sale on November 11.

About eight weeks remain in which students will be able to purchase stamps and certificates at the Collegiate so let us make a special effort and put the grand total over the $40,000 mark. An average sale of over $300 a week will do the trick so go to it!

Cadets: Act One

A gruelling week of drill has just passed and already forecasts are being made regarding the probable best company of 1942. All this may be wishful thinking but the officers are doing their best to make it a recognized fact—for proof it is necessary only to watch the corps any time during drill. Under the penetrating eyes of Instructors Bamforth and Sergeant-Majors Griffin and Chate the officers are steadily unravelling the loose threads in their respective companies and will soon begin to knit them into a compact unit to flaunt before the inspecting officers on May 8. No adequate solution has yet been found that will relieve the congestion as several squads converge on one spot. The other day we heard an officer (?) yell the following command at his dumbfounded charges—"Company will move to the left—right wheel!" That is but one of of the many hitches that occur prior to inspection but when the DAY arrives—Ahhhhh, just wait and see!

It is being whispered about that the guard under the command of Cadet-Major "Tip" Taylor is destined to sweep away all opposition this year. This unit has finally been brought up to date and will employ the same routine in the changing of the guard as is used by the free armies of the world. A considerable strength increase is noted this year thus adding to the impressiveness of their display. Every night the enraptured feminine onlookers gaze at the spectacle of a lone member of the guard parading monotonously up and down the field and wonder just exactly what he is supposed to be doing. All this and many other things will be explained on inspection day. Sergeant-Major Chate is supervising the training of the guard and machine-like precision is rapidly being attained.

Drum-Major Lloyd Routly is subjecting the Bugle Band to a strenuous program and hopes to dwarf last year's display by the new routines conceived this year. Each day the band goes on a route march with time out for a "coke" if the weather warrants this action. The bass drummer is working under a handicap at present since his drum is only operating at 50 per cent efficiency.

Little mystery surrounds the question of cadettes since it is now apparent that the girls will not appear on parade this year unless drastic action is taken next week. As it stands the girls are dismissed one half hour before the boys on Tuesdays and Thursdays to uphold the morale of the battalion.

Cadet Colonel George Richardson will have as his Second-in-Command Cadet Major Stu Saunders. Adjutant is Tom Lillico and with these three boys lies the final responsibility for the battalion's appearance at inspection. Names of company commanders, etc., are not yet available but we'll publish them for sure next week.

The uniforms will be distributed next week under the direction of Quartermaster Captain "Pat" Ferguson and assistants. Note—Cadets are politely requested NOT to paint the back fence or clean out the coal bin while wearing the grey pants of the cadet corps. It is also unwise to clean bugles and drums with the beret—for proof visit the Stores department in the basement.

Demonstrations

One week ago a champion typist visited the Collegiate and put on such a demonstration of typing for Commercial students that a new vim and vigour was noticed in their typing this week. Miss Irma Wright was the renowned visitor and held pupils spellbound by her speed and accuracy. She ran the gamut of typing speeds and styles and showed a remarkable acting ability as she illustrated the proper posture and manner of typing. From 30 words a minute to 138 words her technique was flawless. Miss Wright left her audience with a new desire to make good in typing and commercial work.

The pupils of Grades X A and X B Commercial are responsible for the paper mache masks on display on the main landing. These cleverly constructed masks are the result of much tedious work and might be put to good use by the cadet officers if the boys get unruly.

Sergeant-Pilot Doug Quirt is an exhibitor once again in the Camera Club showcase and this time it is a beautifully mounted enlargement of a scene on the Queen Elizabeth Highway between Toronto and Hamilton. "Winterset" as it is called, has evoked much favourable comment from ordinary admirers

Java Refugee Hesitates To Discuss War

GORE'S LANDING, April 25 — (ENS)—Tanned from the tropical sun and a Pacific Ocean voyage from the East Indies, Curtis Washburn arrived in Gore's Landing on Thursday afternoon, completing a trip from Java which commenced in February.

Mr. Washburn who was a chemist with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's plant located 40 miles from Batavia, Java, has been living there for the past six or seven years. Mrs. Washburn and 5-year-old John left Java last May when most of the women and children were evacuated.

Just prior to the Japanese invasion of Java, the American Consul made arrangement for the transportation of a group of Americans who were residents of Java.

A small inter-island ship which had been used as a cattle boat was commandeered and left the Port of Batavia on February 23rd, crowded with refugees. The boat steered a course through the Sunda Straits, a narrow strip of water between the western tip of Java and Sumatra. Immediately north of this area many ships were sunk.

The cattle boat was very slow, only making 7 to 8 knots and traversed the narrow Sunda Straits during the night. They emerged from the Straits at dawn. There was no cabin accommodation for the many people on board the small ship. Deck passage only was available. A number of women and children were aboard. Each traveller brought a mattress and blankets and slept in rows on the deck and between decks. The weather was fair and warm and the trip down the west coast of Australia to Bunbury was uneventful. The boat reached port March 5th.

Only one railraod connects Perth with Melbourne, Australia, and as it is used almost exclusively for military purposes, it proved quite difficult to obtain transportation. Perth was crowded with Americans and refugees, also military men and hotel accommodation was at a premium. Here, the Australians had an organization to handle the problem of room accommodation and assist travellers. Freemantle is the port for Perth which is an inland town.

The group of Americans from Java finally made the trip from Perth to Melbourne where crowded conditions again made hotel accommodation almost impossible to obtain. They made arrangements eventually for a boarding house during their stay.

From Melbourne, the travellers from Java, came home on a fast American transport and the voyage was again uneventful. Mr. Washburn said that all Americans who wished to return, were now out of this war zone.

Mrs. Washburn who has been staying with her small son at her parent's home, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ames, has been most generous this winter with various church organizations lecturing and showing pictures of Java. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn expect to return to Akron, Ohio on Sunday afternoon.

SUDBURY, April 25—(CP).—An inquest has been ordered into the death of Edward Broph, of Penetanguisene, who died last night in Copper Cliff Hospital after being crushed between two pots at the Copper Cliff smelter of the International Nickel Company. The accident occurred about 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Hardware Stock Used To Fight Fire

HASTINGS, April 25.—(ENS)—Sparks from a grass fire ignited the roof of A. J. McKenty's garage Friday at noon and only quick work on the part of a hastily formed bucket brigade saved it from serious damage. Stafford McKenty and Barry Kumpf were burning brush when they noticed flames licking through the roof of the garage which is a particularly large one.

Several men were soon on the roof and water from a near-by well was used to extinguish the flames. There was no lack of pails, as Mr. Kenty, who is a hardware merchant, lost no time in putting part of his stock to practical use.

As a result of the blaze, Fire Chief Fred Dodd has warned that every precaution should be taken when burning brush.

Abandon Hope For 17 Miners

BARNBOROUGH, England, April 25—(CP Cable).—Officials of the Barnborough main colliery said at noon today they feared there was no longer hope of extricating alive 17 miners trapped yesterday when a mine roof fell in after an unexplained explosion.

Rescue work, which had gone on in relays through the night, continued, however.

The only man who had been rescued so far, Matthew Fairhurst, said he was buried to his shoulders by the cave-in but managed to crawl to safety. He said he heard no cry from the others who were in a seam where 700 men normally work.

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL SWIMMING TEAM WINS EXAMINER TROPHY

Two-Year Reign Central School Swimmers Stops

The two-year reign of Central School swimmers as interscholastic champions ended Friday night when Queen Mary swim team won the school title in the third annual meet in the Y.M.C.A. pool and captured The Examiner Trophy.

Queen Mary triumphed with a total score of 41 points, King Edward swimmers were second with 33, and Central, champions in 1941 and 1940, took third place with 32. Other teams scored as follows: King George, 15; Queen Alexandra, 13; Confederation and May's, 3; and Prince of Wales, 1.

Competition was keen and three records went by the boards while other marks were threatened.

Probably the best peofrmance of the night was in the thiteen years and under, 40-yard breast stroke event, in which Paul Welsh, good King George swimmer, cut four seconds off the record of 38 seconds set last year by Doug Plunkett, Prince of Wales. The pace set in this event was so fast that Bruce Braund, who finished second, and John Clarke in third place, both broke the old mark.

John Clarke, of the Queen Mary team, one of the individual stars of the program, knocked 2: 2-5 seconds off the record in the thirteen and under 40 yards free style event, covering the distance in 25.2 seconds. The former record waws 27:4-5 seconds, established by J. Harrison of Confederation and May's two years ago.

The third record to be shattered was in the eleven and under 20 yards breast stroke contest in which Hugh Dibben of King Edward won in 17.3 seconds. The old mark was 18:3-5 seconds set up a year ago by Paul Welsh. Dibben swam the first heat three seconds faster than that, covering the distance in 17 seconds flat.

The Examiner trophy, in the unavoidable absence of H. L. Garner, was presented to the winning team by Don Munro of Central, John Clarke receiving the cup on behalf of the champion Queen Mary swimmers. Following were the results:

Favor Mioland Over Challedon In $10,000 Race

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 25.—(AP)—East meets west today in the $10,000 added Philadelphia Handicap, with Challedon and Mioland trying to show the racing world they're not on the skids for keeps but have only temporarily misplaced their championship stuff.

Maryland-bred Challedon, owned by W. L. Brann, and Oregon-bred Mioland, owned by Charles S. Howard, ran creditable races their last time out, both finishing second, but during the winter season neither displayed much evidence of his old-time winning habits.

A year ago, Mioland was burning up the West, with ailing Challedon among his victims. Challedon, sixth among the world's leading money-earners with $324,935, was the "horse of the year" in 1939-40, but was shelved last year after suffering an injury.

When the war blacked out West Coast racing last winter, both went to Florida. They ran well, but not like champions. Mioland, packing 124 pounds to Challedon's 122, is ruled a slight favorite in the mile-and-one-sixteenth Philadelphia affair, which drew eight overnight entries, incuding Challedon's stablemate, Pictor, a doubtful starter.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

TORONTO, April 25—(CP)—For the first time in his long and distinguished career, Eddie Shore has found his hockey fame a liability.

The big, bluff and balding one has tried to join the Royal Canadian Air Force several times since the war started, but his 20 years of hockey have made him so well known that he can't fool recruiting officers about his age.

Turned down at one recruiting centre in Edmonton a few days ago, Shore went to higher officers to try for reconsideration of his application. The first officer he asked took one look at him, then said: "Didn't I see you playing hockey 20 years ago?" Shore had to admit 'twas true.

Eddie may make the services in some capacity yet. He learned to fly in Edmonton about 10 years ago, and is back home in the Northern Alberta city after piloting Springfield Indians through a successful American Hockey League season.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The third annual interscholastic swim meet held last night in the Y.M.C.A. pool was a gratifying success, with keen competition, plenty of entries and three records shattered. Queen Mary swimmers are the 1942 champions. They captured the title in convincing style with a total of 41 points, with King Edward with 33 and the two-year champs, Central, with 32 supplying most of the opposition. The annual meet, started two years ago by Ham Gosse, now in Windsor and carried on since by Gord Minty has developed into an institution. Interest is increasing each year and the competition is proving a splendid stimulus to swimming among the school age boys, with the result that the sport, under the expert coaching of Gord Minty and his staff of assistants, is developing fast and on sound lines. It is safe to say that there are many more expert swimmers in the tadpole divisions that there eyer were in the city's history and the annual school competition has played a large part in that gratifying result.

Young Paul Welsh of the King George School was one of the record-breakers last night, setting up a new mark in the thirteen years and under 40 yards back stroke. Shattering a record was no new experience for this clever young swimmer. Two years ago in the ten-year-old group he established a record of 14 3-5 in the 20 yards free style event and that mark still stands. Last year he moved up into the eleven and under class and promptly set up new records in the 40 yards free style and the 20 yards back stroke. The first of these records is still unbroken but his performance of 18:3-5 seconds seconds in the back stroke competition was surpassed last night by Hugh Dibben of King Edward who lowered the mark to 17:3-5 seconds. However, by reason of his success in the thirteen and under 40 yards back stroke event last night Welsh still holds three school records.

Writing to his brother-in-law Fred C. Scates, Corp. Gord Wood who is in England with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, says that the boys are missing their hockey across the pond, although they have been listening to rebroadcasts of the N.H.L. games. Wood said that on the afternoon he was writing he had heard the broadcast of the fourth playoff game between the New York Rangers and the Leafs. "We miss the hockey over here," the letter states. "We saw quite a lot of good hockey last winter in Truro. They had some good games in the divisional playoffs. We had a unit soccer team in the divisional group this year. They finished as runners-up with the Canadian Scottish taking the championship. The boys from Peterborough you'd probably know on the team were Jack McMaster, Tommy Foster, Jim Buchan and Art Downer."

Increase Their Lead

New York Yanks increased their lead in the American League race yesterday when they staged a seven-run rally in the ninth to beat the Boston Red Sox 8 to 5 and jumped further out in front of the Croninites. Heber Newsome who has won two games for the Sox tried to get away with it until the Yanks' surge in the final frame. Previous to that big inning homers by Bobby Doerr and Dom DiMaggio had given the Red Sox a lead. Joe Gordon contributed a circuit clout for the Yanks in the ninth. However while New York were shaking off the Boston opposition the smoothly-working Cleveland Indians, thanks to a fine four-hit pitching job by the veteran Mel Harder were keeping pace with the Yanks by taking a 2 to 0 win over the St. Louis Browns. Denny Galehouse was on the mound for the Brownies and was not hit hard but the single runs nicked off his delivery in the fifth and sixth were enough to beat him.

Home runs told the whole story in a tight battle between Detroit and the Chicago White Sox which the Tigers, although outhit took 2 to 1. Rudy York hit a homer for the Detroiters in the seventh to put his club in front. Kolloway hammered one in the eighth for Chicago to tie up the game and then rookie Patrick came through with a round tripper in the final frame to give the Tigers their win. Smith held the winners to four hits. Phil Marchildon picked up his second win of the campaign when the Penetang product bobbed up with a neat four-hitter against the Washington Senators, the A's taking the decision by 7 to 2. He was pitted against the veteran Buck Newsom. One of the four Senator hits was a homer by Estalella.

Brooklyn's winning parade was stopped when the Phillies came through with a 4 to 2 win in one of the feature games on the National League card. Kirby Higbe was on the mound for the losers but was no particular mystery, yielding 11 hits, including a homer by Litwhiler. Hurst held the Dodgers to five hits in a nice pitching effort. The Chicago Cubs jumped on St. Louis Cards' young ace Howard Pollett with a three-run attack in the first inning and added another in the third. The four runs were enough to win. The Cards managed to get two of them back off Schmitz in the seventh and Walker Cooper homered in the eighth. However Pressnell took over the pitching burden then and saved the ball game for the Cubs. Cincinnati Reds triumphed over Pittsburg in a game that was featured by a parade of battery men and New York in spite of being held to four hits defeated Boston 3 to 1, thanks to Rookie Marshall's home run in the fourth with Manager Mel Ott on the bases. It's getting to be a habit with Marshall.

Ken Colling of Belleville who was elected to the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association at the annual meeting last week sends along a copy of the ambitious six-year development plan proposed by President Ward of Niagara Falls to put baseball back on its feet in this province. The scheme is a comprehensive one, dividing Ontario into 15 districts, each of which would be under the direction of a district convener and then grouping the districts under the control of an O.B.A. executive officer. Ken Colling, under this plan would have charge of districts 13 and 14, comprising Ontario, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties. Every available means of encouraging baseball starting in the school age groups and all the way up through the 'teen age divisions would be tried out under the plan. It is a move that is badly needed if baseball is to be kept alive. Certainly Mr. Colling will find plenty of room for missionary work in his own group. There never was a time since the O.B.A. was launched when the ball situation in this part of the province was so lamentable.

Softball enthusiasts are reminded that there will be two important meetings on Monday night. The City Softball League will meet at the Duffus Bowling Alleys at 8 o'clock to reorganize for the season and all clubs which intended to enter this season are invited to have delegates present. It is hoped to elect officers and get plans for the coming season well under way. So far only the Military camp and the Peterborough Hockey Club have announced their intentions of entering the loop but two or three other local teams will probably materialize. It is possible the local juvenile team may enter in order to get the benefit of practice all season, ready for the playoffs. The Church Softball League will also meet Monday night, the meeting to get under way at the Y.M. C.A. at 7 o'clock. A full representation of teams is requested for this important session.

He batted in five runs against the Pittsburg Pirates yesterday....This rookie Willard Marshall with the New York Giants certainly looks like one of the finds of the year....Jack Chappie Blackburn, trainer of Joe Louis and given much credit for the sensational success of the Brown Bomber is dead at Chicago, following an attack of pneumonia.

Baseball Upset

This fan overreached himself when he tried to lay hands on a ball that fell near the wall behind third base at Fenway Park during a game between the Red Sox and Athletics. Thanks to the ability of his pants to withstand the strain put on them, an usher was able to haul him back right side up. But the incident was good for a laugh.

Carpetballers To Entertain Wives

On Thursday evening next members of the City Carpetball League will entertain their wives and friends at cards and other fun as a close for the season's activities. It will also be the occasion for awarding the trophies and prizes to the winning teams.

The season has been one of real good sportsmanship with every team giving of its best and taking their losses with a smile.

We regret to think that an error was made in announcing the standings of the Fire Hall teams. The Mad Masons P.F.D. No. 8 are winners of the third prize, whilst the Smoke Eaters P.F.D. No. 7 win the Elsie Bennett Trophy for the highest rolling average outside of the prize-winners.

It is hoped that every member will attend the social evening on Thursday in the Paragon Hall at 8 o'clock, and bring your wife or sweetheart with you. Skips will be notified of other arrangements.

We note that the games between the Moose and the Old Soldiers were played out with the result the Moose garnered 7 points out of 8, and jumped ahead of the Auto Tops in the league standing.

The final game for the President's Cup will be played on Wednesday evening, April 29, in the Moose Hall when the Westclox Alarms will do their best to ring up the changes against the Auto Top gang who will be out to smother the big noise. Any way, we are picking the vice-president, E. Holden, as one referee to be assisted by Clarence Crouter.

On Friday of this week the Mad Masons were put into a straight-jacket by the Auto Top gang. It was a pity to see such an excellent team treated that way. But it was a case of emergency that was well handled by some real A.R.P. Workers. The rolling of Jack Ridyard on the losing team was good plus, but the leading Auto Topper was better. Les Groombridge certainly came through in good style, and received good support from Harry Wickenden who rolled second. Never mind, boys; we will get you out of the jacket in time to play next fall.

CLEVELAND INDIANS RIDING LONGEST WIN STREAK, MINUS FELLER

Old Mel Harder Blanks Browns 2 to 0

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Bob Feller enlisted in the navy last winter everybody agreed, more or less, that Cleveland Indians had lost their whole ball club.

This was a fine tribute to the great fast ball flinger, and at the time it was a sincere and considered appraisal of the Cleveland club.

But who do you suppose is panting at the backs of New York Yankees in the American League today. Well, it's no secret. The standings show the Indians boldly camped in second place just a game behind the world champions.

They are riding the crest of the biggest winning streak in the major leagues to date, six games, and the mound staff which was supposed to have vanished with the departure of Feller has turned in the most consistently well-pitched games in the big show.

Yesterday old Mel Harder, who was apparently washed up a year ago and was handed his outright release only to get back into harness this spring at the request of young Lou Boudreau, pitched a four-hit 2-0 shutout against St. Louis Browns.

The Yanks took care of giving Cleveland undisputed possession of second place by rallying for seven runs in the ninth inning to beat Boston Red Sox 8-5.

Phil Marchildon pitched a four-hit game to lead Philadelphia Athletics to a 7-2 triumph over Washington Senators.

Win For Marchildon.

The Penetanguishene product yielded a two-run homer by Bobby Estalella in the second but coasted in after that for his second victory of the season.

The A's clubbed steadily at the offerings of big Buck Newsom. A three-run third inning uprising was featured by Mike Kreevich's double and Lou Blair's three-bagger.

However, four-hit pitching was not good enough to get Edgar Smith and Chicago White Sox a victory over Detroit. The Tigers won 2-1 in a game in which all the scoring was on home runs—one for Chicago by Don Kolloway and two for the Tigers by Rudy York and Bob Patrick. Patrick's blow was the payoff and came with two out in the ninth inning.

Four-hit pitching was not good enough to win for Boston Braves, either, against New York Giants. One of the hits was a two-run homer by Rookie Willard Marshall and the Giants won 3-1 on the eight-hit work of Cliff Melton.

The Phils, of all people, broke up a five-game winning streak for Brooklyn Dodgers, although the interruption did not affect the National League champions' grip on first place.

Cincinnati found two four-run rallies better than one five-run flurry by Pittsburg and beat the Pirates 9-5. Frank McCormick drove in five runs with a homer and a double.

Chicago Cubs chased Howard Pollet with three runs on two hits, two walks and an error in the first inning and stopped St. Louis Cardinals 4-3, although outhit six to five.

Louis' Guiding Genius Blackburn Dies

CHICAGO, April 25 — (AP). — Jack (Chappie) Blackburn, the guiding genius behind champion Joe Louis' sensational ring career, died yesterday.

One of the outstanding negro trainers of the prize ring and himself one of the greatest defensive fighters who ever lived Blackburn was regarded on the road to recovery after a siege of pneumonia. Convalescing at home the last three weeks, he had gone for an automobile ride on Wednesday and had planned another on Sunday. A few minutes before noon yesterday, however, he was stricken and died, apparently from a heart ailment. He was 56 years old.

Blackburn became Louis' trainer soon after the Brown Bomber turned professional, guided him to an eight-round knockout and championship victory over Jim Braddock in 1937, and had been in Joe's corner in every fight since until he became ill with pneumonia shortly before the Abe Simon bout. March 17.

On that occasion Louis made no secret that he had to win for "Chappie," is he affectionately referred to his trainer. Joe did in six rounds, then stepped to the radio and said: 'I hope you're satisfied Chappie."

A big grin and "I sure am' was Blackburn's response here where he listened to the account from his hospital bed.

Blackburn, also called Louis' "Mr. Brain," guided Joe through twenty successful title defences. Previously he had trained such ranking fighters as Sammy Mandell, Bud Taylor, and John Henry Lewis.

Blackburn himself fought as a lightweight from around 1900 until 1923. In that time he lost only two of his ninety-two fights, an amazing record and one which still prompts old-timers to recall how he "could stand up in front of another man and pick punches off all night."

His first defeat came in 1904 from the great Joe Ganos; his second in 1923, against Roy Pelkey in Los Angeles, as Blackburn atempted a comeback.

Born in 1883 in Versailles, Ky., as Charles Henry Blackburn he is survived by his widow, Laura; a stepson, a brother John of Indianapolis, and a sister.

Win By 3 Goals Says Flyers'

TORONTO April 25 — (CP). — Last words of the coaches before to-night's Allan Cup hockey battle:

Bill Touhey of Ottawa R.C.A.F. Flyers: "We should win by at least three goals."

Hugh O'Leary of Port Arthur eBarcats: "We stand an even chance of taking that cup back home."

Betting support favors the Flyers, even though they lost a 4-3 devision in the first appearance of the teams here last Wednesday. The latest odds made the Ottawa club 17-10 favorites.

The only thing definite about this fifth and final game for the national senior championship is the crowd. It will be huge and Maple Leaf Garden officials look for an attendance of 14,000.

One of the big differences between the clubs is in defence. Bearcats have better defence material than Flyers and their forwards are well-coached in defensive tactics.

This edge in defence—including the goal position—is Port Arthur's only department of superiority over the Flyers and a failure here could fatal.

Bearcats in the Groove.

In the first two games, Ottawa drew their rivals into a type of open hockey at which Flyers excel. They scored seven goals in the first game and eight in the second to win both. But in the third Bearcats' defence started to click and they won. Its smooth operation continued into the fourth game and produced another victory.

Coach O'Leary, whose years of defence experience is mainly responsible for the work of the defence and also for the expert clearing of the Port forwards, closed out his pre-game statement as follows:

"As long as they go out and play heads-up hockey every minute I think my boys can turn the trick."

To which Touhey replied: "Our boys, in my opinion, possess just a little too much power and I think we should win going away with just an equal share of the breaks."

Probable lineups:

Pt. Arthur.	Position	Ottawa.
Dertell	Goal.	Pinke
B. Laprade Maki	Defence.	Murray Acheson
E. Laprade	Centre.	Schmidt
Koiviso Woochy	Wings.	Bauer Dumart

Leafs Cop Second Win Of Year Clip Birds 11-5

By The Canadian Press

Pitcher Johnny Babich of Newark Bears is beating his way back toward the majors by way of the International League.

Last season his arm went dead and Philadelphia Athletics traded him and Eric Tipton to New York Yankees for Buddy Blair. His salary wing failed to respond in spring training, and the Yankees shipped him to their Newark farm club.

Yesterday Johnny started against Rochester Red Wings and, although relieved by Walter Stewart, he received credit for his second victory of the year. The score was 6-4.

Toronto Maple Leafs won their second game of the year as Bill Brandt stopped a five-game Baltimore winning streak by pitching his team to an 11-5 verdict. John Wyrostek with a home run and four singles in six trips to the plate, and Al Rubeling with a home run and a triple in six attempts led the 17-hit attack on four Oriole hurlers. Bob Lemon hit a home run for the losers.

Syracuse Chiefs increased their league lead to one full game as Cuban Tom Delacruz defeated Montreal Royals 2-1. The lone Montreal run was a home run by Gene Moore.

Jersey City Giants had a three-run lead going into the ninth inning, but Buffalo Bisons shoved across five runs for a 7-5 triumph. Al Ott was the winning hurler.

Ed Kobesky of Buffalo hit a home run and a double in four trips to the plate.

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP)—Cleveland, which has become one of the best fight towns, is trying to book Lem Franklin vs. Sgt. Joe Muscato of Buffalo (Muscato's manager says he needs more experience), Anton Chirstofordidis vs. Ezzard Charles, the Cincinnati schoolboy whiz, and a 175-pound title match between Gus Lesnevich and Jimmy Bivins...Skeeter Newsome of the Red Sox says he wants to be a sports writer when he's through as a ball player. But he's already disqualifying himself by learning to pound a typewriter by the touch system.

Rasslin' Racket

After keeping Louisville wrestling fans steamed up for weeks over the question of his identity, Superman II (Bill Longson) revealed everything the other night when he stripped off his mask behind the referee's back and used it to choke his opponent...And they blame a "shooting match" for the decline of the once-lucrative Minneapolis mat market. Bronko Nagurski was heaved around by a kid named Gustafson and retired to sulk around the Canadian border country while Gustafson retired to the farm.

One-Man Team

Thomasburg, N.Y., high school kids, Donald Cline and Floyd Moon, who racked up 22 strikeouts in a seven-inning game the other day, don't have anything on Elden Moon of Scanton, Iowa, high...In another of those seven-inning tilts he fanned 17 batters, caught one pop fly, nabbed a runner off first and retired two others in grounders to figure in every putout.

Political Heads Advocate Yes; 7 In Quebec, No

By The Canadian Press

Support for an affirmative vote in next Monday's manpower plebiscite came in speeches and statements yesterday by a number of men prominent in Canadian politics.

A group of Liberal members of Parliament advocated a negative vote at a rally in Montreal organized by La Ligue pour la Defence du Canada. In Quebec province Premier Godbout issued a statement urging people to vote without advising them how to mark their ballots.

Mr. Godbout in his prepared statement said "Vote early and vote according to your conscience. Vote for the collective success of the national effort, for the triumph of our armies, for the victory of Canada, for peace in our homes and the liberty of conscience of our children."

The plebiscite question is: "Are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

At the Montreal rally under the auspices of La Ligue pour la Defence du Canada, seven Liberal members of Parliament called for a "No" vote. They were: Wilfred Lacroix (Quebec-Montmorency), J. A. Crete (St. Maurice-Lafleche), M. P. Lizotte (Kamouraska), Pierre Gauthier (Portneuf), Maxime Raymond (Beauharnois-Laprarie), J. E. S. E. D'Anjou (Rimouski, and Jean Francois Pouliot (Temiscouata).

Mr. Pouliot asserted if Ernest Lapoint (former Canadian Justice minister) were still alive, "there wouldn't be any question of either a plebiscite or conscription."

Unexpected Guest.

Ligouri Lacombe founder and sole member of the Canadian Party in the House of Commons, was an unscheduled speaker at the gathering.

Mr. Lacombe, who spoke to a diminished audience after the meeting was declared officially closed, said: "I denounce all of those who spoke here to-night except Mr. Lacroix and Mr. D'Anjou....I never do things by half measures. I have broken my last bond with these renegades who still remain closely linked to the Liberal Party."

Premier Thane Campbell of Prince Edward Island in an address broadcast over a Charlottetown radio station (CFCY) urged the people of the Island Province to vote "an emphatic and resounding 'Yes'" to strengthen the hands of the Dominion Government in prosecution of "our war effort.'

He was supported by Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan Conservative Leader in Prince Edward Island.

Two Alberta Cabinet ministers, Hon. Lucien Maynard, Municipal Affairs Minister, and Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, Health and Relief Minister, said at Edmonton they intend to vote "yes." Alfred Speakman, Leader of the Independent Group in the Alberta Legislature, said in a prepared statement he believed it was "the duty of every man in public life to take a clear and unmistakable stand in this matter" and he asked voters to go to the polls on Monday, "rain or shine, and to vote 'yes.'"

In Quebec Air Minister Power said in a broadcast address that an affirmative answer was "vitally essential" to success in the present war. Speaking in French and English over a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network, he declared that "when freedom itself is menaced, it becomes necessary to mobilize the whole power of the nation...."

In Quebec, Mrs. Georges P. Vanier, wife of Brig. Vanier, officer commanding Military District No. 5 (Quebec), in a radio address over Quebec staiton CHRC, said: "F[illegible] Canada's war effort has bee[illegible] mirable up to now," and adde[illegible] us not spoil it by a negati[illegible] in the plebiscite."

Seven tables of cards were played with the host and hostess donating the prizes, as is the usual custom at these Red Cross euchres.

Mr. W. T. Northey is opening his home for the party next Friday evening.

DOG GOES SHOPPING.

Even the dogs know a bargain when they see it. A nicely spotted hound came lopping down George Street, just above Charlotte, to a store emblazoned with sale notices. Pausing thoughtfully before the window, he hesitated, and then ambled in. After surveying the customers, he placidly dropped down beside the clerk awaiting his turn, while customers chuckled.

WIFE'E VETO.

"I made up my mind to join the Rangers and my wife talked me out of it." Such was the experience of a tradesman who was all set up to get himself a uniform. Perhaps his wife told him to wait a bit until a lot of the single men in soft and overblown jobs had been thumbed into the Army.

SURGE OF MARRIAGES.

Demand for marriage licences at the City Hall promises to sustain the surge of March, City Clerk Outram said this morning. "They're coming in in flocks," he remarked, and by "they" he meant the couples with that look about them which cynics might call "goofy" and others extol as evidence of infatuation, supposed to be a synonym for bliss and all that sort of thing. "We'll hardly hit a new peak for April, but we're more than holding our own."

RANGERS MARCH.

Heat or no heat, the Army's on the job. A large company of the Prince of Wales Rangers marched smartly down the main thoroughfare putting sweltering onlookers to shame. That's the way to do it.

CHURCH PARADE.

Members of the I.O.O.F. and Rebekah Lodges are holding their annual church parade to All Saints' Church on Sunday evening.

CURB NUISANCES

The number of curb oglers has not yet been affected by either gasoline or tire restrictions. These are not the people who have some proper business waiting in their cars along the main stem at night, but the groups of young men who leer and call at girls passing by. If they were standing on the street corners, Chief Newhall's men would quickly "shift them", but the rubber tires seem to give them some long standing immunity. Most girls resent them and wonder how long they have to tolerate these boobs.

HOME ON LEAVE.

Q.M.S. Wilfred Lebarr, of the Algonquin Rifles Regiment, who was seriously injured in a military motor vehicle accident at St. Catharines in January, is home on leave. He is still undergoing treatment, but is making a good recovery and looks pretty fit. His regiment has been posted to duties elsewhere since his mishap.

COFFEE CLUB VISITOR.

The "Senate" section of the coffee club had a distinguished visitor Saturday morning, when C. A. Salmonsen, former works manager of the C.G.E. Company, dropped in. Mr. Salmonsen flew from New York to Toronto on Friday, and took the night train to Peterborough for a brief visit with friends here.

REQUEST TO PUBLIC

The general public is requested not to telephone the office of the returning officer, Vincent Eastwood, Monday night for plebiscite results. Enquiries would only clutter the line and interfere with deputy returning officers sending in their poll votes. The Examiner will answer telephone calls and any way CHEX will broadcast the riding and national results.

Sons of England Donate $30 For War Victims

With a persistency that is truly a British characteristic, Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, year after year, has never failed to celebrate St. George's Day (April 23) in some way or other, and usually a banquet to mark the event as one part of its program. For the past two years this has been given up as not being consistent with helping the country to total war, and in its place has substituted a social evening, from which on both occasions the total proceeds (and more) have been given to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, to help along the cause of those who suffer from air raids in Britain.

By no means could this group be considered a large one, so their contribution through their secretary, W. G. Shiner, for $30, represents a really worth-while donation when one considers the size and number from whom they drew support. This marks the fourth time that they have contributed to this fund, in addition to which they have been giving generous support to their own particular Lodge Fund to help along the war effort. On Sunday night, by special invitation of the rector, Rev. E. C. Moore, of St. George's Anglican Church, they will attend a special St. George's Day service at 7 p.m. and members are asked to be there at 6.45 p.m. Dave Leether is the presiding officer of this group.

One nice personal donation for $5 is listed today, and the box at Buehlers Meat Shop on George street, under the car of Miss Royea the cashier, had accumulated $4.35 when collected by the secretary for the fund on Friday.

Marking their fourth effort for the fund, Mrs. P. Kitchen and Mrs. W. Townsley are today credited with another $22, raised by means of euchre parties held at the homes of Mrs. W. Townsley on Ware street, and Mrs. Head on Olive avenue. To date these good neighbors living at 58 and 60 Ware street have raised a total of $111 for the fund and future plans call for a continuance of this splendid work, with other euchre parties scheduled for the near future.

Including today's receipts the fund now lacks but $355 to make possible the 17th donation of £500, which will be cabled as soon as it is completed.

Previously acknowledged	$40,326.79
A friend	5.00
Box at Buehlers Meat Shop	4.35
Mrs. P. Kitchen and Mrs. W. Townsley, Ware street (4th donation)	22.00

18 Factories Making Cheese

W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, is talking in terms of a refrain as familiar as the song of the robins, and they put on a grand concert in the Thursday twilight evening.

Mr. Moore's theme song for 1942 is exactly the same as in 1941, except that he's swinging in a bit. The cheese season has begun earlier and with a bigger job facing it, and the whole spirit of the industry is attuned to the hopes and the determination of this spring.

"They're certainly making quite a lot of good cheese," he said this morning, and in that statement he had got a long way ahead of last announcements because only three or four factories were then in action.

"Around 18 factories in my district are now working, leaving three or four still to get the fires going. I expect they will begin taking milk by the middle of next week or May 1. We have begun even earlier than last year when everybody went out to make more cheese than ever. We are at least two weeks ahead of schedule, and we are starting off with good quality cheese, and everything's fine."

It is suspected that Mr. Moore was once a farmer, for he seems to watch the weather with a critical eye. Any way he wound up his report was the comment: "Yes, things are all right, but do you know we could do with a good shower of rain. It has been pretty dry these last couple of weeks, and the land has been drying fast. A nice shower right now . . . "

2,604 Women With Air Force

A question by G. K. Fraser, M.P., in the House of Commons, enquiring about the number of women who have enlisted in each of the branches of the services open to them was answered by departmental replies.

"So far as the Canadian Army is concerned the number is 52 officers and 2,115 other ranks as of March 18, 1942," was the information from the Department of National Defence.

"The total number of women who have enlisted in the Naval Service (nursing service): 2 matrons, 30 nursing sisters, 2 dietitians, total 34."

And in the Women's Division of the R.C.A., 2,604 women enlisted up to March 22, 1942.

Total enlistment in these divisions 4,753 women.

Polls Are Open Twelve Hours On Voting Day

If you are....

(a) A British subject;

(b) Twenty-one years of age;

And if you have been:

(c) A resident of Canada during the last twelve months.

If you come within these elementary bounds of citizenship it is your duty to vote Monday on the plebiscite.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Enumerators have prepared the voters list, and urban voters have been advised of the location of their polling places on the notices left at their dwellings by the enumerators.

Rural voters have been notified in the Notice to Voters posted in the post offices and should have been advised by the rural enumerators of the location of their polling places.

These are the requisite instructions to all voters, and it may be added that deputy returning officers have been instructed to telephone the results at their polls to the returning officer for the riding as soon as the count of ballots has been completed.

The National Question

The question which the Government of Canada is submitting to its citizens Monday is:

"Are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

The voter marks his or her ballot with an "X" in the space opposite the word "Yes"....or in the space opposite the word "No."

The final opportunity for those who vote at the advance poll, at the office of the returning officer, V. Eastwood, on the second floor of the Bank of Commerce Building, facing Water street, on Saturday (today) from 2 p.m. until 10 p.m.

The decision of the voters in this riding should be known before ten o'clock Monday night. The polls close at 8 p.m., and the returns from the city should be all in before 9 p.m.

Intelligent citizens should remember that the general elections in the spring of 1940 were held behind the false security of the once famous Maginot Line in France. Commitments given by the leaders of both the major political parties in regard to the sending of Canadian armed forces beyond the boundaries of this country have taken on a vastly different aspect since the Germans broke through at Sedan and overran France.

The electors of this county heard no ominous note of conscription in that election. The elected government asks for release from any obligation involved in the commitments it made in that campaign. That is the entire scope of the plebiscite.

Citizens who vote "Yes" are at least placing the responsibility for future action in the hands of the present government without any remnant echo or factor of equivocation regarding the means and the location of the lines of Canada's war action.

Farm Organization Demonstrates Value

"The Federation of Agriculture demonstrated its value again this week when it arranged that meeting of the beef cattle breeders and the Hon. Mr. Taggart in regard to continuing export" said H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, when he was here the other evening.

"That conference was arranged within two hours and everything was settled to meet Mr. Taggart because as farmers we had an organization that is geared for that sort of thing."

Mr. Hannam said the Federation would become just as strong as the sincere support of Canadian farmers made it, and they had already done pretty well in that direction.

Rangers Plan Parade To All Saints'

The first church parade of the Prince of Wales Rangers, active force battalion, will be held on Sunday morning, when Protestants will march to All Saint's Anglican church and Roman Catholics will parade to St. Peter's Cathedral. Protestants have been ordered to be at the armoury at 10.15 a.m. while Catholics will be at the armoury at 10 a.m. to march for 10.30 Mass. In each case, battle dress will be worn without belts and sidearms.

The longest route march of the Rangers took place this morning when the regiment went on a march to the rifle range on the old Norwood road with web equipment and rifles under Captain J. A. Morley. He has been teaching N.C.O's of the unit some of the principles of fieldcraft and it was with the intention of more vividly portraying this phase of modern warfare that the march was held. About the longest route march yet had by the ranks was three miles until today.

Major J. R. Bolton yesterday outlined to N.C.O.'s the organization and administration of a rifle company which is composed of three platoons. The previous day, he gave a lecture on the organization and administration of a rifle platoon. Needless to say, lectures given by the acting officer commanding are the highlights of the course since Major Bolton is well versed in all affairs of the battalion but in addition, he has a manner of deivering lectures which are well understood by the men.

Second-Lieut. (Qr. Mr.) H. Borland proceeded "On Command" to C.S.A.A., St. Marguerite, Que., and is attached there.

Incinerator Job "Booted" About

"What progress are you making with the incinerator job?" the Examiner asked Alderman Swanston, chairman of the property committee, this morning.

With a significant curl of his lip that seemed to imply a feeling of something more than impatience he answered: "Nothing."

Then he added: "You know that the council at the beginning of this month decided to ask the contractors to break down their contract price so that local men could tender on these sub-contracts, foundation and so on. The contractors, Francis Hanken Company, have done that. These details have been available for some time, but nothing has been done yet although the company wants to start the contract by May 18. The council instructed City Engineer Parsons to advertise for tenders for the subcontracts, but as far as I can find out, nothing has been done."

Nursing Registry Planned For Peterborough

Miss Madeline Baker, Reg. N., chairman of the General Nursing section of the Canadian Nurses Association and chairman of the registry committee of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario has recently spent a few days in Peterborough discussing the formation of a community nursing registry. The object of the registry is to provide and vouch for a high standard of nursing and auxiliary service which will adequately meet the needs of the homes of the community in times of illness; to centralize calls for such service from physicians, hospitals and the public and to provide to registrants the advantages offered by such an organization. Membership includes any nurse registered in Ontario and a member of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, male or female, properly qualified, subsidiary and auxilary workers such as practical nurses, orderlies and housekeepers, all properly qualified for their work.

A committee was appointed from members of the Registered Nurses Association, Chapter C, District 6 to study the advisability of developing a community registry in Peterborough. The following officers were appointed: Chairman, Miss Edith G. Young; vice-chairman, Mrs. Eva Brackenridge; secretary, Mrs. M. Rundle.

DOROTHY DIX

MARRIAGE NO PLACE FOR HALF-MEASURES

Twenty-eight-Year Old Man Should Wait Until He Finds Girl Who Reciprocates His Love

Dear Miss Dix.—Tell me which a man should marry: the woman he loves, or the woman who loves him? I have always wanted an exceptional girl, and now I have two of them at once. One is exceedingly clever and desirable, and the other is exceedingly dumb. The first one admires my ambition, my wit and intelligence as well as my independence, but I have not the physical appeal for her that she has for me, and at times she tramples upon me, while the one I cannot love grovels at my feet.

One girl entertains me, the other bores me to sickness, but the way she fawns upon me and the realness of her devotion soothes me. I am 28 and feel the need of the steadying influence of a wife. I am going to marry one of these two girls soon. Which shall it be?—Arthur.

Answer.—I think you will be miserable with either girl and I should certainly advise you to wait until you find the two-in-one young woman whom you will love and who will love you. Marriage is no place for half-portions or half-measures.

If you marry the girl whom you love better than she loves you, you will have an interesting but not a peaceful life. It will be full of thrills and jealousies. It will have its moments of ecstasy and of heartbreaks. It will keep you always on your tiptoes trying to win her. You will have the perpetual excitement of the chase that never ends. There will be no danger of your growing tired of her, or of domestic life ever palling upon you.

If you are ambitious and want to make a success, marry her, for she will be a perpetual goad in your side. She will inspire you to do the very best that is in you, because you will want to be laying tributes at her feet. They say there is a woman behind the door of every man's success. If there is, she is always a woman who does not love overmuch, always a woman whom he isn't certain of and whom he is trying to please.

I have often observed that the wives of rich men seldom seem to appreciate what they do for them, and they take the pearls and limousines that their husbands have worked so hard to give them with fewer thanks than many a woman gives for a bag of gumdrops. And I have thought that it was the indifference of these women that spurred their husbands on to success.

A Millstone Around Your Neck

If you marry the dull woman who lavishes all of her devotion on you, you will be so tired of her in a week that you will be ready to commit suicide. Nor will her love be the poultice you seem to think it is for your hurt vanity and wounded heart. Nothing else on earth is more distasteful to us than the devotion of those for whom we do not care. It is nauseating as being fed on a too-sweet pudding for which we have no relish.

Your Dumb Dora will kill your ambition and be a millstone around your neck, because you will feel that there is no use in making an effort to please a wife who doesn't want anything but you, anyways. Nobody chases a streetcar once they have caught it.

Even at 28 there is no rush about marrying. So why not put it off until you find the right one?

A Good Choice

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a widower, 57 year old, very much in love with a widow whom I consider my ideal in every way, but she is twenty years younger than I am. Do you think that the difference in our respective ages would be a bar to our happiness if we married? Do you think that we would stand a better chance of getting along and being happy together if neither one of us had ever been married?—A Widower.

Answer.—At your respective ages the difference of twenty years between you is negligible and not to be considered. In fact, a woman of 37, who has gone through the experience of wifehood and the sorrow of losing her husband, is to all intents and purpose as old as a man of 57.

It is madness for a woman to marry a man twenty years younger than herself, because women age so much more rapidly than men, but, everything else being suitable, there is no reason at all why a woman should not marry a man a score of years old than herself. In fact, it is a good choice, because then she is always his young wife, and she does not have to martyrize herself counting her calories and being tortured in beauty parlors trying to keep young and prevent his eyes from straying to flappers.

Certainly the fact that you have both been married before will not keep you from being happy together. Of course, you will miss the rapture, the romance and the circling wings of young love, but, on the other hand, you will escape the quarrelings and the misunderstandings and jealousies that torture the young.

Widows and widowers have been through the school of matrimony and it leaves them wise and disciplined, and this is why second marriages are proverbially happy.

A Cause For Peevishness

Dear Dorothy Dix.—Do you think I am a neglectful, heartless woman, not deserving the name of mother, because I feel that I am entitled to go to the movies once a week and leave my baby in competent hands? My husband says I can't go without taking the child, who is only five months old, and that spoils it for me and is bad for the child. This is the only recreation I have or want, and I feel I am entitled to it.—Mrs. P. W. B.

Answer.—You certainly are, and your husband is foolish as well as unjust in opposing your having such a simple pleasure. If he were wiser, he would urge you to go to the movies or to call on a neighbor at least twice a week, because that would make you so much pleasanter and easier to live with and so much more interesting as a companion, because it would break the strain on your nerves and let them relax, and give you something new and fresh to talk about.

The reason that most peevish women are peevish is because they are worn out with the monotony of their daily lives. They go round and round in a treadmill, with nothing to break it. They have no new, fresh interests, and so they become morbid. They get to harping on the same string. They lose their sense of proportion and trifles loom as big as mountains to them.

All of this is changed if a little variety and amusement are introduced into their lives. A woman sings at her work instead of grouching over it if she is thinking about some thrilling and romantic picture she saw last night, and is seeing herself as the beautiful heroine dressed in sables instead of the bungalow apron she is wearing.

I regard movies as a godsend to the domestic woman. They have saved many a one from the insane asylum, or the divorce court.

Gertrude L. Cox Holds Exhibition of Paintings

From Friday evening until Monday, the public of Peterborough will be privileged to view the paintings of Miss Gertrude Cox, which are on exhibition in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A. The exhibition is well worth seeing, for the pictures show evidence of real talent, as well as definite love for the work.

The chief quality of Miss Cox's paintings seems to be a rare and delicate sense of color, a feeling for the subtleness of shade and shadow and an understanding of the language of light and color. She knows that wintry scenes are not always cold; she knows the subdued glow of color that lies on old stone houses, the sharp clear green of new grass and the living warmth of flower tints.

Perhaps that is why her flower studies are among the most attractive of her pictures. In addition to her fine color sense, Miss Cox has drawn to perfection the unique grace of flowers, that grace that is at once as old as time and as young as the newest rosebud. There is a "Rose Peony" there that has all the breath-taking summer grace of the peonies that bloom in your garden and mine; there is a vase of tulips, gracious and lovely on their long, pale green stems; a sturdy, yet strangely fragile spray of apple-blossoms in a blue Chinese vase; and white chrysanthemums in an alabaster vase grow on the canvas with all the ragged, gypsy loveliness they must have had in life.

In the still life pictures, too, Miss Cox's understanding of color is amply demonstrated. Added to this is sense of line especially of the soft shaded fold of draperies. There is a particularly fine picture in which the glowing purple of a glass is repeated in the softer shade of the draperies. There is another of two tiny china figures against a background of printed draperies, giving an effect of 'Babes in the Wood."

Canadian art is full of scenery. Perhaps that is why these flower studies and still life studies are so pleasant to the eye and mind. But Miss Cox has some fine scenes, too, the finest being those that are dependent on subtle contrasts of color. "Elm in Harvest Field" is a picture of a giant, ancient elm tree outlined against a stormy summer sky. The whole picture is pervaded with that foreboding light which precedes our summer storms. "Magnetawan River" is a picture of river ice breaking up in spring, but with the ground still snow-covered and the woods bare. Shining from the sky and reflected on the snowy hillside is the rosy glow that is more felt than seen, the first promise of spring. "Willow" by the river is a peaceful scene, with the summer green of tree and grass contrasted with the blue of the river and the mellowed concrete of the dam.

Space is too limited to speak of all the fine pictures in this interesting exhibit. Suffice to say that they are not all mentioned here by any means, and that the exhibiton is one that everyone in Peterborough should see and appreciate. The exhibition will remain in the Y.W.C.A. until Monday.

Art Association Reviews Satisfactory Year

A successful year of activity was reviewed by the Women's Art Association on the occasion of their annual meeting and election of officers, held in the Green Room. Mrs. C. S. Thompson, retiring president, was in the chair for the first part of the meeting and reminded the members that one of their number, Miss Gertrude Cox, was having an exhibition of her paintings in the Recreation room of the Y.W.C.A., opening Friday evening and continuing until Monday. It was the 39th annual meeting.

The report of the year's work by the recording secretary, Mrs. R. G. Maniece, showed a satisfying and successful year, with a total of 94 members in the club. Eleven studio meetings were held, at which an imposing list of artists and speakers added to the knowledge and pleasure of the members and their friends. Miss Augusta Fleming spoke on the decoration of our homes, with special reference to window drapes, and enhanced her address with many lovely samples. Dr. Richard A. R. Maresch addressed the club on "Art in Old Vienna," where he lived prior to Hitler's Anschlusz. Miss Kathleen Campbell Ward gave a fascinating demonstration of the art of silk screen painting. J. Campbell McInnes spoke on Christmas music, saying that the Nativity had given birth to some of the greatest works of music and painting. Pelham Edgar lectured on "Why Read Novels?" and recommended "Barometer Rising" by Hugh McClelland. Bertha Louise Tamblyn delighted a large audience with a talk and demonstration of her own songs. Some of these were sung by Dorothy Allan Park and a double trio of her pupils. Mr. Ellis Thomson gave a unique lecture on gemstones. Manly Macdonald demonstrated his technique in painting by copying one of his own pictures, as well as bringing a beautiful exhibition of his canvases. It was a disappointment to the members that Elizabeth Wynwood was unable to give a lecture herself, but the talk by Mr. Donald Stewart and the exhibition of her pupils' work which she sent were very much enjoyed. Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, noted Canadian pianist, gave a charming recital which was enjoyed by a large audience.

The four study groups have also had an interesting year. Two of them have done fairly extensive war work and to all meetings the members bring their war knitting.

The Home Arts Guild, under the convenership of Mrs. F. W. Burnham, made a study of an amazing and fascinating variety of subjects this season, including Queen Anne furniture, Oriental rugs, fire-places and their accessories, crystal, and buttons. This guild also did an amazing amount of war work, completing during the winter six large and fourteen baby quilts. Two quilts and a blanket were also donated by members of this group. The Home Arts Guild plan to carry on their war work during the summer months.

The Guild of Arts and Crafts, convened by Mrs. V. B. Moore, has also been active in war work during the winter, and has completed 571 knitted articles including 325 pairs of socks, 26 sweaters, 22 scarves, large seamen's gloves, helmets and wristlets, 5 pieced coverlets from coating and 8 large afghans and 2 small. Besides this the members have given papers on a fascinating array of arts and handicrafts.

The literary study club, under convenership of Mrs. J. F. Osborne, has studied the English novels, beginning with "Robinson Crusoe" and finishing "New Grub Street," by George Robert Gissing. The more obvious and better known authors, such as Dickens, were omitted from the list in order to widen the members acquaintance with some of the lesser known writers.

The Art Study Club delved into Archaic Art in ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia and also had papers on Oriental rugs and minatures. They were ably assisted in their studies by Miss Moore and Miss M. Thompson of the collegiate staff. Next year the group hopes to study the art of Persia.

The association as a whole has not been backward in war work. The sum of $130 was realized through a tea and draw, which sum was divided between the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund and the British War Victims Fund. Prizes for the draw were donated by members of the Association, Miss Emily Hand, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro and Miss Gertrude Cox donating pictures; Mrs. B. V. Moore, a pewter pendant, and Mrs. Charles Saunders a hand-woven ottoman square.

A letter was read at the meeting from Mrs. Mackie of the Toronto Women's Art association, announcing that Princess Alice, Hon. President of the association, would be present at the club in Toronto and would receive a limited number of the members. Mrs. C. S. Thompson, president, or her representative, was invited to be present. Mrs. Thompson expressed some doubt of her ability to go but the club insisted that their capable retiring president should have the honor.

The treasurer's report, read by Mrs. English, showed a satisfactory balance of $90 at the end of the current year. Mrs. Stanton gave the corresponding secretary's report and the social convener's report was given by Mrs. G. N. Moncrief. Miss Leone Walsh read the report of the program committee and Mrs. W. G. Ovens that of the exhibition committee

The report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. Foster. Some difficulty was experienced in the election of a president and after much discussion the matter was left for the executive to decide. The following is the slate of officers as it stands at present: Hon. president, Mrs. C. S. Thompson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. N. D. Seaton; recording secretary, Miss Ruth Barns; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. Tinker; treasurer, Mrs. L. M. Brooks; assisted by Mrs. F. E. Hooper and Miss Laura Belleghem. Miss Gertrude Cox is on the program committee; social committee, Mrs. G. N. Moncrief, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Mitchell; exhibition committee, Miss E. G. Hand, assisted by Mrs. W. G. Ovens and Mrs. E. VanKoughnet.

Caught In Indies Crew Travel HalfGlobe, Home

CALGARY, April 25 — (CP). — A tale of hair-raising escape from the flaming deck of a merchant ship when she was dive-bombed and gutted by fire in the south Pacific early in February was related in Calgary Thursday by a group of seamen enroute home.

Included in the party were two officers and 11 seamen. They had travelled half way around the world to get back home.

Trapped on the stern of the vessel by flames amidship, many of the crew and passengers had to dive overboard and "swim for it," the seamen said.

Those on the bow scrambled onto the deck of the Australian sloop, Yarra, which rammed up close to the stricken vessel to aid in the rescue.

The men said the vessel did not sink at the time but hinted she was a total loss as a result of the fire.

Members of the party were Don Smith, W. Semple, Jeff Hosker, Owen Gillet, Roy Barry, Ernest Higgs, Jack Ewart, George Costello, J. M. Stainton and two Chinese, Chan Lum and Chan Kim.

They said there was a large number of British Columbia men aboard reach western Canada. One Vancouver man, named Ellsworthy, was killed in the attack.

Junks to the Rescue

Several of the crew members and some of the passengers suffered from burns, bruises and bomb blast. Most of the men who dived into the water, however, suffered no ill effects. They were picked up by junks and naval craft which quickly put cut from a nearby port when they learned of the vessel's fate.

"I was below deck in the magazine when the attack started," Hosken said, "and I didn't see the first of it.

"When I came up on deck there were five Japanese planes in the air. They were dive bombers. They had hit the ship squarely in the first attack and others kept swooping low over the ship and dumping dozens of light bombs into her.

"Soon the whole centre part of the ship was blazing. I was one of the lucky ones on the bow of the ship and jumped aboard the sloop when she pulled up to us."

While he had only seen five planes, Hosken said some of the men counted 11, but it was generally agreed there were nine in the attacking force.

After being picked up, the men were taken to Singapore and were there until shortly before the Citadel surrendered.

"But we're not supposed to talk about that," several said.

From Singapore they went to Java, then to Melbourne. They travelled across the continent to western Australia then took a ship to New York.

"The Netherlands is a headache to the Germans," one youth was quoted as saying.

U.S. "Peep" At Work in African Desert

It is a far cry from Detroit and this "peep" car now so familiar to Americans seems perfectly at home in the desert as it is everywhere else. The sun-helmeted dispatch rider has just arrived in the "peep" with a message for the commanding officer of a company of King George's own Bengal Sappers' and Miners' Regiment in the western desert. The "peep" has proved worth its weight in gold in the desert. It laughs at desert hardships that stall the ordinary car.

FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND FANCOTT

THE STORY: Just after the weekend guests at Ferdy Lorton's Canadian country place learn that one of the party, Fay Ransom, is a famous Broadway night club singer, young Peggy Mack sees the figure of a man in the moonlight. Her brother Michael, Nigel Monkhouse and Ferdy bring him in. He turns out to be Baldy Brien, Fay's manager, who has come to take her back. Ferdy, his aunt, and Peggy's older sister Myra are unconcerned. But Michael and Nigel are both in love with Fay. And Peggy has plans of her own.

"I JUST RAN AWAY"
CHAPTER IX

"You must be very clever," said Peggy admiringly, ignoring Myra's questioning eye.

Baldy Brien almost purred and was just about to expand again but Peggy got in first.

"Would you be my manager?"

Baldy stared at her. "Listen, baby. I'm in the show business, not running a girls' school. Run away. When you get your name in neon some place I'll come and listen to you, but I'm in it for dough—dough for me, and dough for them that can make it. I ain't a charitable organization."

Peggy looked at him with infinite scorn. "Sucker!" she said. "And I swallowed your line. Why, you couldn't see talent if it was pushed down your throat!"

Baldy started, surprised at this sudden attack. Then he bristled. "You're right, dead right, and I can't see it now."

He turned to attack Fay again and looked around the room in surprise. Fay had gone, so had Ferdy, Michael and Nigel.

"Where are you staying?" asked Ferdys' aunt quietly, realizing it was already late and that there were no hotels within many miles.

"Thanks very much," said Baldy. "That's kind of you, lady. I was going to take my forty in the back of the car, but if you insist, I gladly accept your invitation."

"I'm sure my nephew will enjoy you," said Ferdy's aunt, after her first surprise at his self-invitation. "He has such strange ideas anyway, it will serve him right."

Baldy looked quickly at her but she was knitting placidly.

Out in the moonlight, incomparably peaceful in contrast with the recent minutes indoors, the three men and Fay were sitting on the wharf. One by one they had slipped out while Baldy was holding the floor and had wandered down to the quay.

The three men were smoking.

"Now I know," said Ferdy suddenly. "Why you left New York."

"I wonder," said Fay. The moonlight cast soft shadows in the night. The air was warm. "Sometimes you do something suddenly and you don't care whether it is right or wrong. You only know that you must do it."

"But I don't understand it all," said Nigel slowly.

Fay laughed, a low soft laugh. A fish splashed somewhere out on the lake.

"Neither do I. It seems so quiet and peaceful here . . . after living so long in New York."

Michael interrupted. "But New York — singing with a band like Johnny White's—you haven't given it up?"

Fay laughed. "I haven't exactly given it up. I just ran away."

"Ran away?" said Nigel.

"Yes. Baldy is right. I had everything a girl could want. Everything a million girls would give their eye teeth to get—and I ran away."

"You're going back?" asked Michael and there was a touch of wistfulness in his voice.

"I don't know." Fay's voice came slowly, and in the pause that followed the eyes of all three men rested on her.

All three were thinking the same thing—that here in the moonlight they wouldn't have minding staying silently for hours, just looking at her face as it was at that moment. It wore the lovely sadness of one who has seen every dream come true with a succession of miracles and then watched them all turn to dust and tinsel.

Then she shook her head and laughed lightly, throwing her thoughts away from her.

"I'll tell you. When I first began to be noticed it was wonderful, intoxicating. There was the applause, the praise—and money came easily. Then my agent told me the time had come to have a manager to build me up and he introduced me to Baldy Brien. He talks too much but he really is as straight as they come, according to his lights."

"What happened then?" asked Nigel.

"First you have a manager, then you have a press agent. Then you have to compete with Hollywood in hair, face and dress. You have to be a glamor girl. That means a dresser, it means endless hours for fittings, hair dressing, massage, voice lessons. It all costs money, and the one that earns it has to pay.

"First you are rich on fifty a week and it is all your own except the agent's cut. Then you go up to seventy-five and a hundred. By that time you find you have about forty left for yourself. Then it goes up to a hundred and fifty. By this time you have thirty-five for yourself. By the time it gets to two hundred you have twenty-five left and a horde of people with their hands held out." She sighed and paused for breath.

"But that isn't all," Fay continued. "Your agent, your manager, your press agent, your maid all want to earn their money and they all find things for you to do. They endorse this or that product for you and you have to get up early after working all night to pose for photographs for advertisements. The telephone begins to ring all day. This and that paper want photographs, some amateur has an idea for a series, somebody knows the nicest man who wants to meet you. Then there are rehearsals for new numbers and all the time you are earning more and more, and more people are taking bigger and bigger cuts."

A chuckle came from Ferdy. Fay looked at him and felt that he understood. She went on, encouraged by the darkness and the silence of the men.

"You want to sing real songs and all the time you are plugging numbers that sound like every other number, all for half a dozen people who are interested in making money out of them. And all the time you feel you want to sing real songs. Then suddenly one morning the sun shines through your window and it is Spring for everyone except you, and you realize that you are just a glamorous fly in a vast web with hundreds of spiders after you."

Ferdy laughed again. "So, if you have any sense you get up, slip out, and take the plane to Montreal."

"That's just what I did, and I'm still all muddled up."

The next morning promised a hot day. A blue haze was hovering over the woods below the house and the distance was lost in mist.

Peggy leapt out of bed determined not to miss a single instant of the weekend.

"Where are you going?" said a sleepy voice from the other bed.

"To swim before breakfast," said Peggy, smiling innocently.

"Well, behave yourself," murmured Myra, shutting her eyes again. "And if I find you making eyes at that agent again I'll push him into the lake."

'Jap-Made Hell' Claim Hong Kong

LONDON, April 25—(CP).—Hong Kong is "a Japanese - made hell," Henry Bough, a Reuters correspondent who recently escaped from there said today in a dispatch filed from Chungking, China.

"I can confirm the appalling stories of murder and rape which have been reported," he wrote. "Many of the worst atrocities were committed in the presence of Japanese officers. They are only too true. Many of the women, after being attacked were shot.

"Starvation faces a large proportion of the population. When the Japanese occupied the island it was estimated there was a nine-months' supply of food. But large supplies have been commandeered by the Japanese army and shipped away."

YORKSHIRE GUERILLAS

HUDDERSFIELD—(CP).—A Boy Scout guerilla force, known as the War Service Patrol, has been formed at Yorkshire Holme Valley, to assist troops in event of an invasion.

"Most products travel a long way from the maker to the buyer, but the most important part of the whole trip is the last two feet across this counter, where the sale is made. Want to know how a manufacturer can help me most in moving his goods these last two feet?"

1. "Funny how some manufacturers go to all the trouble of making and shipping good products...without bothering to tell people how good they are or where to buy them. There are goods on my shelves from all over the country, but they'd have wasted the trip, if people didn't come in here and ask for them."

2. "Look at selling the way I do, two feet away from the shoppers, and you soon learn what kind of advertising does the best job of telling the public about a manufacturer's product. I mean newspaper advertising, of course...the medium that reaches everybody in town...the medium I use most regularly myself."

3. "Now that we're at war, with big news breaking every day, people are reading newspapers more carefully than ever. The ads, too...mine and my manufacturers'. They read the ads in the local paper, they come in here asking for a product by name, and it scoots across these last two feet of space."

4. "There's heavy, two-way traffic across this counter these days, with dollars and dimes headed for my cash register and good products headed for the customers. The more I sell, the better off my manufacturers are; so the smart ones boost their goods across the counter by consistent newspaper advertising."

There, in the words of a successful retailer, is the story of how to help a product across the retail counter...the most important part of the trip from manufacturer to consumer. It's especially true under wartime conditions that manufacturers produce more sales for their retailers...and themselves...when they advertise in local newspapers.

Teasettes

The Academic Inspector, Mr. Wallace, was at the school this week. Girls of the Collegiate may enroll for a home nursing course if the visit of Miss Baker and Miss Young from the Nicholls Hospital has any results.

The girls were given a short analysis of the work on Thursday morning and were treated to a movie after four on the same day. Many girls expressed their interest in such a scheme so be prepared for further developments.

H. L. Bamforth is now a 2nd Lieutenant in the local Rangers Reserve unit. At parade on Thursday one of the Collegians in the reservists spent fully half the night saluting the new officer.

Many students left school this week for war work. Some classes have dwindled to a bare skeleton of the original and several organizations have suffered severely.

We quote from an announcement heard from the platform last Monday: "Nobody connected with "The Echoes" has any idea as yet when it will be ready." This refers to a statement made in this column last week that the magazine would appear yesterday or the early part of next week. We obtained this information on excellent authority and published it in all good faith. Suggest that the executive get together on their information department before making any authentic announcement from the stage.

On a Spy Hunt

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 25—(AP).—Soviety authorities undertook an intensive drive against Nazi spies today, and the army newspaper Red Star declared that "catching one German spy is equal to smashing an enemy company."

The paper cited several instances of under-cover agents who had been caught:

A woman spy posing as a nurse in a seacoast city; a lame beggar in another town who was assigned to blow up warehouses; a woman posing as an officer's wife who sought information from a sailor on a train.

40-Mile Details Ready

TORONTO, April 25— (CP). — Negotiations have been completed between the Ontario and Federal Governments regarding details of enforcement of the 40-mile speed limit commencing on May 1, Attorney-General Gordon Conant said Friday. The limit was established by Order-in-Council.

Amendments to the Federal order provide for disposition of the fines levied so that for offences committed on provincial highways, the fine will go to the province. When an offence is committed within municipalities where provincial highways run, the municipality will get the fine.

No Milk In Sofia

BERNE, April 25—(AP).—Sofia is virtually without milk, meat and potatoes largely as a result of poor organization of supply facilities, the Swiss telegraphic agency reported today from the Bulgarian capital. The agency said the city's food commissioner had released 300 tons of rice in an effort to offset the potato shortage and that milk henceforth would be delivered only to children and to the sick.

Radio station CHEX is planning a most ambitious program for Monday night when the results of the Dominion plebescite will be announced. Every half hour there will be given summaries by provinces, box scores, number of polls reported and total polls for each province and dominion. There will also be complete local results and summaries of all ridings in Central Ontario. On Friday evening over CHEX, a radio amateur night is scheduled. This is being sponsored by the Kinsmen club on behalf of Milk for Britain fund. Alan Savage well-known master of ceremonies on outstanding radio programs will be in charge. Frank Oldfield, noted baritone is coming, and other stars include Patricia Bailey, blues singer on the CBC chain, and Jimmy Namarro, top ranking zylophonist. The cream of Peterborough musical and vocal talent is being approached to assist in the show, and already Olga Westbye, Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, Jessie Spencely, Adam Hawley, Joey McMahon, Walter Farr, Leahy Bros., and Jimmy Duffus and his orchestra have offered their services.

Cowboy Songbook Warms Up a Party

With Words to Follow—All Sing

Everyone feels so intimate, so gay, singing cowboy songs at a party! Crowded 'round a songbook, you relish every verse!

"...ury me not—" a bass voice booms, and everyone joins in:
"on the lo-hone prai-ree!
Where th wild coyo-ootes wi-hill howl o'er me"!

And what about "Home On The Range," someone demands, and insists that you sing the lovely second verse, too!
"Where the air is so pure and the zephyrs so free,
And the breezes so balmy and light—
That I would not exchange my home on the range
For all of the cities so bright."

Pretty soon everyone's clamoring for his special favorite— "Red River Valley," "Little Old Sod Shanty" and of course—
"I'm a-leavin' Cheyenne, I'm off to Montan' Goodbye, old Paint, I'm a-leavin' Cheyenne"!

These and many more well-known, well-beloved songs are included in our cowboy songbook. Has 18 in all, among them "The Old Chisholm Trail," "Git Along Little Dogies." Gives words, music, accompaniments; many with guitar diagrams.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of "Popular Cowboy Songs" to The Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of songbook.

WHY IS IT that some ordinarily strong players hate to use a high trump for ruffing purposes, when they can spare it just as well as a little one? You see that happen every week among pretty fair players, usually because they cannot realize that one defender might hold a very long suit, and therefore the other defender might be very short in it.

Approximately that bidding brought heart game contracts to West at several duplicate tables. It was sad to see one of them kicking the contract away, whereas the others made it.

The losing declarer took the club K with the A, ruffed the 6 with the heart 2, discarded a diamond on the spade A, ruffed the spade 4 with the heart 5 and led the club 10, ruffing it with the heart 8. South promptly overruffed with the 9 and the contract could no longer be made, as three diamonds had to be lost by West.

One of the Wests who made the contract took the club K with the A and then ruffed the 6 with the heart 8. He led back the heart 2 to the A and then ruffed the club 10 with the heart Q. South could not over-ruff, so the contract was safe. A diamond was thrown on the spade A, the spade 4 ruffed by the heart 5 and the top hearts scored, three diamonds being left at the end and North taking two of them plus a club.

St. George's Day Subject At Kiwanis Club

Rev. William A. Filer, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, threw a challenge to the Kiwanians at the Friday noon luncheon, when he pointed out that there is a war within the war we are fighting today, and we are facing the same enemy we faced in 1914-18 in that we are striving to retain our way of life, and our Christian civilization.

He spoke on St. George, the patron Saint of England, whose anniversary occurred this week, and said in part "St. George's Day stands like a mountain peak, among other days of Empire importance. We cannot help but be interested in the day, for we are all heirs to the past, we shall all share in the glory and honor of the past, and today we share in the prestige and support of the greatest Empire on earth.

"It is interesting to note that the day is far more widely observed and celebrated away from England than in England, perhaps this fact is significant of the deep roots of the Englishman. It is also worthy of note that the emphasis of St. George deals with his death, and that England has chosen a Roman soldier to venerate as patron saint, thus showing she can alway approve of the character of others. History records no lengthy record, and all we are told is that St. George fought a good fight, and gave his blood for the cause he felt his duty to support.

"His name is not the only one among the high and noble, but is a challenging spirit which still inspires, and may I dare say that his mantle has fallen upon our great leader, Winston Churchill, who, aided by our allies, is striving to put under foot the dragons of Berlin, Rome and Tokyo, whose very breath poisons the air of the world."

Dr. C. M. Scott introduced the speaker and the thanks of the club was voiced by Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. Mr. Fraser also told the meeting that an invitation had been extended by the Cheese Producers Association to attend a luncheon at Young's Point on June 3, and also to visit a few cheese factories.

Sub-Lieutenant Luke Troke, R.C.N., son of past president John Troke, and Corp. Berkely Boyle, Prince of Wales Rangers, were guests of the club.

American Supplies Flown Into Africa

The long arm of American production reaches out to East Africa, to what once was a part of Italy's East African empire, and dumps cargo after cargo of vital supplies for the United Nations at the great supply base established there. Trucks are uncrated as soon as unloaded and after assembly by American mechanics are rushed to where the need for them is greatest. ABOVE a scene at the unloading depot. Soon the trucks unloaded here will be working against the Axis in Libya or elsewhere in the Middle East.

not be known until some days after April 27. Jules Castonguay, chief plebiscite officer, said last night he expected to announce the service vote May 5.

Voters in the Army, the Navy and the Air Force mark their ballots and mail them to special returning officers in four districts in Canada and in the United Kingdom, Newfoundland and Jamaica.

Mr. Castonguay said arrangements had been completed for a speedy count of the civilian vote on Monday and plebiscite officials will co-operate with the Canadian Press to ensure that the results are made public as soon as possible after the polls close at 8 p.m. local time across the Dominion.

No Time To Estimate.

Mr. Castonguay said it would not be possible before the plebiscite is held to estimate the total number of eligible voters by provinces. He explained that the short space of time in which arrangements for the plebiscite were completed would not give the enumerators an opportunity to report how many eligible voters there were in the nine provinces until some time after April 27.

For the first time the remote mining district of Yellowknife, in the Northwest Territories, will be included in the electoral district organization for voting purposes. It has 1,400 residents.

Mr. Castonguay said he expected that very few Canadians, no matter how remote the district where they lived, would be prevented from voting because of transportation difficulties. Favorable weather during the past week, he remarked, had enabled returning officers in almost every district to send the necessary papers to outlying polls. The vote takes place at a time when the spring breakup in northern areas often impedes travel by airplane, dog team or boat.

The campaign was climaxed last night with speeches by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and two Federal Cabinet Ministers, urging an affirmative vote.

Conservative House Leader Hanson and C.C.F. House Leader M. J. Coldwell also have made speeches calling for a 'yes' vote at the polls. The leader of the New Democracy party, John Blackmore, urged Canadians to vote but did not recommend how they should mark their ballots.

Support for a negative answer has been given by speakers at meetings held under the auspices of La Ligue Pour Le Defence Du Canada. The speakers included a number of French-Canadian Members of Parliament.

The plebiscite is the second in Canada held on a Dominion-wide scale. The previous one was 44 years ago, in 1898, on the question of prohibition. There was a narrow margin of votes at that time in favor of a "dry" Canada, but the government then in power decided against imposing prohibition before the provinces had consulted their votes and no further action was taken.

Those who vote Monday must be at least 21 years old, British subjects by birth or nationality, have been resident in Canada 12 months before polling day and been ordinarily resident in the polling division in which they vote on March 30 of this year.

All Japanese, except some 40 who served with the Canadian forces in the First Great War, are disqualified from voting. Naturalized citizens of German and Italian origin may vote unless they are detained or interned under Defence of Canada Regulations.

LAKEFIELD

Over 65 Friends Shower Ethel Blakely

LAKEFIELD, April 25—(ENS).—Over 65 friends were entertained at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Crapp on Thursday evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Ethel Blakely, a bride of early May.

The initial part of the evening was spent in games under the capable supervision of Mrs. Theodore Crawford.

Mrs. Crapp conducted Miss Blakely into a beautifully decorated archway, with a picturesque watering-can suspended above it symbolic of "the shower." Here the bride-to-be was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, which were drawn into the room on a prettily camouflaged basket and wagon by litle Myrna Wannamaker and John Edward Murphy. Miss Margaret Sanderson made an address, and Miss Blakely, assisted by Mrs. Mike Wannamaker and Mrs. Lloyd Crapp opened the gifts. After these had been shown to all the guests by little Joyce Wannamaker, Miss Blakely, in a few words expressed her appreciation and extended an invitation to all to visit her in her new home.

After the singing of "For she's a jolly good fellow," a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Mike Wannamaker, Mrs. Lloyd Crapp, Miss Eva Higgins and Miss Elva Northey.

The executive of Smith Township Sunday School Convention met in the Baptist Church Sunday School Room on Wednesday night, with a splendid representation from all the Sunday Schools. The program for the coming convention was arranged with the convention to be held in the Lakefield United Church on May 19 or May 21, depending when an O.R.E.C. representative can attend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simpson had the pleasure of a very pleasant visit at their home, Glenraffin, of four members of the family his brother, W. Simpson of Toronto, and three sisters, Mrs. A. R. Bonnett, Belleville Miss E. O. Simpson, Peterborough, and Miss L. A. Simpson of Vancouver.

Miss Gladys Shewin is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Crawford, Queen Street, this week.

Driver Mechanic Francis McFadden returned home from overseas this week.

is being fostered among other nations that because of a restriction on the powers of the government Canada's effort was not an all-out effort," Mr. King said.

This was not true but it was "working a grave injustice to our country as a whole and to every man and woman who is making any contribution toward the winning of the war. I want that injustice to end," he said.

Canada should make it plain to other United Nations, and particularly to the United States, that she is "as ready to help them as we know they will be ready to help us." An overwhelming affirmative vote would make that clear.

"Let me just say this," Mr. King added, "that if disaster should ever overtake us it will certainly be said for generations to come that had the government's powers not been restricted the disaster would not have occurred.

"Such is the responsibility that may come to rest upon those who, in this existing crisis, are unwilling to remove any restrictions and to give the government a free hand in its war policies."

"I vote for Insulation and lower fuel bills"

It's the man who pays—but he pays much less in hard-earned dollars and hours of furnace stoking when his home is insulated with Donnacona Board. Fuel savings offset the modest cost of the installation in a surprisingly short time. The increased comfort of your home, both Summer and Winter, cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Ask your Donnacona Dealer for an estimate of the cost of this necessary improvement. He can also supply you with all details of the Home Improvement Plan or, if you prefer, write us.

YOU CAN STILL BUILD!

Essential Building Materials Are Still Available—
Building Costs Are Only Slightly Increased

Over recent months there has been a great deal of mis-information circulated about the cost of building and whether or not contractors can complete houses for civilian occupation—

HERE ARE THE FACTS—

1—You can still build homes under $5,000 without a license from the Controller of Construction—over $5,000 a license is necessary.

2—A contractor can still get all materials necessary for home construction

In addition to the foregoing, any building which you do will help to relieve the housing shortage and thus allow out-of-town workers to find accommodations.

Building Loans Under The National Housing Act Are Still Available

A NEW HOME

J. A. Gibbs, 141 Hunter St., well known Real Estate Man, expresses the view that every married man should own his own home, and that at the present time it is possible to build or buy at moderate cost. Loans under the Housing Act are still available, and it is only necessary to have in cash or land or both an amount equal to 20% of the total cost of land and building. Private loans are also available.

Mr. Gibbs has a large number of suitable building lots available priced from $50 up, depending on the location.

To a large extent the public have been mis-informed in regards to building. Building materials and loans are still available, and the cost of building has not increased materially over last year.

Mr. Gibbs states that he can supply funds for home building, and would be pleased at any time to discuss the matter of a loan for 50% to 80% of the cost of a home.

F.D.R. ANNOUNCES 7-POINT PRICE CEILING PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt said to-day that during the war "no American citizen ought to have a net in-come, after he has paid his taxes, of more than $25,000 a year" in pro-posing to Congress a seven-point program designed to combat the up-ward spiral in living costs.

The President propose[d] stabilization of wages an salaries of individuals, say ing "I believe that stabiliz ing the cost of living wi mean that wages in genera can and should be kept a existing levels" and aske repeal of the provisions o the Price-Fixing Law whic allows farm commodities rise to 110 per cent. of parit (Parity is the price designe to give the farmer a retur based on industrial purchase enjoyed in a 1909-14 base period).

"We must fix ceilings on th prices which consumers, retaile wholesalers and manufacturers p for the things they buy," the Pres dent said as he outlined h. plan to keep the cost of living down, an added "Ceilings on rents for dwel ings in all areas affected by w industries" to the steps that mu be taken.

Flatly opposing suspension of th 40-hour work week law, the Pres dent said:—

Mr. Roosevelt reported that " strikes are at a minimum."

2,000 Finns Slain In 7 Days

Hun Posts North, South Of Lake Ilmen Reported Outflanked

LONDON, April 27—(CP)—Nearly 2,000 Finnish troops were reported killed last week in a Russian offensive in frozen Lapland as the Red army pushed forward in a spring advance likened to the one of two years ago which ended in Finland's defeat.

Stockholm reports said the Russians had captured Borok, 20 miles southeast of the German stronghold of Novogorod on the front between Moscow and Leningrad. The Russians were said to have cut the railroad linking the Novogorod Garrison with the remnants of the trapped German 16th army at Staraya Russa.

London military experts said the Nazi positions north and south of Lake Ilmen had been outflanked and that their communications with the rear were threatened.

The battle lines in the far north were drawn up well inside the Finnish frontier of 1939 and the Soviet troops were reported demonstrating all along the battlefront that they held the initiative firmly.

The Russians were pressing home telling blows against the disheartened Finns in an effort to knock them out of the war and protect the Arctic ports of Murmansk and Archangel.

Leningrad reports of successful defence against raiding Axis planes indicated the Germans were using every available aircraft in an effort to cripple the Red Army while the Axis prepared for an offensive.

Mixed Finnish and German crews were used in the north by planes which bombed Leningrad, machine-gunned troop concentrations and battered at roads, bridges and artillery batteries.

Blast Sinks 4th U.S. Destroyer

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP).—The United States Navy announced to-day the destroyer Sturtevant had been sunk of the coast of Florida "by an underwater explosion within the past 24 hours."

Loss of life was small, the navy communique reported, and most of the crew of the First Great War vessel reached port safely, indicating that the ship may have gone down quite slowly.

The Sturtevant, a 1,190 ton flush deck, four-sacker, normally had a wartime complement of around 145 to 150 men.

Whether the explosion was caused by a torpedo fired by a German U-boat raider, such as blew up the Jacob Jones off the Jersey coast earlier this year, or by a floating mine was not stated.

On Horseback

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 27 (CP).—Premier Hepburn of Ontario did not use any gasoline as he went to the polls today to vote "Yes" on the plebiscite. He rode horseback from his home to the village of Union, two miles away where the poll booth is located.

Mrs. Hepburn, also on horseback, was with him.

Since the Legislature adjourned the Premier has been spending much of the time in the saddle at his home in South Yarmouth.

Restricted Trade Permits Allowed Pupils

OTTAWA, April 27 (CP)—Elliott M. Little, director of National Selective Service, announced today that permits to work in restricted industries would be issued to student for the duration of their school, college or university holidays.

The announcement came in a series of explanatory notes for selective service officers, covering situations which could arise when various age groups and classifications of men apply for permits to work at restricted occupations.

"In respect to students seeking employment during the summer holidays, the policy to be followed will be that of giving permits for the duration of the school, college or

Check Gasoline Cards Closely

OTTAWA, April 27—(CP).—Consumption of gasoline by commercial users is being carefully checked to ensure no vehicle owner exceeds his quota, the Munitions and Supply Department said today in a statement issued on behalf of Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle.

The statement said "although no limit has been announced as to the number of books that may be obtained (by commercial license holders) a very real limit exists. We have determined just how much gasoline each commercial license holder should use, and if he exceeds that amount he will be called to account."

To make the control effective, the statement said, an extensive card record system has been installed in the Toronto oil control offices comprising more than 300,000 cards. One is assigned each vehicle for which a license has been issued, "and two operators keep these records constantly posted with entries each time an application is received for a new book."

A card can be moved from the file and turned over to an enforcement officer to make an investigation if use of gasoline has been abnormal.

Tube Wreck Kills 5, Injures 262

Charge Motorman Was Drunk As 5 Cars Pile Up

JERSEY CITY, N.J. April 27 —(AP). — The motorman of a Hudson River tube train which piled up last night, killing five persons and injuring 262, was held for Grand Jury action to-day on charges of operating a public conveyance while under the influence of liquor.

Manslaughter charges were also filed against thre motorman, Louis A. Vierbuchen, 48, of Newark.

On arraignment before Judge Anthony Botto, Assistant Prosecutor William T. Cahill asked that the court direct police to turn over to Prosecuotor Daniel T. O'Regan all records of the accident for a thorough investigation.

The third car of the heavily laden Hudson and Manhattan train from Newark to downtown New York jumped the track and lurched along 75-feet underground at the Exchange Place Station. Four other cars of the six-car train left the rails after the third was derailed, and only the head car remained on the tracks.

Daniel Casey, Public Safety Commissioner, declared "the responsibility is definitely the motorman's."

Police Chief Harry W. Walsh told the court Vierbuchen insisted in a statement that the accident happen at 10:03 p.m. while he was operating a west-bound train. Walsh said the accident occurred at 10:48 and the train was east-bound, toward New York.

Rescue in Gas Masks.

The derailment cut power lines, plunging the tunnel into blackness at the deepest point on the line, just before the train burrows under the Hudson River. Acrid fumes gushed from storage batteries in the wrecked car, which left the track with a blinding flash and burst into flames. Women shrieked, car windows were kicked out. One negro girl, pinned under a seat, had to be extricated by acetylene torches.

All but 100 of those injured were released from the Jersey City Medical Centre after treatment for superficial injuries.

Police and fire department rescue squads descended by elevator to the scene, setting up floodlights to remove the injured. The fumes were so heavy that the rescuers donned gas masks.

Perfect If True

LONDON, April 27—(CP).—Franz von Papen, German Ambassador to Turkey, has told friends that Germany cannot open up any new front this year, Reuters quoted an Istanbul dispatch to the independent French news agency as saying today.

Von Papen was said to have declared Germany must defeat Russia before fall because she cannot face a fourth winter of war and that she must muster all her available strength to this end.

New Curbs To Hit Living Mode In Canada Soon

TORONTO, April 27 —(CP)— A considerable measure of adjustment in the Canadian mode of living is in sight as soon as present inventories which have cushioned the effect of curtailments and prohibitions are exhausted, R. C. Berkinshaw, chairman of the Wartime Industries Control Board, said today.

Addressing Toronto Canadian Club, Mr. Berkinshaw said it was inevitable that still other adjustments in the habits of civilian life and thought must eventually follow.

Mr. Berkinshaw said that as chairman of the Wartime Industries Control Board he has approved more than 100 formal orders of the controllers who form the board — orders which touch industry at many points, and, through it, civilian life in all its phases.

"I almost said 'from the cradle to the grave,' inasmuch as the steel controller has ordered that no steel be released for baby carriages and has prohibited the production of metal coffins," Mr. Berkinshaw said.

Gravity Not Realized

In spite of the cheerful acceptance of restrictions, there was still present in the minds of many an underestimation of the gravity of the situation. Until six months ago the United Nations had controlled sources of raw materials far superior to those of the Axis powers. When Japan struck "our statistical stockpile superiority vanished before our eyes."

"In short, our problem is to divert from the stream of goods and services which we can produce now, or can obtain now, the quantities urgently needed now to meet our ever-expanding war requirements."

400 Tons Hit Rostock On Fourth Night; Huns Blast At Bath

LONDON, April 27 (CP)—For the fourth successive night the Royal Air Force rained destruction last night on the smoking, bomb-scarred Baltic port of Rostock, and blasted the great Skoda Munitions Works, carrying the offensive to Germany with increasing fury in bold defiance of Hitler's threats of reprisal.

In a quick follow-up to the night's efforts at blasting the Germans in their homeland, the Royal Air Force went raiding in force over Northern France by daylight today.

Before mid-day, great formations of evenly-rowed fighters and bombers winged their way one by one across the Channel and came back from the direction of Boulogne.

London sources indicated that the raids on Rostock last night and the night before nearly equalled those of Thursday and Friday, when 400 tons of bombs were dumped on the city.

This, they emphasized, would mean that almost 1,600,000 pounds of explosives had been unloaded upon the Baltic port in four nights—a pounding such as no other German city has received in such a short space of time.

Rostock is of vital importance as the site of great plane factories and a base from which men and supplies are shipped to the northern sector of the eastern front.

Hun Hit Back at Bath

With the apparent intention of retaliating, the Nazis made a short but sharp attack this morning on Bath, famous watering place 100 miles west of London and 12 miles from Bristol, which they bombed heavily Saturday night.

A communique said the raiders caused extensive damage and "fairly heavy" casualties were feared.

The Bath attack was not as heavy as the previous night's raid.

German planes also ranged over other points in west and southwest England, but damage in those areas was slight. Three raiders were destroyed.

The raiders came in low through the moonlight sky and after unloading their explosives and incendiaries sprayed Bath streets with cannon shells and machine-gun bullets.

Serious fires were started in the city and one group of casualties

Air Rifles For 16-18

TORONTO, April 27—(CP)—Air rifles should be used only by persons 16 or 18 years of age, Deputy Attorney-General C. L. Snyder, K.C. recommended to Attorney-General Conant in a report following numerous complaints against juveniles using air rifles. Mr. Conant stated the question is one for federal authorities who control the situation under the criminal code which now permits those of 14 years to have them with a permit.

Chinese Units Retake 2nd Burma Town

Hold Strategic Hopong Along Road To Mandalay City

CHUNGKING, April 27.—(AP)—The Chinese announced today that they had recaptured Hopong, increasing the advantage of its position guarding Mandalay from the southeast.

Hopong is little more than 10 miles east of Taunggyi which was won back from the Japanese late last week. Both towns are approximately 100 miles southeast of Mandalay.

On the Meiktila front, directly south of Mandalay, Chinese forces reported they were fighting a strong delaying action against invasion spearheads thrust up the road from Pyinmana past Tatkon.

The Chinese last were reported holding out in the vicinity of Pyawbwe, some 20 miles south of Keiktila and Thazi, and 85 miles south of Mandalay.

The Chinese communique reported that the Flying Tigers of the American volunteer group destroyed five Japanese planes last Saturday near Loilem, on the east flank of the Burma front, without loss to themselves.

The new drive from Loilem was along the road westward through Taunggyi and Thazi. Thus, if the Japanese reach Thazi they will have worked behind British forces at Pyawbwe and reached the railroad leading 80 miles to Mandalay.

British sources said there was only sketchy information on the exact position of the Allied line after five days of confused fighting. It stretched roughly, however, from the Irrawaddy River north of Sale eastward to a point just north of Pyawbwe. In the area farther to the east, apparently, there was no fixed front but isolated strongholds pivoting on Taunggyi.

Castonguay Votes

OTTAWA, April 27 (CP)—Among the early manpower plebiscite voters in Ottawa today was a man who has not voted for more than 20 years.

Jules Castonguay, chief plebiscite officer, who as chief electoral officer is not able to vote in general elections, cast his ballot at 8.30 a.m.

Early reports received by his office showed the balloting going smoothly, Mr. Castonguay said.

Plebiscite Results

The Examiner's telephone service over four lines will commence this evening at 8.30 to give results of the Dominion - wide plebiscite. Radio station CHEX will also carry half-hour summaries as prepared by Canadian Press and will spot any highlights of the results in Central and Eastern Ontario.

Girl 14, To Face Murder; Father Shot In Quarrel

OWEN SOUND, Ont., April 27—(CP). — Fourteen - year - old Ruby Campbell must appear in open court next Monday charged with the murder of her 68-year-old father, Robert Campbell, it was decided by Magistrate E. C. Spearman at a closed session of juvenile court here today.

After court the magistrate announced the case would be proceeded with by way of indictment. Attorney General Conant in Toronto said a person over 14 may be convicted of a crime. The girl is 14 years and 3 months.

Campbell died instantly Saturday in his farm home 10 miles from nearby Dundalk when he was shot by a .22 calibre rifle. A bullet sent through his heart.

The girl who is alleged to have fired the shot after an altercation in Campbell's clapboard house was brought by police to a children's shelter here late Saturday where she remained until today. After her appearance before Magistrate Spearman, she was removed to county jail.

Actual details of the shooting, believed to have occurred about 8 a.m. in the Campbell kitchen, are vague.

District Shocked

Farmers in this peaceful district were horrified. They said the girl was well-behaved and had a good reputation at the district public school. They added, however, that the father had not been in good health recently and had become irritable.

"He had been in ill health for years and was never himself," his widow said. "He took insulin which bothered him a great deal and he would not follow the prescribed diet."

After the shooting, two other daughters, Janet and Dorothy, rushed to a neighbor's home and brought William Goheen.

"The two Campbell girls ran over to my house across the road saying their father had been shot," Goheen said. "Mrs. Campbell came after them but before I went over I went down the road and got Andy Black. I didn't want to go into the house myself.

"When we went into the kitchen we saw Campbell lying over between the stove and the couch. He must have been killed instantly.

"There was nobody in the kitchen besides ourselves. The girl had been kept upstairs with the bottom door to the stairs locked so she couldn't get out. We went outide and called Blowup for Slave Lands As Nazis Strike?

Col. Britton's Invisible Army Being Keyed For Coup Inside 6 Weeks

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Anaylst

As the time draws near for the joining of the crucial battle of the Hitlerian conflict, there emerges the possibility that this Armageddon may see uprising in many places by the invisible army of the subjugated peoples.

Word long ago was spread throughout the conquered countries by Allied radio and by underground telegraph that the hour of deliverance would come, and the V-for-Victory symbol became a flaming torch of hope. Indeed, the campaign inspired so much premature violence that Britain began urging these Hitler-ridden folk to hold their peace until the signal came for an uprising.

But now suddenly Britain's "Colonel Britton"—the radio voice which has been fostering and guiding the V-for-Victory army on the continent—has electrified his hearers by calling on them to prepare for united action. Probably within six weeks, says the spectral "Colonel," the sign will be given for the civilian uprising. Meanwhile the people are to lay plans to do the greatest possible damage to the Nazis by sabotage and other means.

Already France, Belgium, Norway, Holland and the countries of Eastern Europe have given us many grisly examples of what the invisible army can accomplish.

Mysterious hands have been reaching out of the darkness of the night to snatch the lives of German soldiers. Even broad daylight has brought its swiftly moving assassinations. Troop trains have been wrecked, and bombs have been thrown.

That the Nazis see the danger is shown by their wholesale executions of hostages in an effort to terrify the populations into submission. But slayings have only made the fire of hatred burn hotter.

Fear that unrest might even boil up in his own country was indicated in Hitler's Reichstag speech yesterday. His demand for obedience from the people carried a note of grave concern to the ears of expert radio observers in London.

Just when the Allied-Axis battle will come is still a matter of conjecture. Probably "Colonel Britton's" guess that the volcano will erupt in six weeks or less is a fair one.

The trend of events depends considerably on whether the Russians are able to keep the Fuehrer on the defensive along the Eastern front. If that happens, and he finds himself unable to launch a big-scale offensive against the Reds, we may see him lash out in some other direction, while holding his Russian line defensively.

We mustn't overlook the possibility that he might even try an invasion of Britain in order to forestall a possible Allied invasion of Western Europe and the opening up of a second front against him.

One thing the Allied people mustn't do it to delude themselves with the notion that Hitler is done for because he has taken a beating this past winter in Russia. He still retains great striking power, and it's going to take the best the Allies can produce to defeat him.

Thus the invisible army of civilians become a mighty item.

Giraud In His 2nd Escape

Hun Offer 100,000 Marks For General's Capture

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) April 27—(AP)—Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, 63, for the second time in his career as a French army officer, was a fugitive from a German prison camp today, presumably trying to make his way through enemy country to freedom.

Gen. Giraud had been a German prisoner since May 21, 1940 when German armies cut off the forces he was commanding in northern France in the "Battle of the Bulge." The German announcement Saturday that he escaped from his prison in the fortress of Koenigstein in Saxony gave no details, but his picture and description were published in all German papers and a reward of 100,000 marks was offered for his recapture.

As Captain he was wounded and captured in the Battle of Guise in 1914 during the first Great War. He was interned in Germany, but escaped in time to return to France and take part in the Battle of Malmaison in 1917.

Gen. Giraud presumably would try to reach the French frontier and the German authorities announced that anyone aiding him in his flight would be sentenced to death.

The general had been imprisoned with other French officers in Koenigstein fortress and, it was said, had been granted special privileges because of illness.

Tojo Reminds Japan Of Wa[r]

Claims Britain, U.S. Made Reckless By Defeats

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasst) April 27 — (AP). — Premier Hideki Tojo said to-day that despite successive Japanese victories "the war still has to be fought."

He declared in an address that "recent developments" showed that the United States and Britain have been forced to reckless actions because of successive defeats in the Pacific.

He did not specify these developments but Domei said the phrase might be taken to refer to the "United States stunt air attacks on Japan itself."

(Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagoya were bombed nine days ago, and air alarms were sounded on several days afterwards.)

"The war's coming stage will be real test for the Japanese natio and will demand the nation's utmos unity," he declared.

"The Japanese people must al ways bear in mind the fact tha we are still in the midst of a grea war. Even we who are behind th lines must be of the same mind a the troops at the front and be full prepared to cope with any attac on Japan itself, and in that wa help the operations of our men a the front.

"With unalterable determinatio we must carry on to final victory completely destroying Anglo-American influence."

ADOLF HITLER MAKES HIMSELF SUPREME MASTER OF GERMANY

Rising Internal Opposition May Force Dictator To Desperation Of Purge

Latest Decree Makes Adolf New Law Lord, Predicts Germany Will Be Ready For Next Winter On The Russian Front

LONDON, April 27—(CP).—Hitler made himself the upreme master of Germany yesterday, with fiat power even bove his own Nazi law, and his act roused the hopeful susicion of his enemies that Germany is in deep internal trouble fter a winter of near-catastrophe.

The extraordinary power to equire absolute obedience rom every German was voted t Hitler's demand by the teichstag after he had adressed its uniformed members in a peech strangely mixing his usual ombast and confident predictions f victory with a new undercurrent f anxiety.

One of those predictions was that oviet Russia would be the decisive attleground of the world conflict nd that it would be a scene of Nazi riumph.

But Hitler's demand came immeiately after he had conceded to the teichstag that the German army urvived a "threatening catastrophe" nd suffered hardships for which ermany had been unprepared durng the winter crisis on the Soviet ront, should now demand strengthning of his dictatorial power was ailed both in Britain and Russia as sign that Nazidom's home front cracking.

The London Daily Herald said it ould not be surprised if Hitler lanned a purge "or some move o desperate that is accomplishent will necessitate a purge."

The Daily Telegraph recalled that itler resorted to a purge in 1934 nd inferred that again he might e reaching for the whip.

Hitler, in the Times' view, has ound himself "impotent to bring is war to a victorious conclusion" nd, as compensation, has made imself "supreme law lord."

The Moscow radio called the peech "a sure sign that the Nazis ee the approach of their end" nd declared that Hitler's assumpon of still greater power "made abundantly clear that he had o other alternative than to adit his utter failure in the field nd at home.

As broadcast by the Berlin radio, itler turned from his assurances hat the next winter would find ermany ready on the Russian ront and made this demand:

Soldier Pleads Guilty To Taking Watch

A month in jail was the sentence imposed in police court this morning on Pte. Ronald Currie who had previously pleaded guilty to charges of stealing $5 from Mrs. Gordon Trennum and a wrist watch and $5 from a fellow soldier, Pte. Rogers, who also boarded at the Trennum home.

Currie told Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., that he had been drinking when he committed the thefts and on that account His Worship stated that the sentences would start from April 15 and the two would run concurrently.

Constable Gordon Trennum, called to give evidence about investigating a theft in his own home, told of finding the stolen wrist watch in a drawer in Currie's room. It had been taken off the first of the other soldier while he was asleep. Currie had been arrested and later admitted to police that he had stolen the two $5 bills and told the officers they were hidden in a package of cigarette papers.

"The finger prints do not show any previous criminal record," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., told the court.

This hardly seems a case for suspended sentence," commented Magistrate Langley as he imposed a sentence of a month's imprisonment.

Mr Little's explanatory notes said no permit would be needed for young men under 21 doing casual work after school or on holidays during school sessions, provided they attended day school during the time.

None Over 6 Months.

As a general rule at present permits will not be granted for more than six months.

No permit is needed for men engaging in a restricted occupation if such work is subsidiary to their regular job, provided it is carried on as part time work.

The existing labor situation would be a consideration in all applications, so that if a person wished to enter a restricted occupation and his services were not then required in an essential industry, a permit would be granted.

An employer will be allowed to transfer any employee who was in his employ on March 23, 1942, from one occupation to another within his own organization, providing he is not being transferred permanently (or for a considerable period) from a non-restricted to a restricted occupation.

Certain groups, because of racial origin, are not eligible for enlistment and further have difficulty in obtaining employment in war industries. In such cases, permits allowing them to enter restricted occupations are quite justifiable.

Only taxes and stabilization of fgarm prices, Mr. Roosevelt said, require legislative action.

Results, Or Laws To Force Them

But, he added in his message, read to the Senate and House of Representatives by clerks:—

"I assure the Congress that if the required objectives are not attained, and if the cost of living should continue to rise substantially, I shall so advise the Congress, and shall ask for any additional legislation which may be necessary."

Mr. Roosevelt said there were obvious reasons for taking every step necessary to prevent a rise in the cost of living, which already has moved up about 15 per cent since the autumn of 1939, and which might soar "another 80 per cent or 90 per cent during the next year or two."

The Seven Points

These were the objectives which the President listed for Congress:—

"1. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must tax heavily, and in that process keep personal and corporate profits at a reasonable rate, the 'reasonable' being defined at a low level.

"2. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must fix ceilings on the prices which consumers, retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers pay for the things they buy; and ceilings on rents for dwellings in all areas affected by war industries.

"3. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must stabilize the remuneration received by individuals for their work.

"4. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must stabilize the prices received by growers for the products of their lands.

"5. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must encourage all citizens to contribute to the cost of winning this war by purchasing war bonds with their earnings instead of using those earnings to buy articles which are not essential.

"6. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must ration all essential commodities of which there is a scarcity, so that they may be distributed fairly among consumers and not merely in accordance with financial ability to pay high prices for them.

"7. To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must discourage credit and installment buying, and encourage the paying off of debts, mortgages, and other obligations for this promotes savings, retards excessive buying and adds to the amount available to the credits for the purchase of war bonds.

Mr. Roosevelt was expected to discuss this broad program in a broadcast later in the week. An announcement of the date was expected some time today.

For Tuesday, April 28

A memorable day with many things moving suddenly and dramatically toward a state of affairs which may have an enduring and far-reaching effect on the future with its fortunes, security and stability. While the unforseen and unpredictable may be materialized there is likelihood of such a climax being the merited result of application, industry, patience and self-organized plans and objectives aimed at and hoped for over a considerable period. Such sudden and inspiring fulfillments should not, however, be negatived by a tendency to rash, impetuous conduct prompted by immature or designing advisers.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an adventurous, pregressive and solidifying year, although such crises may descend with sudden, surprising and breath taking or dramatic force. It may be an uprooting and dynamic force, descending like a whirlwind, but properly met and manipulated its splendid results should be enduring, far-reaching and sound. But rash, impulsive, and overeager or extravagant tactics may retard or ruin such splendid prospects.

A child born on this day may have sound sense, with practical insight, but also romantic, adventurous or spectacular traits which may lure it toward a sensational, reckless or extravagant life guided by emotions rather than sound principles.

Fertilizer Supplies Are Running Low

For a sample of Water Street soil, the Department of Agriculture has recommended as fertilizer a mineral mixture described as 4-12-6. These numbers mean. 4 per cent nitrogen 12 per cent, phosphorus, and 6 per cent potash.

For lawns the formula is represented by 10-8-6 because most grasses need nitrogen, except the clovers which extract it from the atmosphere and transfer it to their root stalks.

Citizens can buy these fertilizers from local dealers, and according to recent reports the stocks on hand are running low. Farmers have been buying more heavily htan usual this season.

Basic Course A.R.P. Lectures

Two more series of basic course lectures are being given by the A.R.P. Civil Defence Committee of Peterborough. This is expected to be the last lectures given for the basic course and all those thinking of taking up A.R.P. are urged to attend these lectures which commence on Sunday, May 3rd at 2.15 p.m. and Monday, May 8th at 8.00. Lectures are being held at the Lyceum Hall opposite the City Hall, and as each lecture is similar, applicants can attend either night. The factories have organized their own protection and are expected to turn out in large numbers for these lectures. Persons who have some of the other basic course lectures should attend the lectures which they have missed. The dates are as follows:

Sunday, May 3rd and Monday, May 4th. Organization and Protection of Supplies and Homes Against Gas.

Sunday, May 10th and Monday, May 11th. Elements of First Aid.

Sunday, May 17th and Monday, May 18th. Incendiary and High Explosive Bombs.

Sunday, May 31st and Monday, June 1st. War Gases and Personal Protection Against Gas.

Sunday, June 7th and Monday, June 8th. Transportation and Public Utility Services.

Two Brothers Graduate In Air Force

For the first time since the war started, two brothers from a Peterborough family have received their wings as wireless air gunners on the same day at different training schools across Ontario, and they are believed to be the only two brothers in the district holding this rank in the Air Force.

Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shea, who operate a grocery store on Albert street, and the family came to Peterborough from Colonsay, Sask., a few years ago.

Wayne S. Shea, aged 24, worked with his father in the store, then took a business course at the Peterborough Business College, and after working for six months as a stenographer at Trenton enlisted for active service. He received his wings at Mountain View on Saturday.

Wilson S. Shea, age 22, worked for some time with his father also, then after six months in the C.G.E. enlisted in the Air Force. He graduated as a wireless air gunner at Jarvis on aturday. The odd thing about this double presentation is that both boys have the same initials.

Missing Flier Brother Of Geo. McCague

Pilot Officer James McCague of Toronto, brother of George McCague, manager of the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Peterborough, is reported in the most recent casualty list of the R.C.A.F. as missing. His mother, Mrs. Margaret McCague, formerly of Alliston, lived in Peterborough with her son, George, at 480 Gilmour street, during the past winter.

Pilot Officer McCague is 25 years of age, and is a native of Victoria Square, north-east of Toronto. He attended North Toronto Collegiate, before entering the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. While in his final year at Guelph, he was a room-mate of the late Pilot Officer Jackson C. Nixon, son of the Hon. Haarry Nixon, Provincial Secretary, and P.O. Nixon was killed in a bomber raid over Germany last September. McCague went overseas in October of last year.

Brigade Captaincy For Deputy Chief?

A special meeting of the fire and light committee of the city council is being held this evening. Although city hall information was inclined to evade reference to the purpose of this meeting, it is understood that it has been called to consider an opportunity which has come to Deputy Chief George Smith to accept a brigade captaincy in the Old Country.

This report was rumored last week, and apparently it has reached the committee. Deputy Chief Smith is regarded by members of the council as an exceptionally efficient leader of men in fighting fires. He has demonstrated his ability in action, and his friends have every confidence in him wherever he goes, and that includes his continued service with the Peterborough department.

Presumably the committee intends to discuss the detail of salary as a possibility in persuading Deputy Chief Smith to carry on in Peterborough.

Students Require Work Permit For Summer

There has been considerable misunderstanding about the granting of permits for restricted occupations by the Unemployment Insurance Office.

"Permits must be carefully considered for those in the age group of 21 to 30, or over 20 and under 31, who wish to enter restricted occupations," W. Mellis said to-day. "Permits will only be granted for occupations furthering the war effor or for service, which in the judgment of the selective service officer, is essential, even though restricted.

"Those who have received honorable discharge from any of the armed services or who have been examined for service and have been turned down as medically unfit need no permit.

"Those students who wish to work after school or on scool holidays during the school session, need no permits if they are under 21 years of age, and if they are in attendance at school during the day." Mr. Mellis continued.

"These students who wish to work during the summer vacation either in stores or at summer resorts, must have a permit. If their services are more urgently needed for making munitions, they will be directed there rather than to the restricted occupations. No permit will be given to anyone who is normally working at agricultural pursuits if they are needed there.

Mr. Mellis concluded by saying that "no permit is needed for casual employment in an irregular occupation, if the worker is employed for a period not exceeding three days a week for the same employer."

Fifty-three votes of the registered 279 qualified voters at poll 37 in the house at 471 Albert street was an index of this morning's polling on the plebiscite.

A Mark street poll reports 41 votes cast up to 2 p.m. and at the same time a double poll at 786 Water street had 87 votes in the two boxes.

The fact that polls remain open until 8 o'clock this evening was regarded as a delaying factor in the response of citizens to the question the Federal government has submitted to them.

Only one in every five voters had claimed their ballots at the Albert street booth, and others to whom the Examiner telephoned early this afternoon were apparently running along the same proportional scale.

Civilian voters of Canada at the polls today will render their decision on the question submitted to them by the Mackenzie King Government:

"Are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

Balloting today, in the first Dominion-wide plebiscite Canada has held since 1898, is from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. local time in the various zones across the country. In a statement issued at Ottawa at the week-end, Mr. Mackenzie King reiterated an earlier declaration that an affirmative vote would not be looked upon as a vote of confidence in the present government.

Prospects are that few persons entitled to vote will be prevented because weather conditions prevented delivery of the necessary papers.

Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said late last week that favorable weather in far northern districts had made it possible to deliver balloting papers and materials even to remote districts which normally are inaccessible during the Sprink break-up period.

Saturday ballot boxes were dropped from an airplane in the Peace River country northwest of Edmonton.

British Subs Bag 4 Ships On Rommel

All Heavily Loaded With Axis Supplies; Malta Hospital Hit

CAIRO, April 27 —(AP)—British submarines, prowling the central Mediterranean, have sunk four Axis ships heavily laden with supplies intended for Marshal Erwin Rommel's stalemated armies in North Africa. An enemy schooner and a lighter also were damaged.

Announcement of the sinkings last night was coupled with reports of widespread air activity over the Mediterranean, extending from Malta to the Suez Canal.

A special British communique Sunday accused the Germans of deliberately attacking hospital areas in their latest attacks upon Malta, the fortress-base which lies threateningly across the Axis supply lines between Italy and Africa.

In two successive raids, the Germans wrecked five wards in the Malta General Hospital, which was clearly marked with a large Red Cross, the communique said. Casualities were given as 10 killed and several wounded.

"At another hospital, damage was done by one bomb and an unexploded bomb hit the Red Cross on the roof," the bulletin added. It said a camp for prisoners of war, put in the hospital area for safety, also had been hit, causing several casualties.

6 Down Over Malta

Week-end raids on Malta were on a heavy scale and the Germans lost at least six planes Saturday and Sunday and others were badly damaged.

One Axis air raider also was reported shot down in the Suez Canal area Saturday night, when both Alexandria and Cairo had air alarms.

British headquarters said that the Royal Air Force had been active over Libya, raiding Bengasi and attacking Axis transport and camps in the El Aghelia and Agedabia areas. Loss of five planes in these operations was announced.

Adverse weather in the Libyan desert apparently still precluded any major ground operations, but British headquarters reported yesterday that troops had engaged an Axis column on their left flank and forced it to withdraw after a brief engagement.

School Asked To Plan Rubber Salvage

Children of the public and separate schools are going to be asked to collect rubber during May, and "constantly thereafter," according to a notice received by Public School Inspector Copp today.

The letter from the Department of Education suggested that inspectors "might give teachers advance notice of this campaign in order that they may be in readiness for it."

Rubber salvage has become a necessary enterprise since the might of Japan swept over the islands of the East Indies, and the enthusiasm of children is being recruited as a juvenile auxiliary service.

In this appeal to children they will have to close their eyes to the inconsistency of official permission for the kind of pleasure motoring and wearing away of rubber that was seen on Saturday and Sunday. Actually it was substantially less than normal, fewer cars were rolling, but pedestrian opinion was readily convinced that far too many cars were burning week-end gasoline.

Throng Attends Service For Sgt. Atkinson

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (ENS) —Citizens of this town joined in paying tribute to Flight Sergeant Douglas Maclear Atkinson at a memorial service held at Christ Church on Sunday afternoon when nearly five hundred people sought to enter the church. No greater expression of the unanimous sympathy for Campbellford's first casualty of World War II and the cause for which he fought and gave his life, could have been displayed than that which was shown by those who came from miles around and who had known him as a softball player, a hockey player or as just one of themselves, who came to stand, many outside the church's portals as the building was far too small to accommodate all who would have entered. It was an impressive service, made more impressive by the fact that this 23-year-old youth was an only child and like many others he had set an example of selflessness that served to bring the war and its implications home to many for the first time. Though he was killed on April 16th and buried last Tuesday at London Road Cemetery in Chippenham, Wiltshire, England, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Atkinson have yet to receive more specific information regarding him than that he lost his life while piloting a bomber on an operational flight.

For the service, which was conducted by Rev. A. C. Herbert of Hastings, both the altar and chancel held many floral tributes, and a full choir with Miss Gertrude Maynard, organist, assisted, while at the close Bugler Walter Lowe sounded the Past Post and Reveille while the entire congregation stood for a minute's silence. Rev. Herbert paid high tribute to the youth who said was "well above the average" and he took for his text, "A Woman's Devotion."

Rev. Herbert began by telling the story of the Lord's last week on earth when at a supper given in His honor at the home of Simon the Leper. Mary who wished to do her Master the highest honor regardless of cost and indifferent to the remark that any witness might make, began to wet His feet with her tears and wiped them with the hair of her head and kissed His feet and anointed them with ointment. "The gift was a lavish one and the ointment was precious" and they called it a waste saying it would have been better to sell the ointment giving the money to the poor but the Lord rebuked these cold-hearted faultfinders and tells them that the woman "has wrought a good work" and one that He accepts and approves. The speaker then went on to say that the praise of Christ endured forever and that the pathway to lasting honor was to honor Christ. "Had the universal church but listened to the pleadings of their Christian brethren in Germany any Central Europe this bloody carnage might have been frustrated by God's grace and mercy. Yet as human history so frequently reveals, man prefers to learn the hard and sorrowful way for correction."

Spring Reduces Y.P.U. Attendance

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27.—(ENS.)—Warmer days and shorter nights are already taking their toll of young people's meetings throughout the township and evidence of this was seen by the report of the regular meeting of the Stephen's church (Hoards) Y.P.U. on Friday evening when a smaller than usual attendance was recorded. Cobourg Golf Club Opens For Season

COBOURG, April 27—(ENS).—Cobourg Golf Club started its season's activities on Saturday with a good turnout to try out the greens. The club is under the same efficient management as last year.

Forty Airmen Guests Of Trent I.O.D.E.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (ENS) —Some forty airmen from the Trenton station were entertained by the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter here during the week-end. It was the fourth group the local Chapter has so entertained and this represents one of the many ways in which they are helping the various armed forces both from the physical and morale standpoint. The week-end group, for whom the I.O.D.E. arranged with private home owners both in Campbellford and Seymour to provide homes during the two days, wore badges which identified them as coming from the British Isles, New Zealand and the United States. Others came from distant Canadian provinces. Principal features of the week-end entertainment was a dance followed by refreshments at the parish hall which was turned over to the Chapter on Saturday evening. Members of the Trent Valley Chapter I.O.D.E. assisted with this phase of the entertainment and a most enjoyable time was spent in singing with Arnold Bates leading and in dancing for which both Mr. Bates and Mrs. J. O. Benor provided music. One of the visiting airmen, John Verney, Chelmsford, England, also assisted in directing the singing which turned out to be one of the highlights of the evening as the entertainment committee very thoughtfully arranged several contests by which the visitors were enabled to choose their partners for lunch. Several prizes were given and one of these for the man who had been longest in the service, went to Walter Bulmer of Leeds, England, who had been in the army at the evacuation of Dunkirk and Crete, and later transferred to the air force. LAC Bulmer, also won the birthday dance while LAC Harold Mason of S. Wales, England, won the lucky spot dance. Bridge prizes went to LAC F. Ludington, Bedford, England, and LAC Percy Morrison, Liverpool. On Sunday morning many of the boys were seen with their hosts or hostesses at local churches before they returned by bus or thumb to Trenton.

Veteran's Dance Is Gala Affair

PORT HOPE, April 27— (ENS).—The Town Hall on Friday night took on a festive air when a large crowd attended No. 3 Platoon, 32nd Reserve Company, Guard of Canada, dance. This was called the Minesweeper Dance, as all the proceeds go for comforts of H.M.C.S. Port Hope minesweeper.

Russ Creighton's Orchestra supplied excellent music, while an outstanding floor show was much enjoyed by all.

At this dance the smokes for the boys overseas were not forgotten, this being one of the splendid services the V.G.C. No. 3 Platoon look after regularly. The draw was made for the beautiful Dresden Plate quilt which was so kindly donated by Mrs. Walter Grieves and on which $37.00 was realized from the sale of tickets. The draw was made by Miss Margaret MacTaggart and the lucky winner was George Linfoot of Port Hope. The proceeds from this draw will be used for overseas smokes for the boys on active service.

Victory Club On 10th Concession

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (ENS) —Another of the many organizations which have sprung up in this district to assist with Canada's war effort is the 10th Line Victory Club which comprises a group of country women who found it rather difficult to come to town to attend Red Cross meetings and decided to band together in an effort to make their work more effective.

They began their activities early in February but it was not till Friday evening that they attracted any amount of attention though they have already made eight quilts and a number of dresses and babies' garments, which were subsequently turned over to either the Red Cross, I.O.D.E. or Salvation Army here.

During the past three months the group met weekly, but now, with the many demands on the time of country women, they plan to gather but once a month at the home of one of their number. Only a month ago did they decide to give themselves a name and as a result much of their work in the past was merely sent in under the name of one of their members. On Friday evening they held a dance at Polmont Hall on No. 30 Highway, 6 miles west of her, and from this and a draw on a spool quilt they realized over $32.00. Mrs. Alex. Green of Seymour West won the quilt which was donated by Mrs. John Brown. The music for dancing was provided by Fife's Orchestra from Norwood and Everett Salter of Havelock assisted in conducting the dance. At the close, members of the club, Mrs. Geo. Brown, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. E. Shorter, Mrs. Leona Murphy, Mrs. E. Outwater, Mrs. D. Lynch, Mrs. M. Blakely, Mrs. A. Green, Mrs. Jos. Quinn and Mrs. William Baker assisted in serving refreshments.

Salvage Nets $73 In Week's Effort

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (ENS) That their salvage campaign is gaining in momentum was seen in the report submitted at the regular meeting of the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter which met on Friday evening. According to the figures submitted by the salvage convener, Mrs. J. M. Ferris, the branch has by weekly collections raised approximately $72.77 from the sale of paper, cartons, magazines and other waste material collected during the month of April and every cent of this along with money raised from their various other undertakings, will go directly into items which will be sent to the men from this district who are serving in the armed forces of Canada. Part of its goes for cigarettes which are sent over monthly in lots of 3,000 and are a welcome sight to Canadian soldiers in a land where a package of twenty costs nearly double what they pay at home. And having learned that it is not only difficult to obtain smokes but also matches, the branch is considering sending every one from this district a lighter, together with a supply of flints. This matter was discussed but no definite decision was reached so the lighters may not reach the boys till they get their Christmas parcels. Last year they sent each of them a flashlight complete with batteries and this was a fairly large financial undertaking since there were at that time more than 160 listed from this district.

During the meeting the emphatic need for knitted items for the navy, particularly mitts, helmets and scarves, was announced and members ere reminded that the collection of magazines for shipment to various army centres in Canada, was being continued. Such publications as Life and MacLeans were said to be the most popular and they formed a large part of the shipment contained in four cartons last week

The regent, Mrs. G. A. Ironside, read a communication from the Sir Charles Tupper Chapter in Vancouver which is sponsoring a Spitfire Fund. The letter appealed for old spectacles, reasoning that many the home has one or more pairs that are no longer in use and that many an older person may have an extra pair they would be willing to give up to help the fund.

Mrs. Jack Cowell was appointed convener of War Savings Stamps and to assist the government in its work of selling the stamps plans were made to begin a publicity campaign locally which would include putting posters in the various stores and other places of business. Also read was a telegram from Provincial Chapter endorsing an affirmative vote in the plebiscite and urging all members to vote in favor of releasing the government from past commitments.

Taggers for the annual tag day on behalf of the Navy League, to be held May 6th, were appointed and members hope to equal the collection of $160.00 which they raised last year.

Though they regard as doubtful the sending of a delegate to the 42nd National Annual Meeting in Montreal from May 28th to June 4th, the Regent nevertheless read a communication outlining the program for which one of the highlights will be an address by Lieut. Commander William Strange at the banquet on June 3rd.

To new members, Mrs. William Nelson and Mrs. Frank Chapman, were officially elcomed at the meeting, and Mrs. J. D. Mills gave a very interesting talk on Madame Chiang Kai Shek as one of the regular features of the gatherings.

Brownies, Cubs Mark St. George's Day

PORT HOPE, April 26.—(ENS).—Sunday, April the 26th being youths' day and also the celebration of Saint Georges Day, the Brownies of Pack No. 1 and Pack No. 2 Guides met at the St. John's parish hall and marched to St. John's Anglican church on Sunday morning, while Pack No. 2 Brownies and Guides met at the town hall at 10.30 Sunday morning and marched in full inform to St. Mark's Anglican church.

The services at these churches were also attended by the Cubs and Boy Scouts, who had a presentation of colors ceremony.

The ministers at these churches centred their text around St. George's Day and the service at St. Mark's was on St. George and the Dragon and was specially adapted to suit the children.

The evening service at the United church was attended by Durham Lodge, Independent Order of Oddfellows, while the Rev. Mr. Gordon's sermon was titled "The Kindness of God." A special double quartette, "Softly and Tenderly," was given by Mesdames Sing, Garnett Skitch and Waklin; Messrs. Darling, Cole, Fulford and Roberts.

There was also a parade of the High school cadets in full uniform on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock around the town.

R. Baxter Lauds Port Hope For Aiding Sailors

PORT HOPE, April 27 —(ENS)—Mr. R. B. Baxter, chairman of the Publicity Committee for the H.M.C.S., Port Hope, has handed the press the report given by Mrs. G. V. Strong, chairman of supplies committee, on ditty bags and wool. Mrs. Strong's report in detail is as follows:—

"The co-operation of the townspeople and the surrounding district with the committee has been splendid. I should mention the public and high schools, Morrish Women's Institute. Welcome Red Cross unit and St. Mark's Guild of Service (afternoon and evening branches) who have taken charge of and knitted quantities of wool. To Mrs. Trew and Miss Honey and all those who have Knitted wool given out by them to Miss Alma Butler of the Mathews Conveyor Co., Miss Ola Fox and Mrs. Earl Harvey who gave their services as stengographers. Barber who made ditty bags and to Mrs. E. Edgar who solved the problem of transportation of wool.

Full Report Later

Later I hope to report in full all articles which have been knitted in Port Hope and vicinity.

The sixty-nine ditty bags which are required have all been filled and the sailor adopted by the person or organization who filled them. Later more may be needed, but I feel sure the need will be met. The boys have an approximate value of six dollars each. so they are no small contributino to our minesweeper. Some have generously contributed sweaters and woollen goods as well. The complete list of ditty bags is listed below. Respectfully submitted by Beatrice Strong:

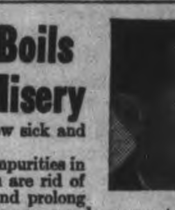
Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery



If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM

Helping To Keep Prices Reasonable

High taxes help to guard the country against unreasonable rises in the cost of living: They divert money from unnecessary spending for peace-time goods to Government spending for essential war-time material.

Saving money, practised by thousands of thrifty depositors has a similar effect: It helps to keep prices from soaring by decreasing the demand for non-essential, peace-time commodities.

Thus, when you save money in a savings account, you benefit yourself and the country. You will need to save, not only for family and personal emergencies, but to pay taxes and to buy war securities. Saving today is a patriotic service.

More Talk Of Second Front

The agitation for a second front to aid Russia, which seemed to have died down about a month ago, is now shaking Britain again. This time the demand seems to be fiercer than ever. The success of R.A.F. raids and the wonderful exploits of the Commandos have filled the British people with a passion to go in and win; they want to throw caution to the winds and make an assault on Europe, with the idea of knocking Germany out of the war before winter. The recent impassioned speech of Lord Beaverbrook before the American Newspaper Publishers' Association stressed the passion for attack which has seized England, finding supporters even in the most conservative quarters. "Strike out to help Russia," is the cry; "strike out violently; strike even recklessly."

This all sounds very encouraging, as stirring cries of battle always do, but military leaders may be excused for doubting their real efficacy. An attack upon Europe cannot be a rapid and daring exploit, a sort of magnified Commando raid. Probably an army of considerable numbers could be landed in Europe and would undoubtedly fight with the greatest persistence and success there, but it would have to be supplied with ammunition, fuel and food, and this presents a pretty problem in logistics. It is a problem which can be solved and will be solved, but if the Allied Command does not embark upon such an adventure now it is not necessarily a sign that they have no imagination and no sense of the value of taking the initiative. It would be an inconceivable disaster if an assault were made upon Europe and failed when victory was in sight for lack of supplies.

Meanwhile there is plenty of evidence that the Germans are worried. They have the whole Western European coastline to defend, and even if their whole army were available for this work (instead of being mainly occupied in Russia) they could not make it absolutely secure. It is believed in some circles, too, that Hitler's reverses will drive him to reckless acts in the hope of seizing victory from the jaws of defeat. An attack upon Britain would be such an act, and recent concentrations in Norway may be preparations for some such desperate move. After two years of anticipation there can be little chance of an invasion of Britain succeeding; such a failure would be the finish of Hitler.

But the British people, very understandably, do not want to win the war by successfully withstanding an attack on their own shores. They want to fight the enemy on his own ground, and they feel that this is the time to do it. They feel shame that Russia, whom they treated in an off-hand manner to say the least before the war, is saving them now, and in wartime the British do not like to have others doing their fighting for them. They are tired of remaining on the defensive.

Predictions as to what will come of all this excitement are merely foolish. It may be something; it may be nothing. But theer have been indications recently—hints in the public statements of important men—that the hour of attack approaches. Britain will not move until she is sure that she can keep moving until victory is won. But that time may not be far distant. Those of us who are so far away can only sit tight and hope.

Help The Blind

Doubtless many readers of this paper heard the appeal for the Canadian National Institue for the Blind which was made recently by His Excellency the Governor-General in a broadcast address. "I appeal to you all to give something, however small, in aid of a cause which must commend itself to all Canadians whatever their race or religion or circumstances," he said; "I feel sure that I do not appeal in vain."

Blindness is one of the greatest misfortunes which can happen to a man or woman. It means that a whole world of sensation is lost forever and a long process of re-education is needed before the person so bereft is able to regard himself as other than an invalid. But, though always a blow, blindness need no longer be a tragedy. The National Institute is ready with help, experienced teaching and a background of practical suggestion which makes the blind man reasonably independent and self-supporting in the shortest possible time.

Blindness is one of the most common war injuries, and the National Institute was founded in 1918 primarily to help soldiers who had lost their sight in battle. We can hardly hope that this war will not leave its quota of blind. The Institute is ready to help them, but it cannot carry on its work without money. Its present drive is to raise $75,000. Will you make a contribution? Those of us who can see have a duty toward those who cannot, and this is a chance to discharge a part of that duty.

Intelligence Rather Than Precision

Canada has not been long in following the lead given by Sir James Grigg, Britain's new Secretary of State for War, in adopting a simplified form of drill. Sir James thought that British troops wasted a lot of time in learning parade ground tricks and he made slashing reforms in the manual of arms. Now, for instance, troops on the march change their direction by wheeling rather than by the older procedure, and rifle drill has been greatly simplified. Canada is adopting similar reforms.

This change is made necessary by the changing form of the army. In the days when armies were recruited from a not particularly intelligent class and when they had months and years of inactivity, drill gave them an end in life; it was something that they could learn to do supremely well. It gave them a sense of unity, pride in themselves, and a rather showy and beautiful form of discipline. But now the army is recruited from all sections of the population when it is actually needed for fighting; it has no time to learn parade ground precision and in modern warfare such precision, which inhibits individual action, is a handicap. It is a fact also that parade ground drill is intolerable to men of intelligence; they do not need esprit de corps instilled into them by such methods; they have it, and patriotism as well, or they would not be in the army. Also, the modern soldier is more of a guerilla than anything else; he must be ready to use his head and any weapons which are handy at any time. The dependence upon words of command which is learned on the parade ground is dangerous for him. The modern soldier needs only enough drill to make him realize that he is a soldier and enough to teach him the most efficient way to carry his arms and use them.

It is impossible, however, not to regret the smart regiments of the old days, which moved with machine-like precision, every button and bit of braid in place and every chinstrap at the same level. That had its uses. Veterans of the last war tell of Guards regiments returning from the front, broken and dog-tired, but moving in perfect order and supremely contemptuous of the "amateur" soldiers; they had been through hell, but they were still the Guards.

Unfortunately that sort of discipline and courage are wasted in this war. It was grand, and it was war in its day, but we have moved toward a more untidy, rough-and-tumble sort of fighting. The bowmen who fought at Crecy straggled over the fields in groups, but they won the day nevertheless. Drill can go if courage and intelligence remain.

Germans Are "Complacent" Too

Here in Canada we have been given many a tongue-lashing for our "complacency" regarding the present war. The party in power, the party out of power, and parties which may hardly be said to exist at all have taken their turn to roast us in this matter. But it appears that we are not alone. Others are complacent too.

The latest place where complacency has shown its smiling, placid face is in Germany! According to the Berlin paper Schwarze Korps "Germans are not yet spiritually armed for the demands of war when it is only grudgingly and with a sense of heavy sacrifice that they consent to give up things that are unnecessary." This sounds hopeful, read in a country which is one of the United Nations. Surely we can compete with the Germans in any spiritual armament race. And we read that every German should make it a point of honor to flaunt old and dilapidated wearing apparel; probably we could do this too. Most of us have some old and dilapidated wearing apparel which we could flaunt if it would be of any help to the war effort.

There are other evidences of complacency in Germany. Apparently there is a great deal of swindling going on in connection with the building trade, and this is so bad that the Government has taken to hanging the offenders. Apparently profiteering during a time of national crisis counts as complacency. So also does impertinence on the part of waiters in restaurants, though these are not hanged; bad food so served and when customers complain the waiters are saucy about it. The German journalist does not suggest that this situation might be remedied by serving better food.

Altogether the tirade in Schwarze Korps about complacency is very amusing, and not a little instructive. Can it be that German devotion to the Nazi regime is not strong enough to survive bad food, poor clothes, and a drastically reduced standard of living? What the Germans call complacency we might label discontent.

Impending British Coal Shortage

Labor difficulties of all kinds are invariable accompaniments of war. Britain faces a coal shortage next winter because too many miners from the South Wales area have been taken from their work to serve in the army. Apparently when war broke out it was not realized that the tremendous industrial expansion for war work would mean a vastly increased coal supply, and every experienced miner on the job. The Rhondda valley, perhaps the biggest single coal area in Britain, has suffered depression ever since oil was substituted for coal as the fuel of the Fleet; the distress of South Wales has been a familiar story for years. Now the Rhondda and lesser coal-mining areas are having a return to good times, and the former problem of unemployment among the miners has changed to a demand for every miner who can be found.

The domestic market in Britain now requires 4,000,000 tons of coal weekly, or 208,000,000 tons a year; production on this scale would require the assistance of every miner in the country, and all the younger ones have been drafted into the army. There is also discontent among the workers because they feel that the mine owners are profiting unreasonably from war contracts, and for this reason it is difficult to appeal to them on patriotic grounds. The dispute between the miners and the mine owners is as old as the coal industry, and it appears from such information as is available that the owners have been less affected by the war than capitalists in other fields. Meanwhile, Britain is diverting all the coal she mines to war work, and unless some miners are released from the army soon, there will be a shortage for domestic use next winter.

NOTE AND COMMENT

For the lover of "escapist" literature we can recommend nothing better than an old book of cheque-stubs.

The Hon. Ernest Bevin has declared that we must have "a people's peace." It's a pretty phrase but we would like to hear it expressed before we agree.

Three members of the French legation in Washington have resigned to join the Free French. And when a civil Servant resigns—that's news.

Women have also taken up working in saw mills. A contemporary enquires whether we will have to call them "lumberjills?"

A boy playing with matches started an $800 fire last week. Maybe this gifted lad could do something with our pile of wet spring leaves.

Toronto is converting her old telephone directories into shell cases. Let's hope that none of the shells get to the wrong number.

A Toronto pianist complains that a bite from a dog has ruined the Cupid's bow of her lips. But for some reason headline writers have missed their chance to call the incident "The Case of the Bow and the Bow-Wow."

Mussolini announced some time ago that he wanted to see earlier marriages and more babies in Italy. As a result there were 90,000 less marriages and 205,000 fewer babies in Italy in 1941 than in 1940. If the dictator wants a flourishing population he will have to give his people peace and better food.

COME IN, SPHINX

When Cleopatra lived the Nile on,
Her legs had neither wool nor lisle on.
She danced no lovely measures gay on Tan stockings knit of silk or rayon.
She wore no jewelry of plastic,
And as she "tripped the light fantastic"
No garments made of coal and air
Were necessary to ensnare.

Omniscient Fates up on the height,
Who make the moving finger write,
What spell's in store for modern maid-on
With simulated stockings sprayed on?

Farming News And Views for Ontario Farmer

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

WHEN I last wrote, it seemed as though spring looked two or three weeks earlier than usual but the weather took a hand, as is its wont in farm matters, and Ontario will finish its spring probably a week earlier. Between rain and snow moisture is quite good and there is some delightful warmth in the air. It was a good spring for harrowing and I hope farmers did a good deal of this kind of work on the top soil in meadows, pastures and wheat. Early growth counts for a good deal and continued growth, once it is started, is quite important. At least a three year plan is what farmers need at the present time, and this plan must take into account the greatest possible war production, and the best condition of tilth and strength we can have our land in at the close of the war.

Dairy products, particularly cheese and canned milk, and bacon are two products Britain wants and the United States wants our cattle, a few murmurs to the contrary notwithstanding. There has been a little agitation among a very few badly informed people about increasing the weight of our Wiltshire sides of bacon. Whether or not these people know that it is the purchaser and not the seller who has the say in what's wanted, I do not know, but it is a very ill advised suggestion. It is urged that a farmer can put an extra 15 lbs. on a pig cheaper than he has grown the animal so it seems like a very bare faced effort at a little war profiteering, but very few farmers fall for it. Britain knows what she wants in bacon and if she wants it heavier she will say so. There is some little agitation in Britain for a heavier hog and so a little more profit for the pig feeder. Both Britain and Canada got some lessons in bacon in the last war Thick fat hogs went over as Canadian bacon and the cure was far from good with the result that Canadian bacon got a bad name which it took years to live down. I came across this general condemnation of Canadian bacon in England for several years after the war, and we have only just now lived it down.

The only market in the world for Canadian bacon is Britain and yet we find some people either foolish enough or greedy enough to try to jeopardize this important feature of our trade. However, the British Ministry of Food determines the standard and size of the bacon that is wanted from Canada and this is the kind of order we will endeavor to fill.

ONE of the things we must try to determine as time goes on is the changes that are necessary in our Prairie farming to make it self sustaining. When this war is over we will have to curtail very largely the money we now pay to keep wheat farming going. We cannot afford to run the risks of having a shortage of wheat until this war is over. Then we will know that the unbearable burden of taxes we will have to pay will force reductions in all expenditures that are not absolutely necessary, for much simpler operation of our Governments and the carrying of our war debts. We cannot do otherwise than spend lavishly during a war, and in an all out effort for control of the World, we are simply forced to spend all that can be collected and borrowed. There will come an end, however, and our farming population must then have preparations made for the organized production of food and for the sound establishment of farm homes, the best asset our nation can possibly have.

British farmers have made good progress, during the past year, in providing better feeding stuffs for their cattle, and particularly for dairy cows, and they have accomplished it largely through grass silage. We in this province usually think in terms of corn when we mention silage. The British farmer cannot grow corn (maize) successfully as he does not get the hot weather which a corn crop enjoys. He, therefore, remembers that grass is the most perfect single feed for his dairy herd and so decided to "preserve" grass for winter feeding by ensiling it. In a damp climate like you find in Britain it is not difficult to grow several crops of grass during the season. The implement manufacturers have come to he rescue and provided machines for cutting and gathering grass when it is at its most promising stage for feeding to cows. This grass is put in a silo, often a rather temporary one, and then provision is made for repeating the cutting again and again until quite late in the autumn if rains continue.

THIS method has preserved grass, in practically its best condition, for winter feeding. It does more than that. Imported cake and other feeds strong in protein are well nigh impossible to get, but grass ensilage supplies a cattle feed with all the protein content of a grass pasture. The result has been that silos have gone up all over Britain and many a convert has been made of farmers to this feed which has grown in popularity with a rush. What with ensiling grass and treating straw with caustic soda Britain has not found it necessary to make the drastic reduction at one time though necessary in her cattle population. This war has taught some new lessons in farming that will revolutionize some features of this age old business.

The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Hudson, states that Britain has six million acres more under the plow than before the war. The potato acreage in 1938 was 700,000 acres, last season it was over one million acres and it will be still further increased this year. Vegetable production has been increased from two and a half million to over four million tons, and this year Britain will grow four hundred and five thousand acres of sugar beets.

GRASS and clover seed is a pretty stiff price, but it is all to the good for the grower. It would be unwise, however, for farmers to refrain from seeding any fields they had planned on. A regular rotation of clover and grasses is too highly important to our agriculture to be neglected or varied too much. There are a great many opinions as to the length of time fields should be left in grass, and local conditions have a considerable bearing on this, but there is a definite move away from so called permanent grass. If clovers are storing a good deal of nitrogen in certain fields, and if the grass is eaten off by animals pasturing and adding further to his soil's fertility, it is good economy for the farmer to cash this fertility in a good grain crop or two and to then seed down again. This is planned farming and should only be varied by the farmer's own sound opinion gained by experience in his land.

The first of May is going to find some more price fixing arranged so as to make a reasonable return to the producers without adding too much to the prices the consumers have to pay. There are going to be some difficulties to overcome in getting fair prices established but a good many headaches have been saved by keeping prices within bounds during this war. There are still difficulties in the way, and the business of price fixing is going to be no easy task, but the men in charge seem inclined to do the fair thing, which will give satisfaction in the end.

NOTHING FOR OVERTIME

• Hitler Needs Oil—Quickly

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—By every lesson drawn from experience, some early week-end should see Hitler's forces loosed in Russia in a final effort to annihilate the Red Armies that have given him his first bitter taste of defeat.

Rarely in the war has a Hitler-timed stroke failed to fall on a week-end. The initial military reasoning which dictated that may be outworn, but it has become a Hitler habit.

Where he will strike first is a much more difficult prediction to arrive at. Full-scale German attack is possible now in the Crimea and Southern Ukraine. And there is testimony that Hitler's prime objective wherever and whenever he strikes, will be oil sources.

"Be sure that the strategy of Germany and Japan is directly pointed at the Caucasus, Persia and Iraq, all oil producers," Lord Beaverbrook told an American audience. "Thus above all do they hope to subdue the rest of the world to their will."

But he hope of crippling the United Nations' war effectiveness by cutting their European oil life lines is only part of the picture. The other part is the Axis' own urgent need for oil.

INDIA FEELING PINCH

Japan's stunningly swift sweep down the China Sea to take possession of the vast oil fields of the Netherlands East Indies and now her march into Burma has achieved greater danger of Allied oil strangulation on that front than all Hitler's victories have accomplished in Europe. India and the China area already are feeling the oil pinch. The last important producing field in Burma is dangerously threatened.

If Allied sources best informed as to oil resources of the Axis are right about it, however, both Germany and Japan, to say nothing of Italy, are themselves approaching oil starvation. Cumulative deficits in their reserves are steadily piling up, deficits that no synthetic production has offset.

The Axis' war effort on both sides of the world had meant a tremendous drain on oil reserves. Meagre Italian participation in the sea-air conflicts of the Mediterranean may in part be prompted by lack of oil.

Japan has gained control of the surface above vast oil pools, but little easement of her oil shortage. Dutch and British "scorched earth" policy has denied them full access to those rich oil pools for many months to come.

There are no authoritative estimates as to extent of Japanese oil reserves or oil needs in war.

HUGE DEFICIT

The most recent compilation, reported to he American Chemical Society, set up a probable Axis annual deficit of greater than 67,000,000 barrels in Europe. The aggregate of synthetic production was placed at nearly 123,000,000 barrels a year against an estimated Axis annual requirement for all purposes of 255,000,000 barrels. Oil wells furnish enough to reduce the deficit to 67,000,000.

The conclusion of the experts was that a tremendous expansion of Axis synthetic output must be attained unless the Axis soon can gain control and use of some such great natural oil source as the Caucasus, Persia or Iraq. And that is precisely the reason Lord Beaverbrook pointed to those regions as the prime objective of Hitler's campaign.

It also underscores the Beaverbrook declaration in urging an Allied counter-offensive to aid Russia that if the Germans can again be held in Russia, a glittering possibility looms of an Axis collapse this year. Oil starvation could turn the trick.

FUN FOR BEARS

THERE comes the formation in New York of the Combat Complacency Club, all of the members of whish have sworn not to shave their faces for the duration. A six-inch beard is minimum qualification for the grade of "tapper." Wherever folks may be seek an hour or two of relief from worry—in theatres, ballrooms, night clubs, restaurants and such—a "tapper" will come along, stick his beard into your neck and croak: "Have your fun, but remember there's a war on!"

The beards suggest a new line of fun—while never forgetting there's a war on; such as sitting on the "tapper" and pulling all the hairs out one by one.—Chicago Sun.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair....For we which live are always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh....We have the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak; knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you.

For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God. For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.—II Cor. iv, 8, 11, 13-18.

Music Pupils Give Fine Recital

Unseasonable heat did little to hamper the performance of the musical pupils of Isabel I. Brain, who gave a charming recital and musical tea in the Green Room on Saturday afternoon.

All of the pupils, from the youngest beginner to the seasoned veterans of many recitals played with the confidence and composure which Mrs. Brain always seems able to instil into her pupils. The children played, too, with a careful technique, with no slurring of notes and little stumbling over stubborn fingers, and showed a fine sense of rhythm and timing.

The program was opened by Ernest Darling, who played "Rule Britannia," followed by a group of three beginners, Jimmy Johnson, who played "In The Moonlight" and "Gaily Sing"; Betty Waddell, who played "If I Were a Sailor," and Joyce Abernethy, who played the Mozart Minuet in B flat. Elizabeth Blackwell played a rollicking "Cobbler's Song," and a selection of Nursery Rhymes in which the audience joined.

Jane Heller played Heller's "Curious Story," and Margaret Walker followed her with the old folk tune, "Charley Is My Darlin'." Ruth gave a very creditable performance of an attractive piece entitled "Froggies." A Clementi Sonatina and a Scherzo by Schubert were played by Mary Jane Loucks; and Anne Young played the famous Baccharini Minuet and Sonata by Schumann. Elinor Shirley gave a very fine performance of the Beethoven Theme and Variations and an Etude by Heller. Nancy Sootheran did equally well with the well-known "Moment Musicale" of Schubert and a Waltz by Brahms. Ruth Gaskell played excellently, excerpts from Schumann's "Scenes From Childhood," and "Fantasia" by Mozart. "God Save The King" was played by Judy Clark.

Pupils Display War Work For Parents

Following a very enjoyable program of poems read by the pupils who composed them, the reading of essays, class singing and choral reading, a most interesting and praise deserving display of knitting was viewed by the guests of Grade 8 pupils of St. Mary's Convent.

Representing only a half year's work, and this classes second contribution to war work this year, the quantity and quality of this display was indeed remarkable. Among many articles displayed were aero caps for the Red Cross, socks for the navy, mufflers for the army, various articles for the I.O.D.E. and 5 beautiful afghans. Beautiful and dainty baby garments were also included in the display, also a very lovely large afghan not yet completed, upon which all the pupils worked and which upon completion will be raffled for a patriotic fund.

The teacher of this class as well as the children themselves deserve the highest praise for this work as only great patience, hard work and persistent effort could have produced such a satisfactory result, and provide for our brave defenders across the sea a little from our great store of comfort, happiness, and at present safety which we are privileged to enjoy in this Canada of ours.

CONFIDENCE GREATEST ASSET MARRIED COUPLES CAN HAVE

Husbands and Wives Should Learn To Prefer Truth and Not To Be Hurt By It

Young Charlie Newlywed was expatiating to me the other day about the charms and virtues of his bride. After telling me how sweet and dear and beautiful she was, and what a marvelous little housekeeper, he caught his breath in awe and wonder at the good luck that had befallen him, and explained: "And just think, Mrs. Dix, I can tell her the truth!" Then he added: "None of the men I know can do that. They all lie to their wives, so I thought that women were just somehow allergic to the truth and that to keep things running smoothly at home a husband had to camouflage the bad news with a pretty little fairy story the Missus would enjoy hearing. This rather got me, for I am a poor and unconvincing liar, but I thought not being able to speak out in meeting was one of the drawbacks to marriage. So the other night, after I sat in a game of poker with a lot of pirates and lost most of my week's salary, I screwed my courage to the sticking point and began a yarn I had concocted about meeting an old friend who had eleven starving babies, and a sick wife, and who was just out of the hospital himself, and how big-hearted Charlie couldn't refuse to help him, and so forth. But just as I was working up to the real pathos of the narrative, she laughed and said: 'Oh, come off Charlie! Turn off the water works. I know you played poker with the boys and they won everything you had but your shirt. And what of it? I didn't expect you to retire to a hermit's cave when you married me. I like to hear about your good times. They give me something amusing to think about while I am washing dishes and peeling the potatoes.'

He's Lucky, Indeed

"And then," added Charlie triumphantly, "I knew I was the white-haired son of Lady Luck, for I had gotten a wife I didn't have to lie to. And I felt richer than if she had told me that an uncle she had never heard of in Australia had died and left her a million dollars."

"You are indeed fortunate," I replied, "if you have married a woman to whom you can tell the truth, for the husbands and wives who

By FRED D. CRAIG

The power of the Ottawa R.C.A.F. Fliers finally asserted itself Saturday night in the decisive game for the Allan Cup and it was far too much for the gallant Port Arthur Bearcats who were overwhelmed by a Flier surge in the second and third periods, were beaten 7 to 1. The Lakehead team got the only goal of the first session and at the end of the stanza looked to have an even chance to go through to a win. But the Airmen uncorked a continuous assault at the beginning of the middle session that soon had results and from then on there was only one team out there. Ottawa picked up four goals in that period and added three more in the final chapter without a reply from the western representatives. After a great fight in which they came from two games behind to tie the series it looked as if the Bearcats cracked under the pressure in the final test. It was the worst beating they had taken in the entire series. They are to be congratulated, however on extending a powerful star-jammed club to the limit to take the cup. Incidentally they should be popular with the C.A.H.A. whose coffers were replenished by the big gates collected in the finals.

* * * * * *

The big three in hockey this season therefore are the Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup winners, the Ottawa R.C.A.F. Fliers, amateur champions and Allan Cup holders and the Portage La Prairie Terriers, holders of the Memorial Cup emblematic of the Canadian junior title. And if the scorers are on to their job the National Service department in charge of the military draft rates an assist on two of these championships. In the first place they drafted the Kraut line from Boston and by wrecking the Bruins' chances hand the Stanley Cup to the Leafs. And then Messrs. Schmidt, Bauer and Dumart after being called out for service enlisted in the Air Force and found themselves as a line with the Ottawa Fliers. That move of course eventually meant the Allan Cup for the R.C.A.F. outfit for it was unquestionably the drive of the Kraut line that finally enabled the Fliers to win the series from the Bearcats. Most hockey authorities agree that without the former Boston line the Ottawa club would not have won the Allan Cup.

The fatal accident to Sergt. Instructor Sam Rogow, R.C.A.F., has brought deep regret in the Y.M.C.A. and basketball circles. The young flier had been a familiar figure around the Y.M.C.A. since he was a small boy and had a host of friends among the members. He played basketball with the Collegiate junior squad in the Cossa series for several seasons and afterward was prominent in the City Basketball League as a members of the Bees and other teams. He was a steady, dependable guard, a good checker and playmaker and was deservedly popular with players and fans. The news of his death has been a shock to everybody connected with basketball.

Feature of the American League doings just now is not the work of the New York Yanks. They were expected to be up around the top. Rather it is the surge of the Cleveland Indians who [illegible] games and are tied with the Yanks on the top layer of the American League standing. Over the week-end the team led by Lou Boudreau came [illegible] while the New Yorkers were [illegible] Red Sox. Meanwhile the Detroit Tigers [illegible] St. Louis Browns three times in the same place and as a result of that triple win climbed into third place at the expense of the Red Sox. Cleveland with Milnar pitching five-hit ball defeated the White Sox Saturday 5 to 4, with Humphries and Ross twirling for the losers. On Sunday the Indians, outhit 7 to 5 by the Pale Hose managed to win 3 to 2 with Al Smith the winning pitcher and Johnny Rigney the loser.

The Yanks and Red Sox split even over the week-end, Boston took Saturday's game 4 to 2, with Dobson getting credit for the win and Lefty Gomez the loss. The veteran Jimmy Foxx hit his first homer of the season. In Sunday's game Marvin Breuer held the Boston crew to two hits, a homer by Bobby Doer with one on accounting for all the Red Sox runs as the Yanks won 7 to 2. Buddy Rosar homered with two on off Lefty Judd, pride of Ingersoll. Detroit's three wins over St. Louis saw pitching triumphs by two former Buffalo Bisons. Fuchs who won Saturday's game 4 to 3 and Virgil Trucks who pitched the Tigers to a 10 to 5 triumph in the first half of Sunday's double-header. Trout was the winning heaver in the night cap, taken by Detroit 7 to 5. Connie Mack's A's spent the week-end taking two out of three from the Washington Senators. Washington won the Saturday game but dropped both ends of a twin bill on Sunday.

Brooklyn Dodgers continue to do quite nicely in the National League, winning three games from the Phillies. Johnny Allen pitched a three-hitter Saturday to win 4 to 1, and Curt Davis and former Montrealer Ed Head had winning efforts on Sunday. The best pitching battle of the week-end in the senior loop however was the 2 to 0 win of Pittsburg Pirates over the St. Louis Cards in the first game of the Sunday bill. Heintzelman in scoring a shutout allowed the Cards only six hits. The winners got but four off the offerings of Warneke and Beazley. Bucky Walters started a Sunday game against Chicago but the veteran was not no the scene when the Reds came from behind to win out 9 to 5, Junior Thompson getting credit for the win. In Saturday's game won by Chicago 5 to 4, Paul Derringer failed to go the route and Riddle had to be called in to finish the job. Passeau pitched steady ball for the Cubs.

Fans who saw something of the Ottawa Fliers-Port Arthur Bearcats series seem agreed that the kind of hockey dished out by the two clubs was away ahead ot fhe N.H.L. brand. It is true that much of the good stuff was contributed by the former pro line of Schmidt, Dumart and Bauer but there was this difference that the Kitchener-Waterloo stars were used a good deal more than they would have been in a professional game and as a result turned in a remarkable performance. Schmidt in particular would never have had a chance in the N.H.L. to put on the sort of show he did against the Bearcats because the big loop idea seems to be that lines have to be changed every two or three minutes, regardless of the state of the game. The Fliers on the other hand knew that the Kraut line carried most of their power and consequently the famous trio was left out there for long periods at a time and they enjoyed the experience.

There is some food for thought in this paragraph by Vern DeGeer, Globe and Mail sports editor: "There was considerable that was intriguing about the wide-open hockey offered by the Bearcats and Fliers in their two games at Maple Leaf Gardens. It was a branch of puckchasing far removed from the close-checking, solid-bumping, goalmouth-crowding of the major professionals. Enthusiastic amateur observers, naturally, were quick to point out that the style of play was much more entertaining, productive of more neat stickhandling, and more neat passing plays, than the more rugged brand of the professionals. And they were just as quick to add that more of the same kind of hockey was in sight for next winter, if border-crossing problems interfering with the National League schedule."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: In every game of the Allan Cup final series the team that scored the first goal won out....The crowd Saturday night was the largest that ever saw a senior amateur game in Canada.... The juniors have drawn bigger gates however....Detroit Tigers have won more games than any other American club....They are the first outfit in the junior loop to reach double figures in the city outfit in the junior loop to reach double figures in the victory column. Brooklyn Dodgers were the first to do the same thing in the National League....It's another season but you could not prove it by the Toronto ball club. They're back in their old familiar spot in the International League schedule....They can pull boners even in the big show....A Chicago White Sox batter failed to bat in his proper place in Sunday's game with Cleveland and the Indians failed to notice the mistake.... Hamilton Star Trundles 975 For Singles Lead

TORONTO, April 27.—The strong men of Hamilton's five-pin bowling colony moved in on the Toronto scene Saturday and pretty well dominated the rolling in the sixteenth annual Canadian Bowling Association championships at Olympia-Gerarrd alleys.

Willard Ott of Hamilton shared the limelight with a fellow townsman, Jimmy Morris, by scattering the pins for a three-game total of 975 to take over the singles lead. Morris pounded out a 903 total in singles to take second place and his nine-game string of 2,511 gave him first place in the race for grand ag-

Morris, in taking over the aggregate lead, rolled 743 in the team event, 865 in the doubles and 903 in the singles. Ott, not to be outdone, dropped into second place in the aggregate with a 783 team effort, 702 in the doubles and his smashing 975 singles total.

Some 300 out-of-town trundlers found the team event select circle a pretty tough obstacle and the best that any of the visiting squads could do in this was Hamilton Vi-Tones, 3,575, which was only good enough for eleventh place. Fifty teams had a shot at the 3,962 mark of American Dry No. 1 of Toronto. Fifty more out-of-town teams will try and jump over the total next Saturday when the annual classic comes to an end.

In the doubles event Saturday, Sumner and Falconi of Hamilton rolled into third place with 1,655, while Colville and Wagner, winners of this event in 1934, tied for fourth place with Smith and Guadagno of Toronto, by hitting 1,651.

Remember When—

TORONTO, April 27 (CP).—Helen Sievert hasn't been in the news lately, but her story is the kind that's always news.

Thirteen years ago this 18-year-old Toronto swimmer could move about only in a wheel chair. Ten years ago she could walk, after a fashion, with a steel brace on her left leg. Stricken with infantile paralysis, she seemed destined to be a cripple for life.

When she was eight years old she began to swim. Today she can walk without the brace and take part in normal activities of girls of her age. She is a member of a trio of ornamental swimmers, the Mermaids. She has won seven cups and 32 medals in swimming meets—all in ornamental competitions, because the disease handicapped her for speed swimming.

It's about time for Frankie Mann's annual attempt for reinstatement to Ontario tracks. This outstanding rider was suspended several years ago on charges of implication with a jockey's betting ring. He is in good standing in Quebec and is recognized as one of Canada's ohtstanding riders, but the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations, which control racing in Ontario, so far have refused to have him back. Frankie is working stock at Woodbine Park in Toronto these days.

Incidentally, the Polish colonel, who asked that his name not be used, and Flt. Lt. Fred Riley of the Royal Air Force, bridged a gap of six momentous years when they shook hands at a recent soccer game between the Poles and the R.A.F., won by the Airmen.

The two last met at the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin when Poland edged Great Britain 5-4 in the soccer series. Riley, a Corinthian club player, performed in that match. FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND [illegible]

The Story.—Baldy Brien, [illegible]way manager, barges in on a Canadian week-end party in search of his runaway star attraction, the singer Gay [illegible]. The guests know her as Fay [illegible]son, lovely [illegible] socialite. Michael Mack and Nigel Monkhouse, both in love with Fay, view Baldy with alarm. Peggy Mack, Michael's sister, has her own schemes with Baldy. Myra Mack is using her big-sisterly ingenuity to keep Peggy out of trouble. Ferdy Lorton, their host, calmly awaits developments.

PEGGY OPENS FIRE

CHAPTER X

Peggy donned her more modest bathing suit and a beach robe and slipped into the morning air that cooled the balcony outside her room. She saw Fay on the balcony outside the next room.

"Hullo," she said, with much greater respect for Fay after the revelations of last night. "Coming for a dip before breakfast?"

"Yes," replied Fay. "Wait for me."

There were no other sounds in the house save those made by Marie, busy in the kitchen, as the two girls slipped out into the morning air. They breathed deeply of the cool, exhilarating freshness as they ran down the brown pine path to the lake.

Throwing off their beach robes they plunged into crisply cold waters and swam at a brisk pace. The sun sparkled on the water they splashed and glittered over the wakes they cut in the still water. Little curls of mist drifted from the surface of the water, bird calls echoed distantly in the hills behind them, and both girls thrilled to that delicious isolation that comes with being clean-cut, strong, young, and alone with the world on a bright, gay morning.

They climbed out onto the wharf and ran to the boathouse. There they stripped their swim suits and rubbed themselves briskly with rough towels.

"My!" said Peggy impulsively. "You're lovely."

Fay rubbed herself dry and picked up her beach robe. "I don't see that you have much to [illegible]"

[illegible] regarded her own figure in comparison and she was not displeased. They were different but both slim and trim, although Fay had the mature softness that a few more years had added.

"I think you're so lucky," said Peggy, fishing with one toe for her sandals.

"Why?" asked Fay, knowing quite well what was in Peggy's mind.

"If I could only have a chance like yours, I certainly wouldn't come back here in a hurry."

Fay said nothing to that. It was an attitude shared by almost every girl who knew here. She was ever uncertain herself. She was she had done the right thing. What did she want, if not success? Of one thing she was sure, that if she had success she wanted more control over it and over the rewards it brought.

One thing was quite clear. If success meant being a puppet pulled by a hundred different strings and impoverished by a thousand different demands, then she preferred to find another kind of success or go without it.

Peggy's next question came. "Do you like Ferdy?"

"I think he's a darling."

"Not good-looking though. Definitely not. Neither is Niegel."

"Do good looks mean so much in a man?"

Peggy had an immediate and definite reply to that. She adored her brother. "You bet, when they go with something else. Look at Mike, my brother."

"He is handsome," admitted Fay, who had had almost too full a share of handsome hangers-on in New York.

"He's more than that. He's got something," said Peggy.

Then her enthusiasm carried her away and she began to talk about her brother in the way that younger and adoring sisters often do.

"He must be wonderful," said Fay, as they slowly climbed the slope toward the smell of frying bacon that came over the scent of pines.

Breakfast at Ferdy's cottage was a moving feast. The guests wandered in and out to please themselves, and time did not matter.

Peggy buttonholed her sister who was sipping a cup of coffee on the verandah. "I've got a plan," she announced.

Myra regarded her younger sister with suspicion.

"Time is short," said Peggy. "And we've got to move fast."

Myra's apprehension deepened. She distrusted from experience the enthusiasms of her sister.

"So is Nigel."

"That's it," said Peggy. "We've got to help Mike. She thinks he is wonderful."

"Who does," asked Myra. "Fay Ransom?"

"Yes," said Peggy, stretching the fact into fiction. "She told me so herself."

Myra was doubtful but willing to listen.

Her sister had more to say "Now I propose you go off with Ferdy..." "Ferdy's already off, painting somewhere...and Fay has gone with him."

"So that's it," said Peggy, slowly. "The pest has been asking for her all through breakfast."

"The pest...you mean, Baldy."

"Yes. Well, anyway, I think I would like to string along with Nigel Monkhouse this morning and see what he is really like. He's got money, hesn't he?"

Myra's lips straightened into a firm line.

"Now, see here, Peggy Mack, I don't like your train of thought. Remember your age."

"Forget yours," replied Peggy promptly and without acrimony. "I'm going to find him anyway."

"You can't. He's already gone to find Ferdy and Fay."

"Where's Mike?"

"I haven't seen him for five minutes.

Peggy smiled. "Good!" She had already asked Ferdy before he left where he was going with his folding easel and other paraphernalia. Ferdy had smiled and told her to come and join him when she felt bored.

She had noticed Fay on her way with him a minute later and had taken care to tell her brother just where they were going.

Then when Nigel had asked her if she had seen Fay, she had said quitely truthfully that she had seen er on her way to the wharf. She did not add that that was before breakfast. Pleased with herself, Peggy felt she had pulled all the strings she wanted to for the morning. All that remained to do was to plant the right idea in her sister's mind.

Her own plans were connected with Baldy Brien who at the moment was sitting alone at the breakfast table progressing steadily through an enormous meal.

FLYERS OVERWHELM PORT ARTHUR TO TAKE ALLAN CUP LAURELS

Down Bearcats 7-1 In Last Deciding Game

By WILLIAM H. DUMSDAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 27 — (CP). — Canada's new senior hockey champions—Ottawa Flyers—went back today to the more important job of winning the war.

The Flyers won the Allan Cup in convincing manner here Saturday night as they downed Port Arthur Bearcats 7-1 in the deciding game of a best-of-five series. Only one other military team ever won the title—the 61st Battalion of Winnipeg in 1916.

In their sensational march to amateur hockey's highest award, the pride of the Royal Canadian Air Force established a brilliant record. Until the Ports stopped them in the third game of the cup series, the Flyers were unbeaten in 20 straight games.

Not since the trophy was first donated in 1908 when the Cliffsides won it, has an Ottawa team gained the honors. The Flyers' victory gives eastern Canada a 19-16 edge over the west in 36 years of cup competition.

"They were too good for us," said Coach Hugh O'Leary of the Bearcats, congratulating the Flyers on their triumph after spotting Port Port Arthur a goal in the first period. "I think our boys played themselves out in their comeback to win the third and fourth games."

No Disgrace to West

For the Ports it was no disgrace to go down before the Flyers, one of the most powerful teams in the history of cup competition. Reinstated professionals were in the ranks of the champions, including the famous Kraut Line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart.

The Krauts, mainsprings of Boston Bruins Stanley Cup champions last season, also sparked the Flyers as they stepped back into amateur company after volunteering in the R.C.A.F. The trio figured in five of Ottawa's seven goals in the deciding contest.

Hopes of the West ran high in the first period when the Ports held the Flyers in check and opened the scoring in the dying minutes. Bill McKenzie fired the lone goal, breaking away from an Ottawa gang attack to blast a hard shot to the left corner of the Flyers' net.

Applying pressure from the outset of the second period the Flyers had things much their own way the rest of the way. The Bearcats seemed to fall apart at the seams as they struggled in heat which proved so intense that many of the 13,452 fans witnessed the last two periods in shirt sleeves.

Russ Dertell, sensational Port Arthur goalie, was beaten four times in the second period and the Flyers shot three more pucks past him in the third. Defenceman Walter Murray and Pickles MacNichol, team captain, counted two goals each, and Dumart, Schmidt and Johnny Acheson completed the total.

These gee-gees are shown rounding the turn into the homestretch in the fifth race at Jamaica, L.I. In the lead at this point is No. 5, K. Dorko, by a neck. But at the finish No. 6, Air Current, caught up and a photo was needed to determine the winner which proved to be Air Current. No. 2, Blue Gino, took third honors while second place went to the frustrated No. 5, K. Dorko, Air Current, with Jockey Robertson in the saddle, paid $10.10 for first.

Tribe Ties Yanks As Mills' 2-Run Single Licks Sox

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

His real name is Colonel Mills, but the fans who watched him keep Cleveland Indians in a first-place tie in the American League with a two-run single at Chicago Sunday now know why his friends all call him Buster.

Held to one hit by Johnny Rigney for seven innings, the Indians were about ready to kiss their winning streak goodbye. Then Jeff Heath opened the eighth for the Tribe with a single and Les Fleming followed suit.

Manager Lou Boudreau, who has surprised everyone else—if not himself—by the apparent miracle he has worked at Cleveland, wiped out half of the White Sox two-run lead with a double and looked around for a pinch-hitter after Ray Mack had been purposely passed to load the sacks.

His choice was Colonel (Buster) Mills, the outfielder who has shifted from the majors to the minors and back again more times than a pianist since he wound up his collegiate athletic career at the University of Oklahoma by kicking the field goal that gave the westerners a 3-0 victory in the East-West football game on New Year's Day, 1931.

Purchased from Kansas City shortly before the season opened for such game-saving chores, Buster lived up to his name by smacking a single that scored Fleming and Boudreau with the tying and winning runs.

The 3-2 triumph was the eighth straight for the fast-travelling Tribe, which kept even with New York Yankees at the top of the American League.

Yanks Grab 6 in 3rd to Win

The Yankees, meanwhile, exploded as usual in one big inning, pushing over six runs in the third at Boston drove the Ontario-born Lefty Judd to the showers and coasted to a 7-2 decision over the Red Sox behind the two-hit pitching of Marvin Breuer.

At Detroit, a couple of other streaks were kept alive as the Tigers swept both ends of a doubeheader with St. Louis Browns, boosting their on winning spree to five in a row and stretching the Brownies' string of losses to nine straight.

Jimmy Bloodworth led the Tigers to a 10-5 victory in the curtain raiser with four of his team's 15 hits, while Barney McCosky set the pace for the 7-5 verdict in the afterpiece by driving in four runs, two of them on a home run in the fifth.

Philadelphia Athletics got a pair of nine-inning pitching performances out of Luman Harris and Roger Wolff and walked off with both ends of a twin bill with the Senators at Washington, 6-1 and 6-3.

Dodgers Take Phils.

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers tightened their grip on the lead and Pittsburg Pirates pushed New York Giants out of second place with help of Boston Braves.

Playing with something of a makeshift line-up, the Dodgers downed Philadelphia Phils 3-1 and 10-2 and hiked their record to 11 victories in 14 starts as Curt Davis and Ed Head chalked up their third pitching victories against two defeats.

The Pirates blanked St. Louis Cardinals, 2-0, in the first game at St. Louis, but the second wound up in a 4-4 deadlock when darkness intervened at the end of the 11th.

At New York, Boston Braves snapped out of an eight-game losing streak and ended the Giants' four game winning party by capturing a double bill, 3-2 and 8-5.

Cincinnati Reds entertained their first Sunday home crowd with a 9-5 decision over Chicago Cubs.

In Saturday's American League games, Boston snapped New York's four game winning streak 4-2, choking off a ninth inning Yankee rally after two runs had been scored, Detroit defeated the Brown 4-2, Cleveland beat Chicago 5-4, and Washington pounded out a 10-7 victory over Philadelphia in other games.

In the National League, the Cubs snatched on 11 th inning 5-4 victory from Cincinnati, Giants won 5-1 over the Braves, and the Dodgers defeated the Phils 4-1. Pittsburg at St. Louis was postponed.

Schriner Quits Dislikes NHL Brand Of Hockey

CALGARY, April 27. — (CP).— The scrambly, fore-checking type of hockey which has gained ascendancy in the National League in recent years has driven into retirement one of the smoothest left wingers of the past decade— Dave (Sweeney) Schriner.

The Toronto Maple Leafs ace announced he was retiring upon his return home yesterday and expressed his dislike of the brand of ice hockey that prevails in the Calder circuit.

"They don't play the kind of hockey that I prefer—too much individual play," he declared. "There is very little combination, mostly gang and power plays. Whether or not the National League operates I am through."

Schriner, who broke into the pro game in a blaze of glory closed out his career in similar starry fashion when he led the Leafs to victory over Detroit Red Wings in the final game for the Stanley Cup. He scored twice when the Leafs beat the Wings 3-1 to gain the historic trophy for the first time in 10 years.

It was the first Stanley Cup championship team that Schriner played for and it was a fitting finale for the Calgary lad who was chosen "the rookie of the year" when he embarked upon a pro career with New York Americans in 1934.

Continuing his sensational play with a clubs that was always in the lower bracket, Schriner won the League's scoring championship in 1935-36 and 1936-37, the first year ith 45 points and the second year with 46.

Three Seasons With Leafs.

Schriner played three years with the Leafs. Because of illness he had a mediocre season after joining the club and failed to show the form which made him a standout with the Americans.

He hit his peak the following year, 1940-41, and teamed with Billy Taylor to form one of the most effective two-man passing combinations in the league. His work was so outstanding that he was chosen as left-winger on The Canadian Press all-star team.

At the start of the past season, the Leaf management purchased Schriner's old right-wing mate, Lorne Carr, from the Americans. These two, working with Taylor, formed one of the smoothest passing lines in the league. In the series against Detroit the trio amassed 22 points.

Schriner was hurt at the start of the season when Art Coulter of the New York Rangers crashed him into the boards and broke a small bone in his ankle. He was out for only a few games, however.

In announcing his retirement at the age of 29, Sweeney said he still hoped to retain his connection with hockey.

"I am in hope of obtaining a good position, and if the work permits I will take over the managing and coaching of an amateur team next winter," he said.

Schriner is married and has a family.

Tom Black Scores As Portsmouth Takes Charlton

LONDON, April 27 — (CP Cable) —Great crowds watched soccer cup matches through Britain on Saturday, with one of the features at Stamford Bridge, where Portsmouth edged out Charlton 1 to 0, to advance to the final of the London Cup. A crowd of 20,000 saw Tom Black, Scottish international score the only goal.

Portsmouth now play May 30 at Wembley against the winner of the other semi-final to be played next Saturday between Arsenal and Brentford.

Everton favorite for the Football League War Cup, was beaten 3 to 1 in the first game of the third round by West Bromwich before a roaring crowd of 25,000. Everton previously had knocked out last years winner, Preston.

In the other games in the home-and-home, total-goals-to-count series, Wolverhampton Wanderers defeated Manchester City 2 to 0, before 15,000; Sunderland edged out Bradford 1 to 0, and Norwich City, dark horse of the tourney, beat Grimsby 1 to 0.

Three teams Blackpool, Liverpool and Manchester United were left tied for the lead in the football league championship matches, each with 23 points. Blackpool was defeated 2 to 0 by lowly Rochdale in a big upset. Liverpool and Blackburn played a scoreless draw, while Manchester trounced Oldham 5 to 1.

The outstanding game in Scotland was the Southern League Cup semi-final, with Greenock Morton and Partick Thistle drawing 1 to 1. The tie will be replayed on Wednesday.

Bears Claw Leafs For Pair

By the Associated Press.

William Adam Meyer, the music loving Dixieland farmer who manages Newark Bears of the International League, has his ball club on the top rung of th percentage ladder.

Meyer is a stranger to the circuit but he isn't a stranger to first place.

For the three years before coming to Newark, where his Bears now have won six straight, he managed the destinies of Kansas City and never was far from the top.

In chalking up yesterday's two victories over Toronto the Bears swiped five bases while the Leafs were busy pilfering one. Three of the Newark thefts were perpetrated in the first contest which they won 3-2 while George Stirnweiss snagged two in the nightcap which the Leafs dropped 9-3.

Sunday double-headers were divided at the three other sites, Syracuse losing to Buffalo 9-2, befor[e] winning 4-3; Rochester taking th[e] opener with Montreal 10-5, befor[e] bowing 7-2; and Jersey City annex[ing] the nightcap from Rocheste[r] Red Wings 4-3, after being shut ou[t] in the first 3-0.

The Baltimore-Montreal tussle[s] were featured by the home run hit[t]ing of Bob Lemon, the Oriole[s] slugging third baseman. He pound[ed] out three round-trippers, a tripl[e] and a single in the first contest an[d] got his fourth homer of the day i[n] the nightcap with one man on bas[e].

A ninth-inning home run by Jo[e] Becker gave Baltimore a 1-0 vic[tory] over Toronto in Saturday['s] games while Montreal Royals, hit[t]ing four home runs, was walloping Syracuse 14-4. Jack Graham le[d] the Montreal assault, hitting tw[o] homers and a single to drive in fiv[e] runs. Jersey City defeated Buffal[o] 3-2 and Newark triumphed 12-[illegible] over Rochester.

Moonlight Serenade

When George Trautman, American Association president, is married to Mrs. Jane Asbury of Valdosta, Tenn., some time within the next couple of weeks, a foxhound named moonlight should get an invitation. They became acquainted when Mrs. Asbury visited Jackson, O., for the national fox hunt a couple of years ago. . . . Moonlight, the dog, got lost and Mrs. Asbury went out to help find him. . . . When the hunt took them near Trautman's cabin, he joined the search.

Not everyone can pull a lion by the tail and get away with it. Il Duce tried it. He lost his African empire. But Keeper John Martini of the Bronx zoo not only does it and gets away with it, but he makes "Winston Churchill" like it. "Winston" is the lion cub given the zoo by Actress Tallulah Bankhead. He likes to wrestle with his keeper. Most keepers take a personal interest in their charges and teach them tricks when possible. "Winston" is gentle as a lamb with Keeper Martini. Seems there's nothing he likes better than a good Martini.

Solemn Dedication Service Honors Late Pte. Christie Mason

An impressive flag dedication took place in All Saints' Church on Sunday morning in memory of Pte. Christie Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mason, 474 Bolivar Street, who was the first Peterborough man in the armed forces to be killed overseas.

Tribute was paid to the memory of Pte. Mason, as representative of the country's youth, before a large audience of church people augmented by the men of the Prince of Wales Rangers and the Scouts and Cubs.

The boys of the Scouts and Cubs filed silently into the church, to be followed shortly afterwards by 160 men of the Prince of Wales Rangers led by Major G. R. Bolton. The men presented a smart appearance in the first church parade of the active unit. Those who were not present at All Saints' Church attended the service at St. Peter's Cathedral. The Rangers were accompanied by their band under the direction of Captain Peryer.

The service opened with the hymns "Stand up, stand up for Jesus" and "Land of our Birth," and then prayers were offered up for men in all the armed services and for the King and his leaders.

As a prelude to the actual dedication, the Rev. Mr. Filer told a story of a young boy who was flag-bearer of his regiment. During the battle, the soldier was badly wounded, and when his comrades prepared to carry him away, he cried out: "Never mind me; don't let the flag fall."

"Our flag has three colors," Mr. Filer continued. "Red is for the sacrifices that have been and are are being made by the men. White stands for purity—purity of purpose, love and life. While blue is for loyalty—loyalty to God, the King, Empires and homes."

In a hush vibrating with emotion, the rector took his place in the centre of the chancel, and dedicated a Union Jack, donated by Pte. Mason's parents, "To the Glory of God and the memory of Christie Mason."

For Boy Scouts.

A Canadian flag, donated by the Boys' Club of All Saints' Church, was dedicated to members of the parish serving overseas. A second Union Jack, for use of the Boy Scouts and Cubs, was given by the Parents' Auxiliary. Then amidst the solemn silence "Last Post" was sounded by Sergt. C. Gallagher of the Prince of Wales Band. After a short silence "Reveille" rang out, followed by the National Anthem.

"The Cost of a New World" was the subject of the Rev. Mr. Filer's address. "Everything that we hold dear has been paid for through the sacrifice and blood of the people who have gone before. Nothing worth while is ever achieved without payment of a great price," he said.

"In this service we remember those who sacrifice in this war. We are thinking of the untold numbers who have answered the call of King and Country, ready to give their all, if need be, to banish war from the earth and bring in a day of peace.

"It is not enough to think of the past or the present....What we must do is remember the future.... What sort of a world do we want? We want a world in which liberty, equality, and fraternity prevail. How can we achieve such a world? Obviously it cannot be realized while the nations are at war, nor necessarily when war comes to an end.

Need Spiritual Change.

"The cessation of hostilities will not of itself make things better, nor will the sacrifice of the present save the future, as some think it will. That is enough. There must be a spiritual change," the rector continued.

"We are not warring against conditions which can be healed by education or better housing, but against fundamental evils of sin, pride, and self-centredness. There is but one power which ensures a better world and in this sign we conquer, the sign of the Cross."

Mr. Filer then compared the swastika, "A cross with its ends turning inward upon its own heart, a fitting symbol for those who live without God," to the Cross of Christ with no crooked talons and "reaching out to all men in reminder of the breadth of Gods love.

"The new world of to-morrow will be bought at a great price. It can be saved only by the Cross. For a better world we need better men; we have better men only when they surrender to Christ,' the speaker concluded.

The ceremony closed with the singing of Kipling's "Recessional" by the choir, with George E. Chandler taking the solo. Members of the congregation remained standing while the soldiers marched out.

Two Years In Britain

After more than two years in Britain, Sgt. Earle Turner, who enlisted as a private with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, has been returned to Canada for instructional duty. He expects to be assigned to one of the advanced training centres here after spending his furlough with his wife and family in Campbellford.

done with the rifle. She said: 'I put it back in the corner!'

"I went in then and unlatched the stairs door and told her to come down. The stairs led down into the kitchen about eight or ten feet from where the father stood when he was shot."

Relatives said the slain man's erratic behavior was not due to financial worries, and that he owned free and clear the 200-acre home farm and another 100 acres down the road. The worst family rows, it was stated, were caused when he ran out of tobacco and would get the whole household up in the middle of the night when he got into one of his spells. The family, said a relative, was in "a turmoil" most of the time.

Potatoes Hold Firm At $1.75 On Farm Market

Of course, if last year's stock of Peterborough or even Manvers potatoes have lost their appeal now that it is rhubarb time again, you could buy 1942 Louisiana spuds at main street stores, and also at 10 cents a pound. For a regulation bag of 75 pounds that would come to $7.50 if you wanted all that quantity.

Local stock was still selling at $1.75 to $2 a bag on the market Saturday and registered seed potatoes from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were around $2.25 to $2.50 the bag.

Vernon Hunter of Cavan had No. 1 grade Chippewas at $1.75; James Healey's White Stars were $2, and Manvers Katahdins grown by H. Blakely, and sold by R. Kinsmen & Sons were $1.80 up to $2.50 the bag. Bert Arnott quoted certified Katahdins at $2.25 and he also had New Brunswick potatoes at $2.

The first rhubarb of the season was 15 cents a bunch at J. H. Johnston's stand.

Ken Reid of Reaboro brought in a load of seed grain: Red Clover at $17.50 a bushel, Timothy $6.25 and Alsike $14.

Fred Clifford of North Monaghan said he had planted forty bushels of peas during the week, and he has had potatoes in the ground for about the same time.

Eggs were about the same price as a week ago mostly selling at 28 and 30 cents a dozen. The largest grade sold up to forty cents a dozen. Pullet sizes were 27 cents a dozen with an odd lot at 26 cents.

Butter was 37 and 38 cents a pound and chickens ranged from 27 cents to 35 cents. The top price was for broilers; roasters averaged 30 cents and last year's roosters 27 cents.

Maple syrup was still being offered at $2.75. Herb Doig told the Examiner he was down to a comparatively few remnant gallons, all at $2.75. And he was showing parsnips at 40 cents a peck.

Roots of perennial flowers were 10 cents each up to 25 cents with a few for sale. And by way of contrast and reminder of the season that is gone, A. E. Hunter was the last of the fresh pork vendors at 18 and 21 cents a pound.

Joe Chimenti seemed to be sure that the frost threat to young plants was passed. He had boxes of fifteen young cabbage plants at 25 cents.

occurred when a direct hit was scored on an air-raid shelter.

The attack on Rostock last night followed a day of violent air battles over the English Channel and Northern France as the R.A.F. blasted the invasion coast, strafed German airdromes and pounded the railway centres of Hazenbrouck and St. Omer.

The R.A.F. reported the destruction of three German fighters in these forays against the loss of two planes.

In addition to attacking Rostock on Saturday night Britain's great Stirling bombers penetrated deep into former Czecho-Slovakia to blast the great Skoda munitions works at Pilsen for the first time in a year and one-half and also attacked targets in Southern Germany and Northern France.

Loads of 8-Tons on Skoda.

In the raid on the Skoda works, the Air Ministry said, each of the Stirlings dumped its load of eight tons of explosives from low levels despite violent anti-aircraft reaction.

The R.A.F. said it lost only five bombers in the extensive Saturday night raids. Four Nazis were shot down over Britain.

Canadian pilots took part in Saturday night's assault on Rostock, and came back to report that the German Baltic port "really got it." Sgt. W. J. Demers of Timmins, Ont., said the first raid on the port was "nothing to what we gave it."

Other Canadians who participated in the raid included Sgt. H. W. C. Stewart of Montreal, a rear gunner in a Whitley bomber; Flt. Sgt. H. F. Tice of Hamilton, Ont. and Flt.-Sgt. J. F. Tait of Nanaimo, B.C. Tait, pilot of a Wellington bomber, told of a "wide lane of fire stretching from the Heinkel factory right across the town."

Canadians also were in the crews of giant Halifax bombers which smashed at Rostock. They included Sgt. D. Kent of Radisson Sask., Sgt. D. L. Torkelson of Bengough, Sask., and Sgt. E. B. Patterson of Owen Sound, Ont.

Forcing Hun Hand

Military quarters said these round-the-lock assaults are rapidly forcing the hand of the German High command and that the Nazis might be forced to revise their entire strategy.

These sources declared that while the German air force still is strong, it is not strong enough to defend the west against a determined offensive and support an offensive against Russia in the east at the same time. Hitler, they said, has three alternatives:

1. To meet the mounting R.A.F. offensive by transferring more aircraft to western Europe, which would jeopardize his campaigns elsewhere —particularly in Russia.

2. To mass the German air force in south Russia and risk establishment of absolute air superiority in the west by the Allies. Such a course would make possible large scale Allied landings on the continent.

3. To strike in the Midde East, at the same time urging Japan to attack Ceylon and Madagascar with the idea of using them as bases to cut Allied supply lines to Suez. This would necessitate a strategic retreat in Russia and diversion of many air squadrons to the west to pinion the R.A.F. there.

Hitler' decision cannot long be delayed, these quarters declared, because "his hand is being forced by the expected arrival of American air units in Britain."

Rising Internal

marshal Goering, president of the Reichstag re-emphasized Hitler's account of the staggering problems of the winter front in Russia, asked the Reichstag to "confirm" this statement:

"There can be no doubt that the Fuehrer at the present time, when the German people is involved in a struggle for its existence, must be accorded the right asked by him to be fully empowered to do everything which serves to achieve victory or contributes to it.

"The Fuehrer, consequently, without being being tied down by existing laws and regulaitons, in his capacity as leader of the naiton, as supreme commander of the armed forces, as chief of the government, supreme holder of executive power, supreme lord of justice and as leader of the Nationalist Socitlist Party, must be in a position at any time to make every German—be he soldier or officer, petty or high official or judge, official of the party, worker or employer—to do his full duty, and to remove from office, rank or position anyone who after the Fuehrer's careful examination has violated his duties.....

"The Fuehrer is to be entitled to take action against those people without having to take recourse to the usual procedure . . ."

Goering asked for a rising vote of consent and the Berlin radio said the Reichstag, in whose midst were many many in the field grey of Hitler's army, "rose as one man."

Second only to his preoccupation with the home front, Hitler devoted his first speech since last Dec. 11 chiefly to the war in Russia.

"The Bolshevist colossus will be beaten by us so ong and until such time as it has become smashed," he said.

No Date for His Victory

Although he promised ultimate victory, the man who once declared that the Russian "enemy already is broken and will never again raise," set no date for triumph and indicated to the Germans that they must fight through another winter.

Explaining why Germany's armies were forced back, Hitler said the winter came suddenly and was the most severe in 140 years—since Napoleon's retreat from Moscow.

"The problem which in those days caused us the greatest trouble," he said, "was the bringing up of supplies because neither the German soldier nor the German tank nor, unfortunately, our German railway engines were prepared for such cold which had caught us surprisingly . . .

". . . I have taken measures necessary for preventing a repetition. In the coming winter . . . German railways will be able to meet their tasks better than in the last . . . the army in the east will be better equipped."

Otherwise, the speech ran the same gamut as Hitler's in the past—a reiteration of "endless German efforts for maintenance of peace," predictions of dire catastrophe for the British Empire and imprecations against the "Jewish international parasites."

More U-Boats Than Last War

He also said:

"What our submarines actually can do will be proved increasingly month after month....their number is growing according to fixed rhytnm from month to month and ....today they have surpassed by far the highest number of submarines during the World War."

The hint of a peace overture:—

"I am not quite sure whether all Englishmen today still regard it as wise that their government rejected the numerous possibilities for understanding which I have put forward since 1933."

Derision:—

"I have read so much of the terrible threats on the part of our enemies. The great generals of England and the United States cannot frighten me. In my opinion, generals like MacArthur have no encouraging, but discouraging, capabilities.

"That General MacArthur managed to escape from the Philippines just in time...was an encouraging factor, just as encouraging as when 20 Englishmen with blackened faces, on rubber soles and in a rubber boat landed at some point of the coast occupied by us and disappeared as soon as German patrol came into sight."

(This apparently referred to a two-hour attack on the German-held Dover Strait port of Boulogne last week by British Commandos who destroyed communications, shot up pill boxes and other strong points. The force withdrew with all personnel and arms.)

Unlimited Troops

CHUNGKING, April 27—(AP).—China and Britain have reached an understanding for closer military collaboration and there now is no limit to the number of Chinese troops which may be sent into Burma, Chinese sources said on Friday.

The extent of Chinese aid, these quarters declared, depends entirely upon the exigencies of the situation on the Burma front.

The Chinese already are taking over from Britain the task of supplying their own troops fighting in Burma, the newspaper Ta Kung Pao said.

Wherever there are 300 people* in Canada

*English-speaking

Every week . . . by truck, train, and even by plane the Star Weekly streams out across Canada in all directions. And although the bulk of the vast, 600,000 circulation follows the thickly populated areas it is our proud boast that . . ."wherever there are over 300 English-speaking people—there you will find a Star Weekly carrier-boy serving the district."

Thus the Star Weekly is a truly national week-end publication. It is woven into the very pattern of Canadian life. Its 600,000 circulation, for instance, is almost 300,000 greater than any other national publication in Canada. Its continuously growing popularity is shown by an increase of approximately 100,000 copies each year for the past 3 years.

The Star Weekly is popular because it offers readers such a variety of good things . . . rotogravure picture section, two large magazine sections, comics, news, and a complete novel. Advertisers, in addition to getting national coverage, vast circulation and high readership also have the opportunity of choosing whichever section best suits their needs and their appropriation.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

MORE DRILL.

From now on the sounds of bugles and marching feet will be heard most of the afternoon around the Collegiate Institute. The Cadet officers are putting their men through strenuous training so they will be in top-notch shape for the annual inspection on May 7.

TRANSIENT FINED.

A transient who gave the name of John Smith pleaded guilty in the Police Court this morning to illegal possession of liquor, and was fined $16.00, and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., The accused had a 40-ounce bottle of whisky, partly filled, on his person when he was picked up by the police.

BUYING BOARS.

Two advance register boars have been bought through the Department of Agriculture here, one for the Lakehurst Agricultural Society, and the other for V. Stanley Jones of Otonabee. One of the animals came from Bradford and the other from Holland Centre. F. C. Paterson said to-day that the supply of good male stock is less than the demand.

COULD BE

An onlooker at the church parade of the Prince of Wales Rangers yesterday, who was overseas during the last war, was heard to remark that maybe this would bring home a little more clearly the fact that we are at war, and that it could happen here.

MUST GO ON TOMORROW

B. F. Williams, charged :th operating a common gaming house was warned by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning that his case must go on tomorrow morning. The accused had asked for another week's adjournment but the court refused to allow the request.

HE GOT A TAN

Jim Gilchrist, a C.G.E. employee chose Saturday afternoon for a plunge in the Otonabee river at the lock street wharf, and after the swim, he lay down on the wharf in the warm sun, and he got a fine tan started. The temperature zoomed up to 86, and the unusual heat wave made many youngsters think of the old swimming hole. However, the water is much too cold for bathing yet.

GUILTY CONSCIENCE

A group of young people riding wheels five abreast down one of the city streets on Sunday evening, were a little jittery when a policeman stopped them and advised they should not ride more than two abreast. The group as not worrying about that, they figured all would be nicked for not having lights, but apparently the policeman did not even notice this little breach of the law.

THIRD SON JOINS

Mr. Bruce Campbell, 407 Albert street, has enlisted in the R.C.N.V.R. and reported to Kingston this morning to begin his training. Bruce is the third of this family to enlist in the active forces.

EXPENSIVE ICE CREAM

Ice cream apparently has a high value for some people in this city. Before the new law regarding no deliveries over a dollar came in, a housewife ordered ten cents worth of ice cream every morning from a dairy. Now she still orders it, and has it delivered by taxi.

FLYING NOW.

Red-headed LAC Bill Harle, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Harle, Rubidge Street, and well-known basketball player of this city, has reported to London to begin study at the Elementary Flying School.

WAS IT HOT?

It isn't everybody who thinks spring is here. Saturday night, with everyone on George Street gasping for breath, a young lady walked down the street with a fur jacket buttoned up to the throat. It made passers-by hot just to look at her. Maybe the lady was actuated by that adage, "What keeps out the cold will keep out the heat."

RUN ON GASOLINE.

We are supposed to be saving on gasoline, but there is one Peterborough doctor who swears it isn't so. According to his story, there are as many cars starting up at midnight and interrupting his beauty sleep as there ever were.

PROBATION AFTER DEATH

"Probation After Death" was the subject for the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." (Matthew 24: 13). Selections from the Bible included the following from John 16: 33, "These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." Correlative citations from the Christian Science Textbook, included the following: "Jesus mapped out the path for others. . . . He overcame the world, the flesh, and all error, thus proving their nothingness. He wrought a full salvation from sin, sickness, and death. We need 'Christ, and him crucified.' We must have trials and self-denials, as well as joys and victories, until all error is destroyed."

when repaid in six monthly instalments

WOULD a cash loan help you? If you have a job, you can borrow at Household Finance without fuss or bother—and at reasonable cost. You may repay your loan in monthly instalments which fit your own pocketbook.

Just this to do

All you do to apply for a Household Finance loan is to tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay.

You may choose the most convenient payment plan from the table below. Suppose you borrow $100 to be repaid at $9.46 a month. Twelve instalments of $9.46 each will repay your loan in full. You may prefer to repay sooner in order to reduce the cost. Six monthly instalments of $17.85 each—a total of $107.10—will also repay a $100 loan. The cost of your loan, in this case, is just $7.10. A $25 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $4.46 each costs only $1.76.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household—just the ability to repay in monthly instalments. This spares you the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit.

Household Finance loans are usually made on furniture or car. But we consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. You can get your loan quickly—usually in 24 hours or even sooner if necessary. If you should get sick or lose your position while paying on your loan, Household will show you every consideration.

Let Household help you

People borrow at Household to pay taxes, insurance, medical, dental, hospital and funeral expenses, school fees, and overdue bills of many kinds. Household service helps men and women, both married and single, to take care of emergency expenses and work their way out of debt.

Gun Shots Total Now $323 For War Victims

This past week has witnessed a renewal of the heavier types of German air raids over Britain, with a consequent big increase in loss of life, and a proportionately much heavier increase in the number of people injured and their homes wrecked or destroyed. Where such places as the residential cities of Exeter and Bath come in for a large share of the attack, it is quite evident that wanton destruction, is the chief aim, coupled with an attempt to undermine the morale of the populace at large. Only a very distorted viewpoint could classify hospitals and schools as military objectives, and these seem to have been the principal objects of attack. In the face of all this, it is only reasonable that the help sent to them by the residents of this city and district through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, should prove a great uplift, and demonstrate the desire to assist them in every way.

In today's list of receipts for the Fund, the spotlight is taken by the sixth donation to come in from the proceeds of "Gun Shots" headed by Arthur Kittson, which comes from the sale of No. 19 Vol 2, and this time amounts to $74.80, bringing the total that has come from this source since last October up to $323.26, which collectively will do a lot of good, in helping those who have suffered through air raids.

The Mount Pleasant Women's Institute has a share in the day's receipts with a donation of $10, and three personal donations are listed, all of which are repeats, among which is one from Sidney C. Boyles of Cavan, who is a veteran of the last Great War, and has appeared in the lists for the fund on previous occasions, while Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fletcher make a contribution "In Memory of Roland", a memorial of the highest order, because it carries good to others in need, with a real live message of practical help.

The fund is now near the point where another donation of £500 can be cabled over, which will make the 17th time that help has gone from this city and district, and to complete this objective only $260 is now required to make it an accomplished fact.

Offender Dodges Serious Charge

A local man came very close to being fined $200 in Police Court this morning when he was about to plead guilty as a second offender to a charge of consuming liqquor while on the interdicted list. He was defended by W. R. Philp.

When Magistrate Langley pointed out that the section under which the charge had been laid called for a fine of $200 on second offence instead of the usual $50 fine under other sections of the Liquor Control Act, the accused pleaded guilty to one offence but refused to admit a previous conviction and the police did not offer any evidence on that point.

"I have power to fine him anything from $10 to $500," commented Maigstrate Langley. "I'll make it $50 which was the penalty you expected in the first place."

Soldiers Are Given Breakfast At K. of C.

Girls of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin from the three Catholic parishes in the city were hosts to 156 officers and men of the same faith from the Military Training Centre No. 32 at a breakfast in the K. of C. Hall, Simcoe street on Sunday morning.

The men who were in charge of Lieuts. Johnson and Moore, attended the 9.15 mass at the Sacred Heart Church, parading from the Exhibition Park, and then marked up to the hall where the young ladies had a piping hot breakfast ready for them. Capt. the Rev. Dr. Grant was toastmaster, and sitting at the head table with Dr. Grant, Catholic chaplain for the camp, were the two officers, and R.S.M. McKenna, and Sergeants Garsky and Champagne.

Vincent Anglesey played the piano for the community sing-song following the breakfast. Conveners for the breakfast were as follows: Miss Barbara Cavalier, Immaculate Conception Church; Miss Helen Cadigan, Sacred Heart Church and Miss Phyllis Cowie, St. Peter's Cathedral.

HALIFAX, April 27—(CP).—Mrs. Thomas Withers was informed officially Friday that her brother, Daniel Stone, 16, of St. Peter's, N.F., was lost when his ship was torpedoed at sea. Company officials said they were unable to locate any of the crew and all were presumed lost.

Killed In Crash

Sgt.-Instructor Sam Rogow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Rogow, who lost his life in a plane accident near Three Rivers, Que., Saturday. The young flier, who was 20 years of age, was born here and received his wings as a sergeant pilot at Brantford three months ago. He was widely known in basketball circles.

Sergt. S. Rogow Killed In Plane Crash

Sergt. Instructor Sam Rogow, well-known young Peterborough flier, was killed instantly on Saturday afternoon in a plane crash near Three Rivers, Que., where he had been stationed for the past three weeks as an instructor for the R.C.A.F.

While details of the accident are lacking it is understood that Sergt. Instructor Rogow and a pupil were engaged in an instructional flight Saturday afternoon. The plane was seen to crash near Mont Darmel, 12 miles from where the training school is, and after a five-hour search the wrecked machine and the two dead fliers were located.

Sergt. Instructor Rogow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Rogow, George and Brock streets, were informed of their son's death late Saturday night in a telephone message from R.C.A.F. headquarters at Three Rivers.

Born In Peterborough

The young instructor was 20 years of age and was born in Peterborough. He received his education at Central School and afterward graduated from the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and had a term in art at Central Technical School, Toronto. He had splendid talent as an artist and produced a number of promising water colors.

In the winter of 1940-41 Sergt. Instructor Rogow enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force in Toronto and took his flying instruction at Brantford where he received his wings as a sergeant pilot three months ago. He was one of the five members of his graduating class selected for duty as instructors and was sent to Trenton for a 9 weeks' course in training as an instructor. Three weeks ago he was posted for instructional duty at Three Rivers, Que.

Sergt. Instructor Rogow was widely known for his interest in Y.M.C.A. work and for his prowess as a basketball player. While a students at the Collegiate Institute he was a member of the Collegiate junior Cossa squad and afterwards he starred in the City Basketball League with the Bees and other teams. He had a host of friends among basketball fans and players and the news of his death has caused genuine grief.

Surviving relatives are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Rogow, four sisters, Mrs. M. Levine, Peterborough, Mrs. Sam Davis, Mrs. Phil Moscoe and Miss Rose Rogow, all of Toronto, and three brothers, Dr. Alex. Rogow, Los Angeles, Cal., Joseph Rogow, Kirkland Lake and Ralph Rogow at home.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday in Toronto.

Bicycle Riders Breaking Law

Bicycle traffic on the highways yesterday was very heavy and the riders were not behaving very well," said Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure this morning. "They were riding two and three abreast and weaving around the highway. I warned a number of them yesterday, and if there is not an immediate improvement charges will be laid against the offenders. This will be necessary if we are to have safe riding practices and cut down the risk of accidents."

Officer McClure added that bicyclists using the highway should keep over to the extreme right hand side of the road and ride in Indian file. By following that course the danger of mishaps, he said, would be materially lessened.

"I do not want to get tough with cyclists," he said, "but in their own interest and in the interest of the public safety they have to be taught how to use the highways properly."

Dr. Geo. Easton Warns Youth Danger Is Near

War vevterans of World War 1, their ranks thinned by enlistments for active service once more, and for service in the Veterans' Guard of Canada, marched to Trinity United Church on Sunday morning, to mark the anniversary of the First Battle of Ypres, that memorable occasion when the Canadians faced chlorine gas for the first time in modern warfare, and held the position despite tremendous odds.

Captain the Rev. George S. Easton, padre of the Legion, and veteran of the last great war, voiced a warm welcome to his comrades, and said in accordance with the plea from England, he was making an appeal to the youth of the Empire, through the veterans with whom he fought a quarter of a century ago.

"In the carnage and travail of the war to date, England, that embattled little island, which we so proudly refer to as the Mother Country, has found her soul. She has found it in her hour of trial, and my earnest wish is that Canada will not have to be subjected to the awful horror of aerial blitz, before she too will discover her soul, and get back into step with God.

Stay In Step

There are some things happening today which are helping Canadians to get back on an even keel once more, and the most important of these is the fact that Canada is a significant factor in the realm of international affairs. We are young in age and in spirit, and this year we celebrate the 75th anniversary of confederation, but still as a nation we have come of age, no longer is Canada just an emblem nation. She is one of the elders who sits at the table of world affairs and aids in directing the policies and course of the Empire.

We do not wish to become a part of Europe, rather on the other hand are we inclining more and more to a rabid nationalism known as Canadianism.

In recent years there have arisen certain alien philosophies which are driving us back to the very foundations of our national life. These isms make us think, yet they fail to move us. We dislike them, we do not want them, but they are too powerful and dangerous to disregard. If these isms force us to examine critically our Canadianism, then they may be a force for good.

Three Main Features

Canadianism has several distinctive features that make it unlike other national doctrines. We are partners in faith, we submit freely to self-government; we have the freedom to serve each other; and we retain our individuality."

At this point the Rev. Mr. Easton went on to draw comparisons between the democratic way of life and that which exists in the totalitarian countries.

"In our beloved Canada, the measuring stick for greatness is what you are not what you have, and we don't wish any part of the European snobbery that is so marked in other countries. In Canada it is character and individuality that people look at to form opinions of their fellowman.

Let us remember these things, and realize that these national ideals are threatened today as never before, let us rally to the task, each to his proper pace, and stand as a united people to meet the charge of the alien forces of aggression."

The veterans were paraded to the church by the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers regiment, while the band and members of the Rangers continued on to All Saints Church for a special flag dedication service, planned to honor Pte. Christie Mason.

United Church Moderator Visits City

The Right Reverend Aubrey S. Tuttle, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, spoke several times to filled churches yesterday, on his only visit to Peterborough during his term of office. In the morning he preached at St. Andrew's United church, on the occasion of its 109th anniversary; in the afternoon he addressed a convention of young people at Knox United church, and in the evening he spoke in St. Andrew's church, which was worshipping together with the minister and congregation of Trinity church.

Dr. Tuttle's clear and thoughtful preaching during the day showed the man of letters and of learning. In the morning he spoke on the task of the church, which is ever one task, because it is that of ministering to the fundamental needs of man's spiritual nature, which he cannot deny. The church changes its emphasis, however, to meet the needs of situations realistically; today, when every sort of outer support and surety is crumbling, its mission is to give the inner support and unfailing strength of Christ to men and women under trial. Only when the hidden roots from which our life draws stability are grounded in the eternal life of God can we face today and the future with courage and hope. But it is the task of the church also to make men and women realize the holy will of God, which is ever for good and against evil; thus the church must give religious sanctions to the morality of our society. None can tell how seriously the fabric of our morals has been frayed by the recent attempt to rule God out of the moral picture; the ordinary man cannot persist in his moral battles, and emerge victorious, unless he recovers his sense of having God's strength to lean upon in the hard moment. Finally, it is the church's job to lead men towards the coming world order by its teaching of the great moral and spiritual truths which will be its foundations. Its task is not to provide the blueprints of the new order, but to prepare the soul of the men and women who are to bring it in and sustain it. The worship of God in the churches gives us the spirit of simple and clean living with Christ which alone will heal the sins of the individual and the hurts of the world.

The Moderator's evening sermon, based upon the 23rd Psalm, was a forceful and learned discussion of God's guiding providence. This, Dr. Tuttle, declared, is the heart of our Christian faith—that God will lead us for our highest good when we trust Him, and that He is in charge of things, bringing good out of evil even in the present world. Let us not be frightened of the limitless universe in which we live; God hasn't lost us because of its bigness, and to-day scientists are increasingly admitting the vast limitations of their accurate knowledge, and are sensing the universal mystery which is behind and under all things, sustaining them. God is there, and He will guide us if we trust Him. Modern sophistication has produced a crop of brilliant atheists who are very nervous, a crop of noisily emancipated women who live empty lives, and a crop of young people who are world-weary at twenty-two. Yet to-day, when God's judgments are abroad in the earth, men are turning back from the man-worship of modernity, realizing that man alone cannot build a new world or sustain the old one. To-day the church must lead us back to the path which comes out somewhere—the path of faith in God and of victory over the trials and temptations which only God's grace can lead us through. When God and the things of God are central in the life of men, the victory will be already won.

Farmers Report Land Still Wet

Farmers are not beginning to worry about rain, at least not yet. Just because they have had a week or so of warm, drying weather does not signify that their ground moisture is evaporating.

"A little rain would be all right," one man said this morning, "but I think everybody would be quite content with the kind of weather we had last week. We got a good start with the seeding, but this should be a big week on the land."

Farmers on the market Saturday said that quite a number of them had not even begun their work for the reason that some of their fields were still too damp. Tractors have become mired even on land whose surface appeared dry. Horses that have had an easy winter in the barns have suddenly been called out to heavy hauling jobs retrieving tractors. In some instances two teams have found the pulling as much as they could manage. There was one farmer who hestitated to hitch up his horses for this emergency work, and backed out his automobile to drag the tractor back on to solid ground. It was not long until his car was as helplessly bogged down as the tractor.

Mrs. T. R. Mann Observes 90th Birthday

The beautiful home of Mrs. Thomas R. Mann of Smith township near Bridgenorth, was the scene of a most happy occasion on Saturday afternoon and evening, when Mrs. Mann was at home to her friends on the occasion of the attainment of her nintieth birthday.

Many friends availed themselves of the opportunity to call on this very lovely old lady and to wish her much joy and happy companionship with her family and friends in the days that are to come.

The living-room, where Mrs. Mann received her guests was a profusion of Spring flowers, roses and potted plants, gifts from her family, church and friends.

Guests of honorable mention present were Mrs. William Garbutt of Douro, Mrs. Mann's sister-in-law, who is 89 years of age, and also her only living brother, Mr. T. T. Milburn who is in her 87th year, and Mrs. Thomas Black of Bridgenorth, who is 82 years old.

Two presentations were made at the noon hour today by the local postal staff and letter carriers.

Walter T. Jeffrey, rounding out a quarter of a century as letter carrier, was presented with a set of fishing tackle and pole, and the congratulations of the entire staff expressed by Postmaster Lecheur.

Charles Stenton, retired senior clerk, received a testimonial letter of appreciation and also a plaque from the Hon. W. P. Mulock, Postmaster General.

"On the occasion of your retirement from the post office, I desire to express to you my appreciation of the faithful service you have rendered to the Dominion during the period of more than thirty-four years," was the wording of the formal acknowledgment from Hon. Mr. Mulock.

Mt. Stenton's retirement was effective last October, but he remained on duty until the fourth of this month.

Road in the year 1852, a daughter of Thomas Milburn and Eunice Hutchinson.

She was for years an active member of the Bridgenorth Union Sunday School, teaching in the school. After her marriage to Thomas R. Mann, she joined the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church and has always played a very active part in all church activities. She is at present the oldest member of Gilmour Church.

She has nine children living; 17 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

During the evening a short program was enjoyed, with Mrs. Mann's minister, Dr. M. C. McLean, as chairman. Mrs. James A Young rendered a lovely solo, "Mother Machree."

Reeve Allan B. Mann brought greetings from the township and all those present. A solo by Miss Mary Milburn; speech by Charles E. Moore; instrumental duet by Mrs. Clayton Telford and Mrs. Harold Lewis; solo, Mrs. Joseph Mann, "My Cathedral." Mrs. Clayton Telford rendered two lovely solos closing with "A Perfect Day."

Mrs. Mann's eldest son, J. Gordon Mann, was called on to read the following address:

Dear Mother.—The members of your family, friends and neighbors are gathered here tonight to join you in celebrating your 90th birthday. We rejoice that you have been spared to us and to continue in the good work you have always enjoyed to do.

We thank you for the good examble you have always set before us, for your work in the church and your many helpful deeds. You have been an ambitious knitter in World War No. 1, and also in the present war, and we are sure the soldiers have enjoyed many comforts made by your hands.

Always a lover of nature, to-night you are surrounded by these beautiful flowers, gifts of your church, family and neighbors, which bear many messages of love and best wishes. Our wish for you tonight, Mother, is that your remaining days may be spent in comfort and happiness."

Following the program, Mrs. Mann was escorted to the dining room by a grandson, Clarence Mann, who has always celebrated with his grandmother, their birthdays falling on the same day.

The dining table was lovely in a clunk lace cloth, with pink candles in silver holders centered by the birthday cake with nine candles each one representing a span of ten years. The candles were lit by Mrs. Mann and a very lovely lunch was enjoyed.

can deal with each other with perfect frankness are as scarce as hen's teeth. And that, I think, is the most disillusioning experience of marriage.

"For the thing that men and women most look forward to in marriage is getting companions with whom they can share every thought, every dream, every memory, every impulse and experience. They want to realize the poetic ideal of two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one, and when they find that they cannot do this, and that their mates cannot enter their holy of holies without wrecking the premises, they get the bitterest disappointment of their lives.

Confidence Is Paramount

"Husbands and wives do not want to have any secrets from each other. They don't want to keep half the things they do hidden from each other. Still less do they want to lie about where they have been, whom they have seen, what they did with their money. On the contrary, their heart's greatest desire is for a confidant with whom they can speak as freely as to their own souls, and who will understand and sympathize with them in everything that comes up in life.

"It would add infinitely to a man's pleasure if he could telephone his wife he was staying down town to take an old woman friend to dinner, instead of telling her a tarradiddle about having to meet a buyer from Oshkosh. And there is nothing that would make him happier than to be able to talk over with his wife about how they could help his sister Jennie and her fatherless brood of children.

"But after having weathered the storm of his wife's tears and reproaches and suspicions over a husband neglecting his home to galivant around with other women, and after having listened to her never-ending complaint that the reason she can't have a new car and a fur coat is because he spends his money on his own family, the astute husband invents the Oshkosh buyer, and sends Jennie's remittance in a way his wife can't trace.

"Same way with women. No wife enjoys padding the grocery bill, or lying about the cost of a hat, or having to use the tactics of a courtesan to get her husband to do something that he knows he should do. She would much rather come out flat-footed and tell him the facts in the case, but after a few rows over the bills and having to endure a spell of grouchiness brought on by truth-telling, she adopts the cynical feminine axiom that what a husband doesn't know doesn't hurt him, and becomes an expert purveyor of alibis. For telling each other the truth is a luxury in which few husband and wives are privileged to indulge."

Girls and Dress

Dear Dorothy Dix.—Everywhere you go, girls seem to have discarded their dresses. In the movies, dance halls, skating rinks and even on the street you see girls in pants. Is it immodest for a girl to wear slacks? Isn't she losing something of her femininity? What do men think of it?—L. M.

Answer.—Men have long since found out the futility of criticizing the way women dress, so they keep their opinions of women in breeches to themselves. The only clue that they give as to their views on the matter is that it is observable that the girls in slacks almost invariably go in pairs. You seldom see one with a masculine escort, from which I gather that men prefer to be seen out with fluffy-ruffles rather than poor imitations of their little brothers.

Of course, the wearing of slacks is no moral issue. It is just an exhibition of poor taste and worse judgment, because it turns the prettiest girl in the world into a figure of fun and makes one wonder if she had no mirror at home to let her see how she looks. Believe me, if slack-wearers could get what Mr. Damon Runyon calls a "gander" at themselves, they would never put on another pair of them.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Slump In Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 27. — (AP)—The Duke of Windsor soon may visit Washington to seek United States' aid in saving this pretty West Indian colony from economic ruin.

The tourist business on which Nassau depended has collapsed, and much of the population has lost its normal means of livelihood.

Using New Steel

Washington, April 27 (AP)

UNITED STATES forces "are hammering the Japs with autos," Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared in a radio address last night.

"The Japs killed our boys on Bataan with shrapnel scraps some of which were marked with the name of an automobile manufacturer," he said.

"Tokyo was bombed a few days ago with steel that might have been used to make 1942 automobiles. We are hammering the Japs with our automobiles — not the scrap from old jallopies, but the new steel that might have been 1943 models."

BE SURE OF YOUR STEP

Hesitating on the dance floor, bumping into others plainly tells your partner that you are unsure of your steps. With the help of easy to understand diagrams, you can lead your partner with confidence. Here are some tips from good dancers:

In holding your partner, be as comfortable as possible; keep her right arm no higher than her shoulder and clasp her a little above the waist. She'll follow better, make it easier for you.

Get your body under control as you dance. See that your upper body is directly over your hips—your weight over the balls of your feet. Then you can stop on a dime! But, most important of all, be in a relaxed state of mind—possible only if you know the steps by heart!

You can learn any popular dance in one evening. Our 32-page booklet has diagrams and clear instructions for Conga, rhumba, tango, foxtrot, Westchester, waltz, Samba, Lindy, Peabody and shag. Includes basic steps and variations. Gives tips on leading, following.

For your copy of booklet, "Be Sure of Your Step," send fifteen cents in coins or stamps to The Examiner's Home Service Department, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name and address.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO GREAT ADVANTAGES

RAISING your partner's bid of a major, when you hold four cards of the suit, is doubly advantageous to your side as compared with bidding another suit in response. The first disadvantage of making a minimum takeout in another suit is that it tells your opponents something which may help them put up a killing defense against you. The second is that it may afford your opponents a chance to enter the bidding and either wind up in a contract of their own, or exchange information on how to beat yours, whereas raising your partner's suit might erect a barrier so high that they cannot risk bidding at all.

North: ♠ J 7 3 ♥ Q ♦ 7 3 ♣ K Q 10 8 4 3 2

West: ♠ K 9 5 4 ♥ K 10 9 7 ♦ J 9 8 ♣ A J

East: ♠ A Q 2 ♥ J 8 4 3 2 ♦ A Q 4 ♣ 9 7

South: ♠ 10 8 6 ♥ A 6 5 ♦ K 10 6 5 2 ♣ 6 5

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1♥	Pass	1♠
2♣	2♥	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♥

Against that bidding, South could not very well avoid leading a club, his partner's suit. Dummy's A took this, and thereafter it was impossible to avoid losing one trick each in three suits, so that declarer made exactly 4-Hearts.

At another table in this same duplicate game, the East-West pair profited from sounder bidding. After East bid 1-Heart and South passed, West jumped to 3-Hearts, and East bid 4. With no information, from either his partner or the declarer's side, on what to lead, South made the natural choice of the spade 10, which the A won. The heart 2 to the K dropped the Q, and the 10 knocked out the A.

South now decided, all too late, that a club lead might be a good idea. The A took this, and the defenders never did get a club trick. The heart 9 dropped the last trump, and the spades divided evenly, East's losing club being put on the thirteener. The diamond finesse lost to the K, but that ended the trick-taking by the defense, an extra trick being made by the declarer.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 10 7 ♥ A K 9 7 3 ♦ Q 10 8 3 ♣ 6 2

West: ♠ A J 4 2 ♥ Q 4 ♦ K 6 5 4 ♣ Q 5 4

East: ♠ K 9 3 ♥ J 10 8 ♦ 9 7 2 ♣ A K 8 7

South: ♠ Q 8 6 5 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ A J ♣ J 10 9 3

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

If North takes the heart K leads to the diamond A, and South returns the diamond J, how should West play this deal to make 2 Spades?

Carrots The Cure For Head Cold?

LOS ANGELES, April 27—(AP). —The common head cold, puzzle of doctors, may join the list of conquered diseases, and through the agency of the humble carrot.

After seven years of research, a group of scientists believe—guardedly—that they have developed a specific remedy for a malady which annually takes a greater toll of man-hours in industry than any other ailment.

The answer, they believe, is carotent, a creamy white derivative of the carrot. Rather, it's a new substance, pro-vitamin A, factor 3, extracted from carotent. And the patient doesn't swallow it, or have it injected—just rubs it on himrelf.

The material was developed by the Llewellyn Biological Institute of West Los Angeles, of which Dr. R. L. Cunningham is director. It has been tried on 150 patients with what he describes as effective results.

The best method is to massage about 15 drops into the skin of each inner thigh. Or 30 drops can be rubbed into the abdomen. The main thing is to rub it into a 10-square-inch space through which absorption can occurr.

Joint Meeting Held By Millbrook Groups

MILLBROOK, April 27—(ENS). —The W. A. of St. Thomas' church had an enjoyable meeting with the WMS. of Grace Presbyterian church for the latter's Easter Thankoffering gathering on Wednesday at Grace church, the president of the hostess society Mrs A. R. Gibson, occupying the chaiar. With her on the platform was Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, president of the guest organization.

By special invitation the St. Thomas' W.A. provided the major part of the program, Mrs. T. A. Campbell reading the lesson, and Mrs. Westmacott offering prayer, and giving a brief talk on the resurrection story. Miss Rose Macnamara read a poem, and Mrs. Gibson and Mrs J. Thompson followed with a duet, Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke presiding at the piano. The president of the hostess society gave the dedicatory prayer after the offering had been received and in her address expressed great pleasure in having a sister society as guests for the day, devoting also a part of the time to the significance of Easter, though the actual date was passed for this outstanding event.

Following the closing hymn and prayer, tea was served, Mrs. A. S. Hall pouring at a table lovely with lace cloth, and spring flowers, together with yellow candles burning in silver holders.

Shooting Them

London, April 27 (CP).

THE Germans are shooting from 20 to 25 Belgian patriots a month in a vain effort to stem rising pro-British sentiment, the Belgian government information service said today.

Members of a "White Brigade," one of the most active of the secret organizations within the Nazi-occupied kingdom, are arming themselves "to play an active part the day the Allies set foot on the continent," the service stated.

Six members of this "White Brigade" were executed recently and others sentenced to prison after a trial on sabotage charges. Strikes and "go slow" campaigns are adding to German troubles and cutting down production at an alarming rate.

Marathon Bridge Popular Pastime

HASTINGS, April 27—(ENS). — First of its kind ever to be formed in the district, a Marathon Bridge Club, composed of 24 patriotic Hastings ladies raised $75 for the local Red Cross during the past winter. Each of the ladies played eleven games during an 11-week period which ended on Wednesday night, when the entire club gathered for a social evening at the home of Mrs. Clifford Baker.

Prizes, comprising War Savings Stamps, were presented to Mrs. W. M. Fowlds and Miss Dorothy Child with a high total score of 44,000, and to Mrs. D. C. Hay and Mrs. T. A. Coughlan with 39,000 points. Mrs. W. Buck and Miss C. Doxsee captured the low score prize.

Mrs. Walter Fowlds, prime mover in the formation of the club, which was based on a similar organization in Port Hope, thanked the members for their co-operation and support, terming the patriotic project "a decided success."

She stated plans were already under way for next years club when it is hoped a larger number of ladies will participate.

Refreshments provided by 12 of the club members, concluded the highly successful season.

Propose No Treating

LONDON, April 27 — (CP). — The "no treating" law forbidding drinks on the house, which was as close as Britain came to prohibition in the First Great War, was proposed again in the House of Commons to-day as a means of cutting down consumption of beer and of spirits in Britain's numerous pubs.

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison said the Government had considered the idea but decided it was "undesirable to interfere with the liberty of persons merely for the sake of doing so."

Chinese Home-Life Play Background

MILLBROOK, April 27—(ENS).— A two-act play, "New Homes for Old," featured the program presented in the basement of St. Andrew's church on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Golden Links Mission Circle, an appreciative audience being gathered for the occasion. Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., directed the play, and at its close was invited to the platform and presented with a corsage of crimson roses in appreciation of her services.

The play gave vivid emphasis to the change in the Chinese home of Mrs. Jiang (Mary Dawson), where poverty, lying, tale-bearing and strife continually prevailed by means of her two daughters-in-law, Toong Tze (Leitha Edworthy) and Lian Tze (Jean Fisher), and her young daughter, Soo Jen (Francis Tickner). When the Christian teachers, Mrs. Lee (Margaret Smith), Mrs. Shen (Lillian Foottit), and Miss Wren (Marian Seymour), induced the family to embrace the teachings of Jesus, harmony, helpfulness and family worship replaced the old, bad feuds.

Following the play, slides, in natural coloring, and depicting scenes in West China, with some of the damage caused by Japanese planes in wrecking mission property and other buildings, were thrown on the screen, the Circle president, Mrs. Henry W. Gray, giving the lecture material.

Betty Thornton and Ruth Thorne received the Easter thankoffering, and the silver collection, Jean Burnham offering the dedicatory prayer. Others assisted with the worship service including Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, Mrs. D. L. Lunn, and the president, who played soft music while the offering was taken up. The dismissal prayer was by the minister, Rev. A. L. Sisco.

M.O.H. Forecasts Mumps Epidemic

HASTINGS, April 27.—(ENS)— According to Dr. W. M. Campbell, local M.O.H., the dozens or so cases of mumps prevalent in Hastings at the present time are but the prelude to a general epidemic.

"All signs lead to this belief," stated Dr. Campbell. "Although the present cases are fairly mild, mumps usually make rapid headway and remain in one area for a year or longer."

During his practice in Hastings there has never been a mump epidemic, stated Dr. Campbell.

Marshals Science To Smash Hitler

The Engineering Institute of Canada met at the Paragon Hall Thursday evening for the last of the regular series of papers. Speaker of the evening was G. E. Bourne of the C.G.E. head office staff in Toronto whose topic was "Electricity in Modern Warfare."

In his introduction, Mr. Bourne drew on Gibbons "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" citing the experience of the Romans in their efforts to subdue the Germans. It appears that even in that day the only lesson that impressed the Germans was a sound beating on home ground. The moral is to marshal every scientific aid to the task of smashing Germany.

The wartime uses of electricity are too numerous to name since almost every civilian or military function depends to some extent upon it. Applications may be broadly classed as direct military and war material production.

Controls the Navy

Navies require electrical machinery control, lighting and communication equipment and degausing cable among other items. Modern mechanized armies are controlled by electrical devices, guided by radio. Typical aeronautical application is aircraft instruments.

In many instances war goods are made several times as fast as in the last war. This is chiefly due to electrification of industry and the improvements in machinery, made possible by electric drives. Notable are the developments in electrolysis of aluminium and copper and in high speed metal mills.

The paper was profusely illustrated with lantern slides at intervals as it was delivered.

The appreciation of the meeting was expressed by Mr. B. Ottewell. Mr. J. Cameron, chairman, urged all members to attend the student and juinor meeting, May 7.

War Travels End In Fire

Friends in this city will be sorry to learn that Norma Johns, formerly employed at Genelco, was burned out recently in a fire at Correl, Quebec.

Miss Johns was representing a fur company in Oslo when the Germans invaded Norway. After roaming through the country for four months, she received permission from the German Consul to leave. She then travelled through Sweden and across Russia and emarked for the United States from Vladivostok.

Upon her return to the United States, Miss Johns decided to come to Canada to help in war work. Having braved the hardships of travel in war-torn Europe, she salvaged a few personal belongings only to lose them all in a quiet spot in Quebec.

Box Social Raises $46 For Red Cross

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (ENS) —People from this district enjoyed their first old time box social since the last war on Wednesday evening. The affair was arranged by Mrs. C. MacMillan (teacher) and the pupils of Connelly's School, who sponsored it primarily as a means of assembling a group of people before whom they could conduct a draw on a quilt.

These pupils, all of whom are members of the Junior Red Cross raised $46.00 from the draw and social but the surprising part was that the auction, conducted by Ward Archer, attracted such wide spread interest that it is felt it may serve to revive this one popular custom. Proof at least, that residents of S. S. No. 3 were enthusiastic about it, is seen by the fact that the top price for boxes was $1.75 while primary students of the school (though at a lower figure) vied with each other to buy the boxes made by school girls.

Mrs. C. MacMillan presided for the program which included community singing, a children's chorus, "Let's Get Together"; recitations by Gwen McCulloch, Iona Bright, Betty McCulloch, Joyce Bright, Eugene Bright Aleitha Nichols. A group of three boys, Andrew McCulloch, Alex. Rutherford and Bert Kelly, staged an exercise entitled "V for Victory."

Following this on the program were ten games of bingo in charge of Mrs. D. Durran and Mr. Douglas Rutherford, while the prizes were donated for this by Mrs. MacMillan. The winners were Miss Betty McCulloch, Messrs. Cecil, Fred and Ray McCulloch, Mr. Eugene Bright, Miss Iona Bright, Miss Betty Clarke, Mr. Howard Clarke, Mrs. Walter Clarke, and Mr. Maurice Kelly.

Mr. James Jacobs of Campbellford was the winner of the quilt made for the occasion by the ladies of S. S. No. 3, and the draw was made by Shirley Campbell.

The entire proceeds will be turned over to the Campbellford and Seymour Branch of the Red Cross, and although this was the school's largest social undertaking they have made several cash donations in the past as a result of bi-monthly concert held on Friday afternoons. They are also working on an afghan which will soon be turned over to the Red Cross.

Brantford Fire Chases Out Ten

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 27. — (CP).—Ten persons, including two small children, were forced to the street when fire broke out this morning in the premises of the Brantford Willow Works in the main business block.

Spreading rapidly, the flames quickly engulfed the store next door, occupied by the firm of Constable and Roscoe. Both premises were completely gutted and the contents will be almost a total loss.

Firemen would not estimate the amount of the damage but it is expected to run into many thousands of dollars.

Gordon O'Connell, one of the residents of the apartment directly above the stores, first discovered the fire. He ran to the door of the apartment of Mrs. C. Crowe, who telephoned the alarm to the fire department.

PLEDGE SLATE CLEANED CANADA VOTES 'YES' 2-1

Hun Norse Naval Base Blasted

Peterboro' Votes 84.7% Yes

13,399 "Yes" Votes Were Cast With 2,054 "No's"

By 13,399 votes to 2,054, the people of the riding of Peterborough West declared their assent to the question in the releasing plebiscite which the federal Government submitted to them at the polls Monday. The majority was 11,345.

Of the 25,912 registered voters, 15,453 cast their ballots on the issue of returning to the Government the promises made in the last election that men would not be conscripted for military service beyond the borders of their own country. Three-fifths of the qualified voters in this riding went to the polls, in a non-partisan compliance with the Government's appeal for a pronouncement that would unbind their hands to meet emergent developments of the war most effectively.

Just as a reminder of what the question was according to the wording of the ballot, its text is quoted once more: "Are you in favor of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitment restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

Peterborough gave an emphatic affirmative reply to that question, casting its approval and lot with the great majority of Canadians in their thundering cancellation of election promises made and accepted in 1940 before France had fallen and the world projected designs of the Axis powers had been revealed.

Party allegiance was subordinated yesterday to the nation's necessities, and the comparatively large 60 per cent. vote disclosed that even more persons than were estimated of late took time out from all their affairs to give the Government the answer its ministers, with the leaders of other sections of Parliament had so strongly urged. No organization was formed here to get out the vote, and action was left to the individual. The local results yesterday throw a brighter light upon the sense of citizenship and democratic responsibility of an encouraging large part of this urban and rural community.

Every municipality in the riding with one exception endorsed the proposition presented in the plebiscite. The exception was the township of Ennismore. The two polls in that township voted on the negative side, and were joined by two of the four polls in Douro.

By polls, the decision of the riding was 103 to 4, not including the advance poll which received seven votes, five for and two against.

Reports from some of the polls last night indicated that the extension of the polling time until 8 o'clock was a convenience to a large number of the city's workers of

All Out Switch

LONDON, April 28—(CP). —The Government suffered a technical defeat in the House of Lords today when the peers voted 20 to 19 for the Duke of Montrose's substitute proposal to convert 50,000 vehicles to the use of synthetic fuels instead of gasoline. The Government had proposed to convert only 10,000 vehicles.

Montreal Alone Yields 'Yes' In Quebec's No's

MONTREAL, April 28 — (CP).—Quebec Province returned a negative civilian vote in yesterday's plebiscite with the margin of "no's" stretching from one end of the province to the other and broken only by affirmative majorities on Montreal Island.

With a few scattered polls yet to be heard from, the vote was 934,999 to 371,508 by individual ballots, and 56-9 by constituencies. The affirmative answers made up slightly more than 28 per cent of the total.

Even in Montreal constituencies, the total vote was slightly negative, although nine of the 16 ridings showed affirmative results. Those nine were Jacques Cartier, comprising the western suburban end of the Island, the west-end residential districts of Verdun, Mount Royal, St. Antoine-Westmount and St. Lawrence-St. George, north-end residential Outremont, the east-central ridings of Laurier and Cartier, and the highly-industrialized riding of St. Ann.

Elsewhere the negative result was evident almost from the first poll except in the Ottawa Valley riding of Wright which showed a "yes" margin during the early evening, only to swing to the "no" column when more complete results became available.

Top 1940 Election Total

Voters cast their ballots in substantially greater numbers than in the general elections of 1940. With 325 of the province's 7,976 polls yet to report, the total vote stood at 1,306,507 compared with the 1940 total of 1,189,489.

The voting was carried out without disturbances. After polls closed, a brief scuffle broke out between two groups of youths in

Borok Falls Gives Reds Ilmen Area

Key N.W. Rail Town; Adolf Cashiers Finn Front General

LONDON, April 28 —(CP)—The Russians appeared to have won control of the entire rgeion around Lake trol of the entire region around Lake kets at Novgorod and Staraya Russa by capturing Borok, key rail town on the northwestern front.

The Moscow radio announced the victory at Borok, confirming earlier Stockholm reports, and military experts here said the advance flanked the German positions north and south of the big lake, 120 miles below Leningrad. They said German communications to the rear also were threatened.

Borok is on the railway from Novgorod to Staraya Russa, where the German 16th Army had long been reported trapped. This railway skirts the western shore of Lake Ilmen.

German efforts to hammer a wedge into Russian lines on the Smolensk front some 200 miles west of Moscow were repulsed with 1,000 Nazi casualties, the Soviet communique said.

The Germans were using strong tank forces in this power drive, the Russians said, indicating the terrain was hardening after weeks of slush and mud. On other parts of the long front from Leningrad to the Crimea, both great armies appeared to be sparring for an opening.

Finn Front Leader Ousted

Hitler has cashiered the German 163rd Division's commander as a result of German reverses on the Finnish front, war dispatches indicated.

Coincident with a developing Soviet counter-offensive across still-frozen Lapland and Karelia came advices from Stockholm that Lt.-Gen. Engelbrecht, who led the 163rd Nazi Division to the Finnish front on July 12, 1941, has been dismissed by Hitler and a reshuffle of the entire German command in Finland is imminent.

Hitler was reported angered by Russian successes in the drive to erase Axis threats to Archangel and Arctic Murmansk, Soviet supply ports, and wedge spearheads across the Finnish frontier.

One Stockholm dispatch said the removal of Engelbrecht might be one of the disciplinary measures to which Hitler referred in his Sunday speech before the Reichstag.

Twister Levels Main Street 100 Die, 250 Hurt

PRYOR, Okla., April 28—(AP)—A sudden, savage tornado ripped the main street of this war-boom town of 6,000 into ruins and the state highway patrol estimated today that 100 persons perished and more than 250 were injured.

The town was ordered under martial law, and Governor Leon Phillips placed safety commissioner Walter Johnson in command of state relief agencies.

The martial law was announced by and is being enforced by the state highway patrol under Johnson, the state's national guard having been mustered into the army. The town has no sheriff or city marshal force sufficient to cope with such an emergency.

Hundreds of workers and machinery from the ordnance works, which escaped serious damage, were taken to the scene. Giant cranks shovelled through the wreckage in search of victims.

The tornado struck late yesterday afternoon and most of the six-block business district on main street was reduced to rubble.

Early today a central relief agency was established. Street patrols were organized to prevent looting, but three arrests were reported.

Both Hospitals Victims

The more seriously injured were given hospital treatment in nearby towns. Pryor's two hospitals were damaged and evacuated.

Wounded overflowed hospitals at Vinita, Claremore, Tulsa and other towns.

The Red Cross sent eight disaster workers from St. Louis with medical and other supplies.

Tirpitz, Two Cruisers, Pocket Battleship All In Trondheim

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, April 28 — (AP). — Squadrons of heavy British bombers maintaining destructive attacks on German targets for the fifth day running, last night raided the Norwegian port of Trondheim where the Germans are building an Atlantic battle fleet base, the Air Ministry announced to-day.

Other squadrons simultaneously attacked Rhineland objectives, including Cologne, bombed the docks at Dunkirk, laid mines in waters off France and Belgium and machine-gunned German airdromes. Eighteen British planes were lost, a communique said.

A new bomber and fighter attacking force covering a square mile of sky and described as "the largest single unit ever to attack occupied France" swept out towards Calais to-day. Smaller flights had already reutrned from earlier raids which began at dawn.

Instead of concentrating on four German warships auchored in Trondheim harbor, British bomb-aimers loosed their explosives at land installations which, an air ministry said, "we are trying to knock down as fast as they put up."

Two of the German ships at Trondheim are the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz, which took shelter there after a brush with British torpedo planes at sea March 13 and the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, which fled from Brest with the 26,000-ton battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst on Feb. 13.

The others were reported to be the 10,000-ton cruiser Hipper and the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Scheer.

Informed sources in London said it is known that the Germans, using conscripted Norwegian labor, are attempting to complete quickly a large naval base there.

"There is no reason to think our forces are going especially after units of the German fleet," one authority said. "It is vitally important to destroy the usefulness of Trondheim as a naval base."

In the Rhineland raids, Cologne was the principal target and large fires were started there during clear weather attacks.

By The Canadian Press

Imposition of conscription for overseas service today became a military decision, free from the political implications attached to it for more than a score of years and in two wars.

By their majority "Yes" vote in yesterday's manpower plebiscite Canada's civilian voters wiped the slate clean of all political promises, pledge and commitments restricting the free exercise of the judgment of the Government and Parliament on methods of raising men for the Canadian armed forces anywhere in the world.

When all the votes are counted the total may set a new record, exceeding all previous records of voting at Canadian general elections. The plebiscite itself was unprecedented, in that it did not seek an expression of opinion on a particular issue but a removal of a pledge not to deal with the manpower question in a certain way.

A majority of the voters in eight provinces and a substantial minority in traditionally anti-conscriptionist Quebec voted "yes" to the question:

"Are you in favor of releasing the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

With conscription for service in Canada already in effect the one remaining commitment to be removed by the plebiscite was Prime Minister Mackenzie King's pre-election promise, concurred in by leaders of other parties, not to resort to compulsion in securing men for service outside Canada and Canadian territorial waters.

Over 4,000,000 Turned Out

Early this morning, with many polls unreported and more than 4,000,000 votes tabulated out of an estimated 7,000,000 eligible the "yes's" were leading the "no's" by better than 1,000,000. When the final count is made by the addition of the votes of some 450,000 men and women in the armed forces at home and overseas it is expected the "yes" total will exceed the "no" by about two to one or more. The service votes will be announced May 5.

In launching the plebiscite campaign April 7 Prime Minister Mackenzie King said overseas conscription was a military question which should be decided by the government and parliament. It was to secure freedom to make the decision that he asked for release from the pledge, not necessarily for the purpose of immediate action.

Last night when the general result became known Mr. King saw in it an indication the people realized the war had taken an unexpected course and that it was necessary to remove restrictions.

Allied Burma Forces In Jap Trap

CHUNGKING, China, April 28—(AP).—The Japanese appeared today on the point of slamming shut the Burma back door to China and pinching off the entire British-Chinese defence forces.

Strong reinforcements from Malaya, driving north and east through the Shan states, reached points only 60 miles from the Mandalay-Lashio railroad.

So closely threatened is Lashio that essential military supplies already have been moved out and many inhabitants have fled.

The fall of Lashio or of any point along the 130-mile railway running southwestward to Mandalay would further restrict the already difficult transport between China and India and would threaten the defenders of Burma with entrapment.

Latest dispatches from the dry hills and river valleys of the fighting fronts said tank-led Japanese columns were driving up the road from Loilem on the eastern flank and had reached a point 60 miles or less from Hsipaw on the Mandalay-Lashio road. (This apparently was in the vicinity of Mong Kung. Chinese dispatches identified the point as Mong Sung, not shown on available maps.)

Other fingers of the invaders were reaching up to grasp upper Burma along the Sittang and Irrawaddy River valleys, but it was the eastern flanking manoeuvre which was the most menacing.

Racing The Monsoon

The Japanese forces, freed by the fall of Malaya and Singapore and supported by thousands of rebellious Burmese, apparently were racing against time to clean up Burma before the imminent rainy season.

(Such a development obviously would cause the Allies "great difficulties," British quarters in London said.)

The Chinese said the Japanese also would be in a position then to launch a land attack against India, and the Chinese army organ, Sao Tang Pao, declared:—

"The battle of Burma may ultimately prove to be the determined factor of the second great war, for once Japan gains control of Burma her dream of a junction with Germany in the Middle East comes near nearer to realization."

A Chinese army spokesman said roads had been destroyed in an attempt to hamper the advance and would be irreparable when the rains came. He said the Chinese still were fighting the invaders south of Pyawbwe on the Sittang river

All Eyes On King In House Today

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will face the House of Commons today with his government freed from restrictions on wartime use of Canada's manpower.

Civilian voters of the Dominion by a majority of approximately two to one voted yesterday to release the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service.

But Quebec province voters, by more than two to one, gave a "No" answer at the polls.

The situation thus created is expected to furnish subject for debate, possibly as soon as the House resumes at 3 p.m. today after its extended week-end adjournment.

In statements issued last night, neither Mr. King nor M. J. Coldwell, House lead of the C.C.F., nor John Blackmore, leader of the New Democracy Group, made any direct reference to the large negative majority in Quebec.

He observed that there were negative votes cast in all the provinces and added "the vote was taken in a democratic fashion, and it will be recognized throughout the country that, in a democracy the will of the people prevails."

Conservative House Leader R. B. Hanson returned by train from his New Brunswick home today in time for the resumed sitting of the House of Commons and expressed modified satisfaction with the outcome of yesterday's plebiscite.

Hitler Turning To War 1 System

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

BERNE, April 28—(AP).—Germany is overhauling her war methods, with strong indications that Hitler's hopes for another blitzkreig this Spring and Summer are being supplanted by a strategy of conservation and prevention which will emphasize old-style artillery and infantry fighting on the Russian front.

Iron Hun Heel Turns Italy to the King

Nattion, Axis Allies Resent Yoke—Balk At Furnishing Nazi Blood Transfusions

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There certainly is something rotten in Germany when Hitler has to order his puppet Reichstag to grant him power of life and death over the people, without regard to existing laws, in order that he may be, as he puts it, "legally entitled to hold anyone to his duties," and to punish those who disobey.

Obviously it means that he is encountering trouble which he figures can be handled only by strong-arm methods. The Reichstag action, of course, is only eye-wash, serving to warn the restless public of what it may expect if it doesn't give absolute obedience.

This significant development, which is welcome news for the Allies, coincides with the swelling revolt among the people of the occupied countries, and the growing reluctance of the other European members of the Hitlerian pact to sacrifice their own people in order to provide blood — transfusions for Nazidom. We see this disposition in Rumania and in Hungary and, what is of greater importance, in Italy, which used to be stroke-oar in the Fuehrer's galley until the crack of his whip no longer brought the old response.

One of the things for us to watch, and for Herr Hitler to keep a sharp eye on, is the durability of that Italo-Nazi allegiance. As a matter of fact it long has been obvious that Italian loyalty to the Fuehrer isn't the cement holds the original Axis brother together. To put it bluntly, Italy is in much the same position as any of the German-occupied countries—an unwilling wearer of a yoke which thus far has been too heavy to shake off.

It isn't strange, therefore, to get a report from neutral Turkey that secret negotiations for peace are being undertaken in Rome with the Allies. Nor there may or may not be a sound basis for this report but from my own knowledge I am confident that whether or not the Italians actually are feeling about for peace, they would jump at it if they were free to do so.

But they aren't free. Hitler's troops have their hob-nail boots firmly on Italian soil, and he has only to raise his hand to turn that ancient country into another France. He has coolly and ruthlessly drained Italy of her resources until there is even a serious shortage of food in some places. Mussolini no longer is master in his own house, but has reached the pitch of seeing his land turned into a German military base over which he has little control.

Actually a great section of the Italian people have no stomach for the German game from the start. I know from personal investigation in Italy that they abhorred Hitler's doctrines and were immeasurably shocked by such acts of persecution of the churches and the Jews. Thus it was with the utmost misgivings and reluctance that, apart from the fanatical young Fascists, they followed Il Duce on what has proved to be a disastrous gamble.

Long ago the people began to swing from the once hypnotic personality of Mussolini back to the old king and the royal family. The monarch once more is the big man in the hearts of the great majority of his subjects. There is no doubt that Italy would like peace, and while the king now is in effect a prisoner in his palace, the time may come when he can act.

Canadians In U.S. Relieved

Reveal "No" Vote Would Have Hurt Relations

By J. F. SANDERSON.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(CP). —Officials of the United States government declined comment last night on the result of the Canadian manpower plebiscite but Canadian residents of Washington were less restrained—they were openly relieved, even jubilant.

For days it has been apparent to Canadians living in the United States that the result of the plebiscite would have had a decidedly adverse effect on relations between the two countries and that a preponderately "no" vote would have been interpreted in the United States as a reflection of a half-hearted participation in the war by the Canadian people as a whole.

During the last few days, many American newspapers have carried detailed accounts of the plebiscite campaign, including attempts to explain the historical and political factors involved. These accounts aroused considerable public interest in the campaign and the American people were well aware of the fact that Canada was taking a vote of great importance.

While government officials last night declined public comment on the vote their interest in it was apparent from the questions they asked, particularly how the people of Quebec marked their ballots.

Voice On Munition Board

3rd Largest Output Places Her With Britain, U.S.

WASHINGTON, April 28—(CP).—Direct representation on the munitions board, one of the top-ranking military organizations of the United Nations, has been won by Canada, it was reported here today.

The board, ranking second only to the combined chiefs of staff committee, is confined at present to American and British experts on military supplies but will be expanded to include Canadian representation.

It is expected there that the Canadian appointments to the board will be announced at Ottawa within the next few days.

Canadian representation on the board is recognition of Canada's position as the third largest producer of surplus military supplies among the 26 united nations. Canadian war supplies are being used in every theatre of operations, under the general distribution of the munitions assignment board.

Soon after war broke out in the Pacific and particularly when the Japanese threat to Australia became apparent, the Australian government sought direct representation on the munitions assignment board but apparently has not been successful. Australia is not a surplus producer of any importance and is dependent on outside sources for the bulk of her military supplies.

Mass Exit From Rostock Ton Bombs On Coast; Huns Pound Norwich

LONDON, April 28—(CP).—British bombers, continuing massed raids against German targets, last night attacked Cologne and other Rhineland objectives, the naval base at Tronheim, the docks at Dunkirk and airdromes in German-occupied territory, an Air Ministry communique announced today. Seventeen planes were lost.

Clear weather aided the raiders in the fifth day of their sustained offensive over Germany proper. Large fires were started at Cologne and at other points in the Rhineland.

A strong bombing force attacked the German naval base at Trondheim, Norway, where the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz and 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen took refuge after fleeing from Brest but "the effect of this raid may not be known for some time," the communique said. Previous reports said that the Prinz Eugen had already been damaged in earlier raids.

The docks at Dunkirk were bombed and at the same time mines were laid in waters off the coasts of German-occupied France and Belgium.

Damage Supply Ship

Fighter planes raided an unidentified airdrome in German-occupied territory and a supply ship was damaged off the coast of Denmark, the air ministry said.

Reconnaissance flights over much-bombed Rostock, in Germany, have established that the main assembly sheds of the big Heinkel aircraft factory there had been damaged as well as many of the auxiliary buildings.

Fires at Rostock were still burning at noon Monday, the air ministry said, after the city had been bombed four successive nights.

Almost before stragglers from the R.A.F.'s fifth successive night foray into Germany had reached home, great British squadrons were roaring back at dawn toward the French coast.

Above the howl of a gale-like wind came heavy explosions, some even jarring the English side of Dover Strait. White exhaust trails of the high-flying planes streaked the sky for miles from Kent almost as far as Calais.

The sounds indicated the R.A.F.

Hitler himself referred to this when he spoke to the Reichstag Sunday of fighting next Winter, but did not once use the words "Spring offensive."

It still is too early to say there will be no Spring offensive. But nothing has developed so far to change appreciably the situation as it was December 21, 1941, when Hitler frankly put his armies on the defensive.

Factor which have contributed to throwing the original Spring schedule off stride include, of course, the difficulties of production of the home front, the enrollment of fewer new troops than expected, and the continuing hardships of transport for both men and materials.

The result has been the reversion to older methods of warfare, with the prospect that especially on the northern and central sectors of the long Russian front, fighting probably will be carried on from trenches to a larger degree than ever before.

Foreign military observers believe that Hitler's all-important effort to drive toward the oil of the Caucasus in the south depends on the extent to which the Northern Russian armies can be held back. Berlin dispatches now speak of September as a possible month for the Caucasus push, because until then all available energy will be required on the non-existing lines.

Basic Price For Potatoes Set At $1.80

Housewives throughout the city and district are for the most part conscious of the imperative need for control of prices, according to W. E. Foley, local regional office supervisor for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Peterborough.

He stated that many are giving the officials excellent co-operation, but stressed that this is the individual responsibility of every man and woman to see that prices of commodities which now have a price ceiling must be kept in line. Many complaints have come in and all have been investigated and the offenders brought back into line.

Mr. Foley stated that too many complaints have come from patrons of the farmers' market, and farmers selling potatoes are the worst. The basic price for local grown potatoes as set for the basic period in February is $1.75 for the local market, and may be as low as $1.65 for some people who were selling the potatoes for that price at the time. Recently an order came out, which permits the farmer to add five cents a bushel to the basic price which means that on 75-pound bags, the farmer cannot charge more than $1.80 on the market in this city. This applies to all varieties of potatoes including white stars, and some farmers who have the idea they can charge $2 for white stars are mistaken, and liable to prosecution.

One man claims that $1.85 is his basic price which is wrong, as $1.75 was the top price established locally during the period. This man broke the law by charging the people who purchased the potatoes an additional 15 cents for delivery, thus bringing the price of the potatoes up to $2.

Breaking The Law

The gradual increase in the price of potatoes on the local market is due entirely to the fact that consumers are failing in their duties to police prices, and report all increase over the basic price to the price controller in the local regional office. Last Saturday one woman was asking $2 for white stars, and stated the reason she was doing this was because others had done so. They were both breaking the law, and it is reliably reported that the local officials are ready to crack down on the offending parties. Naturally no person wishes to have trouble, but so many complaints have come in, that direct action is imperative to curb this gradual rise in the price of potatoes. The top price permissible is $1.80, and potatoes cannot be sold at a higher price.

Some local dealers have imported seed potatoes, labelled as certified seed from Prince Edward Island, and these are selling at $2.25 a bag. The price ceiling does not affect these potatoes, but the growers who ticket potaoes as certified seed, when they are not such, are liable to a severe penalty, under the Farm Grades and Sales Act. It all boils down to one basic price, and cooperation between the farmers and the consumers, and also the price board will keep prices at a level, which is fair to the farmer, and the consumer alike.

If anyone has a complaint here is the procedure to follow: Get a full description of the article, where it was purchase, the late it was purchased and the amount paid for it. They must also have the approximate date on which they previously bought the same article and how much was paid. Give what you believe was the hgihest price paid in the same store during the basic peroid, give also your name, address and telephone number, and no undue publicity will be given about the person who makes the report.

Women who wish to keep a record of prices may obtain a small book for that purpose free of charge at the Regional Price Board office on Hunter street just behind Elliott's Drug Store. The book gives complete instructions on the procedure to follow, and is just what many women have been looking for to aid them in policing the price ceilings.

Canadian women who want to beat Hitler will only buy the amount of groceries and other commodities which they require for immediate needs. This will eliminate hoarding, prevent runs on stocks, and will thus keep prices in line.

No Extra UK Coal OnceRationGone

LONDON, April 28 — (CP). — A Government plan for fuel rationing under which coal, electricity and gas would be cut off once a British household used its annual ration was announced in a White Paper and promptly assailed in the House of Commons to-day.

The first criticisms came only in the form of questions, but a full-dress debate will be held soon.

It was expected that critics would press for an answer to one question particularly, whether it would not be wiser to release 15,00 miners from the armed services instead of hiring that number of clerks to operate the rationing scheme.

The White Paper was the first detailed announcement of a plan devised by Sir William Beveridge, economist, and announced April 21 by Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade.

Coupons usable for any fuel would be issued under the plan which is to go into effect in May or June if the Beveridge report is adopted.

It was stated that the Government hoped to save 10,000,000 tons of coal, or one-eighth of the nation's annual consumption.

To a suggestion that rationing be deferred for a time and a fuel economy publicity campaign attempted, Mr. Dalton replied that a recent publicity drive to curb domestic coal consumption had resulted in a 1,00,000-ton increase in the annual consumption.

TORONTO, April 28—(CP).—Ontario was on record today with an 84-per-cent decision of its civilian electorate that the Dominion Government should not be hampered by any pledges or commitments about use of Canada's manpower in any theatre of this "survival war."

In a vote closely approaching that of the 1940 Dominion election in Ontario, the province's electors served this notice at the polls in yesterday's manpower plebiscite. When counting ceased last night 10,084 of the province's 10,626 polls showed an affirmative vote of 1,585,806 against a negative expression of 227,177. The 1940 total vote was 1,625,439.

The decision was general in all but two of the province's 82 constituencies. Prescott and Russell, which contain a large French-Canadian population, went negative.

But even before this reaction against the general trend became pronounced the affirmative decision seemed assured. For, almost from the time Essex West reported at 8.05 p.m. that three of it 210 polls showed 116 "yes" votes and 11 "no" the

MRS. CHARLES A. RUTHERFORD

OMEMEE, April 28— (ENS). — The community mourns the loss of one of its most highly respected residents in the person of Annie L. Balfour, beloved wife of Charles A. Rutherford, who passed away suddenly at her home on the farm, two miles south of Omemee, on Monday, April 27.

Death was due to a heart attack. On Monday afternoon she walked to the school, one-half mile west of her home, cast her vote, and was returning to her home when she was seized with a heart attack. She managed to get to her gate, and called to her husband for help. He heard her call, but as he has been an invalid for many years, he was unable to go to her. He telephoned Dr. Earle of Omemee, but before the doctor arrived she had passed away.

Mrs. Rutherford was born in 1879 in Emily Township on the farm where she resided at the time of her death. She was the daughter of the late David Balfour and Annie Peplow.

Following her marriage in 1904, she and her husband resided for a number of years on the farm now owned by Arthur Rutherford, four miles south of the village in Cavan Township, finally returning to the farm where she was born and where she resided until her death.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother is her sorrowing husband, one daughter Mrs. John Elliott (Florence) of Millersmith, and one son Ross, of Linosay who is a teacher in the Central Public School. Three sisters also survive, namely Caroline, who is on the teaching staff in Toronto, Harmony of Saskatoon, and Mrs. Ross (Maude) of Vancouver. One brother William predeceased her several years ago.

The late Mrs. Rutherford was a devoted members of the United Church and a member of the Women's Missionary Society. She attended church services regularly until her husband's illness, when she was forced to remain at home to care for him.M

The number of cattle now coming to market here is still not up to normal as heavy shipments continue to cross the border into the United States. Plebiscite Highlights

Presumably those who voted "No" Monday appreciate this vestigial freedom, this right to vote as one will, even to the extent of being willing to defend them—to fight for them, without quibbling about where the defence lines should be drawn. Presumably!

The 60 per cent. vote in this riding was almost exactly in the same proportion as the total for the nation. In other words, three of every five Canadians voted.

Vincent Eastwood, returning officer, told the Examiner Monday night that the number of voters at Poll 55, as counted in the enumeration, was down to 40 from the 46 on the list in the 1940 elections. This poll is away up in the northwest corner of Galway, at a place locally known as Fortescue. It even has a post office. The number of names on the list at Poll 53, Schoolhouse No. 4, in Cavendish, is 100; and in the third subdivision, in Kinmount, the number of voters is 70. Polling place was at Thomas Beacon's house in the village.

Otonabee Details.

Details of the Otonabee vote were:

Poll	Yes	No	Total	On list
82	53	0	53	117
83	71	45	116	250
84	139	3	142	273
85	69	9	78	182
86	46	36	82	185
87	96	13	109	240
88	65	5	70	154
89	122	34	156	312
Total	661	145	806	1,713

The total vote in Ennismore was 153, and the total numbers of voters 206.

Approximately half the eligible voters in North Monaghan made their duty trip to the polls. The total number of ballots marked was 1,273, and the number of persons on the list was 2,581; and the vote in the township was 1,126 "Yes's" to 147 "No's."

Possibly Ennismore felt that a release vote might be extended to the dream of a permanent bridge.

"That four o'clock broadcast seemed to have a noticeable effect," Mr. Hammond of the headquarters office remarked to a reporter. "People were telephoning to us about where they went to vote. CHEX advised them to look at the certificate they had received from the enumerating official, and really from then on I noticed that the phone calls decline. I think CHEX helped turn that trick."

Japs Squeeze Mandalay East, West

Riverboat Armada Massing, Threaten Last Good China Road

NEW DELHI, April 28—(CP).—The Japanese, smashing swiftly forward with the advantage of fresh reinforcements, held Mandalay under threat of a squeeze from east and west today as the battle shifted northward again to the plains south of the one-regal capital of Burma.

At the west end of the battle-line, Japanese troops were only about 100 air line miles southwest of Mandalay and apparently are organizing an armada of riverboats to try to turn the Allied flank by water as well as land along the Irrawaddy River.

On the east, mechanized vanguards were thrusting fingers out in several directions from captured Loilem about 120 miles south of Mandalay ,threatening not only it but also Lashio, Burma Road terminus farther to the northeast.

Under heavy pressure on the whole length of the winding, swiftly-changing jungle front, the test for the weary, outnumbered British and Chinese forces apparnetly lay in their ability to delay the invaders' progress until the monsoons in about three weeks deluge the front and force them to a halt.

The destroyed oil refinery village of Chauk, 30 miles north of Yenangyuang on the broad Irrawaddy, was occupied by the Japanese last Sunday. Although it is but 100 miles from Mandalay by air, the Japanese must fight their way another 150 miles to reach their

SERVICE CORPS MEETS

All members of the Peterborough Women's Service Corps are expected to parade on Wednesday evening April 29 at 7 in the evening when new courses in first aid and home nursing will be started. It is essential that all members who have enrolled for A.R.P. work take all the courses possible in order that they may be thoroughly qualified for any emergency. It is expected too that many of the girls who have completed the motor mechanics course will switch over and add another course to their list.

DISTRIBUTING SEED

Large quantities of sed for planting in the Game Reserve and the game districts, including hybrid corn, canary grass, buckwheat, sunflower seed, and rice seed have been sent out by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association. Norman Lean and Stan Windsor of Apsley, A. E. Wagner, Burleigh Falls, George Hull at the Nepheline Mines, Jack McFadden, Haultain, Wallace Shearer, Buckhorn along with Chris Graham, Sid Black and Hy Wood of this city have all undertaken to plant the seed. It is intended as feed for the elk, Himalayan thar, chukar partridge and wild turkeys.

FISHING PRIZES

Prizes for the Examiner Lucky Strike Fishing Contest are now on display in the window of the Examiner office. Silver cups and steel fishing rods are first prizes and second and third prizes are plug baits, and spoons. Winners in this contest are asked to call at the Examiner for their prizes.

THOSE BICYCLE LICENSES.

The police department states that a number of cyclists who have secured licenses have moved the plate from the rear mudguard, where it is supposed to be carried, and have attached it to other parts of their machine. In some cases the plate has been fastened beneath the saddle, where it is likely to be hidden by the coat of the rider. It is pointed out that unless the marker is carried in its proper place, charges may be laid.

IT HELPED A LOT.

"I think we learned something yesterday," a veteran political worker remarked this morning. "I think it is clear that by keeping the polls open until 8 o'clock it was possible to get a much bigger vote than would otherwise have been registered. A large percentage of the ballots were registered in the last couple of hours. We might adopt that later closing for all political elections.

GIVEN COMMISSION

Donald Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hill, 472 Monaghan Road, who graduated as sergeant-pilot at Camp Borden last Friday, has now been granted a commission as pilot officer. The promotion was given in recognition of his high standing in the class, and distinction in examinations.

Water Levels Force Extension Of Intake Pipe

COBOURG, April 28.—(ENS)—Extension of the intake pipe further out in the lake might be necessary in the future due to subsiding lake levels and change of the shore-line, it was stated last night at the regular meeting of the Cobourg Police Utilities Commission.

Some discussion centred on ice conditions affecting intake pipes in general in various water distribution systems in lake front towns and cities.

Accounts passed for the elective department were as follows:

McDonnell Motor Sales, $19.35; Powerlite Services, $10.32; Town of Cobourg, $121.07; Workmen's Compensation, $186.34; Hydro Electric $5,623,44; Canadian General Electric, $11.25; Northern Electric, $6.05; Total, $5,978.32.

Water Dept., Town of Cobourg, $142.73; Nicholls Chemical Dept., $15.39; Public Utilities Commission of Cobourg (elec. dept.), $41.97. Total, $200.09.

Wage accounts paid between meetings were: electric dept., $386.19; water dept., $432.55.

A letter from the W. A. Stewart Co. acknowledged the contract to paint the water tank. The manager of the Utilities informed the meeting that the company, to whom the contract was awarded, was well recommended by other utility commissions.

The tank would not be in use for a period of ten days during the work. The manager pointed out that the interior and exterior appearance of the pump house had been improved and further improvements were contemplated.

Chairman McGuire stated that the James Proctor of Redfearn Company had recommended at one time that the concrete reservoir east of the pump house should be repaired and put into service to offset a saving in pumping costs. He felt it was something which should be considered at a future date. It would be money well spent and something which would be a saving.

The manager stated that at the water works convention there had been discussion on icing at the intake pipes of water supply systems, such as occurred at Oshawa. Engineers were studying these conditions with the view to finding a solution.

The Cobourg intake was 900 feet out and Oshawa was 2,000 feet out, the manager said. Mayor Burnett commented that if the variations in the lake level and shore-line continued, it might be necessary to extend the intake pipe further out into the lake.

206 Hastings Voters Mark Ballot "Yes"

HASTINGS, April 28.—(ENS). — Only 54 per cent. of the eligible voters exercised their franchise in yesterday's manpower plebiscite which saw Hastings village record 206 'yes' votes to 38 'no' ballots.

In polling sation 61, situated in the council chambers, the vote was 70 to 18 in favour of freeing the government from its pledge. Here 88 of the 169 eligibles voted. Polling station 62 in the town hall recorded 75 affirmative ballots to 11 negative ones. Only 86 of the 148 listed cast ballots.

On the south side of the river, in polling booth 63, 70 of the 132 eligibles voted, and rolled up a 61 to 9 affirmative count.

Driver Is Charged Altering Permit

COBOURG, April 28.—(ENS)—Charged with altering his commercial carrier's license permit, Cecil J. Gerster of Lindsay appeared in police court Monday for his preliminary hearing. He pleaded not guilty and elected trial by Judge. Magistrate R. B. Baxter committed him for trial after hearing one Crown witness. Provincial Constable Douglas Wilson of Colborne testified that while on scale duty at Welcome, he checked Gerster's permit on March 26th. The constable stated that the trailer weight had been altered on the permit to read 16,000 instead of 8,000. At the 16,000 rate the license fee is $66 and on the 8,000 pound basis, the fee is $24, the constable pointed out.

Harry Deyman of Cobourg acted for the Crown and I. K. Weldon of Lindsay appeared for the defendant.

Small Vote Is Polled In Riding Hastings-Peterborough Monday

MARMORA, April 28.—(ENS)—Returns from the polling stations in Hastings-Peterborough trickled in for the first hour after close of polls, only 16 being received giving the totals: YES, 1,181; NO, 230.

The second hour told a different story with 62 polls having been heard from at 10 p.m. the aggregate of affirmatives amounting to 4,039 and the nays reaching 801. Owing to telephone systems in the northern part of the riding closing early in the evening further figures from that section were not available, but seventeen other polls sent in their totals making the final for the evening, 79 out of 100 polls: Yes, 5,216; No, 1,150.

The first poll heard from was No. 16 at Malone and the last reporting was No. 11, Huntingdon, White Lake.

Four polls only had a majority of no's namely: No. 17, Marmora Township, Mrs. R. Johnston's; No. 32, Elzevir Township, No. 7 School House; No. 56, Huschel Township, Maynooth; No. 86, Indian River.

The poll which had the largest number of voters out pro ratio was Deloro, a total of 115 casting their votes in this village.

It was ascertained that at most places in the central part of the riding, voting was slow and the usual keen interest seemed to be lacking in the taking of the plebiscite.

Swedes Aiding The Hun

LONDON, April 28—(CP).—One of Sweden's best known newspapers, the Handels Och Sjoefartstidningen of Goteborg, was quoted by Reuters to-day as asserting that Swedish railways were 'ceaselessly' transporting arms intended for German troops in Finland.

The newspaper made the charge in commenting on the government's protest to Britain on arming the Norwegian ships which recently made a dash from Goteborg through German naval forces and minefields to Britain. Said the newspaper sarcastically:

"Norwegians clearly belong to a wicked class of animals which defend themselves."

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Ottawa has set an example in their generous gift of solid antique ironwork railings and two iron lamp posts to the salvage campaign. It is estimated five tons of solid iron will be shaped into sleek weapons to be pointed at Hitler.

1,060 Voted In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, April 28. — (ENS). — Less than half of this town's eligible voters turned out to register their opinion in Monday's plebiscite as one of the quietest election days in the town's history passed. Hardly a quarter of the voters had turned out before noon, the heaviest voting taking place in the early afternoon and between seven and eight in the evening when people had finished their work for the day and could visit the polling booth at their leisure. Out of approximately 2,103 registered voters only 1,060 cast their ballots in the four polling sub-divisions here and of these 924 put their X opposite the word "yes" and 130 or slightly better than 14 per cent were opposed to releasing the Government from any of its past commitments. Only what could be described as a normal number of ballots were spoiled.

Though a few voters who were unable to walk to the polls hired transportation, it was felt that the lack of cars might have been responsible for keeping perhaps ten per cent away. Returns from Seymour Township indicated an even greater percentage of voters had remained at home partly due to the lack of transportation and to the fact that farmers are busy on the land. It is recalled that nearly 85 per cent of the Campbellford voters turned out to exercise their franchise in the 1939 election.

Voting by wards in Campbellford was as follows:

	Yes	No
Ward 1	245	43
Ward 2	213	25
Ward 3	254	25
Ward 4	212	37

Rural Schools Receiving Forest Trees

The Ontario government and the County of Peterborough are making a distribution of forest trees for the pupils of the schools whose teachers have made application for standard packages of trees for the pupils.

The purpose of this distribution is to teach rural school children the value of conservation by planting and caring for a few trees. It is suggested that trees be distributed on Arbour Day and that this be the climax of a half-day of instruction on conservation and tree planting both in the class room and by practical demonstration out-of-doors.

Each package will contain three or four different species of trees from one foot to eighteen inches in height. The different species should be divided amongst the pupils by the teacher.

Trees will die very easily if neglected and especially if their roots are exposed to the wind and sun. As soon the package is received at the school the trees should be taken out and their roots placed in a pail of water. The children should be asked to bring some old newspaper for wrapping the roots to protect them on the way home. In doing this, soak a few newspapers in water and wrap them around the roots and then cover these with a few thicknesses of dry paper.

It is expected that these packages of trees will be delivered at the places named on Wednesday or Thursday of this week. Property owners that have trees ordered and not already delivered may expect to receive their trees at the same time as the school trees arrive.

A few schools have trees on order for school ground improvement where it seems advisable to hold the trees at the nursery until the ground is prepared for the planting of the trees.

All trees should be gone after as soon as possible and kept in a cool place with the root wet until the trees are in the ground. Arbour Day is Friday, May 1.

And Now, What?

The plebiscite has been held, and technically the Government is freed from its commitment regarding the conscription of men for overseas service. But the plebiscite was not held to decide a technical point, but a moral one, and it has not achieved its end. Eight provinces of this Dominion have voted to release the Government from its pledge; Quebec has refused to do so. We are just where we were when we started. The plebiscite has changed nothing and decided nothing.

And now, what? Under ordinary circumstances a majority of eight provinces to one would be overwhelming. Under the peculiar circumstances which exist in Canada where a racial minority forms a solid bloc against conscription the matter is more complex. Briefly, it amounts to this: is the intransigent attitude of the French-Canadian minority to queer the pitch of the Dominion in a matter which concerns us all, and the United Nations besides? Is the Government going to introduce conscription at the very real risk of serious trouble in Quebec? Let no one urge this course without giving careful thought to what it may mean for Canada in the long run. The decision, which many people will consider a simple one, is anything but simple when the best interests of the whole country, now and in the future, are put in the balance. If we fail to have conscription now we shall cut a very poor figure in the eyes of the United Nations; if we are to have conscription, and if we are going to reconcile Quebec to that course, we shall need leadership of a kind which neither of our parties has supplied for the past twenty years. We shall, in fact, need something very like a miracle.

This is not the time to cry over spilt milk. We cannot call back yesterday or wish the plebiscite undone. Time spent in abusing the French-Canadians or in glorying in the predicament of the present Government is time wasted. Nor will anything be gained if those who originally opposed the holding of a plebiscite remind us of their former wisdom. Let us not lose sight of the fact, either, that although the Yes vote was vastly in the majority there was a very tidy No vote also, and that some of it came from our own midst. Canada is now at a crucial point in her history when decisions must be made which will have a strong effect on her future; if ever there was a time to be strong, it is now; if ever there was a time to refrain from rocking the boat, it is now. The decisions of the next few days will be momentous.

Children To The Fields

In time of war the same general problems crop up on both sides. We have heard much in this country of the impending shortage of labor on the farms, and there have been several suggestions that children should help in the fields during their vacations. Germany has the same trouble, and a recent decree will send all school children from the age of 10 upward into the country this spring to help with seeding.

Everything goes to show that Germany planned for a much shorter war than she seems likely to get. The drafting of agricultural laborers into the army has proved to be a mistake, for now there are no men to till the land. But Hitler thought that he would never need all his army at one time, and the German Ministry of Labor expected to be able to release men for necessary farm work in the spring and at harvest time. Now the Russian conflict is devouring German troops, and the children are being sent into the fields to do their fathers' work.

There is a lesson for us in Germany's plight. The army must have men, but the agricultural front must not be stripped to supply them.

Hitler As a Psychologist

Hitler's speeches grow more and more entertaining as his victory in Russia grows more and more problematical. In his recent address to the Reichstag he solemnly announced that one of the difficulties which the Germans had encountered in Russia was the psychological hazard created by Napoleon's defeat in that country.

Hitler has told us a good deal about the psychology of victory; now he has discovered the psychology of defeat. A year ago he would have scouted the idea that a bogey from the past could have an effect upon his invincible army; now he admits publicly that the ghosts of the thousands whom Napoleon lost in his retreat from Moscow are haunting the Germans as they follow the same path. Doubtless his forces do not stop there; they know that the retreat from Moscow was the beginning of the end for Bonaparte and may be the end for Hitler too. Hitler himself may have some such notion.

And now that the dictator has admitted the existence of one psychological factor affecting his armies, can he deny the existence of others? If the Germans are superstitious about the retreat from Moscow, are they not also superstitious about the entry of the U.S. into the war, which preceded their defeat in 1918? And are they not superstitious about Britain's reputation for never winning a battle and never losing a war? Neither of these things is a decree of nature, but if you admit the existence of one psychological factor you must admit them all. What can the Fuehrer have been thinking of to admit such a thing? What can Dr. Goebbels have been thinking of to allow him to make such a two-edged statement? The Reich is not so clever in covering up its defeats as it is in announcing its intentions and its victories. From the German point of view Hitler's admission of a psychological hazard is a bad move; from our point of view, of course, it is excellent news.

The Offer Was a Good One

Although Sir Stafford Cripps' mission to India ended in failure we do not think that that failure may fairly be attributed either to Sir Stafford or the country which he represented; rather it must be attributed directly to the lack of unity of purpose which characterized the Indian leaders. They could not agree as to what they wanted, and consequently they turned down all that they were offered.

This is a propos a remark made by Dr. Taraknath Das, a member of the faculty of the College of the City of New York, at a meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, where he is reported to have said that Britain's offer to India was too little and too late. "To defeat Japan in India, it is necessary to have the whole-hearted co-operation of the Indian people; this can only be done if Britain gives India leadership under an Indian National Government."

Dr. Das is hard to please. That the British offer to India was too late we were all agreed, until we found that it was two or three centuries too early. It will take at least that long for the Indians to make up their minds as to what they want. And the whole-hearted co-operation of the Indian people is exactly what Britain wants, but what she apparently is not to have as long as India keeps her present leaders; Sir Stafford, shortly before he left India, refused to amend his plan so as to place a great deal of power in the hands of a group of men who did not want to be responsible either to the British Government or to the Indian people. In fact, they wanted their own way, without interference. Britain could hardly abandon her Indian subjects to such a group. The lower castes in India get a better deal from their British conquerors than they seemingly would from the leaders of their own race and creed.

We should be glad to hear less in future about the griefs of India. That griefs exist we know, but we cannot regard British rule as responsible for most of them. Indian internecine strife, religious complication and utter lack of realism in politics must take the great part of the blame. Britain has done her best, and will try again; in the meantime, let us hear no more idle talk about "too little and too late" from the country which refused its piece of cake because there were not enough different kinds of icing on it.

The Bombing Of Bath

When Germans fight they indulge in an amount of stupid, wanton, utterly useless destruction which is very hard for people of other nations to understand. They have an odd notion that, if they knock down a sufficient number of cathedrals, churches, public buildings and monuments, as well as destroying military objectives, they will so depress the spirits of their opponents that these will feel that there is nothing left to fight for. Only a very thick-headed nation could act upon such an absurd theory, but the Germans have shown time and time again that they understand everything except the human spirit. They behave like spiteful children, and there is much that is childish in their national make-up.

Twice over the week-end they bombed the old English city of Bath, in north-east Somersetshire. There appears to have been absolutely no reason for this action save the desire to destroy what is beautiful. Bath has been called the best situated and most nobly built city in England. Anyone who has ever approached it by road knows of its breath-taking beauty as it appears from the neighboring hills. Although it dates from long before the Roman occupation of Britain, Bath took its present form during the eighteenth century, and is is made up of beautiful squares and crescents, spacious streets and graceful colonnades, pleasant walks and charming gardens. The city clusters about the beautiful church known as Bath Abbey, and the handsome buildings which house the mineral springs which give the town its importance and its name. Bath has long been a resort of invalids, for its mild climate and the healing waters make it a particularly suitable settling-ground for sufferers from rheumatism and from muscular aches and pains generally. It is in no sense a manufacturing town nor a military objective.

It is, of course, the gathering place of many wealthy people and many people who, being in poor health, might perhaps be easily terrorized. But if Germany hopes to work upon the spirits of England by machine-gunning the invalid chairs at Bath she is vastly mistaken; gout and rheumatism are not ailments which lessen British courage or improve British temper. And the destruction of much beautiful architecture will gain nothing for Germany but increased hatred and contempt.

Bombing cannot be carried out without considerable damage to non-military objectives, but bombing where no military objectives exist is sheer stupid destruction; it is as though the R.A.F. were to waste time destroying the beautiful old German town of Nuremberg. But fortunately, though bricks and mortar may be destructible, the spirit of such a town as Bath is indestructible, and where the spirit remains the form can be restored. Before the war the bells of Bath Abbey used to play "The Lass of Richmond Hill" every day at noon; they will play their delightful little eighteenth century air again, long after the pride of the Luftwaffe has been levelled to the dust.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A man living in Ohio has been wearing the same winter gloves for 40 years. As we see it, he has broken the hearts of three generations of salesmen.

"In this war" observes the Kingston Whig-Standard, "'the successful side is the one that will make enough hay from the grass that grows under the other sides' feet."

"Daffodils and cornflowers wired to a pair of ear-muffs make an enchanting Spring headdress," says a fashion note in a New York paper. And of course, if Spring goes back on you it is always possible to use just the ear-muffs.

The Japanese, we see by a Chicago writer, cannot bear to be laughed at. It makes them lose confidence in themselves. If they would only stay still enough for us to see them in the Pacific we might guffaw our way to victory.

"Can India Be Saved?" asks a headline in the New York Times; we can't say, just at the moment, but India may prove such a quagmire for Japan — if Japan attacks her—that the fate of the Japanese there will be worse than in China. Russia and China have shown that size and a large population form a defence against which no brilliant tactical move can hope to prevail.

WILD THRUSH

We heard a sudden flapping at the pane,
And, when we opened to the wind and night,
A small brown creature fluttered from the rain
Into the dazzle of our cottage light.

Dodging the dog that watched it with surprise,
It zigzagged to a perch beneath the roof,
And there it sat, with popping gem-like eyes
And bobbing head, unfrightened but aloof.

I see it yet! the straight, soft-mottled tail,
The jerky, pointed beak, the hopping stride
Along the shadowy pine-beams, while the gale
Through all the hours of darkness howled outside.

Dawn; and it streaked away on joyous wings,
Yet left us something throbbing, to attest
Man's native kinship to all wild free things,
And say a simpler cousin was our guest.

The Guerilla In Modern Warfare

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

NOT long ago a book was mentioned in this column called "New Ways of War" by Tom Wintringham, a veteran of the Spanish Civil War; the author set forth in that small volume some of the unsavory but effective means by which a small force may disrupt a large one. Now I am indebted to the publishers (Messrs. Collins) for a little book in the Penguin Series called "Guerilla Warfare," written by Yank Levy.

Yank Levy's name may not be unfamiliar to some readers. He is a Canadian, born at Hamilton, Ontario on October 5, 1897. He has been many things in his time, but principally he has been a fighter. He began his fighting career in Mexico, fought all through the Great War, did gun-running jobs in Mexico afterward, and fought in Nicaragua in 1926. He served with the International Brigade in Spain in 1937 and became a prisoner of the Franco army, remaining in prison for six months. He was in Canada when the present war broke out and tried to join the Canadian Army, but was refused, ostensibly because his feet were in bad condition; his friend Wintringham says that it was because of his reputation as an agitator among the unemployed, but that sort of thing is easier to say than to prove. Now Levy is at the Osterley Park School for the Home Guard in Britain, and is accounted their best lecturer and demonstrator of guerilla warfare.

IT IS Levy's belief that if the Nazis made a successful attack on Britain and occupied a part or all of the country, guerilla warfare might save the day by breaking up the invading forces and rendering them useless. The Home Guard, being armed and having had some training, would probably form the best guerilla group, but Levy believes that anyone with courage ingenuity can become a useful guerilla, and his book is designed to tell such a person what to do. It is certainly a first-rate manual of brigandage. Levy appears to know every trick possible by which small and inadequately armed forces may render useless infinitely larger and better armed forces. The example which he holds up to the British people is the heroic guerilla resistance of Hereward the Wake to William the Conqueror in 1066; he also cites the Welsh guerilla resistance to the English and the guerilla resistance which the Scots, under Robert the Bruce, offered to the Plantagenets. The tactics have not changed greatly since those days, he claims; strike at night, keep in hiding unless you are sure you can win, and try as much as you can to divide the enemy up into convenient groups before you start picking them off; confuse communications, capture messengers, create distractions which waste the enemy's time and, above all, never show mercy or miss a chance of killing one or more of the foe.

Levy's book is compact and is written in a racy and pleasing style; men of action often have a knack of expressing themselves in this refreshing manner. Levy's modern hero is Lawrence of Arabia, and he is disgusted that modern soldiers seem to have profited so little by his example. He writes: "It will be a tragedy if the British people, having produced such a genius, fails to learn from him. And nothing was more astonishing in 1940 than to find that it was only our unofficial gang as Osterley Park who were talking about Lawrence's methods of warfare; in the newspapers and in the training manuals and in the lectures of high officers, who tried to teach us to fight like gentlemen, neither the Army, nor the Home Guard, nor the civilian was given Lawrence as an example to think about and copy. What a queer country it is that produces such men and makes out of them heroes for boys but not teachers for the 'serious.' The 'serious' thing to do in modern warfare, if we are to judge from the efforts of officialdom, is to sit in a block-house that is the most obvious feature of any landscape and get what is coming to you. It is to be on the defensive all the time, and to count any attack on your enemy as necessarily postponed until you have forces equal in numbers and material strength to that enemy. There would have been no Arab revolt if that had been Lawrence's way of thinking." Complaint of this sort is familiar enough, but the recent exploits of the Commandos show that more imaginative methods are now being used.

IMPROVISATION and the power to adopt new tactics are Levy's demands of guerilla forces. Every means must be used to hinder the enemy. In so thickly populated a country as Britain he thinks that guerilla tactics might work admirably, providing continuous discomfiture and eventual destruction. His chapters on street fighting are particularly interesting, and indeed the whole book makes thrilling reading. There is almost no man who does not fancy himself as something of a tactician, and in guerilla warfare, where a man is often on his own, he has ample opportunity to show what he can do. The incentive to success is the high cost of failure; guerillas are usually shot out of hand if they are caught.

By the same mail I received "What's That Plane?" by Walter B. Pitkin, Jr.; this is a handy manual of aircraft identification showing silhouettes and photographs of all the military and transport aircraft which are likely to appear over America, Hawaii or Australia. The pictures are good and the explanation is clear and brief. American, British and Canadian planes are shown, and also Japanese combat planes and German long-range sea planes. This book will be extremely useful to spotters and all who aspire to be spotters.

• Hitler Really Worried

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Implicit in the rambling and disjointed address of Hitler to his puppet Parliament is a strong added argument for those Allied counsellors who are urging a quick attack in the West to end the war this year.

That Hitler outgiving makes two striking admissions: It tells the people of Germany that utter catastrophe was close at hand for their armies in Russia during the winter. It also discloses some degree of official disaffection in Germany. To cope with that he asked and received a rubber-stamp grant of power to "cashier any one....if I consider he has failed in his duty, regardless of who he may be."

What sort of purge that foreshadows it is difficult to anticipate. Since Hitler had already taken over direct command of his armies, it would not seem to be aimed at his generals. Yet it might well be if some of them are balking at Hitlerian strategy.

FEARED ALLIED INVASION

That calls for all-out attack on Russia, although Hitler now gives no assurances that victory can be achieved there before another winter grips his armies. There is every evidence, moreover, of intensifying Nazi apprehension lest Britain and the United States launch a major attack somewhere along the 2,000 miles of Continental coast to catch the Germans between two fires.

It is not impossible that important Nazi Army leaders and civil officials share that fear to the extent of offering resistance to the supposed Hitler intention to mass against Russia. British air power is already making itself felt heavily in the stepped-up bombing attack. That it will soon be supplemented by American-flown planes is unquestionable.

The war is being brought home more closely to Germany every night and day as the spring advances. Should the Allies manage to gain continental footholds wide enough and deep enough to permit establishment of advance air bases, the fury of that air attack would be redoubled.

For the moment, however, the greatest Nazi concern seems to be over the possibility of an Allied invasion of Northern Norway. The blasting British air attack on Rostock as a follow-up on the repeated bombing of Lubeck in the same area points that way. Both are essential feeder centres for the Nazi forces of occupation in Norway.

BOOST NORWAY DEFENSES

There are also reports of German defensive preparations along the Norwegian coastal area from Trondheim north. With German heavy surface warcraft in those waters, it also is certain that British and possibly American battleships are in the vicinity, although it begins how to look as though the Nazi naval concentration in Norwegian fiords was more a defensive move than to prey on Russia's Arctic supply route.

Whatever the Allies' intentions may be, it seems clear that Allied possession of air and submarine operating bases somewhere in Northern Norway could greatly increase the security of the route from the Atlantic to Murmansk and Archangel. It is also possibly significant that the Russians appear to be bringing toward a climax repeated attacks on Finnish forces at various points. The complete freeing of the rail route for fast passage of war goods landed at Murmansk to the Russian fighting front is the obvious objective.

To The Editor . . .

BUSINESS PRINCIPLES FOR PRIMARY PRODUCERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In a recent issue of the Examiner there was a news item from Edmonton, in which the Chamber of Commerce, in that city, urged the Ottawa authorities to remove present exemptions from income taxation applying to farmers' co-operative organizations, in order that said organizations should "bear an equal share of all tax burdens."

The problem is being well combed in the farm press; but, from the viewpoint of this rural reader, there are definite thorns protecting this "farm income tax" rose, which urban Canadians will be wise to be wary of. One of these, in my opinion, is that the reverse side to the demand of the Edmonton businessmen that farmers and their organizations "bear an equal share of all tax burdens," is to be found in the demand of the primary producers across Canada for an appropriate share of the national income—which, definitely, we do not get today!

Yes, I favor the general principle of equal tax burdens for all, and special privileges to none; but, by the same token, I would like to remind all concerned that a severely just application of the idea that agriculture should win "an appropriate share of the national income," involves some radical changes in the trading scene, and would be the death of today's technique, based on profitless valuations for most of the commodities the farmer has for sale—while the things he must buy have a cost-plus-a-profit price at North American levels.

That "game" is played-out, not only in Canada but elsewhere. I am of the opinion that the demand for income tax from rural revenues will merely spotlight the fact that "net" taxable incomes down on the farm can only come out of the application of business principles and respectable prices all along the primary producer front! But we cannot eat our cake of low-priced food and enjoy farm income tax revenues at the same time?

MORE MILEAGE

MOST motorists do not realize that an average set of five new tires can be made to last 40,000 miles. About one-half that mileage is usually lost through carelessness, neglect and wasteful driving practices.

The 40,000-mile equation is reached thus: If the normal tire life is 20,000 miles, add 5,000 miles for each of the following practices: regular rotation of the spare tire; keeping down to forty miles an hour; maintaining proper air rpessure in casings; stepping gently on the gas or the brake in starting, going around curves, and stopping.

Even at forty miles an hour the motorist wastes twelve per cent of his rubber as compared to lower speeds. —Christian Science Monitor.

A Bit of Nonsense

If you want a man to be your friend for life tell him he works too hard.

Softe: "I don't know anything worse than letting the wife find a letter you've forgotten to post."
Hardt: "Oh, I do."
Softe: "What is it?"
Hardt: "Letting her find one you forgot to burn."

"Did you see how pleased Mrs. Smith looked when I told her that she did not look a day older than her daughter?"

"I didn't notice. I was too busy watching the expression on her daughter's face!"

OFF ROADS SOON

(Niagara Falls Review)

There still are far too many joy-riders on rubber and the only consolation is that at their present speeds, they soon will wear out tires and use up gasoline allocations and thus will be off the roads soon.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

And when it was determined that we should sail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other prisoners unto one named Julius, a centurion of Augustus' band....And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away....And falling into a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape. But the centurion, willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose; and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land; and the rest, some on boards and some on broken pieces of the ship. And so it came to pass, that they escaped all safe to land.

And the barbarous people shewed us no little kindness; for they kindled a fire and received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold. And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live.

And she shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm. Howbeit they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly; but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds and said that he was a god.—Acts xxvii, 1, 20, 41-44; xxviii, 2-6.

WAR MAKES CHANGES, SO DON'T RUSH INTO MARRIAGE

It Is Better to Wait, for What Seemed Like Love May Turn Into Something Else.

Dear Miss Dix.—I am 17 and have been in love with a boy of 20 for two years, and he with me. He has asked me to marry him, although we have definitely decided to wait until he returns from the war and I have received a college education. Our problem is this: Shall we enter into a binding engagement now? We know we are in love at the present, but wo do not know how we will feel several years later. Would it even be best for us to marry now? Would that tend to hold us together? Your advice will be greatly appreciated.—Alice.

Answer.—If you will take my advice, you and your boy friend will leave the matter of your relationship open until he returns from the war. You will have just an agreement when he gets back, if you still love each other and want each other that you will marry; but if in the meantime you have lost your taste for each other you will call the wedding off, with no hearts broken and with nothing but friendship and good feeling between you, instead of the bitterness of betrayal. So many thousands of other boys and girls are confronting the same problem that your are, and so many of them are making the fatal mistake of entering engagements that they are going to regret, and of making marriages that are going to wreck their lives. Because in the war hysteria that is affecting every one of us, more or less, and that is especially sweeping the young off their feet, we are not clear-minded enough to make sound judgments, or to gauge properly our emotions or the wisdom of what we do.

Because a boy and girl feel sentimeantl at the thought of parting, they mistake nostalgia for love. Because a boy looks better in a uniform than he ever did before, the girls sees in him her Fairy Pronce. And because a boy feels that he wants to have somebody left behind who belongs to him, they rush into an engagement that shackles them both; or worse still, into a marriage that ends in divorce, and that causes plenty of trouble in the meantime.

Whether these boys and girls believe it or not, it is inevitable that time and change and circumstances will have their effects upon them. No boy who goes into the army will

In order to ensure that your contributions to the Examiner Women's Page are reported as accurately and promptly as possible, it would be a help if you followed these simple rules:

(1) Write legibly on one side of the paper only.

(2) Have your material in as soon as possible. One o'clock is the deadline for the reporter, not you. On Saturdays the deadline is 10:30 a.m.

(3) Always include the first name or initials of anyone mentioned in your story.

(4) Sign your work and give your telephone number, so that if any further information is needed the reporter will know whom to ask.

(5) If it is at all possible, send wedding accounts in the day before the wedding. They will not be published until after the wedding has taken place.

(6) If it is impossible for you to bring your report to the office, telephone it in rather than have it a day late. Material sent through the mails is usually a day late and this is rather unsatisfactory, from your point of view as well as ours.

CHURCH LEAGUE PLANS TO CARRY ON WITH THREE DIVISIONS

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The wheels are beginning to turn on the softball machine and last night saw two local organizations, the City League and the Church League take the preliminary steps to getting the season launched. The City Loop meeting was held at the Duffus' Bowling Alleys with the Military Training Centre, the Peterborough Hockey Club, the Chesterfields and Hastings represented. These four clubs with Chesterfields probably operating under a new name this season are definite entries and the Peterborough O.A.S.A. juvenile club will also enter the loop if they are needed to round out the circuit. Officers were not elected last night but a nominating cmomittee consisting of Dave Leether, Lieut. W. A. Bowerman, Roy Parnell and Dave Wilson was chosen to name a slate of officers for presentation at the next meeting of the league which will be held next Tuesday night at the Duffus' Alleys. Any other clubs desiring to enter will find a welcome on the City League map.

* * * * * *

Incidentally the league may decide to play its games this season inside the enclosure at Riverside Park instead of at the East City Bowl. There are several reasons why that step is contemplated. In the first place it is expected that in addition to the Ladies' League there may be other organizations who will want to share the use of the Bowl and a shift on the part of of the City League to the old baseball ground would help all around. In addition there is a feeling on the part of the various managers and players that better softball can be played on the other ground where there is plenty of room for the outfielders to gallop around and where honest home runs can be made and the doubtful kind eliminated. One difficulty with the Bowl has always been the left field ground rule under which pop flies that would easily be caught anywhere else go for doubles when they drop in among the parked cars and by the same token hard hit balls sailing by the fielders into the same area, that would be homers on an ordinary field, are merely doubles.

* * * * * *

With seven churches represented at the inaugural meeting of the Church Softball League the outlook is for a fairly active season for this old-established body. The present prospects are that the league will operate in three divisions, the bantams consisting of boys up to 15 years, the juveniles up to 17 and the junior up to 20 years of age. Further entries will be gladly welcomed in all three of these divisions and it has been arranged to have entry forms available at the desk in the Y.M.C.A. office tonight and also on Saturday night of this week to facilitate the entry of other clubs. Then there will be a meeting on May 4 for the purpose of making arrangements for the season. Len Agnew, hard working president and Reg. Kingdon, indefatigable secretary were re-elected at last night's meeting and with the rest of the executive will give the league enthusiastic leadership.

Baseball activities in the big show yesterday boiled down to one game, an overtime affair in the National Loop that saw the Chicago Cubs triumph over the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 3 in 11 innings, despite a homer by Frank McCormick who is swinging his bat in the old time style. Bithorn and Errickson pitched for the victorious Cubs holding the Reds to eight hits while Johnny Vander Meer who toiled on the hilltop for the losing Cincinnati club yielded eleven. The two major loops swing into the first east-west clashes today, after playing in their own sections since the season started and it will soon be possible to get a line on the relative strength of the clubs. Some of the coming battles particularly the meeting between the New York Yanks and the Cleveland Indians, tied for the loop leadership will be awaited with interest.

The big league batting averages at the present moment offer considerable food for thought. At the head of each loop right now is a batter who finished up well below the .300 mark last season, Joe Gordon of the Yanks and Terry Moore of the Cards leading the American and National Leagues respectively. Gordon is swinging at a .447 clip while Moore's average is .366. Few baseball critics however call the present leaders to remain at the top. They argue that players like Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio in the American circuit and batting champion Pete Reiser in the National will soon be asserting themselves. At present none of them is doing too well. Williams who finished in the .400 class last season is hitting at a .267 clip and Brooklyn's Pete Reiser is also going along at exactly the same pace. He too has an average of .267 for the season. The Yankee Clipper is doing better than the other two stars but his mark of .306 is decidedly low for the New York power house.

Writes Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard: "Kingston attracted the fourth highest paid patronage of any team in the O.H.A. senior series last winter although not in the playoffs and playing a half schedule in the last part of the season. Accurate facts on crowds in the various rinks in the senoir circuit were revealed in a cheque from the O.H.A. as Kingston's share in the team pool. Each team in the O.H.A. gave a percentage of gates toward the pool and all six teams shared at the end of the season. Playoffs and finals were included in the pool and the two teams, not in the playdowns, shared equally in the big split. Kingston received a cheque for a little more than $800 and put about $500 into the pool. Had Kingston played the same number of scheduled games as the other five teams and reached the playoffs it is certain that Kingston would have played to more fans than any other club in the O.H.A. senior ranks. The cheque was a nice compliment to Kingston as a major hockey centre and a nice deposit in the Combines' bank to pay all outstanding debts and leave a balance to start the next season. Hamilton tried to squeese Port Colborne and Kingston out of an agreed share of the pool, according to officials of Toronto Marlboros. Hamilton with its extra games in the semi-finals and finals put $1,300 into the pool to lead the list. St. Catharines was next and Niagara third. Marlboros were behind Kingston, although getting extra playoff games and also playing more scheduled games."

Sweeney Schriner's announcement that he has decided to retire from professional hockey because he dislikes the scrambly brand that is now being handed out in the N.H.L. echoes what a lot of hockey experts have long been thinking and helps to explain why the same experts get a lot more kick out of the amateur battles than they do from the cash and carry circuit. "They don't play the kind of hockey I prefer," Schriner says. "Too much individual play. There is very little combination, mostly gang and power plays. Whether or not the National League operates I am through." It is hard to attack the Schriner complaint successfully. Outside of the New York Rangers and at times the Maple Leafs there is little in the professional game today that is thrilling to the fan who likes clever passing, fast skating and teamwork. Goals batted in in scrambles and, a lot of them are in pro hockey, offer no kick to the hockey enthusiast who appreciates the fine points of the game. They may satisfy the partisan customer who doesn't care how his team scores, so long as they can win, but they are a poor substitute for some of the scoring plays that used to feature hockey.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Just to keep the record straight this column said yesterday that the team that scored the first goal in each of the Allan Cup finals went on to win that particular game. What we meant to say was that the team that scored first lost out each time....Bob Cauley, son of A. E. Cauley and former junior O.H.A. player is in St. Joseph's Hospital having an old knee injury sustained in a hockey game repaired so that he can join the Royal Canadian Air Force...Speaking of the R.C.A.F. Lou Hayman, Argos football coach is enlisting to become a flying officer ....If he ever starts the razzle-dazzle in the air he has been pulling on the gridiron for years there is trouble in sight for the enemy....Toronto Maple Leafs finished their road trip with a win. They will have to follow up that exploit by a few at home if they hope to intrigue the interest of the Queen City fans....Evidently defence was too much for the attack in the first game of the senior Dominion cage finals. Victoria Dominoes defeated Montreal Oilers 26-24....The probability that Hastings will be back in the City Softball League will be welcome news to local fans. The Jones' outfit were always popular here.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 28. — (CP)— Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott started something last week when he waxed lyrical about what a hockey club Calgary could turn out if professional hockey folded and the hockeyists found war jobs at home next season.

Jack (Edmonton Bulletin) Kelly picked up the idea on first bounce and came up with this club for Edmonton: Goal, Earl Robertson; defence, Eddie Shore, Art Wiebe; forwards, Neil and Mac Colville, Bill and Bob Carse, Ken Reardon, Joe Benoit, Gus Marker, Jack McGill and Leroy Goldsworthy.

(Editor's Note: That, I hope, is that.)

Incidentally

Conn Smythe, remarking on prospects of hockey next year: "If there isn't hockey then the men behind the game haven't the guts I think they have."...Among the Toronto Maple Leafs who got bonuses this season were Bob Goldham, Billy Taylor, Sweeney Schriner, Syl Apps and (yes, 'tis true despite their ineffectiveness in the final) Gord Drillon and Bucko McDonald.

The Manitoba Curling Association raised $20,000 for the Red Cross last year...If that can be matched, let's hear about it...Britain will take delivery on a carload of Canadian athletes, old-time and modern, when the Canadian civilian fire-fighting corps leaves to help battle the blitz ...In the Ottawa contingent alone, here are probables: Billy Graham, oldtime professional lacrosse star (1916-19, National Lacross Union); Billy Schultz, a member of the same team, and Tony McCarthy, star outside for Ottawa Rough Riders in recent football seasons...Head man of the Corps is Fire Chief G. E. Huff of Brantford, Ont., past president of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Len Agnew Is Elected 1942 President

The Church Softball League was reorganized for the season last night with a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. at which seven churches were represented. The following officers were elected:

President, Len Agnew; vice-president, T. Chambers; secretary, R. Kingdon; treasurer, W. Gardiner; assistant secretary, Ken Burnham.

From reports given at the meeting it is thought that the league will be able to carry on bantam, juvenile and junior divisions this season and entries from other churches not represented last night are being invited.

There will be another meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday, May 4, at 7:30 o'clock, to accept entries. Entry forms will be available at the Y.M.C.A. desk to-night and Saturday night for the accommodation of teams wishing to make application for membership.

FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND FANCOTT

The Story. — Ferdy Lorton's week-end guests at his Canadian country place have had two surprises. One was to learn that Fay Ransom, beautiful Montreal socialite, is the famous night club singers, Gay Randall. The other is when Baldy Brien, Fay's manager, barges in to take her back to Broadway. Peggy Mack, 17, starts a campaign despite her older sister Myra's protests. Peggy plans to win Fay away from Nigel Monkhouse for her brother Michael, and to use Baldy to further her own "career."

"DAMES ARE CRAZY"
CHAPTER XI

Low and grumbling were the mutterings that stirred the quiet of the lounge room as Peggy and Myra sat outside on the verandah.

"Dames....hmph!" growled the voice indignantly. "Crazy. Plain crazy."

Peggy jumped up, impatient to pursue her plans for the morning, but she slowed her stride as she entered the room and her voice was casual and disinterested.

'Something biting you, Baldy?" She popped a strip of bacon into her mouth and foraged at the sideboard for another piece of toast.

"Don't call me Baldy," he groused. "Squirt like you oughta be more respectful to her elders."

"So dames are crazy," mused Peggy, dropping into the chair next to him.

"They are. Where's Fay?"

"Down by the lake I expect," said Peggy. "What has she done now?"

'It ain't what's she done. It's what she's going to do that's got me worried. And if she don't make up her mind soon we'll miss that afternoon plane to New York."

Peggy's eyes widened as she gazed at the little man.

"You're not going back so soon?"

"Listen, baby. Even five minutes ago isn't soon enough for me."

"Gee!" said Peggy, her eyes limpid with what looked like disappoinment. "Just when I was thinking we'd have a really interesting man."

Baldy Brien returned her gaze, completely unimpressed. "Oh yeah?" he said.

Peggy offered to help him in his search for Fay. He refused the offer but found that she had the persistence of a mosquito. Not unlike one, Peggy was quite aware that every man has a vulnerable point somewhere.

She showed him the way to the lake and found Nigel disconsolately lying in the sun on the wharf.

Peggy looked from the one man to the other and wondered which to concentrate on—a rich man or a career.

But she was doomed to disappointment if she expected encouragement in either of her ambitions from either man. Nigel looked up at them without moving.

"Hullo. Have any of you seen Fay?"

"We were just looking for her," said Peggy. She realized that if she was to have any attention from the men she would have to distract them from their fixed idea, so she went to the boathouse and changed into her Hawaiian swimming suit.

When Peggy returned she realized that she had left two men together who had every reason to dislike one another intensely. It was apparent that they did.

Nigel lay on his back gathering a tan and Baldy sat in an over-pressed play suit of blue cotton perspiring slightly and smoking a very long cigar with a moody unconsciousness of the striking beauty of the morning.

He looked at the exceedingly attractive vision of Peggy coming from the boathouse.

"I thought you say Gay was down here."

"You told me that too," said Nigel reproachfully.

Peggy's eyes narrowed with a certain satisfaction and the pert smile on her lips showed that so far, things were going her way, even though she would have preferred to manage the two men separately.

"I only wanted to help," said Peggy.

At that moment just as Nigel sat up and noticed obviously and obligingly how attractive she looked in her new swimming suit, Myra emerged from the woodland path and sauntered down to join them.

Peggy realized that her sister would see through her plans only too quickly, so she smiled sweetly at Nigel and decided to leave Baldy till later.

"Let's go and find her in the canoe," she suggested.

"Right," said Nigel all too willingly."

"I'll come too," said Baldy.

"No you won't," said Peggy. "Can you swim?"

'What's that go to do wtih it?" asked Baldy.

"Everything," she replied. "When you swim from a canoe in the middle of a lake."

Myra sat down beside Baldy and they watched the other two push off in the sunlight. The canoe cut through the mirror-like surface of the lake with a swift perfection of motion and the two in it completed a perfect picture for a still young summer morning, their strokes falling immediately into perfect rhythm.

Peggy's dark hair, vividly colored swimming suit and lithe, vibrant body were picture-book contrast to the tanned torso of Nigel, muscular and hard after camp training.

"She's pretty, isn't she?" said Myra, watching her sister appreciately and anxious to find out how much she had impressed Baldy.

"She's just a kid," said Baldy. "Besides, I wouldn't care if she was Hedy Lamarr. I got problems."

There was a note of bitterness in his voice that made Myra take a quick glance, but he looked like nothing more menacing than any oversmart, overslick parasite.

"It's like this with me," he began, unable to resist an audience. "Twenty years I been in show business, twenty years I seen 'em all, going and coming, up and down. Twenty years. And sister, that's time that is. Why, a man in the pen for life don't get more than twenty years if he's got a good record, and some of them gets out in less. But I've had twenty years and what I don't know about show business you couldn't put on a dime. Twenty years—ten on the boards and ten managing talent, if and when I could find it—and sister, believe it or not, it's easier lookin' for needles in a haystack.

"And when you find it what do you get? A headache. You take 'em from nothing, build 'em up, get 'em good stands, look after the press, keep the wolves off 'em and put their names in the big lights. You work the hair off your head to get 'em a four-figures contract and you work for nothin' until you get a chance at the gravy, and what do you get for it? Gratitude? Not on your life. Some rich guy runs away with 'em and marries 'em or they get a temperament and drive you crazy.

"Now take this dame. She's got everything, even a red head, and that's hot right now, a pair of legs and a voice that knocks 'em over. All the work I done on her coming out with a bunch of contracts like flowers on a cherry tree and what do I get?

"She quits on me, quits on me, that's what she does! Runs away and does she tell me where she's going? No, she does not. I burn the air with cables and I spend dough like it was dirt and what do I find? She just taking a week-end with a bunch of hicks."

"What was that?" asked Myra, darkly.

"In the stick," said Baldy, correcting himself. "As if I couldn't have fixed a week-end for her at some nice place if she wanted a rest. Some nice place where she could be seen around with a few of names that count, where I could fix a few candid shots for the press boys, where I could get Johnny White chasing her making a play for that contract. And what about him? He loses the best contract of the season on the air if he doesn't get her. Is that fair? I ask you, is that fair?"

But Myra was less interested in Baldy's troubles with Fay than in whatever impression on him Peggy might have made. Her first problem was to keep that rattle-brained youngster from carrying out whatever plot churned in her pretty head. Myra knew her too well to believed that Peggy could be innocent of intrigue for a whole week-end amoung new people.

Dominoes Shade Oilers 26-24 In Opening Tilt

By ALAN DUCKETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, April 28.—(CP)— Victoria Dominoes favored in most Montreal betting quarter today to take the Dominion senior basketball best-of-five series in straight games but Montreal Oilers were ready to lay plenty against them.

Manager Lennie Hutton of the Oilers said after his charges were downed 26-24 in the opening game last night. "It took us nearly three quarters of the game to get used to their style of play, but we know how they play now and the situation will be highly different tomorrow night." That sentiment was echoed loudly by Playing Coach Johnny Ferraro.

By the time the Montreal quintet had become used to the western style of play, the Dominoes had piled up an imposing lead and a late rally by the Montrealers was just beginning to click as the final whistle sounded.

Ronnie Wilson was the leading Montreal scorer in their late offensive as they cut down the Victoria lead from 24-12 to 24-22. The red headed former Winnipeg player snapped in four straight field goals and one free throw with Pat Griffin accounting for the other Montreal tally. Each team scored a basket before the game ended.

Oilers Start It

Caution was the keynote as the game started but after about a minute of play Ferraro sent the Oilers into a 2-0 lead which was rubbed out a few seconds later when Art Chapman, coach of the western champions, sank two straight field goals to give the Dominoes a lead which they never relinquished.

Victoria kept up their offensive and by half-time they had stretched their advantage to 15-5. Three baskets early in the final half made the count 20-6 for Dominoes but before many minutes had passed Oilers started their final attack which brought them to within two points of the Coast squad.

Norm Baker set the pace for the Dominoes with seven baskets and one free throw, for 15 points while Art Chapman was second with seven points.

Wilson was Montreal's leading scorer with 5 field goals and one free shot, good for 11 points. Griffin obtained six points, while Ferraro tallied four and Joe Richman, three.

Third game of the series will be played here Thursday with dates for other games, if the best-of-five affair goes beyond three games, to be set later this week.

Right Fielder Elmer Valo of the Philadelphia Athletics is shown being put out by Yankee Second Baseman Joe Gordon as he attempted to steal second base in the third inning. Having failed in the same kind of play in the first inning one would think that he would be a little more careful from then on but Mr. Valo doesn't seem to have much regard for Catcher Dickey's arm. Yankee power was supreme as they trimmed the Athletics 6 to 4.

MAJORS' INTERSECTIONAL TANGLE TO TEST ACE OUTFITS' SEAMS

Cubs Halt Reds 4 to 3 In 11 Despite Vandy

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

The major leagues open their first intersectional strife of the season to-day and the next 10 days may possibly be more revealing than any that have passed.

It is impossible to evaluate the Brookin Dodgers, for instance, on their record of winning nine of 11 games from Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils and no one will be sure of the surprising stength shown by Cleveland Indians until they are tested against New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

At the outset there are three series that stand out—Detroit Tigers invasion of Boston in the American League and the Brooklyn at Cincinnati and New York at St. Louis struggles in the National League.

The Tigers have come up with some unexpectedly fine pitching and New York Giants with extra-base hitting to astound practically everybody in the two Leagues. Some of the credit for their high estate, however must go to the collapse of Chicago White Sox, who currently are crouched in the American League cellar, and Cincinnati Reds, who are in seventh place in the senior circuit. Both these clubs were, and still are, expected to wind up near the top.

Reds Stumble

The Reds ran into another setback yesterday, 4-3 in 11 innings, at the hands of Chicago Cubs and now seed desperately to show something against the Dodgers if they hope to get into the pennant scramble.

For the Cubs victory meant a tie with the Giants for third place.

Johnny Vander Meer hurler the whole way for the Reds and allowed 11 hits in 11 frames—but six of these were bunched in the fourth and fifth innings for three Chicago runs and two more, singles by Stan Hack and Rookie Len Merullo, came sandwiched around an error by shortstop Eddie Joost in the 11th and spelled Vandy's doom.

The Reds made two of their runs on three hits in the sixth inning and brought Paul Erickson hurrying to the rescue of Hiram Bithorn. He performed a noteworthy relief mission, allowing only one hit in 5 one-third innings, but this blow was an eighth-inning home run by Frank McCormick to tie the score.

All of the other clubs had an open date.

$65,000 Waiting Derby Winner; Fans Baffled

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28 —(AP)— There'll be a $65,000 pot o' gold waiting at the end of a racing rainbow here on Saturday, but the big question in these parts to-day was just who could run a mile and a quarter to get it.

This jackpot question concerning the unknown route-going ability of the seventeen colts still regarded as starting possibilities in the sixty-eighth Kentucky Derby had racing fans as excited as the final chance Alsab and Sun Again are going to get in to-day's Derby trial to show what they might have up their sleeves for the big heat.

Sun Again on Spot.

In fact, the mile trial — even though it always has been a Derby jinx to its winner—is to decide definitely whether Sun Again, successor to Whirlaway as three-year-old boss of Warren Wright's stable, will go to the post on Saturday.

An 8-1 shot in the winter book the son of Sun Teddy was ailing for much of the winter, and is about two weeks behind in his training work. Unless he comes up hot today against Alsab and the nine others entered. Trainer Ben Jones won't run him in the Derby.

Sun Again, who has never been worked more than six furlongs, figures to be a slight second choice behind Alsab in the fifth running of the trial, which boasts the doubtful distinction of never having sent its winner on to take the Derby. For Al Sabath's little gamester it will be the first outing since his gallant try in the Chesapeake.

Alsab May Not Go.

Late yesterday the possibility developed that Alsab wouldn't run in the Derby trial. Trainer Sarge Swenke said Alsab cut his leg near the ankle bone on a horseshoe nail, but added that he would not know definitely until this morning whether the injury will keep the colt out of the mile trial.

As a result, many bettors are prepared to stab at Emerson Woodward's highly touted entry of Hollywood and Valdina Orphan to win the mile purse. The others in the field—E. C. A. Berger's Boot and Spur and such-like — aren't given a look in.

Ben Jones, Sun Again's trainer, was one of the hosswise men around the back stretch who wondered just which of the seventeen still in it would be able to come swinging down that long quarter mile stretch at Churchill Downs to pick up the big Derby pay cheque.

"All that money's waiting there at the finish line," was the way Ben put it "and all you hear about are hosses that aren't going to run that far. Somebody's gotta do it...."

Only three horses in the probable field—Mrs. Payne Whitney's well-regarded Devil Diver and the Texas duo of Hollywood and Valdina Orphan—have gone a mile and a quarter in a workout.

Possible Starters.

Ben Whitaker's Requested. the arrives on the scene from New York current future book favorite who to-day with William Woodward's Apache and two other contenders, won the Flamingo at a mile and an eighth and the Wood Memorial at a mile and a sixteenth. But that extra little bit in the Derby is a neavy load.

The horses still regarded as possibilities to start in Saturday's Kentucky Derby:

Alsab (B. James), Al Sabath, Chicago.

Apache (J. Stout), William Woodward, New York.

Boot and Spur (B. Pearson), E. C. A. Beregr, Los Angeles.

Devil Diver (E. Arcaro), Mrs. Payne Whitney, Red Bank N.J.

Dog Patch (J. Skelly), Mrs. Ethel Mars, Chicago.

Fair Call (H. Lindberg), Mrs. Barclay Douglas, New York.

Fairy Manah (K. McCombs), William Dupont, Jr., Delaware.

First Fiddle (N. Wall), Mrs. Ed. Mulrenan, New York.

Hollywood (G. Woolf), Emerson Woodward, Uvalde, Texas.

Man's Man (A. Craig), Cleaveland Putnam, Chicago.

Requested (L. Haas), Ben Whitaker, New Orleans-Texas.

Shut Out (W. Wright), Mrs. Payne Whitney, Red Bank, N.J.

Sir War (J. Adams), Edward S. Moore Wyoming.

Sun Again (W. Eads), Warren Wrihgt, Lexington, Ky.

Sweep Swinger (A. Shelhamer), T. D. Buhl, Detroit.

Valdina Orphan (C. Bierman), Emerson Woodward, Uvalde, Texas.

Admits No Chip Off Old Block

LONDON, April 28 — (CP).—The Marquis of Queensberry in a recent book, "The Sporting Queensberrys," admits that he was almost 35 before he knew the "difference between a bantam and a welter fighter."

"I was utterly oblivious of what should have been an obvious fact—my obligations as the bearer of the family name," he wrote. His feelings when introduced to a great crowd gathered in New York's Madison Square Garden for a boxing show as "none other than the Marquis of Queensberry of London, England," and pushed into the ring, are graphically described.

After attempting to mask his terror with a smile, he raised his hands above his head in orthodox boxing fashion and "during the terrifying roar of delight which the gesture evoked I managed to crawl through the ropes and back into my seat. Until that moment it had never occurred to me that it was my duty to have at least a smattering of knowledge of the sport which my ancestors did so much to foster," he added.

Drillon Is Placed On Auction Block

TORONTO, April 28—(CP)—Gordon Drillon, star right winger with Toronto Maple Leafs who was benched during the recent Leaf-Detroit Stanley Cup series, may figure in a player deal Coach Hap Day is trying to arrange with New York Rangers, a Leaf spokesman said today. Day a present is in New York.

"One thing is certain and that is that we will make a player deal for the right winger rather than a cash transaction," the spokesman said.

Schriner's Move News To Selke

TORONTO, April 28—(CP)—Manager Frank Selke of the Toronto Maple Leafs said today he had no inkling of Sweeney Schriner's intention to retire from hockey and until he heard directly from the left winger he did not care to comment.

(Schriner, in a report from Calgary, was quoted as saying he would not play next year in the National League but was seeking a position and hoped to coach an amateur team.)

"Sweeney did a swell job during the past season and we were the best of friends when he left for home," Selke said. "Beyond that I wouldn't like to say anything until we hear from him."

Coach Hap Day is out of town and was not available for a check on the report.

Schriner, a star in the Leafs' victory over Detroit for the Stanley Cup, received a bonus of $1,000 for his season's work.

Gregory's Homer Sees Leafs Down Bears 8-6

By The Associated Press

Life for L. D. (Dutch) Meyer is just putting out one fire after another.

The former Texas Christian University football star again is a member of Buffalo Bisons and he comes just in time to halt their slides into the cellar of the International League.

Two years ago Meyer was purchased by Detroit Tigers from Knoxville of the Southern Association and labelled as the successor to the aging Charles Gehringer, Detroit second-baseman.

Not ready for the majors, he was farmed out to Buffalo but the Bisons couldn't find an adequate double-play combination and it sank rapidly toward the league bottom and a call was put in for the young Texan. Detroit released him on option last night.

The Bisons were blanked yesterday by Clayton Lambert, making his first start of the season for Syracuse. Lyn Lary and Johnny O'Neil shared the second-base duties for Buffalo.

The Bisons outhit the Chiefs 7-6, but were defeated 3-0.

Nick Gregory's eighth-inning home run was the blow that gave the lowly Toronto Maple Leafs the third victory of the season. The Leafs got another tally that same frame to ensure their 8-6 verdict over the league-leading Newark Bears.

The Bears held a 5-0 edge before the tailend Leafs started hammering the offerings of Randy Gumpert for four runs in the third. They sent him to showers with another outburst in the sixth.

Rochester defeated Jersey City Giants 7-3. The Wings collected only five hit but four errors by the Little Giant infield helped them to victory.

Fred Martin, local bowling star, teamed with Jean Smerdon of Toronto in the mixed doubles event, but they failed to place in the top scores, just going over the 1100 mark.

The McQuay-Norris entry took over first place in the mixed team event with a total of 3,377.

Air-Raid Shelter For Racing Horse

LONDON, April 28.— (CP). — "Pampered Pony"—That, perhaps, is the best two-word description of the unbeaten Italian-bred Nearco. At any rate, he's the only race horse in Britain that beds down nightly in his own private air-raid shelter.

But he's worth such care. After winning the Grand Prix de Paris, he was purchased by Martin Benson, English sportsman, for an amount equivalent to $264,000 in a telephone transaction completed in 15 minutes.

At a cost of more than $20,000, Benson built an air-conditioned underground shelter. Every night Nearco walks from his ground level stable box to the shelter.

The horse won all his 14 starts, 13 of them in Italy. He earns approximately $75,000 a year in stud fees and is insured highly. Two-year-olds by Nearco will be running for the first time this season

Drop Jockey Idea Says Owner Steve

EPSOM, England, April 28.—(CP.) —Racehorse owner Steve Donoghue plans no comeback as a jockey and is more concerned with the transport of his horses to race meetings. "I did think last year that, if there were a shortage of jockeys, I would be willing to resume riding, but I have let the matter drop, he said.

Marmora, Lake Favor School Area

MARMORA, April 28 — (ENS).— Ratepayers of Marmora Township atended a meeting in the Council Chambers on Friday evening under the presidency of Reeve John A. Bell for the discussion of the possibility of establishing a township school area.

The attendance was unfortunately small with only five of the eight school sections of the township being represented but after lucid addresses from Inspector H. H. Loucks and J. D. Campbell of the Department of Education, the gathering unanimously stood in favor of Marmora and Lake Township Council drawing up a by-law for the establishment of a township school area.

In calling the meeting to order, Reeve Bell referred to the fact that meetings held two years ago to air the same project had not materialized, but the establishment of other township school areas in the country had re-awakened interest in the matter.

Inspector Loucks said he was interested in ratepayers trustees and parents, but he put children first. He feared no arguments in renewing the question of the township school area. He gave instances of the progress of the movement in the northern part of the country.

At the close of his talk, he answered various questions.

J. D. Campbell outlined the organization of the township school area. If Marmora and Lake Township wished to carry out this project a by-law must be passed by its Council before July 1. Five trustees would have to be nominated at the next nomination meeting of the Council. The election would take place on the election day for the Council. The three with the highest vote would be in office for two years, the two with lowest vote would hold office for one year.

Mr. Campbell continuing, referred to the concessions made by the Department of Education to township school areas. He confessed that there had been opposition to the idea at first, but it was breaking down. To-day after the movement has only been on foot for four years there are 130 township school areas in the province.

Before moving a vote of thanks to the speakers, Reeve Bell spoke of having conversed with the Reeves of the townships where the scheme had been put into effect, and having heard favorable comments from them.

Threaten Last China Road

The greater immediate threat seemed to be on the east where the enemy push from Loilem toward Lashion endangered the one good road left in China.

British reports put swift Japanese vanguards 85 miles due east of Mandalay in a strong thrust from Loilem toward Lashion but a Chinese version stressed an eastward thrust of 75 miles seemingly aimed at encirclement of Chinese forces.

Loilem was occupied Friday after the invaders had seized the 40-mile stretch of road from Taunggyi.

(Taunggyi, recaptured by the Chinese, was reported in Chungking yesterday still to be in Chinese hands despite strong attacks since Saturday but a British broadcast today, heard by CBS, quoted a Chungking report that "the Japanese have once again entered Taunggyi.") which they availed themselves even after the supper hour.

Either the British account of a northward advance, or the Chinese picture of eastward progress for the enemy would increase the peril for the Allies in eastern Burma, the back door to China.

Returns Reviewed

The first poll reporting to the temporary office of Vincent Eastwood, returning office: for the riding, in the Bank of Commerce building, was No. 11, 559 Harvey street, setting the pace of West Peterborough's decisive affirmative majority. The vote at the poll as first announced was 157 to 11, but it was later corrected at 136-12.

By a serial coincidence the first correct vote was telephoned from Poll 11A, also at 559 Harvey street, at 8.11 o'clock; one minute later than the first. The count was 107-14. The third polls registering was No. 12, at 452 Elm street, 142-22, at 8.12, and two minutes later No. 47 at 556 Rogers street, gave 108 to 31.

The atmosphere in the riding headquarters in the Bank of Commerce building was attuned to the business of completing the local plebiscite job which began some weeks ago with the preparations for enumeration of the qualified voters. Bags of "literature" returnable to Ottawa were already packed and set for mailing. It was nothing much more than the detail of record and arithmetic. The tension of counting the collective ballots in a political election was entirely absent, and party zealots were likewise missing.

Competently Handled

The returns by telephone were received by F. D. Hammond and Mrs. Eric Roberts, who have been assisting Vincent Eastwood, returning officer. The final phase of their work was as unexciting as the clicking of an adding machine.

The only intruder upon the final scene was an Examiner reporter, and after expectations were thoroughly confirmed by those first four polls, about the only remaining questions was whether the 107 polls would return a unanimous response to the Government's query.

A Lakefield Poll

Fifth in the order of returning polls was No. 76, Lakefield, about 8.20. Only nine negative ballots were marked at that poll, that anonymous group of villagers having been further obscured by the 155 who voted yes. Incidentally, 164 of the registered 266 persons at that poll complied with the Government's appeal.

Young's Point in Smith township gave 80 yeas to 32 nays. Only 112 of the 308 registered voters in that section claimed their ballots. The rest stayed at home, with considerable absentee company throughout the riding.

The telephone switched to Padgett's house, Chamberlain street, in the North Monaghan suburb, showing 151 to 19. The total vote was 170 out of 354 names on the list, or 50 per cent.

Poll 41, 231 Princess street, was next in order of return, with 119 to 15; total 134 out of 245 who were qualified to vote.

More North Monaghan reusults from 69 and 69A on McGill street added substance to the growing "yes" majority—104-15 and 111-10, respectively. The total at this split poll was 240 of the 462 persons who had been enumerated.

Voted 24 to 1.

The next city poll swung even further into line with the nation's majority. No. 24, 219 Charlotte street, counted 248 for the plebiscite to a mere 10 against; a total of 258 out of the total of 362 registered in that subdivision. The proportion at that poll was 24 to 1, a great deal better than the next one, No. 52, at 258 Rogers street, 120-21; total 141 out of 293 qualified voters, and also in the lower proportion of 6 to 1.

No. 51, at 308 Mark street, gave 158 to 33, less than five to one. Total vote was 191 out of 312.

Thirteen polls had been heard from in less than 25 minutes, but the telephone hummed in the next 20 minutes.

The first 18 polls disclosed Peterborough's attitude: 2,319 Yes, to 309 No.

Poll 56, Harvey Town Hall, came through at 8.35 with 63 to 8, still in the affirmative. Telephonic communication on that line was cloudy and Central had to be called upon to relay the report.

At 8.37 Herb Martin was the first deputy returning officer to arrive at headquarters with his sealed box. Selwyn 126 to 10.

Deputy-reeve Gilbert McIlmoyle of Smith township reported for Selwyn—126 to 10, first of the Smith communities to be heard from.

The next township poll was No. 78, Roy Kidd's house, R.R. 2 Lakefield, with a ten-to-one vote, 103 to 11, and while no comment was expressed in the headquarters office, one opinion that was not uttered was inclined to anticipate about the same degree of affirmation in that municipality as in the others.

Young's Point in Smith divided 80 to 32; 112 votes out of the possible 200.

Mrs. Cridland at No. 5, 867 Water street, 142 to 12, was the second deputy to arrive with the zinc box. The vote there was 154 out of 258, better than 50 per cent.

Unanimous at Villiers

Villiers, in Otonabee, set the day's record. The returns from east of the Indian River and Keene was 53-0; but this perfect score was slightly overcast by the fact that there were 117 names on the list for that poll; 64 voters stayed at home for one reason or another.

Orange Hall at Downer's Corners was next in chronological order, at 8.40, with 122 to 34; total 156 out of the possible 312; exactly 50 per cent. For every person who voted in that subdivision one remained at home.

Poll 42, Princess street, contributed another wide margin: 211 to 17. Total 228 out of 356.

Progress of the returns for Peterborough at that stage: 29 polls gave 3,635 Yes, and 504 No.

The next Douro vote was from Nassau, at the Orange Hall on the River Road, No 81, 75 to 33.

First Negative Vote.

The first bulky contribution to the negative column was telephoned from Indian River. Poll No. 79, William O'Leary's house: 40 in the Yes column and 86 in the No. That one broke the ice just about the time that expectations were leaning toward a perfect score for the whole riding.

The next poll, No. 16, 450 George street, wiped out that reverse with 219 yeas to 14 nays; total 233 out of 362 names on the list.

263 to 6 At No. 3 Poll

The north end of George street was next to click a whopper: Poll No. 3, 709 George street—263 to 6. Total 269 out of 353. And the proportion was 44 to 1.

Nearly ten minutes telephone time was wasted with Poll No. 28, 287 Bethune street, something about making up the records that have to be deposited in the ballot box.

Norman Edmison and Alan Brown arrived from Smith with their boxes. They could not break in on the Eastwood telephone, and so they decided they might just as well drive in to the city. They were from Polls 62 and 62A; results: 155-17, and 125-22.

Baillieboro, in South Monaghan, joining Peterborough only on federal questions, gave 108 to 6. Total 116 out of 211 qualified voters.

The city vote at 9.15 was 8,488 to 1,144 for 64 polls.

Poll No. 8, Murray street, voted 206 to 38; total 244 out of 344 possible.

Nogie's Creek in Harvey township, familiar name in elections years ago, kept up Harvey's support: 62-15; total 77 out of 144 on the list.

Lakefield, 471-26.

Two remaining Lakefield polls revealed that only a negligible minority in Tannerville had opposed the proposition of the plebiscite. The total vote was 471 to 26.

Poll No. 18, at 541 Gilmour street, was the next spot to claim the kleigh lights when they telephoned in their return of 219-2. That was even away ahead of Lakefield, and just about on par with Villiers. That proportion was 109 to 1. And by the way, and worthy of special mention, was the fact that 221 persons out of 284 whose names were on the list turned out to vote at that poll. On the whole that Gilmour street company of citizens deserve to be moved up to the top.

All the returns from North Monaghan gave an aggregate of 1,126 Yes to 147 No.

Ennismore Figures

Ennismore was the next rural municipality to get attention. Poll No. 59, the Community Hall, placed itself on the negative side, 45 to 70. Total 115 out of 206.

After other polls had made their contributions to the big affirmative majority, No. 80 Douro, the Town Hall, raised its voice with a 3 to 1 negative decision: 24 Yes and 73 No. Incidents of that kind were exceptions, proving the dominant rule of democracy, even in the most stressful times.

At 9.45 p.m. the total returns from 84 polls showed: 11,059 Yes and 1,558 No.

At ten o'clock all but three city polls had been accounted for by Mr. Hammond, and they arrived only a few minutes later.

Keene's Big Majority

One of those which should get special mention was No. 84 at Keene: 139 to 3; one of the widest margins in the whole of Peterborough. The total vote cast was 142 out of 273 names on the list.

Bensfort, in South Monaghan, spoke in the same voice as its neighbor to the west on the highway: 76 to 8; but only 84 voting in a community for which the enumeration was 206.

And one of the last, but not least in the order of time, was the split Poll 4 and 4A at 786 Water street. The vote at No. 4 was 119 to 7; and at 4A 128 to 6. Total, 247 to 13.

At 10.20 all but the three polls in Galway-Cavendish had reported, and they were not in the expectations of last night. Besides, the number of voters in that northwest corner of the county is comparatively small.

In his earlier speech he said the lack of overseas conscription had not made the Canadian army any smaller than it would have been had such action been taken.

"The lack of power to impose such (overseas) conscription," he said, "has placed our war effort in a wholly false light before our own citizens and, what is worse, before our allies."

While Quebec voters went counter to the general national trend they did not present a solid front against this approach to overseas conscription, as was anticipated in certain quarters.

Only Quebec "Yesses" in Montreal

Nine of Quebec's 65 constituencies, all in the Montreal area, gave "yes" majorities. They were Outremont, Jacque Cartier, Laurier, St. Lawrence-St. George, Verdun, Mount Royal, St. Antoine-Westmount, Cartier and St. Ann.

Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan and British Columbia turned in "yes" majorities in all constituencies. Three New Brunswick constituencies, Gloucester, Kent and Restigouche-Madawaska went against the trend and voted "no." Ontario had two no-constituencies, Prescott and Russell; Manitoba one, Provencher, and Alberta one, Vegreville.

Constituents of the four major party leaders appeared to have recorded an affirmative decision but the negative forces triumphed in the constituencies of all three Quebec cabinet ministers.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's electors in Prince Albert voted "yes" by about three to one at the latest count. In York-Sunbury, Conservative House Leader Hanson's constituency, nearly complete returns showed a "yes" majority of better than six to one. The "yes" group was predominant in C.C.F. Leader Coldwell's riding of Rosetown-Biggar by about the same proportion and at Lethbridge which elects New Democracy Leader Blackmore, a "yes" vote of better than three to one was indicated.'

3 Ministers Let Down.

The three Quebec ministers who campaigned vigorously for a "yes" vote failed to sell the idea to their constituents. Quebec East which elected Justice Minister St. Laurent to the House of Commons in February voted "no" by 22,846 to 3,277.

Air Minister Power had better luck with his Quebec South constituents but the verdict was "no" there also by the smaller margin of 12,258 to 8,484.

Incomplete returns from Richelieu-Vercheres, Works Minister Cardin's constituency, indicated a three-to-one "no" verdict.

Fisheries Minister Michaud was the only non-Quebec Minister to fail to carry his constituency into the "yes" column. His riding of Restigouche-Madawaska was one of three New Brunswick constituencies voting "no."

The few dissenting Quebec Liberal members of the House of Commons who voted against the Plebiscite Bill in the House and advocated a "no" vote on the part of the people saw their own constituencies return "no" majorities. So did Ligouri Lacombe of Laval-Two Mountains, who left the Liberal Party on the issue and founded his own movement which he calls the Canadian Party.

The only legislative action expected to result from the plebiscite is an amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act to strike out a clause prohibiting the sending of conscripted men outside Canada and Canadian territorial waters.

Removal of that restriction will give the Government a free hand to make whatever use of Canada's human and material resources it considers essential to the national safety and the victory of the United Nations over the Axis powers.

The Go-Ahead Sign.

Last night Mr. King and the Leaders of the New Democracy and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Parties viewed the result of the plebiscite as a go-ahead signal to the Government. Conservative Leader Hanson was on the train bound for Ottawa from his home city of Fredericton and is expected to make a statement on his arrival at the Capital.

The Prime Minister said the vote "means that the people generally recognize that the war has taken a course altogether unforeseen; that conditions wholly unexpected may yet arise and that, in consequence, it is necessary to remove any restriction upon the freedom of the Government and Parliament."

"The people have spoken in no uncertain terms,' said Mr. Coldwell. "Our task, as their elected representatives, is to get on with the job of planning for a speedy victory and an enduring peace for, definitely, time is no longer on our side."

Mr. Blackmore said Canadians want the Prime Minister "to go forth in faith without wavering" and added, "there is a war to win and then a peace to win, for the people in both cases."

one Montreal district, and police broke up another brief demonstration in another section, with one arrest in each case, but the day generally was regarded as the quietest voting day in the history of the Montreal district.

The same was true of other sections of the province. At Thetford Mines an effigy of Joseph Lafontaine, Liberal member of Parliament for Megantic-Frontenac, was burned in front of his house, but the crowd that watched was orderly. Mr. Lafontaine campaigned for a "yes" vote in a riding that went 93 per cent "no."

Three cabinet minister led in pre-plebiscite speeches favoring an affirmative answer, and a "no" vote was recorded in each of their ridings. Forty-one per cent of the ballots in Quebec East, home riding of Air Minister Power, were affirmative, 21 per cent were affirmative in the Richelieu-Vercheres riding of Works Minister Cardin, and 13 per cent were affirmative in Quebec East, represented by Justice Minister St. Laurent.

was dropping explosives as heavy as one ton on German objectives in northern France. Anti-aircraft guns thundered at an aerial armada which went out from the coast between Folkestone and Hythe.

Switching from Rostock after pounding that German Baltic port and airplane-manufacturing city for four nights running, the R.A.F. attacked Cologne, much-bombed heart of the industrial Ruhr Valley.

Germans Smash at Norwich

The Germans, too, changed targets after bombing the English southwest resort town of Bath for two nights in a row.

"A good many casualties," fires and widespread damage resulted in a Nazi night attack on Norwich, 100 miles northeast of London, where incendiary and high-explosive bombs blasted streets of small houses.

Workers in Norwich still were digging in wreckage for trapped victims at daylight. Nine elderly persons were missing in the debris of one of two bomb-hit hospitals.

Striking also by day, the Germans sent seven Messerschmitts on a bombing and machine-gunning raid against a southeast coast town this morning.

If the R.A.F. had not blasted Rostock into actual destruction with hundreds of tons of bombs, they apparently had succeeded in erasing it as a base for any useful purpose to the Nazis.

The air ministry said last night it had pictures to prove a mass exodus from the stricken city and reports from Stockholm said the four raids had left 10,000 families homeless there.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said that R.A.F. raiders swooped low over Rostock's roofs in machine-gun and cannon attacks. He said the raiders had dropped leaflets warning the populace of Stralsund, 45 miles northeast of Rostock, to expect similar attacks there.

flood of affirmative majorities began to roll up.

Ottawa voted 63,388 affirmative against 12,988 negative.

With the count incomplete in the two ridings voting negative, Prescott had a 7,488 negative vote compared with 2,475 affirmative and Russell's negative decision was 6,364 against 3,725 affirmative. Neighboring Stormont, however, went 67 per cent affirmative, before vote-counting stopped for the night. Other eastern Ontario ridings such as Lanark, Leeds and Grenville-Dundas returned smashing affirmative decisions.

Central Ontario "Yes"

The vote in central Ontario was equally strong. The Hastings ridings, Prince Edward-Lennox and the Peterborough constituencies left no mistake about their affirmative wishes.

Toronto and district helped boost the province-wide trend.

In the north, the Algomas were from 70 to 77 per cent in favor of releasing the government from its pledges. In Cochrane, the race was narrower with 13,382 voting "Yes" and 10,750 registering "No," on the basis of incomplete returns. Port Arthur, represented in the House of Commons by Munitions Minister Howe showed an affirmative vote of 13,146 against a negative of 3,652 before vote-counting ended for the night.

The other Ontario ridings with members in the Dominion cabinet were equally strong for the affirmative. York North, represented by Postmaster-General Mulock, reported 15,779 "yes" and 1,867 "no" ballots before the counters stopped work for the night. Hamilton West, Revenue Minister Gibson's constituency, voted 20,010 in the affirmative and 3,347 negative. Kingston City, whose member is Naval Minister Macdonald had a 91 per cent affirmative decision.

Welland, which sent Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell to Ottawa at a by-election in February, voted 233,900 "yes" against 5,758 "no", with more results still to come. The total vote was slightly in excess of the 28,103 ballots cast in that by-election.

In Essex West, represented by State Secretary McLarty, there were 21,630 supporters of an affirmative decision compared with 6,097 in the negative.

This vote was typical of Western Ontario's overwhelming "yes" decision. Such ridings as Brant, Perth, Huron-Perth, Huron North and Lambton-Kent were strongly in the affirmative column. Watford, in Lambton-Kent, reported the highest number of votes in the municipality's history.

Eglinton Record at 96 P. C.

Although the general provincial "yes" vote was 84 per cent of the total, in individual cases the percentage went even higher. Toronto Eglinton topped the entire province with a percentage of 96 but several other Toronto ridings had percentages in the 90's and Carleton, in Eastern Ontario, showed an affirmative percentage of 92 along with Dufferin-Simcoe in Central Ontario, the riding of Hon. Earl Rowe, former Ontario Conservative leader.

But the "yes" swing was general—in the mining country of the north, agricultural western Ontario, the busy war industrial centres of Hamilton, London, Windsor and others.

All cities were in the affirmative column. London, here 30,023 of a possible 44,000 voters went to the polls, voted 18-1 in the affirmative. The Hamilton vote was between 84 and 86 per cent, Kingston 91 per cent, Brantford 88 per cent. St. Thomas returned a 16-1 affirmative vote while Elgin, in which it is itusted, decided 9-1 in favor of releasing the government from any commitments. Elgin is Premier Hepburn's home riding.

Waterloo North, containing a lage number of German-Canadians left no doubt about where its sympathies were when it cast an affirmative vote of 18,164 to 7,088 negative. Waterloo South went even stronger, showing 13,373 "yes" votes and 2,349 in the negative column

Your "Priorities"

To war industries, the Government has granted priorities—prior claims on essential materials—to ensure the steady flow of these materials needed to win the war.... Similarly, millions of Canadians have established "priorities" through life insurance—to safeguard their families against the uncertainties of the future—and to guarantee them a steady flow of food, clothing and other necessities.... Every working day, more than half a million dollars are distributed among Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries—sustaining families bereft of their breadwinners—bringing security to those in the sunset of life.... In addition, life insurance has invested more than 300 Million Dollars in War Loans to help finance the cost of men and armaments required in the defence of our homeland.

How modern education has progressed. In the good old days a teacher could tell whether "Little Johnny" was behaving by simply keeping an eye on him. But not any more. The new method employed by teachers is the use of "their sixth sense," according to one teacher.

THIS IS UNTRUE.

A rumor to the effect that Charles Carson of Sherbrooke Street was confined to the hospital during the past week from injuries received in an automobile accident is untrue. He was in the hospital but for the purpose of an operation on his hand to remove a cyst, and he is now back at his home.

RATIONING ICE CREAM.

Rationing of ice cream restricted Sunday sales as the intrusion of summer into April's wind-up weather sent demand soaring. Some of the dealers have spread their month's allowance over the entire period on a weekly delivery basis, but apparently some of the corner spots took no reckoning of rationing, sold everything on ice and will likely be tapering off sharply on the next monthly supply.

WROTE NO—Spoiled Ballots

Surgeons Made Not Born Rotarians Told

"Surgeons are not born; they're made," declared Rotarian Dr. R. K. Magee in a classification talk at the regular luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel on Monday.

Dr. Magee, who was introduced by Rotarian D. T. Diplock, deprecated the theory that some doctors were "born surgeons." he declared that it was the length of time, study and practice devoted to the profession that made surgeons.

The actual operating itself was not the chief part of surgery, the speaker said. "Any doctor can take out an appendix," remarked Dr. Magee. "What really counts is the ability to tell whether it is time or not to take it out."

There was a time, the speaker said, when quickness in operations was considered important but that was before the days of anesthesia. Now such quickness would be considered bad surgery.

"What is wanted," said Dr. Magee, "is not surgeons who are just operators; what is wanted now is sound surgical judgment."

Dr. Magee sketched the background of surgery, pointing out that one time the surgeon occupied a very lowly position in the medical profession. He was not allowed to use the title "Dr." and even today in Britain surgeons were just plain "Mr." but the importance of the surgical branch had been indicated in recent years by the establishment of the Royal College of Surgeons.

Dr. Magee, using X-ray plates and a number of instruments dealt with some of the recent developments in the surgical field, explaining the new methods of dealing with such things as club feet, cleft palate and broken hips. He also referred to new antiseptics and new means of anesthesia, to illustrate the changes that were taking place in the surgical field.

The thanks of the club were extended to Dr. Magee by Rotarian H. L. Garner.

Rotarian Dr. H. R. H. Kenner gave a five-minute talk on the third object of Rotary, stressing the importance of service

Today was election day for the Rotary Club. Out of a field of ten members named by the nominating committee the following five directors were elected for the year commencing July 1, Kenneth J. Currie, Gordon S. Matthews, Thos. F. McArthur, Ian F. McRae and M. H. Riddle.

Man Is Fined $50 Keeping Gaming Place

A fine of $50 was imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on B. F. Williams, after the accused had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a common gaming house

"I could impose a jail sentence for this offence," Magistrate Langley reminded the accused before naming the fine.

Constable C. J. McGillen supplied evidence in the case, telling the court of a Sunday afternoon raid on Williams' premises at 440 George street and of the finding of a number of men gambling there.

Charges against other men found in the place are to be heard later.

Corner Bazaar Makes $22.84 For War Victims

Last year, a very notable feature of the children's work on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, was the number of bazaars they held in all sections of the city. With the advent of colder weather, this activity was by force of circumstances dropped for the time being.

Getting away to an excellent start that should auger well for the next few months ahead, to a group of six girls, Dorothy Carr, Joyce Hanes, Catharine Craig, June Moore, Margaret Johnston and Joyce Campbell, goes the honor of being the first to resume this type of activity to help the people of Britain.

On Saturday they held their bazaar at the corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie streets, with excellent weather to help things along, amid patriotic decorations which added much color to the scene and proved very attractive indeed. From friends, neighbors and willing helpers, they had gathered a fine assortment of canned goods, home-made candy and cakes, Silverwoods ice cream, soap, and a variety of articles which had a ready sale, and realized the nice sum of $22.84 which is credited in today's list of receipts for the fund.

On two former occasions, the Ladies' Bowling Club of George Street United Church have given help to the fund, and today there appears their third contribution, this time for $5 per Mrs. R. P. Borland, treasurer for this group.

The idea of honoring the memory of friends who have passed on, by helping those in distress, seems to be growing, for today in the lists for the fund, appears the third one of such to come in during the past five days, having the dual purpose of rendering aid to those who need help, and at the same time paying a tribute to honor the memory of a departed friend. On this particular occasion, a friend gives $3 which ordinarily would have been spent to buy a floral tribute to express sympathy for the passing of Garnet L. Galley, who was laid to rest last Saturday.

A collection from the penny box located in the bank of Toronto yielded a further $2.15 to continue its good work for the fund.

Cavalcade of Canada

This very interesting production staged a short while ago by the students of the Peterborough Normal School in to be repeated on Tuesday, May 5 in the school, with a display of handicraft work by this year's students to which the public is cordially invited. There is no admission fee, but a collection will be taken, which will be in aid of this fund.

On Monday night, the Cathedral City of Norwich, second oldest city in England and home city of the secretary of the fund, received a real bad bombing from enemy air raiders. Norwich is chiefly a shoe manufacturing city with no military installations. Both main hospitals, the Norfolk and Norwich, and the Royal Victoria were attacked. That's cold-blooded murder, and the bombing of the many workers' homes really comes into the same category. With your help, another five hundred pounds can speedily go on its way to help them. The fund needs $225 to make that a fact.

To Address C.A.S.

Hon. Farquhar Oliver, Minister of Public Welfare for Ontario, who is scheduled to address the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society held this evening in St. John's Parish Hall, Mr. Oliver, who is 38, has been a member of the Ontario Legislature since 1926.

Three Months Notice Must Be Given

His Honour Judge Smoke, in an interview this morning, told the Examiner that a new order went into effect on Saturday last changing the rental regulations.

Although His Honor had not as yet received a copy of this order, from the information which has been made available to him it now appears that it will be necessary for landlords to give three months' notice to all tenants other than those who hold less than monthly tenancies.

In other words, those tenants who are monthly tenants or who hold for a greater length of time may not be required to vacate except at the end of three months from the time when a notice to vacate has been given and such notice must, of course, be given previous to the expiration of the month or other period for which the tenant holds the property and become effective three months from the date when the next period of tenancy commences.

Many Changes Made

The new order is number 108 of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and will contain a large number of changes.

Judge Smoke stressed particularly, that prospective purchasers of property should, before purchasing property with the intention of occupancy, keep in mind that possession may not be available for them for at least three months.

All enquiries in connection with rental matters should in the first instance be directed to the local office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and all complaints in connection with excessive rentals being charged should be reported to that office.

Examiner Carriers Have Sold $10,595 In Stamps In 5 Months

In five months the Carriers of the Peterborough Examiner have sold the astonishing total of $10,595 in War Savings Stamps. This is an average of well over $2,000 a month. The month of March produced a record sale with a total of $2,400, besides a record week of $664. Such results at a time when sales of War Savings Stamps and Certificates are not too active is very gratifying and encouraging to the War Savings Committee charged with the task of promoting sales in the city. It is remarkable to notice the continued interest of these boy and girl carriers in their campaign after such an extended period. A complete realization of the importance of the war effort keeps them on their toes and actively engaged in this extra work week after week. Though the names of a group of boys and girls are constantly in these columns for large sales there are numbers of the youngsters who do not appear very often but whose efforts are decided contributions to hte weekly totals, and they should share in the credit coming to the group as a whole.

Sales for the week ending April 25 were substantial, being $547.75. Tops again in weekly sales is Jack Harris, who is heading for the Examiner Trophy for the month of April. Jack's sales last week were $67.00. In a close second place is the young lady who has made such rapid improvement recently in War Savings Stamp sales, Nancy Leith, whose sales were a neat $60.00. Third place is held by Keith Orde with $44.75 and his side-kick George Clark is next with $40.75. Other familiar names are next in order of merit— Victor Doughty has $23.00, and a very small but active salesman, Ray Douglas of Young Street in the South-end has $20.00. Donald Pagett follows with $20.00, and Grant Finnie brings in $17.25. Adrian Langhorne, again in the South-end, has a further $16.00, and Wellington Borland, a young up-and-coming war worker, has $15.00. Stewart Brown of the North-end, one of last week's prize-winners, sold another $13.75, and Alan Sage, back on the job after an operation, comes through with sales of $12.00. Others in order of sales were: Ralph Dallin $9.50, Wilbert Edgar $8.75, Cyril Robinson $7.75, Douglas Burrows $7.75, Don McGillen $7.00, Jack Brown $6.25, Dan McIsaac $6.00, and Bill Paterson $6.00.

Subscribers to the Examiner are reminded that Examiner Carriers are anxious to serve you in your War Savings and will be glad to deliver Stamps to you at your request.

Kinsmen Get Romanelli For Radio Show

Announcement to-day that the Kinsmen Club had succeeded in getting Luigi Romanelli, and his well known ten piece orchestra to provide a musical background for the Radio Variety Show on Friday next, has stimulated sale of tickets to the show, which is being held in the Collegiate Auditorium.

Romanelli and his band, which is heard regularly from the King Edward Hotel in Toronto, stands in the top bracket with the finest bands on the continent, and his promise to take part in the show is the finishing touch that was required to complete a perfect program of high class entertainment.

All of the proceeds from this mammoth undertaking will be used to provide milk for the children of Britain, and many people are giving generously of their time and effort to make the show a one hundred per cent. success. Many people will want to attend the show at the Collegiate and tickets may be obtained from any of the Kinnettes, and many others who cannot attend the show, are buying the draw tickets for the many prizes which will be given away, and the lucky winners announced over the radio.

Headlining the outstanding artists from Canada who are coming to Peterborough for the show, is Frank Oldfield, rated by many critics, as Canada's outstanding baritone. Patricia Bailey, a beautiful girl with a rich melodic voice, who is now featured every Tuesday evening on the CBL radio show, Friendly Music and with Sigmund Steinburg in the radio feature, "Dream Painters" is also booked to take part in the Kinsmen Variety Show. Last February Miss Bailey sang with Al Pearce and his orchestra at Hollywood, and she has also worked with Geoffrey Waddington and Percy Faith, top-ranking names in the realm of radio entertainment.

Another star, who is scheduled to take part is Jimmy Namarro, the finest zylophonist in radio to-day, and an all-round showman of outstanding ability. He was formerly teamed up with Kate Smith, and was called to appear as guest artist with a 100 piece orchestra at the Chicago World's Fair in '34. He now directs the radio show, 'Recipe for a cocktail' over CKCL, and is director of the stage shows at the Tivoli theatre in Hamilton. He made a great hit when the Club Esquire was opened in Toronto, and he was billed as one of the artists.

All in all, the program is shaping up, as something never before placed before Peterborough music lovers for their approval, and the presentation is so diversified in its appeal that all should give it the seal of approval.

WILL HAVE TO GO ON

No one appeared when a charge against Kenneth Bell of fraudulently obtaining board was called in police court this morning. Neither the accused nor the complainant was on hand and Magistrate Langley, in ordering an adjournment for a week, declared that the case would have to be dealt with then.

CARELESS PEDESTRIAN

Some people like to take a chance. In the heaviest part of the noon traffic on Water street at the corner of Hunter, a pedestrian walked calmly out in the middle of the road while cars swerved violently to avoid him. In spite of the fact that those traffic lights are put there for use, some still ignore them and then wonder why they get hurt.

Mr. Ward during his last year at McGill was a civilian instructor in the radio mechanics course being given to the R.C.A.F. at McGill. He enters the Navy with the rank of Sub-Lieutenant, special branch.

16 Tires Stolen From Service Station

Entry had been made into the place by means of a window. The robbery as not discovered until this morning.

During the night, also, thieves broke into the garage of Albert Darling on the Warsaw road and stole five or six gallons of gasoline, siphoned from Mr. Darling's car.

Missing Man Is Found Near His Home

After wandering around in the bushland near White Lake, Dummer township, for nine days, Fred Armstrong, missing 7?-year-old man who disappeared from the home of George Forbes a week ago last Sunday, was located this morning in a wood on the property of George Crowe.

Although he has been without food and shelter for all that time, Armstrong was reported to be in fairly good shape when searchers came across him this morning, three-quarters of a mile from the main road and not more than a mile from his home. He was weak and hardly able to speak, so that he could not give any account of his movements but he rallied quickly.

The Examiner was informed that the elderly man would soon be all right again, in spite of his experience.

Search Started.

When he first disappeared no great alarm had been caused because he had left home several time before and when his footprints were traced across a field to the road, it was though that he had obtained shelter at the home of some farmer. When he failed to return, however, and no trace of him could be found through inquiries over the telephone from farmers in a number of sections a search of the woods was organized.

This morning Walter Hamblin found the missing man, wandering through a section of bushland and he was taken to his home near White Lake.

Fortunately the weather has been warm and the nights comparatively mild. Otherwise exposure to the elements for nine days and nights would have been fatal.

come out of it the same lad he was when he put on his uniform He will have grown from a boy into a man. He will have been disciplined. He will have learned a thousand things he did not know before. He will have seen different places, been thrown with different people, formed different habits, have a different outlook on life. Some will come out better men. Others worse. But they will not be the same.

Girls Will Change, Too

And the girls left behind them will be changed, too. They will have grown up also. They will be women instead of little cuties. They will have gotten jobs and become self-supporting. Many of them will have learned trades that no woman thought of before the war. And they, also, will look at life from a different angle.

So when Johnny comes marching home and meets the Girl Friend she will be a stranger to him. Maybe their love will have survived. Maybe it will have perished. Maybe they will have found some other girl and boy they like better than the old ones. But how much better it will be in any case if they have left themselves free to renew the old love, or make a new one, without being bound by any old obligations.

Surprise To Teutons

LONDON, April 28—(CP). Reuters said today that the Berlin correspondent of the National Zeitung of Basel, Switzerland, had cabled that the German public "was astonished at Hitler's demand yesterday for such far-reaching powers." The writer was quoted as saying it was "the sharpest appeal ever made to the German people."

Reuters quoted the Berlin correspondent of the Baseler Nichichten of Basel as saying the German capital was "surprised that Hitler was silent on past German successes and that his usual prediction as to the course of events was lacking."

POISE GIVES CONFIDENCE

The secret of forceful public speaking lies in knowing the rules. Confidence in yourself helps you hold the attention of the audience. Knowing how to "address the chair" correctly, what to do when stuck for a word, will help to appear on the platform.

To get the chairman's attention you raise your hand. When recognized you rise to your feet and say, "Madam Chairman, I should like to make the suggestion that—" You don't usually keep the floor for more than three minutes.

Be brief, explicit. "Mrs. Kenney is the logical person to ask. She's done settlement-house work for 10 years."

If a word eludes you, no need to stall "Er-er"! Just pause without apology until it comes. Pauses are effective!

You can not only speak but make real speeches well! Our 32-page booklet gives public speaking exercises you can do at home for pronunciation, voice, emphasis. Tells how to prepare a speech, hold attention, feel at ease. Has sample speeches for many occasions; explains parliamentary procedure.

For your copy of booklet, "Poise Gives Confidence," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to Examiner's Home Service Department, Peterborough. Be sure to write your Name and Address, and the Name of Booklet plainly.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKING THE BEST OF IT

PERFECTLY good bidding can get you into some nasty contracts, against which one opponent has a string of trumps as long as the maximum holding on your side. In many such spots, the best thing to do is to avoid the usual procedure of leading trumps right away, and work on the establishment of a winner or winners in some side suit which can be used to compel a ruff from the dangerous adversary.

North: ♠ 10 7; ♥ A K 9 7 3; ♦ Q 10 8 3; ♣ 6 2

West: ♠ A J 4 2; ♥ Q 4; ♦ K 6 5 4; ♣ Q 5 4

East: ♠ K 9 3; ♥ J 10 8; ♦ 9 7 2; ♣ A K 8 7

South: ♠ Q 8 6 5; ♥ 6 5 2; ♦ A J; ♣ J 10 9 3

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♠	2♥	2♠

There are times when even the soundest player, who hates to raise his partner's possible four-card suit when holding only three trumps, must do it anyway as a preferred choice among evils. After North's 2-Heart bid, East was not strong enough to bid 3-Clubs, could not bid 2-No Trumps with no heart stoppers, and yet was too strong to pass. His only recourse was what he did, and West, having opened very weakly, passed.

That 2-Spade contract was played at several duplicate tables, but was beaten at several, although in each case North led the heart K and switched to the diamond 3 to the A, South returning the diamond J to the K. Those who were set then took the spade K, J and A, and the club Q, A and K. The defenders then took all of the rest of the tricks, as the heart J went to the Q and A, the diamond Q and 10 won and for the final trick South had the spade Q against West's 4.

The declarers who made the contract, lost the first two tricks to the heart K and the diamond A, and won the third with the diamond J to the K, whereupon they led the heart Q, the A taking it. The diamond Q enabled South to discard a heart. When the diamond 10 followed, dummy ruffed with the 9, forcing South's Q. That ended the defenders' trick taking, as the spade 8 was dropped after South returned the club J. If North had returned a heart after his diamond Q trick, West could have made his contract safe by discarding his last diamond.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q J 6 4 2; ♥ 9 8; ♦ 10 9; ♣ Q 9 8 6

West: ♠ 10 7 5; ♥ 4 2; ♦ K J 6 4 3; ♣ J 10 2

East: ♠ None; ♥ A K Q J 10 7 5 3; ♦ Q 8 7; ♣ A 4

South: ♠ A K 9 8 3; ♥ 6; ♦ A 5 2; ♣ K 7 5 3

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After South bids 1-Spade, and North 2-Spades, what should East do with his freakish hand?

MR. JAMES H. HOLDING

"I certainly was in bad condition if anybody ever was," said Mr. Holding, 47 Edgemont Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario. "I had not appetite, couldn't get restful sleep at night and lost so much weight that I hardly had enough energy to carry on my work. I was troubled with constipation and would get awful headaches and dizzy spells. I also had a lot of gas and bloating in my stomach and intestines and I felt so sluggish and tired-out that I actually thought I'd have to quit entirely.

"But it wasn't very long after I started taking Syntona that I began to feel better and now after a couple months this medicine has given me REAL results. I've gained back several pounds of my lost weight. I have a good appetite for hearty meals with no trouble from gas, bloating or distress in my stomach. My sluggish bowels are regular now and the relief this gave from headaches and those sickening dizzy spells is wonderful. I feel so much stronger and better in every way that I just want to tell every one about the medicine that has done so much for me."

GREAT RAF NIGHT SWOOP FIRES KIEL NAVAL BASE

LONDON, April 29 (CP)—The R.A.F. set fire to the great Nazi naval base of Kiel in a heavy attack last night, while another force attacked the German warship havon at Trondheim, Norway, for the second successive night. In announcing these assaults which rounded out a full week of big-scale bombings of German continental positions, the Air Ministry said other overnight raids were directed against airdromes in the occupied Low Countries and a power station at Ghent, Belgium.

The total cost to Britain was nine bombers, while the Air Ministry said a German night fighter was shot down over Kiel and a bomber was destroyed off North Cornwall yesterday evening.

It announced also that the first big raid on Trondheim the night of April 27-28 was aided by diversionary attacks of the coastal air command which hit two ships off Aalesund, Norway, and struck oil tanks and airdromes ashore.

The German battleship Tirpitz and other important naval units are based at Trondheim, but the naval base itself was the primary objective.

York Takes Nazi Bombs

York, a city of 85,000, was the target for Nazi retaliation, although activity there was "on a reduced scale" from the previous nights' raids on Bath and Norwich, a number of casualties resulted but the full toll was not known at mid-day today.

One block of shops was burned out and the residential quarters of a convent were destroyed, killing two nuns.

"York was bombed by about 20 enemy aircraft, of which five were destroyed," an authoritative statement said.

War plants of Rostock, Augsburg and Cologne have been major targets of thrusts against Germany proper and Trondheim had been under a violent attack only Monday night.

First refugees from Rostock, Baltic supply base and site of submarine and aircraft works which had been bombed four nights in a row, were said to have arrived in Berlin.

"Enormous fires left practically the entire centre of the town a heap of ashes," an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Zurich said. "The number of dead far exceeds the Luebeck figure."

Germany, however, has not announced the total of casualties at Luebeck, another Baltic port at which the R.A.F. dealt a smashing blow in the spring.

$100,000 Blaze At Kinmount

20 Buildings In Business Area Razed

500 In Bucket Brigade, Fenelon Fire Truck Is Trapped And Lost

KINMOUNT, Ont., April 29—(CP)—Five hundred volunteers—practically the entire population—failed in their efforts to save from destruction by fire the business section of this Victoria County lumbering village, 35 miles north of Lindsay.

The fire started late yesterday when a sawmill truck in the yard of the John Austin Sawmill Company ignited. A southwest wind fanned the flames and before they were brought under control the business block of 20 buildings was destroyed with a loss of $100,000. It was the worst blaze in Victoria County's history.

Thousands of feet of rough and dressed lumber in the Austin Company's yard went up in smoke. Telephone communication with the outside was cut off temporarily when the Bell Telephone Company's quarters were destroyed and a fire truck belonging to the Fenelon Falls brigade was trapped in the blazing business section and reduced to charred metal.

The residents formed bucket lines but the strong wind and the dryness of the buildings thwarted their efforts to control the flames.

Sparks fell in showers on the wooden buildings along the one-block business section. Thre three-storey Central Hotel, owned by Henry Butt, was razed, destroying with it the Bell Telephone Company office which had quarters on the ground floor. Kinmount was cut off from telephone communication with the outside world until well on in the night when emergency lines were erected.

"Terrifying Spectacle."

The Bobcaygeon volunteer fire brigade also answered a call for aid and did valiant work in fighting the flames.

"It was a tremendous and terrifying spectacle," said Wellstood Ritchie, a resident of Burn River, a village south of Kinmount. He and many other residents of Burnt River helped to battle the outbreak. "The sawmill was a mass of flames and the wind carried bits of burning lumber and deposited them on the stores and other buildings more than 100 yards away."

The C.N.R. station caught fire,

Planes Support Tanks In New Theat That May Doom Burma

CHUNGKING, China, April 29—(AP)—A Japanese spearhead thrusting northward was reported today to have reached within 50 miles of Lashio, Burma, in an attack led by tanks and supported by planes.

Another Japanese column was reported striking westward.

Yesterday the Japanese, racing the Monsoon rains into North Burma, were reported 100 miles from Lashio, with the Chinese already moving essential supplies out of that threatened city.

Today's reports placed the Japanese at Mansam, 60 miles due south of Lashio.

The latest Japanese thrust was believed directed at Mongyai, about 35 miles below Lashio and whence the invaders will find two routes leading to the Burma road between Lashio and Mandalay.

The Chinese were reported forming a front just south of an east-west line from Mongyai to Hsipaw on the Mandalay-Lashio railway link of the Burma Road.

Outlook Darkens

LONDON, April 29 (CP)—Chinese troops were reported today hastily forming a front in northern Burma in an effort to head off Japanese divisions driving north from Monghai Ping toward the railroad east from Mandalay to the Burma Road.

British sources made no effort to conceal the gravity of the situation as a result of the Japanese break-through from Monghai Ping, 80 miles south of Lashio, the railhead

LONDON, April 29—(CP).—Authoritative sources said today that any reports indicating a breach between King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Mussolini "should be treated with utmost reserve."

(A Berne dispatch to the New York Times reported yesterday that the Italian King had held consultations Monday with prominent Italians and that Mussolini was not included in some of these. Transmitted to South America, this report apparently developed into widespread rumors of a break between the King and Mussolini).

Mussolini was reported today to have told his Fascist chieftains that an acute food shortage is confronting Italy with her most serious internal problem.

Axis Massing 280 Divisions To Hit Russia

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 29—(AP).—Information gathered in Bucharest diplomatic circles by a neutral diplomat indicated today that the Axis plans to hurl about 280 divisions—perhaps 5,000,000 men—against the Russians when Hitler's offensive begins.

It is believed among Allied quarters here that the long winter and the Russian harrying tactics may have delayed until after June 1 an offensive which Hitler originally had planned to start not later than May 1.

The estimate of 280 divisions is based on German expectations of contributions from Rumania, Hungary, Italy and other countries, but doubt was expressed here as to the extent of Rumanian and Hungarian aid. These two seemed still to be playing the game of mutual distrust in hope of cutting down their contributions to the smallest possible total.

The informant said that when he left Bucharest the Rumanians had promised to send 15 divisions to Russia while Hungary had promised 10, but that Rumanians were insisting they would send no more than Hungary did—so a total of only 20 divisions was likely, no more than Rumania alone sent last year.

Plan Private War.

The significance of this situation was said to be the fact that both countries would have sizable armies left at home to fight each other if a moment of German weakness gives them the chance.

The Germans are popularly estimated to have started the invasion of Russia last June with 200 divisions. The informant from Bucharest said they expected to mass 250 German divisions for the 1942 offensive.

Reds Advance 45 Miles In Four Days

Fierce Air Attacks Fail To Block Big River Crossing

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 29—(AP).—An important Russian advance of 45 miles in four days was reported to-day in front-line dispatches which said the Red Army successfully crossed a big river in the face of fierce defensive action by the Nazi air force.

In this and other key sectors of the front the Germans were said to have intensified their aerial operations greatly in a desperate attempt to prevent bridge repairs with the hope that rising spring floodwaters would hamper the Soviet advance.

The 45-mile gain, in which German troops were reported hurled back to the south-west, was the most sweeping advance described in Soviet dispatches for some time.

The exact location was not announced. Observers here said the river crossed could be any of several streams which the Germans have been defending stubbornly as strong points from which they could launch a spring offensive.

"Such a description might apply to German positions along the Volkhov River in the Novgorod region south of Leningrad, the Upper Volga in the Rzhev area, the Oka River near Orel, or the Donets in the Kharkov area.

The river, described as bridged at a point where its waters rise very high in the spring, was said to have been crossed in a swift thrust which carried the Russians forward 15 miles in a day.

Three days later, the dispatches reported, the Germans were hurled back 30 miles more.

Guerillas Save Bridge.

The reports credited guerilla forces with having contributed considerably to the success of the attack by preventing the Nazis from blowing up one important bridge, seizing a railroad junction and driving the Germans from dozens of little communities—all in operation behind the German lines.

Colonel Zhuravlev, Russian military expert, wrote in the Moscow News that the Red Army would prove able to continue its advances despite the soggy countryside and virtually impassable roads, and said

NEW YORK, April 29—(AP).—Huge rocket-launched air freighters of ocean-spanning range are pictured by Major Alexander P. de Seversky, foremost plane designer and Russian ace in the First Great War, as winging cargoes on high while baffled submarines roam a shipless sea below.

"The rocket take-off eventually will enable aircraft to get up with loads that are now impossible," he said in an interview yesterday.

Rostock Is Left Burned Out And Deserted

LONDON, April 29—(CP).—The centre of the German Baltic port of Rostock is an ash heap and fires still smoulder in the city which has been evacuated of all except firemen and a few military forces after four nights of heavy British bombing, reports reaching London said today.

Photographs of the damage from the most intensive R.A.F. offensive against a single town, taken from British bombers after the second night's raid, showed fires so bright that planes could be seen on the airdrome. A later picture the same night shows the entire town engulfed in flames and smoke.

Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers said the Baltic base and airplane manufacturing centre was virtually levelled and uninhabitable.

Evacuation of the 90,000 population became necessary, they said, because public services and food and water supply became impossible.

Effects of Britain's newest giant bombs were shown in the reports of terrified refugees reaching neighboring cities who said that great blocks of houses crumbled under the blasts and became tinder for incendiary bomb showers.

Firefighters were reported virtually helpless, with bomb-wrecked factories catching fire again and again.

R.A.F. planes dived low, firing cannon and machine guns at firemen and policemen, preventing them from doing effective work.

Thousands Flee to Berlin

Reports reaching here said the first refugees from the port and war industry centre had reached Berlin after towns nearer by were overcrowded with families which fled from the devastation.

Gulf Raiding

CAIRO, April 29—(AP).—British bombers attacked a "small enemy convoy" in the Gulf of Sirte yesterday scoring a hit on a tanker and shooting down two Dornier 18's, an R.A.F. communique said today.

In another part of the Mediterranean, the communique said, a medium-sized merchant vessel escorted by two or three destroyers was attacked and hit by torpedo-carrying aircraft Monday night. Another aerial torpedo hit on a ship was reported in a third convoy attack Sunday night. Axis airdromes in Crete were attacked Monday night.

Continued heavy scale Axis air raids on Malta on Monday and yesterday damaged a church and a number of civilian houses, the communique said. Two Ju-88's were shot down by Maltas' anti-aircraft guns.

Trondheim Raid Spectacle Seen In Sweden

LONDON, April 29.—(CP).—The past two nights R.A.F. raids were in continuation of the effort to neutralize the menace to the Murmansk supply route, but informed British sources declined to estimate the damage done at Trondheiem, remarking, "we did too much speculating on the damage we thought our bombers did at Brest."

The German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and cruiser Prinz Eugen were bombed at Brest for month after month, but last February they dashed through the Strait of Dover to safer havens.

Norwegian reports have said the Gnieisenau now is at Trondheim, but other sources said tre ship was believed to be at Gdynia, Poland, for reconditioning.

Swedish newspaper reports described Monday night's raid on Trondheim as extremely heavy, saying bombers came over for three hours, their flares and engine exhausts being visible at the Swedish frontier. They said one British plane landed 25 miles from the border and its crew still was being hunted by the Nazis.

Texas Town Levelled By Tornado

Fire Adds To Tragedy 7 Dead, 100's Hurt Nearby Hospitals Full

VERNON, Texas, Apri 29—(AP).—A tornado followed by devastating fire destroyed or damaged every building in the west Texas county seat town of Crowell last night, killing at least seven persons and injuring hundreds.

Rescue workers and equipment were rushed from Vernon and other towns. Hospitas were filled with injured. All communications in the vicinity were down.

George self, Red Cross chairman at Crowell, said 1,000 persons needed emergency aid and housing.

Two emergency Red Cross stations treated more than 80 injured each. About 85 injured were brought to Vernon, 35 of them in a serious condition. Others were taken to Quanah and Chillicothe.

Deputy Sheriff Jerry Loper of Vernon, returning from the stricken community of 2,100 said:

"There's no town left. There's not an undamaged building in the entire place.

"The residential district seemed to be about the worst hit—if there was any comparative degree of damage. The town was blown and burned off the map."

The city was without power, and consequently without water to fight the fire.

Six bodies have been recovered.

Rescued Seamen Avenge Ship Loss

NEW YORK, April 29—(AP).—Five young American seamen disclosed today that they avenged the loss of their medium-sized United States merchant vessel three days later by scoring a probable hit—possibly a fatal one—on an Axis submarine with the deck gun of their rescuer, a United Nations ship.

The American ship, whose torpedoing was announced today, was sunk April 21 off the Atantic coast. Twenty-three members of the crew, including the captain, were rescued the following day but 24 other members of the crew are still missing.

The action was described by Ensign Frank Keathley, 22, who said it was the first battle for all the gun crew members.

Frank Davis, 23, fourth engineer, said the United States merchant ship went down about five minutes after the crew launched the lifeboats and the submarine, "undoubtedly German," then surfaced.

R A F Blows Crimping Hun Blitz In East

Strokes At Nazi War Industry Now Equalling Or Bettering Boche Raids Of 1940

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Allied airpower may be about to put an entirely new complexion on the prospects of the crucial clash with Hitler in Europe this summer.

Back at the time when the Nazi chief first unleashed his terrific air strength against the British Isles after crushing France and driving the Britons into the sea off the bloody sands of Dunkirk, many observers thought we might be about to see a demonstration of the theory that a nation could be defeated almost overnight by plowing it under with a ceaseless rain of bombs.

Marshal Goering was one of those who believed the German air force could achieve this awful goal.

But the ever self-confident Goering failed to make good his promise to his master, despite the horrors that the Nazi bombers poured over Britain. Had he devoted his energies exclusively to military objectives, the story might have had another ending.

To-day, however, Western Europe is seeing an entirely different application of air might by an Allied force which probably equals, and may exceed, the striking power of the Nazi air force of 1940. Current reports of the destruction of vital German industrial and military bases speak for themselves.

The ceaseless offensive being waged by the Royal Air Force is having a devastating effect which is bound to have a far-reaching influence on Hitler's plans for his great summer onslaught and his ability to carry out his grandiose plans for crushing Russia and then finishing off the Anglo-American brotherhood.

It is not suggested that the Allies are going to smash the Germans solely with air power, after the manner of Goering's dream of wiping out Britain two years ago. Still, their present offensive is one of the most promising developments of the spring. It's going a considerable distance in achieving results which a land invasion of Western Europe would hope to gain. This Allied drive is wiping out production of the war machinery which is absolutely vital to Hitler for use against the Russians. It is destroying bases which he would need for any invasion of Britain. It is bound to force him to withdraw airpower from the Russian front to defend his Western interests.

Weakening of the Nazi air strength in the Muscovite theatre will relieve the pressure against the Reds perhaps even more than as though the Germans were compelled to withdraw troops. The success of Hitler's blitzkriegs always has depended in great degree on his vast air power, and if his air force on the Russian front can be whittled down through withdrawals it will help the Red prospects vastly.

CHUNGKING, Ajril 29—(AP).—Chinese raids against Japanese positions in the East China provinces of Chekiang and Anhwei, hundreds of miles behind the most advanced Japanese lines, have caused considerable damage, Chinese Army dispatches said.

Japanese fears that the Chinese may be able to establish air bases in these provinces, within bomber range of Japan's big cities, have intensified operations there recently.

Gen. Giraud Reaches Vichy

Believed Safe From Hun, Laval Fearing Revolt

LONDON, April 29.—(CP)—A Free French source announced today receipt of word that Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, 63-year-old French officer who escaped from the German fortress of Konigstein had arrived in Vichy.

The General was reported to have escaped across the Swiss frontier and proceeded from that neutral nation to unoccupied France.

"We do not know yet whether he still is in Vichy France or has left en route for England" this source said, "nor have we received any confirmation that he has seen Petain'."

If he has seen Petain, this source said it was possible he attempted to persuade the old Marshal to cease the policy of Axis collaboration.

"Giraud definitely is anti-German," he said. "Members of his family have received letters in which he has urged them to resist German domination to the utmost."

Despite a large German reward and pressure on Vichy for Giraud's return, the Free French source said Pierre Laval was unlikely to hand the General over to the Nazis because "it would cause a revolution."

He expressed fear, however, that if Giraud stayed too long in Vichy he might "disappear."

A Detroit Bayonet Moving

1,500 Troopers Guard Negroes At New Tenement

DETROIT, April 29.—(AP)—Under a guard of more than 1,500 state troops and city and state police, Negro families today began moving their furnishings into the 200-family Sojourner Truth housing project, scene of rioting two months ago between negroes and residents of the surrounding predominantly-white neighborhood.

The troops, with bayonets fixed on their rifles, took up their stations before dawn.

Not until 9 a.m. however, did the first Negro family arrive with its household goods. The parents and two children rode in a taxicab ahead of the moving truck which was followed by an automobile carrying plainclothes police officers.

This little cavalcade entered the section without being disturbed.

State troops guarded the immediate vicinity of the 200-unit housing project, challenging all who tried to enter. Outside their lines were city and state police, patrolling streets to prevent any formation of large groups of protesting white residents. Mounted policemen were held in reserve. The city police on duty included both white and negro patrolmen.

VICHY COLONIES NOT FOR NAZI PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WARNS

U.S. Warships Troops In Near East

Will Block Any Axis Move To Use Vichy Land Says F.D.R.

By EDWIN STOUT
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP).—The guns of United States warships confronted Hitler and Mussolini in the Mediterranean today and President Roosevelt warned the United Nations would fight any Ax. attempt anywhere to use Vichy French territory for military bases.

In a detailed war report to the country by radio last night the President announced that American warships "are now in combat" in the Mediterranean and that American troops have taken stations in the Near East and Middle East — a fact which British commentators declared had been "one of the best-kept naval secrets of the war."

Mr. Roosevelt took cognizance of collaborationist Pierre Laval's rise to power in Vichy and declared the United Nations would not hesitate to act anywhere "to prevent assistance to the armies or navies or air forces of Germany, Italy and Japan.

At home he called all America to war—every man, woman and child. The price of victory, he said, is hard work, sorrow and blood.

He pledged the exercise of "all the executive power" at his command to prevent a spiral in the cost of living and summoned the country to harsh self-denial for a 'tough' and long war program that will reach a $73,000,000,000 yearly rate before 1942 is over. He spoke just after blanket price control was imposed on virtually everything Americans eat, wear and use.

Abroad, he gave this report on the war:

at the junction with the Burma Road.

One source put the Japanese strength at about 100,000 men, including 7,000 in armored fighting vehicles, on all the fronts in Burma.

Lacking manpower, planes and guns to withstand the crushing power of their foe, the Allies are resorting to every device to harass the invaders' spread-out columns, block their roads, snipe, counter-attack and raise every possible time-consuming obstacle.

The sole hope of those tired fighters against the fresh, increasing weight of men and machines against them was that the torrential rains of the mid-May Monsoon would bog the Japanese down before they could shut the door to free China.

The first gales and showers of the tropical storms which will drench Burma's valleys and spill the rivers over their banks already have come but even the Monsoon will be no help if the invaders first reach Lashio, where the railroad from Mandalay joins the mountainous Burma Road to China.

Reserve Army Force Cost $10,232,911

OTTAWA, April 29—(CP).—Expenditures on army reserve force units in 1941 were estimated at $10,232,911 in a return tabled in the House of Commons Tuesday for G. S. White (Con., Hastings-Peterborough).

The total included an incomplete item of $2,402,174 for pay and allowances. The 1940 total was estimated at $12,486,584. Pay and allowances for officers and other ranks of administrative and training staffs was $1,968,097 in 1941 and $1,955,512 in 1940.

The return said 214 officers and 446 other ranks were on administrative and training staffs of reserve force units.

He declared that as a result of tremendous losses, the German air force now lacked the overwhelming superiority which contributed greatly to Germany's first swift gains on the Russian front. In three weeks recently, he said the Germans lost 900 planes on the Russian front. That means the loss of 2,000 to 2,500 fliers, he added.

Red Star said Russian cavalry had hurled the Germans back on the flanks of their Bryansk front, in one sector, north of Bryansk, as much as 60 miles, and in another sector had recaptured seven villages and killed or captured the entire German advance force.

The Army publication said that in the far north the Russians had won an important height, killed 500 Germans and driven the Nazis from 130 defensive winter positions. On the Leningrad front the German 5th Alpine, 1st 11th, 61st, 217th, 225th and 269th Divisions were said to have suffered particularly heavy losses.

Leningrad front fighters have killed more than 1,600 invaders in three days.

of ashes," Exchange Telegraph reported in a dispatch from Zurich. "The number of dead far exceeds the Luebeck figure."

(Luebec was said to have been 40 per cent destroyed by R.A.F. attacks.)

The Stockholm correspondent of the Daily Express said roads leading south of Rostock were choked with tens of thousands of refugees.

He reported that firefighters still were at work in the city yesterday, the day after the last of the raids, and said "flames were still leaping hundreds of feet from the Heinkel (aircraft) and Neptune (shipbuilding) Works, and looters were being hunted in the ruins of the almost deserted city."

The News Chronicle reported that passengers on a plane which flew from England to Stockholm said the red glow from Rostock "was plainly visible" as the plan skirted the Kattegat, 250 miles away.

Besides 10 each from Rumania and Hungary, he said they would raise six from Italy—compared with less than three last year—and probably four from the anti-Communist "crusade" in Croatia, France, Spain and Norway.

Although the figures of 250 German divisions is a staggering one, it is reconcilable with estimates of total German armed strength, counting from boys of 16 to men of 50.

The limit of the German army is generally placed at about 9,000,000 men. Best estimates obtainable here put about 2,500,000 in garrisons from Norway to the Pyrenees and about 350,000 in the Balkans, Aegean Islands, Italy and Africa, leaving the rest free for the Russian campaign.

The Berlin radio claimed that dive bombers, attacking in several waves scored direct hits on floating docks, inflicted destruction on a coaling station, set a railway station afire and bombed a 10,000-ton merchantman and a medium freighter.

The German communique added that a "strong bomber formation continued destruction of military establishments on Malta."

PAPER CLUTTERS STREETS

There are apparently some people who don't give a hang about the kind of appearance the city presents. Waste paper is thrown about carelessly and thus mars the look of the otherwise clean streets. Just a little thought would take care of the matter.

Entering a written plea of guilty, Frank McMullen was fined $10 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning on a charge of driving an automobile without adequate brakes. It was explained that there had been an accident but not of a serious nature and the damages had all been settled.

The British policy of heavy bombings won cheers in the House of Commons to-day when Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary of State for Air, declared the recent terrifically destructive raids on Luebeck and Rostock exemplified the aim "to destroy the enemy capacity to make war."

Norwegians in London reported that a large number of submarines had joined the surface craft and that thousands of Norwegian and Danish laborers were working under German guards to convert Trondheim into a fortified naval base.

Fights between workers and guards were numerous, one said, but "most alarming of all from the German viewpoint is the extraordinary number of fires." Oil tanks, barracks and a depot containing nearly $1,000,000 worth of food for Nazi sailors were reported to have been destroyed by flames in the past few months.

"When the Prinz Eugen and the Tirpitz arrived, large numbers of German wounded were brought ashore and sent to German hospitals,' it was said.

The Prinz Eugen, torpedoed by the British submarine Trident in an action announced Feb. 26, still "lies with her stern grounded owing to the damage she has received," a Norwegian reported.

U.K. Ace Fighter Now In Burma

LONDON, April 29 — (CP). — Britain's No. 1 fighter pilot Wing Cmdr. Frank Reginald Carey, D.F.C. and Bar, is married to a petite English girl who spent her childhood on a farm near Brantford, Ont. She is working on the land here while her husband is busy shooting Japanese airmen out of the sky over Burma.

Carey, whose score of 40 official "kills" is five better than the mark set by Wing Cmdr. A. G. Malan, the South African ace, met his wife, who lived in Canada with an uncle and aunt, at a party in the country while he was taking his sergeant pilot's course.

"I had come from Canada on holiday, saw one Frank Carey—and I'm still here," Mrs. Carey said, recalling the whirlwind romance.

Carey went to France in May, 1940, and shot down 11 Nazi machines before he himself was shot down with a wound in the leg. He escaped further injury when bombs fell on the train carrying him to hospital.

During the Battle of Britain Carey was again wounded. He was shot down but he wouldn't bale out.

"He hates baling out," Mrs. Carey said. "He has always risked his neck at the last moment in the hope of saving his plane. He doesn't say much about his job, but he thinks the bomber boys are the great heroes of the war."

The Careys have a small daughter Anne, now at school near the place where her mother is working.

Famous Players Paid $5,500,000 In Taxes

The first annual report of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Limited, has just been released. In 1941 they paid out a total of more than $5,500,000 in taxes, including amusement taxes; $4,000,000 in direct wages to employees, and it purchased supplies in excess of $1,750,000 and newspaper advertising cost $825,000.

They have contributed to the national war effort by publicizing Victory Loans and War Savings drives. The Government pictures, "Canada Carries On," have evinced keen interest wherever they are shown. Pictures such as "Captain in the Clouds" and "49th Parallel" have made a deep impression in United States and other countries, according to J. J. Fitzgibbons, president, in his annual report.

Army Pay Being Watched House Assured

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, April 29 — (CP). — Assurance that pay and allowance regulations in the armed forces are being studied constantly and defects remedied was before Parliament today.

This assurance was given the House of Commons by Defence Minister Ralston yesterday, coupled with a declaration that there may be further improvements in the interests of those in uniform.

The House was in Committee on the War Appropriation Bill and Col. Ralston faced a barrage of suggestions, many of them calling for increases in both pay and allowances.

The minister did not give any commitment, but he told of various changes which had been effected to improve the lot of service men and their dependents and said that other defects would be corrected.

Col. Ralston was under examination by members throughout the afternoon and evening. Numerous phases of army and service activities were discussed and the minister, assisted by three uniformed officers of his Department, was kept busy answering questions.

A feature of the evening sitting was a barrage of criticism from Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) who read pages from the Government telephone directory to show the size of the Defence Department.

He protested that "brass hats" were drawing big salaries and spending much of their time "clicking their heels" about the offices or walking about the streets of Ottawa.

Col. Ralston said it ill-became a member to criticize those who had left their careers to serve their country in time of crisis and added that he had no apology to make for the large number of employees in the Department considering the growth of the armed services in the past 2½ years.

Some Pay Figures

The minister gave a list of salaries for every rank in the army beginning with the highest paid—Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the army overseas, who gets a total of $14,000 a year without extras.

Corps commanders received $10,585 with allowances for dependents; district officers commanding $6,205 with allowances; the chief of staff $10,000 without allowances, the adjutant-general and quarter-master general $7,300.

Prices Unchanged In Dairy Produce

The winter of the dairy calendar officially ends on April 30, and according to information from W. G. Ovens, manager of Campbell's Dairy, the consumers of dairy products are not financially affected by an changes coming into effect Friday.

"Peterborough is included in the dairy zone which extends from Toronto to the eastern border of the province," Mr. Ovens said. "Prices of dairy products have been set for the whole of Canada, applying to fluid milk, butter, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk."

Butter at present is selling on a wholesale basis at 36 cents. Some retailers ditribute it at 36½ and 37 cents, but others are taking a small profit selling at 39 and 40 cents a pound.

"The regulations provide for winter increase in the basic price of butter," Mr. Ovens said. "For next January the wholesale price will be advanced to 37¼ cents; in February 38 cents and March 38½ cents. The only change that I see is one affecting the dairy farmer. The government has withdrawn its 30 and 40 cent subsidy which has been paid since last December on milk used for local delivery and also for the supplies sent to the creameries."

Mr. Ovens said the subsidy was a seasonal aid, and its present cancellation is largely equated by lower cost factor which enters the industry when the cattle take to grass.

Bicyclist Suffers Cuts Hit By Automobile

Colin Jack, 18, of 274 William street, received cuts on the left leg and right elbow when he was knocked off his bicycle in a collision with an automobile at Simcoe and George streets last night. The bicycle was almost completely wrecked.

Jack, in company with Frank Pammett, 479 King street, also on a bicycle, was travelling north on George street and at the Simcoe street intersection his wheel came into contact with a car driven by Alex. Johnston 134 Robinson street, who was making a left turn to go north on George street, after travelling east on Simcoe street. The rider was thrown to the ground by the impact.

Pammett managed to swerve his wheel to avoid the collision.

HOW IS IT DONE?

There's more to being a soldier than just wearing the uniform. Under a scorching sun, the Prince of Wales Rangers and the Collegiate cadets chased each other up and down the field drilling. Different groups paraded around one another but surprisingly there never seemed to be any collisions.

Lindsay Sends Kinmount Aid

An emergency situation followed on the heels of the disastrous fire which wiped out the business section at Kinmount early Tuesday evening.

The emergency developed when the village stores were destroyed, along with several dwellings, so that families required food, bedding, and clothing. Officials at Lindsay took prompt action in the case, and rushed food and clothing to the stricken village.

A query at the County Buildings at noon revealed that the Peterborough County Council had not received any call for aid, nor had any steps been taken to send commodities. A small portion of Kinmount village is in Peterborough county, but the main section is in Victoria. Kinmount is 20 miles north of Fenelon Falls.

Order Padlocks U.S. Prices At March Highs

By WILLIAM NEEDHAM
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP)—A Government padlock forged in March will be placed on May 18 on the price of virtually every article that appears on the daily shopping list and rents in all war-boom towns will be battened down for the duration in the United States.

In a sweeping order coincident with President Roosevelt's share-the-war economy program, Price Administrator Leon Henderson last night announced prices would be held to their highest March levels and directed that rents in areas housing more than half the country's population be restored to their pre-boom scales.

Henderson estimated the universal price ceiling would knock retail costs about three per cent below to-day's levels. That is the amount of increase shown by April indices They still will be about 18 per cent above August 1939, however.

Labelled frankly as a framework for other anti-inflation measures yet to come, including higher income and excess profits taxes, vastly expanded rationing, wage stabilization and income limitations, the over-all ceiling exempts only a limited number of food commodities.

Hits Cost Of Living Items

The government's stop-rise order will be aimed at such "cost of living" items as tobacco, meat, canned goods, clothing, and packed household drugs, and Henderson estimated that housewives would find 60 to 75 per cent of all foods back at March costs when the universal ceiling takes effect in retail stores May 18.

Retailers will be required after

Woman Shoots Bear Raiding Her Sheep Pen

MARMORA, April 29—(ENS). — A remarkable feat was performed by Mrs. Robert Gray of Marmora Township on Monday evening.

Mrs. Gray, who is of short stature, and of a quiet disposition, resides with her husband at Shanick, in the northern part of Marmora Township. Recently a few lambs have been missing from their small flock.

Hearing a commotion among the sheep about 11 p.m. on Monday, and fortified with her husband's shotgun, she concealed herself within the barn. Soon in the moonlight she saw the form of a bear approaching the barn by a sloping path.

About fifty feet away, Bruin stood up on his hind legs and Mrs. Gray took aim that was sure, giving Bruin his last "tickle under the chin."

The victim was an old male bear, and describing his size Mrs. Gray said she could place the width of her two hands between his ears.

Marmora Women's Institute held a successful bingo in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening.

Miss Annie Knox, Reg. N., of Peterborough was a week-end guest at her home here.

HighSchoolAttendance Is Down 28 Per Cent

CAMPBELLFORD, April 29 (ENS) —The population of the Campbellford High School has dropped twenty-eight per cent in the past two weeks according to Principal E. H. Greig in an interview with the the Examiner on Tuesday. Reason for this sudden drop in attendance is that 54 students (27 of them girls) have been placed on farms through the Farm Service Force. They are mainly students who live in the country and are now helping parents operate farms throughout Seymour, Percy and Rawdon Townships. The first group left on April 17 and another left last week-end thereby reducing the school population to about 133 for the remainder of the term.

Service Station Is Robbed At Trent River

TRENT RIVER, April 29.—(ENS). —Thieves visited Trent River on Monday evening, breaking into J. L. They also broke the lock on one gas pump and removed some gasoline. They also broke into the Sedgwick House and ransacked the downstairs rooms and also broke into McLaughlin's garage, but were frightened away by the dog. Police are investigating.

C.G.I.T. Sponsor Successful Tea

PORT HOPE, April 29.—(ENS)— A most successful Come and Go afternoon tea was held by the Canadian Girls in Training group of the United Church on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school room.

The two leaders of this group, Mrs. Tom Bennett and Mrs. Cecil Moore are to be congratulated on the fine work they are doing with this group of girls and the result of their work was justified in the delightful way in which the girls conducted the tea, displayed ditty bag equipment, sold their handcraft and the financial success of the tea realizing $18.

Misses Margie Bennett, group president, and vice-president Joan Giddy were on the reception committee while Anne Haydon and Janet Dayman looked after the door finances.

From an attractive table centred with tall snapdragons in deep rose shade and lighted with green and yellow candles in silver holders tea was poured by Mrs. J. B. Reynolds, president of the W.M.S. and Mrs. George Ward, president of the Evening Auxiliary.

While the C.G.I.T. girls served, piano solos were played by Misses Martha Thompson, Betty Thompson and Joan Giddy.

A camp display was in charge of Marion Darling and Ada Harris. This consisted of posters, pamphlets and general camp literature.

A keen interest was shown the ditty bag display which consisted of the bag itself and its contents some of which were handkerchiefs, buttons, magazine, gum, candy, shoe polish, laces, writing pad, razor blades, tooth brush, dental cream, wool for mending, New Testament, wash cloths, gloves, comb, shaving cream and flashlight. This display was in charge of Janet Dayman and Marie Abrams.

A handcraft tables of 15-cent articles were displayed for sale and seemed to be very popular. This was in charge of Harriet Trawin and Mary McDerment.

547 Boxes Await Cheese Grader

CAMPBELLFORD, April 29 (ENS) —The initial visit of Federal Cheese Grader James L. Irwin began here last week a full three weeks earlier than in the preceding year District Dairy Instructor John A. Murray told the Examiner Tuesday. Grader Irwin found 547 boxes awaiting his inspection at the local grading station when he arrived, as compared to 419 boxes at the opening of the grading season on May 13 last year. All of this was the product of seven factories in Seymour Township, but according to Mr. Murray other parts of the County are experiencing similar early production. Both Roger Factory in Murray Towinship and Ideal in Percy, neither of which had begun production at this time last year, were last week receiving 1,000 and 6,000 pounds of milk respectively every day.

That perennial trouble known to the cheese maker as "rancid flavor" took its toll of cheese during the first week's grading when a number of boxes were marked down to 2nd grade. Said Instructor Murray, "Makers and patrons would be well to see that there is no rancidity about the whey or milk vats, milking machines, cans or pails if they are to supply our soldiers with the finest Canadian cheese and at the same time maintain last year's record."

The "No" Vote

On the whole Canada's reply to the plebiscite question was a decided Yes, but in our excitement over this triumph it would be stupid to overlook the fact that a large No vote was polled as well, and that by no means all of it came from Quebec. The report which is at hand as this is being written includes only Ontario, Quebec, the Maritimes and a part of Manitoba, and the record of No votes in these areas is interesting and disturbing.

Some people voted No because they have a rooted objection to any sort of compulsory military service; these, however, would be few, for such an attitude is uncommon save among members of small religious sects and people of uncommon independence of mind. Others voted No because they wanted to save themselves, or somebody in whom they were interested from being drafted; perhaps this group accounts for half the No vote in provinces other than Quebec. What of the rest?

Clearly this remaining group of No voters is made up of people who have no clear idea of what this war is about or what danger it brings to Canada. It may also include a generous percentage of Fifth Columnists, tools of Fifth Columnists, and disgruntled and disaffected persons who, for one reason or another, would like to see the United Nations lose this war and Hitler and the Axis win it.

The large No vote gives still more weight to the common charge that Canada as a whole is not awake to the immensity of this war. Clearly the majority of citizens know what is happening and know what they want the Government to do about it, but can they do their utmost with a weight of self-interested, ill-informed, or actively antagonistic people impeding their progress? The large No vote is clear evidence that, whatever the Government and the majority of citizens may do, Canada as a nation is not heart and soul in the war.

What is to be done about it? Although it is too soon to become optimistic, there are plenty of indications in the news these days that the Axis is in difficulties, and that, if the United Nations play their cards cleverly, the enemy can be brought to ruin sooner than we had dared to hope. If this is to be done everybody must support the national war effort to the limit of his ability, and no one must be permitted to throw a monkey-wrench into the works. Some effort must be made to win the No voters to a more whole-hearted support of the war-effort and to induce in them that frame of mind which made many people vote Yes when such a vote was against their merely personal interest.

As for the No vote in Quebec (for the foregoing is meant to apply only to the English-speaking provinces) it apparently means that the French-Canadians are going to stand pat, despite the efforts which have been made to persuade them to look at the question of conscription from a national, rather than a nationalistic, point of view. What will come of this it is too early to say. Certainly the problem which it creates is one of the gravest in Canada's history.

Don't Expect It Tomorrow

It may be as well to correct an error which, in common with a dozen other errors, has arisen from the plebiscite. The Government asked for a release from a pledge which it had given not to introduce conscription for overseas service. It made no promise that, if such a release were given, conscription would follow automatically. Sufficient stress has been placed on this matter, both in the press and in the speeches of the various political leaders, but even yet there seems to be confusion.

Canada, which has a small population, has now reached the point where she must choose between having a larger army or a larger production of war materials; she cannot have both. Men could be released for the army by putting women in their jobs, but this policy can only be pursued so far, and not nearly as far as a superficial observer might think. People who have a romantic idea of war imagine that the principal duty of a country in wartime is to get as many men in uniform as it possibly can; realists know that twenty men adequately supplied, are worth a hundred who are short of material. The object of the United Nations is not to overwhelm the Axis by sheer weight of numbers; numbers are useless without superior weapons and superior training. Their object, rather, is to put into the field the most efficient, best equipped army that the world has ever seen.

It is the Government's job to decide what best Canada can do to help in the formation of such an army. They may decide that we must have more men, to be supplied with material by our allies, and in that case we shall have conscription; on the other hand, the decision may be that Canada shall continue to make weapons and supplies for her own men and for those of her friends. The voting on Monday was not to bring in conscription immediately, and this must be clearly understood.

Frost As An Ally

Information now reaches this country about the appalling incidence of frostbite among the German troops on the Russian front. In his recent Reichstag speech Hitler made guarded general references to the Russian cold, and a fortnight or so ago he made an appeal on behalf of the Red Cross in Germany. Although every care is taken to keep large numbers of wounded from being seen in Germany there are more and more cripples to be seen in the streets of the larger towns, and many of these are frostbite cases.

The Russian estimates of the number of frostbite cases among the German troops put the number between two and three millions. These are astounding figures, but they seem more reasonable when we recollect the tales of German prisoners in inadequate clothing whom the Russians gathered in by the hundred, and of the Germans who were found literally frozen to the ground. A winter which will freeze a field gun will certainly freeze the man who operates it.

As the weeks pass it becomes more and more clear that Hitler genuinely believed that he could crush Russia before winter overtook him. There he made his first, and perhaps his fatal, mistake.

Trucks Not Pleasure Cars

Mr. G. R. Cottrelle, the Oil Controller, has had to issue a sharp warning to those people who are using trucks after work hours in order to take groups of people on picnics or to games; if they persist in this course they may have their commercial gasoline ration licenses taken away. "The situation is much too grave to justify any extravagance whatever," says the Controller.

In every country there are a great number of adults who never grow up. They live lives of normal span, and they take on, unwillingly, certain of the responsibilities of adults, but they remain children in heart and mind. But all their lives they play the childish game of seeing how nearly they can tax the patience of their guardians without being punished, and how closely they can shave rules without being caught. Their existence is one long attempt to shirk doing their duty without being caught by the teacher.

Mr. Cottrelle, who is the teacher in this case, has warned his class. They will lose their kiddie-cars if they persist in using them wrongly.

Power And Morality

In a recent speech in the U.S. Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of the Czecho-Slovak Government in exile, declared that the post-war world would have to be built upon a foundation of international power and international morality. This seems a fairly safe statement, whoever makes it, and we are more confident of the eventual good result of international power. We do not reject the concept of international morality from cynicism, but merely because it is too hard to define and too hard to enforce to be of much practical value.

We are able to define morality in a fairly complete and satisfactory way as it applies to the British Empire and the U.S., and we may add the Scandinavian peninsula with some confidence. These are predominently Christian and Protestant countries and their morality is a Christian one without the international quality of Catholicism. But who is going to define morality for Europe?, Who will codify the morality of Russia? What new morality will emerge in post-war Germany? Talk of morality as an international force was all very well in the days when one Church dominated all Christendom and when infidels were not expected to have any morality of any kind. Nowadays we must behave with circumspection toward all nations when we are at peace with them.

Germany, since the advent of Nazism has not behaved in a manner which is acceptable to our Christian morality; rather she has behaved with what we may call Greek morality, for her political behavior has been much like that of the ancient Greeks, who felt that any deception, any chicanery, was admirable if it was for the national good. Germany worked upon this principle, and without any restraint from ethical and moral thinkers as was not the case in ancient Greece. Japan, which has an admirable ethical code prescribed by its religion, has in fact behaved in a sneaky and treacherous manner, feeling that anything which was good for Japan was good in itself. Italy's behavior has been flagrantly opportunist, though the native humor of the Italians has always recognized it for what it was.

The aggressor nations in this war have all three taken the attitude that the end justifies the means in international relations, and this is a perfectly tenable and defensible position, though we may not agree with it. For this reason we feel that, in the post-war world, international power in the hands of the United Nations will be a far more practical instrument than international morality; power is easy to define, but morality is too nebulous a thing to be put on an international basis without destroying it.

Toys In Canada

Some interesting remarks were made recently by Harry B. Krug, who directs the manufacture of wooden articles for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, when he was addressing the Canadian Playthings Manufacturers. Mr. Krug was urging his hearers to forget senseless competition and the continual duplication of articles in their work, and he also drew attention to the fact that the making of toys in Canada was one of the few branches of industry which could improve its position without in any way interfering with the war effort.

There seems no good reason why Canada should not develop a thriving toy industry and keep it after the war ends. Until recently the best toys available here have been made either in England or in the U.S. These were clearly superior to the local products in design and execution. Although there is a large market for cheap toys, of inferior design and easily broken, many people demand playthings which are pleasing in appearance and sturdily made. The development of good taste begins early in life, and a toy which has qualities of good design and which can be played with for a year or more is certainly preferable to a succession of trashy toys which soon break and which are unsatisfactory because they only amuse for a few days.

Canada can make these superior toys as well as any country in the world, and if she can make them just a little better she will soon develop a profitable minor industry. As Mr. Krug points out, toys do not interfere with the war effort, and if manufacturers seize their opportunity they may soon make Canadian toys as highly esteemed as were formerly those of England, Germany or Switzerland.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A London correspondent reports that Goering is a very sick man. Degeneration, Fatty?

A cow in Kansas has eaten a roll of bills which her master had hidden in his haystack. Doubtless she gives rich milk now.

A forest fire in Germany has been blamed upon playing children. We did not know that children still played in Germany.

"Even in wartime Nature continues to smile" says a contemporary. Yes; although we are assured that the war has now reached "global" proportions Nature has wisely remained quite indifferent to it

BY A NORTHERN SEA

The moisture in the salt sea air
Tints verdure deeper in these woods
Than Nature is disposed to share
With lofty mountain solitudes.

Here mussel shells beneath the trees,
Dark blue inlaid with pearl, reveal
To what green-laden rookeries
The crowds and fish hawks nightly steal.

Spruce limbs that withered in the grip
Of northeast gales put on gray lace
To match the colors of a ship
Whose bones are withering near this place.

Great mounds of clam shells up the reach
Tell where the Indian tribes of old
Held festivals along the beach,
And silhouetted evening's gold.

Now motor boats disturb the bay
With racking sounds that never cease
To shout the passing of the day
Of birch canoes and primal peace.

The trees remain, the sea gulls call,
Bright ledges wait the rolling tides;
Machines press closer and appall,
But cannot ruin what abides.

'English' In Royal Navy

By JOHN ALLAN MAY in the Christian Science Monitor

SWEDE cracking is current on the oggin these days.

No, there is no misprint. But it does help to explain why those newly joining the service of His Majesty's Navy these days feel it is time someone in the Admiralty compiled a glossary of naval terms for them to study as part of their training.

The modern A.B. talks a language all his own and it is apt to be a trifle disconcerting if you do not happen to speak the same language.

Take this swede-cracking industry for a start—we might as well state at once that "oggin" is ocean and settle that bit—it is not an industry at all. Far from it. A swede cracker is the very opposite of industrious. For to "crack one's great swede down" is, in another phrase, to "get one's head down," or, in plain English, to sleep.

Then take this question of cooks (there always seems to be a question of cooks). A cook in the navy is not a cook. He does anything but cook. Or you might say he does everything but cook. Two cooks are provided by each mess each day and they clean the mess, get the food ready, serve it out and wash the dishes up ("dish up") to the navy. The chef does the cooking.

The nearest the cooks get to cooking is in making an awning (crust) for a pie, or in preparing the duff. "Duff" is pudding. Or, at least, that it what the cooks claim. Some of the more experienced hands are great duffmakers; others are just duffers. Like it or leave it.

IF YOU leave it, it becomes "gash" and one of the gannets will probably consume it. Gash to the navy is a very useful word. It can be noun or adjective. It means remnant, refuse, surplus, odds and ends, at a loose end, superfluous and what-have-you. Plain gash is put in a bucket and ditched over the side. But you can have gash duff, gash clothing, gash ideas, even gash ships. And, of course, gash buckets.

As we have already pointed out, there is always a gannet for gash duff. The term gannet is self-explanatory, anyway to anyone who has seen the original owners of the name darting down to the water by the ship's side to swallow anything swallowable ditched thereover. Nowadays the term can be applied to sailors, if they are not within earshot. Or, provided they are personal friends.

And talking of friends. You never have a friend in the Navy. You may have an oppo, a towny, a china, and someone may call you "bash" or "mush," but you never have a friend. The word just isn't known.

All the terms printed above have acquired more or less the same meaning, although on some ships they still preserve their individuality. Oppo is diminutive for "opposite number" and refers to a particular chum. Towny is strictly one who comes from the same town as yourself. China is from cockney rhyming slang and means china plate, hence mate. Bash and mush—the latter pronounced, if you care to pronounce it, moosh—are just friendly appellations.

LOFTY is a favorite term with which to address others. Strictly speaking it refers, of course, to someone very tall. But then sailors do not as a rule speak strictly. Lofty has come to mean anyone taller than you. The opposite is shortly. But if, like the writer, you are a medium height, you may be bewildered for a bit by being addressed as lofty by half the crew and shorty by the rest. If your name is Clark, however, you will, as everyone knows, always be called Nobby. But if your name is Watson you will, why no one knows, be called "Soapy," if Williams "Bungy," if Welsh "Paddy." These traditional names are endless.

There is one more word that it is imperative to know in the Navy. That is dhobey. It comes, so we are told, from the Hindustani, though why we are not told. It means to wash clothes.

The new-made sailor cannot refer to anything or anybody to find out what the rest are talking about. Which is a pity. One day he might be at a loss to interpret the statement that he had been "given a quiet number by the duffer, to make a kettle of kye for the bunting tossers."

He will have to worry that one out for himself. The writer is off to crack his whacking great swede down.

SIMPLE JUSTICE

PERHAPS we were over-optimistic in asserting that the war itself was its own incentive to work longer than 40 hours. That is immaterial, however, in view of the fact that labor has a financial incentive to work longer hours even if time and a half rates are dropped. Labor's position in this respect is not analogous to that of an employer lacking financial incentive to increase his efficiency. We have consistently urged equality of sacrifice in so far as that is possible in an industrial society in which there is inequality of income, of individual capacity, and of opportunity. Profits should be taxed severely, but not so severely as to hamper our industrial operations. Labor, likewise, should make its contribution to the war effort by foregoing some of the extra pay and extra bonuses that were never designed as production incentives, but really intended to serve as work spreading devices. That is all we contend, and that is not asking for a double standard for rich and poor, but simple justice for all.—Washington Post.

• Crisis Near In Burma

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Ominous new Japanese moves against both the right and left flanks of the British-Chinese front in Burma indicate a crisis there before the Monsoon rains come by mid-May to stall major operations and relieve pressure on the Allies.

London reports Japanese shipping in the Bay of Bengal, indicating a sea-borne attack on the British-held right flank. But the situation on the Chinese-held Eastern front is more critical.

Several factors should weighed in estimating the probabilities on that East front. Not the least significant is the indicated decision of General Stilwell, commander of the Chinese troops, to hold his ground in the Taunggyi-Hopong sector, nearly 100 miles south-southwest of the Nipponese spearhead.

Stilwell probably has fairly accurate estimates of the strength and composition of the Japanese forces which have by-passed the direct roads to Mandalay, which his troops guard, to strike at the Mandalay-Lashio railroad. The spearhead of that mechanized force apparently advanced 10 miles or so northward from Loikew in two days, meeting little resistance.

Two conclusions can be drawn from that. One is that the impending rainy season in Burma is now so close that Japanese hopes of breaking through to Mandalay by the Irrawaddy or Sittang River routes had been frustrated. The other is that the thrust at Lashio or any other point on the vital railroad east of Mandalay is not in great strength.

A desperate Japanese gamble with the weather is indicated. The winds have already shifted from the "dry" monsoon period in Burma to the "wet" currents blowing in from the Indian Ocean. That shift occurs in April, and before mid-May the torrential rains of the long wet season are due.

The speed with which the advance toward Lashio has moved indicates light mechanized forces. There are no roads in the Shan States of Burma adequate even in dry weather for rapid movement of heavy traffic. Indications are that the fast-moving mechanized units have cut loose from the main Japanese column in the Loikew area, following German panzer tactics.

Presumably Stilwell's troops in the Taunggyi-Hopong section are in a position to strike eastward in an effort to cut off the Japanese spearhead from the rear. His reported decision to retain that front even against the threat of wide encirclement from the east and north points to such an effort.

Once the rains start, Japanese troops composing the flanking force would be in great difficulties in any case. Either to supply, reinforce or withdraw them over washed-out and Chinese-destroyed roads would be all but impossible. They must reach Lashio or some other point on the Mandalay railroad east of Mandalay in strong force before the rains to escape the possibility of disaster.

LAVAL TO COUNTRYMEN

PIERRE LAVAL'S first appeal for French support of his new Government is precisely the appeal that one would expect to come from a renegade Frenchman whose very life now hangs on a German victory. He adopts complaisantly the whole Nazi theory of the origin and issue of this conflict. The French declaration of war in support of ravaged Poland was a "crime." Later Britain "deserted" France. The Germans are a magnanimous people: "they have never tried to humiliate France." (That is something for the record!) Democracy is dead. The only hope of France lies in "loyal participation" in Hitler's much-advertised but never realized "New Order."

In what must surely be an unsuccessful attempt to make the French people believe this gibberish, Laval uses again and again Hitler's own chief argument at this time—namely, that the future of Europe lies between national socialism on one side and communism on the other; that there is no other alternative; and that only the victory of Germany over Russia can save European culture from bolshevism. This arrant nonsense ignores the fact that it was Hitler himself who struck down Poland, the best bulwark against a western spread of Russian influence. It ignores the fact that democracies on three continents are making war on Russia's side against Hitler, because they see clearly enough where the real threat to their safety lies. It ignores the iron collar that Hitler has around Laval's own neck, a collar that clanks every time he moves his traitor's head. It ignores everything, in fact, except Laval's desperate need of any argument, however, fraudulent, that he can use to frighten a still rebellious France into coming obediently to heel at Hitler's boot. — New York Times.

MENCKEN HAD A WAY

IF there are people who wonder whether it's worth while to drive a car, with restrictions and regulations and shortages being what they are, they may find interest in something H. L. Mencken said the other day to an interviewer:

"I used to have a car of my own. Back in 1919 I drove it up in front of the Baltimore Sun building one morning and stopped at the curb. A cop came up and said, 'Hey, you can't stop here.' I said, 'Like hell I can't.' So the cop said, 'Well, you can't. We got new rules. We got a parking law now.' I looked at him in astonishment, then said, 'Nuts to that,' and got into the car and drove it around the corner and sold it. I've never owned a car to this day. I ride the streets cars or, if the weather's bad, I get a taxi."

Of course if everybody followed Mencken's example there wouldn't be room for him in the Baltimore street cars, or a taxi just waiting a call, but the incident shows what a man of spirit can do.—Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.... Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord. — I Cor. xv, 50-53, 58.

8,000 Burmese Rebels Are Aiding The Japanese

By DANIEL DELUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE BRITISH-CHINESE FORCES IN BURMA, April 14 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Possibly 8,000 rebellious Burmese are fighting openly in the Japanese ranks in Burma, helping an invader who already holds a big edge in manpower over the Allied defenders, and untold others are fighting surreptitiously in the defenders' midst.

The Burmese soldiers fighting for Japan and the hidden spies and saboteurs behind the lines are the products of some Burmese anti-British sentiment and the Japanese wily use of propaganda.

Since the retreat began from Rangoon, British forces have found Japanese-officered Burmese among their foe. These natives sometimes have fought recklessly, egged on by belief that tattoo charms, amulets and magic oath water assured them immunity from bullets.

Even more menacing, however, are the secret fighters for Japan, some of them in the yellow robes of Buddhist priests, who have been caught in acts of treachery from the green highlands of the China-Burma border to the cactus jungles of the Irrawaddy and the rice lands of the Sittang.

The Chinese have held many of them for military trial on charges of espionage and conveying information to the enemy. Patrols combing the woods of the Sittang valley have brought in as many as 38 armed natives dressed in priestly robes or silken skirts and operating in one gang.

After Chiang Kai-Shek

Maymyo, Burma's temporary capital, was bombed by the Japanese last week while Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek and his wife were there. Every major town they passed through was bombed. They took off to fly back to Chungking barely five minutes before nine enemy bombers appeared overhead.

Japanese columns cutting cross-country in persistent efforts to encircle British outposts frequently are helped by rebel villagers whose bullock carts are pressed into service to keep the invaders supplied with ammunition.

Up-country Burmese have started hundreds of fires in towns used by the Allied troops.

Japanese agents have tried to sway the peasants by telling them that salt and other necessities are sold now in enemy-held Rangoon at the lowest prices ever and by promising that extension of the Japanese conquest will mean a better standard of living for all natives.

SuccessfulBridge Winds Up Series

BETHANY, April 29—(ENS).—A very successful open party was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening last to close the spring season for the War Bridge Club. Proceeds were voted for Russian medical supplies.

The party included progressive euchre games followed by a dance and lunch was served. All who attended had a pleasant social time. Sixteen tables of euchre were busily engaged for about two and one-half hours and one table of crokinole was played. Ladies winning high score were Mrs. W. Byers and Mrs. Cumiskey tied and in the draw Mrs. Byers as the luck lady. High score prize for gentlemen was awarded to Mr. John Warne, a veteran euchre player who is 83 years old. Rev. E. Mason was asked to announce results. He also gave a brief outline of monies raised for the Red Cross in Manvers township.

The War Bridge Club has been organized for two years with twenty members. Altogether $450.00 has been raised by different events and it will continue for the duration.

May 2nd has been named as tag day for the Blind. Manvers, Cavan and Hope townships will likely make it an outstanding effort this year on behalf of those living in darkness.

Mrs. Alfred Driver is spending this week the guest of her daughter, Doris, in Toronto.

Miss Lila Davis was a business visitor to Lindsay last week.

Marmora Girls Are Hosts To Mothers

MARMORA, April 29—(ENS).—A 'mother and daughter' banquet held at the home of the leader, Mrs. W. P. Fletcher on Wednesday evening marked, in an auspicious manner, the closing of another successful year for the Pals group of the C.G.I.T. The program opened with the singing of the National Anthem led by the president, Joyce Kouri. The girls repeated their purpose and this was followed by a sing song. An appropriate poem, 'My Mother,' was then given by the president, Mrs. B. Hughes of Belleville, chairman of the camp committee, followed with an inspiring talk on 'What is C.G.I.T.?' Games were then played under the direction of Mrs. T. Dickson. One of these was 'Name the tune,' in which Miss P. Steer acted as pianist.' Miss B. Soutor, of Belleville, provided good entertainment for the gathering in showing some excellent technicolor pictures of last year's C.G.I.T. camp at Madoc, also some movies depicting the royal tour through Canada and the United States. After this showing a vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Hughes and Miss Soutor by the vice-president, Isobel Nayler. A lovely lunch was served by the girls and the meeting closed with taps.

The visiting ladies from Belleville were accompanied by Miss M. Lashbrook. The president and a few other girls will be leaving the group this year owing to their promotion next fall to a higher Sunday school class. They look back over the past year's program with feelings of deep appreciation and hope equally splendid times are ahead for the personnel of next seasons group.

W.M.S. Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's United church was held at the home of Mrs. H. R. Haacke at Deloro on Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance of members and visitors. Reports were received from the secretaries of departments and a splendid talk by the temperance secretary, Mrs. D. Sanderson was followed with close attention. It was decided to have the bale ready for the May meeting. Reports of the highlights of the recent prebyterial convention held in Napanee were given by Mesdames W. J. Pack, C. Wallbridge, F. S. Sweet, H. R. Haacke and W. P. Fletcher

The worship service was conducted by the president and a special Thankoffering service, 'Foward through the ages in unbroken line was presented by Mesdames Fletcher, Haacke, Wallbridge, Sproul, Sanderson and Pack. Lunch was served by the committee at the close.

Friends Honor Ralph Hanbridge

EAST EMILY, April 29—(ENS).—A large crowd of people from this community gathered at the Bethel United Church on Tuesday evening when the members of the Y.P.S. and the W.A. held a joint meeting. The evening was in honor of Ralph Hanbidge, R.C.A.F. Ralph, who has been training at Portage La Prairie, is spending two weeks' leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hanbidge.

Miss Ruth Worsley had charge of the meeting and opened in the usual way by singing a hymn, followed by prayer led by Rev. R. M. Patterson.

Harry Jackson read the Scripture lesson. Misses Doris McCarrell and Ruth Casey sang a duet. Miss Hilda Darling gave a guitar selection. Rev. R. M. Patterson favored the audience with two solos. Miss Evelyn Ruth gave a recitation. Misses Audrey and Alta Boate sang a duet.

Ralph Hanbidge was then asked to come to the front when Mrs. Oswald Ruth read a very fitting address on behalf of the W.A. and the Y.P.S. and Jack Bailey made the presentation of a beautiful Air Force ring.

Harry Jackson read an appropriate address on behalf of the Sunday School class for which Ralph was a valued teacher, and Edmund Ruth made the presentation of a beautiful case of stationery.

A group of the young people presented him with a two-pound box of chocolates, Mrs. Edmund Ruth reading the address and Earle Guthrie making the presentation.

Ralph made reply in his pleasing manner and all joined in singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

The ladies served refreshments, and the meeting closed by wishing Ralph good luck.

$35 Weekly Average

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP).—Present wage levels, which President Roosevelt would stabilize, are giving workers in manufacturing industries in the United States an average of $35 a week. Labor department records show this average weekly earning in January represented an increase of 25.4 per cent over January, 1941. The increase is due in part to overtime.

Marmora Gathers 5 Tons Of Salvage

MARMORA, April 29 — (ENS).—The salvage work launched by Principal E. C. Prentice and scholars of Marmora Public school some months ago made further strides on Friday. The barn to the rear of his residence presented an animated and bustling scene in the evening as with the aid of Councillors R. E. Neal and V. Lynch and senior scholars of the Public and Separate schools and other voluntary workers. Sorting was being carried out of newspapers and old clothing and household articles the result of "Salvage Day" exceeding all expectations. The rough estimate was that 5 tons of salvage had been collected and said the perspiring commander-in-chief, "I think there is more to come in yet." The village council arranged for the collection which yielded four truck loads of paper and seven truck loads of metals. The proceeds of the sale will be given to the Marmora war workers.

TAMBLYN
Suggests Skin and Hair Protection

At this season of the year we just cannot resist the urge to be outside and often without weighing the consequences of over indulgence. The result in many instances is that due to the Sun and Wind we too quickly acquire sunburn or windtan and our skin and hair suffer. There is no question that exposure to the Sun and Wind does rob the skin and hair of their natural supplies of oil and so if we are going to spend all possible time in the open we should make sure that we employ sufficient protection to the Skin and Hair. With that in mind your Tamblyn Drug Store this week has set up exhaustive displays of Beauty — Skin and Hair requisites and we recommend that you visit us as we are sure you will find some very worth while Aids to Beauty and at such economical prices as prevail in our list of

Toronto Teams Lead CBA Plays

TORONTO, April 29 — A mixed team representing the Bowlaway Alleys stepped into first place in that event in the Canadian Bowling Association annual five-pin championships last night at Olympia-Gerrard Alley. The Bowlaways comprising Tiny Baker, Kay McAllister, Hal Kellett, Tommy Sutcliffe and Hoppy Hopkins turned in a smashing 4,026 total to easily take over top place. The count was higher than that rolled by the leading all-male team, American Dry, who hit 3,962.

Sutcliffe counted 876, Hopkins 857, Baker 816, McAllister 741, Kellett 736.

In the mixed doublees Vic Colville and Olive Morrison of Hamilton rolled into second pace with 1,594. A head pin in the last box of the final game prevented Colville from rolling enough to overtake the leaders. Mae Beynon and Charlie Demelis of Toronto finished in third place with 1,571.

FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND FANCOTT

The Story.—Peggy Mack, 17, is the busiest girl in Canada on her first week-end party. Invited with her sister Myra and brother Michael to the country place of Ferdy Lorton, she is dropped into a snarl of tangled affairs and immediately takes over. Her project is to win the lovely Fay Ransom for Michael in spite of Nigel Monkhouse, who also loves her, and Baldy Brien, her manager, who is trying to take her back to her former successful Broadway career. Peggy also is trying to persuade Baldy that she, too, belongs on Broadway.

CHAPTER XII

Myra yawned, stretched her arms toward the sun, feigned casualness. Baldy, preoccupied though he might be with the problem of getting Fay back on his bread and butter list, was a shrewd customer, Myra decided. If her younger sister had made an impression on him, she must counteract it without betraying more than a detached interest in Peggy.

"Plenty of pretty girls around," said Myra. "Why worry about losing one, even if her reputation is built up in show business? The woods are full of talent. Look at Peggy, for instance."

Baldy, his cigar chewed to pulp, sputtered as he jerked it from his mouth to speak. "Listen, sister. I seen so many pretty faces in my time it gives me a positive pleasure to look at yours." He flicked the cigar into the lake and continued:

"In show busines, pretty faces are a dime a dozen ,you get so you'd rather have a stein of beer any day. When I was a kid I liked molasses, couldn't get enough of it until one day my mother leaves a gallon crock around and I eat until I'm sick. After that I don't touch it and if I see the name in print I feel my stomach turn. That's the way with pretty faces when you've seen 'em coming and going like me in show business—just a bunch of bugs around a street light. The fact that give a movie fan a thump in the ticker gives me a pain in the contract.

"And that's why I like you—honest to goodness, plain downright homely."

Myra looked at him with a doubtful expression. "Easy on the compliments, brother."

"Them's not compliments, them's facts. If I'd kept out of show business maybe I'd married a nice homely girl like you, maybe I'd have a nice cozy job and a home and a couple of kids."

His voice drifted off with the suspicion of a break in it, but he recovered himself.

"But no! I go into show business. I marry a pretty girl and what she do? As soon as she gets the contract to love, honor and obey, she walks out on me, and that's the way with all of 'em."

"All of them?" said Myra. "How many have you married?"

"Don't get me wrong, sister. After the third try I quit. But I got a talent for managing talent and that's what I mean. They're all the same, get a contract and they change their minds. I shoulda bought a ball team—they got no minds to change. But no, I pick on girls and they got to be pretty girls and there ain't a doll in this world who wouldn't give a 60 per cent cut to be managed by me. I make 'em, see. I build 'em up, I put 'em on the top of the heap and keep 'em there and believe me, sister, do you know what nightmare wakes me up in the night sweating, I'm so scared?"

Myra shook her head sympathetically.

'You wouldn't," said Baldy. "It's glamor girls, glamor girls, hundreds of 'em, smiling at me in my sleep with hunks of white teeth, perfect teeth, and blue eyes, black eyes, sweet as sugar, and I jump up screaming in the middle of the night."

"Well," said Myra. "That certainly is a point of view."

"It certainy is," said Baldy, "And believe me the time is coming, sure as blondes follow brunettes, and vicey-versa, when a girl with a pan like yours will get up on a floor and knock 'em cold."

"You leave my face alone," said Myra. "Look at the landscape instead."

Baldy glanced around at the serenity of the tree-bounded lake in the sunlit morning. "I wouldn't give you two cents for this in a picture postcard," said Baldy. "Give me a smoke fog over Pittsburg in a nasty rain in winter. That's beauty, that is."

Myra glanced over Baldy's beautifully tailored play suit, painstakingly immaculate, the collar pressed carefully open at the throat and even the short sleeves knifed with a sharp crease.

"You don't look as though you dress to your beliefs."

Baldy gave a grunt of disgust. "That's show business. You got to put on a front—splash it on. Wear a pair of pants twice and the boys think you're on the way out and, after a touch, and you can't get near 'em."

With a snap of his fingers Baldy jumped to his feet. "Sorry, sister, I got to be going. You're a nice kid, you are. Wish there was more like you. Where's that kid sister of yours, with Fay? I got to get that girl. There's a girl for you. Character, she's got. Character and what it takes; best looker in the business and what a voice! Knocks 'em flat. I got Benny Blatter from Hollywood all fixed up to spot her on her first reappearance with Johnny White and then you'll see me play 'em for a contract. Play 'em like fish, I will," he planned excitedly, "one against the other till their pockets sweat the dough. She'll really go places, then. I'll swing her up where she can't quit even if she wants to. That's what you gotta do. Dream up a contract that'll fix 'em so long they'll never be able to wriggle out of it."

Myra let her fingers trail in the water by the wooden wharf. She could see through the clear greenish water under the shadow of the wharf down to the clean sand of Hardly had the announcement been made that the Peterborough Hockey Club had decided to enter a team in the City Softball League than Ken Colling of Belleville bobbed up with a virtual challenge from the Reliance puck chasers for a game or series of games between the hockey outfits. It looks as if the Quinte scribe has something on the ball at that in the suggestion he makes in the following: "Just as soon as Archie Major and his Reliance softball contemporaries heard that the Peterborough Hockey Club had entered their provincial championship hockey team into Peterborough softball circles as a unit, Archie and the gang are reported to have been thinking up schemes whereby they might arrange a series of softball games between the Liftlock City pucksters and the Reliance rubberchasers. "If the Reliance challenge the Petes, let's hope they are better at softball than they were at hockey," was the sly comment Skipper Barriage remarked when discussing the incident last night. Such a series for war charities should prove most profitable, as well as provide entertainment for Belleville and Peterborough sports fans. We'll bet there's nothing catcher Reg Chipman would like better than to toss Don Crowe or Bun Kingdon out trying to pilfer second, while Archie Major would like nothing better than to face the Petes on the local pitching slab. It looks like a natural for a holiday war charity fixture."

It looks once more as if Kingston is going to be the only baseball oasis in Eastern Ontario this summer. According to Bill Walshe it is expected that if the problem of transportation can be solved the Kingston Ponies will again have an entry in the Interprovincial League. Bre'er Walshe reports that the Limestone City has plenty of senior material and that the policy of encouraging younger players has paid rich dividends. Minor league ball has been looked after in Kingston with encouraging results. If the Interprovincial venture fails to go through Kingston fans will still have baseball as a Senior City League has already been organized with teams from the Aluminum plant, from the Locomotive works and No. 3 Military District, along with a Kingston city club under the guidance of the well known veterans Vinny McQuaide and Bob Elliott. That should provide plenty of competition and keep the diamond game alive.

Indians In Front

That swishing noise you hear comes from the American League and signalizes the onrush of the Cleveland Indians who yesterday won their ninth game in a row and incidentally flashed out in front of the loop race, thanks to Eldon Auker and the St. Louis Browns who stopped the Yanks cold. The youthful pilot Lou Boudreau has the Indians rolling right along and while it is too early to say definitely whether or not this is a mere flash in the pan, at least Boudreau must be given credit for what he has accomplished so far. Cleveland's win yesterday was at the expense of the A's and Jim Bagby, although yielding 13 hits went the route to win his fourth game without a loss. The Indians won 6 to 4 at the expense of Knott and Christopher. Auker's pitching for St. Louis was too much for the Yanks. The submarine hurler held the Yanks to six scattered hits and would have had a shutout if he had not fired a home-run ball to Tommy Henrich. Red Ruffing gunning for his third straight win yielded seven hits to the Brownies who won out 3 to 1.

Meanwhile the Boston Red Sox stopped the blazing career of Hal White, former Bison who had won two straight games for Detroit without being scored on. The Red Sox won the argument over the Tigers 6 to 1, with Detroit making four boots. Jimmy Foxx cuffed a homer with one on and that blow would have been enough to give Boston the win in view of the mastery Charlie Wagner had over the Tigers batters. Cagey old Buck Newsom pitched Washington Senators to a 4 to 3 win over the Chicago White Sox although he gave up nine hits as against six registered by Washington off the delivery of Smith.

Inter-sectional clashes began in the National League yesterday, too, but it did not seem to make any difference to Brooklyn. The Dodgers maintained their winning ways by handing the Cincinati Reds a 7 to 3 beating. Whit Wyatt failed to go the route but Casey came in to save the day and get the credit for the win. Riddle who is having all kinds of trouble getting anywhere this season was the losing Red twirler. With Tost and Nicholson on the rubber Boston Braves defeated Big Bill Lee and the Chicago Cubs 6 to 3. Nicholson and Holmes came through with homers during the engagement. The Pirates who have been rolling along nicely had no trouble smothering the Phillies to the tune of 7 to 1.

Threaten To Quit

Hockey is evidently not the only game in which they battle over the refereeing. Manager Dave Nichol of the Victoria Dominoes is hot under the collar over the work of the officials in the second game of the Dominion senior basketball final series won by the Montreal Oilers last night 42-32. Apparently the Victoria squawk was based on the idea that the referees, two Montrealers, were unnecessarily strict. Anyway Nichol says that the Dominoes want officials who know how to handle a senior game. "Those fellows acted as if they were handling a bunch of kids," the Victoria manager complains. And then he proceeds to make himself and his team look exactly like that when he declares that unless new referees are appointed for Thursday's game the Dominoes won't go on the floor. If that is not kids' stuff it is so close to it that there would be little use arguing about it. It is admitted Tuesday's game was rough and apparently the officials did their best to keep the boys from murdering each other. If they were strict they apparently had every reason to be so.

If there are any softball pitchers in town who would like to play this season with a bunch of good fellows in the City League they are invited to get into touch with the Peterborough Hockey Club team which is entering the local loop. The hockeyists are well fortified in every position except on the mound. They can fill both infield and outfield with members of this year's champion Senior B outfit and put up a strong front all along the line but they lack pitching strength and would be glad to hear from any heaver willing to help them out in their quest for the City League honors. The hockey softball team would have been all right in the pitching department if Cec Shears, the Owen Sound hockey and softball player who was with Chesterfields last season had remained here for the winter campaign. He would have fitted into the hockey picture and would have been just what the Petes need now in the softball line.

Connie Mack of the A's is 78 while Lou Boudreau is less than one-third of that age, 24 to be exact....They are still playing hockey in the King Clancy minor league series in Toronto....Sam Snead, golfing star has applied for enlistment in the United States Navy ....There is a triple tie for third place in the National League with New York, Chicago and St. Louis all even up with seven wins and the same number of losses.

A FINAL REMINDER

Yes, fellows, this is the last time I will be able to warn you to be prepared for the scout craft show, as the show opens next Tuesday; yes, and I am wondering how many of you have got your craft work ready. One young man phoned in this week and asked if he could put in some poster he had painted and some over work he had done. Yes, sure you can, we want to see just what our boys can do, even though they may not be on the lists we gave out. Let us see just what you can do, let us know your hobbies, let us make this hobby or scout craft show a credit to Peterborough. Yes and more than ever a credit to you boys, who now represent Scouting in this city of ours. And to our friends of scouting, we extend to you a very hearty and cordial invitation for you to visit our craft show in the Market Hall on Tuesday, May 5, and will continue on Wednesday and Thursday. Your visit will be appreciated and by the way there is no entrance fee. Just come and join us.

ST. LUKE'S ANGLICAN

The pack travelled to another jungle for their last meeting, when they met with the Mark Street boys for a practice of the scout craft activities. On this Tuesday, the pack will entertain their parents around the council rock. So, Dad and Mother and all your friends, come along and join the fun.

There will be a preview of the craft work that the cubs have prepared for display at the scout craft show that is being held next week in the Market Hall. So, cubs, don't forget to bring your models along. And Dad and Mother, we will be ready for you at 8 p.m. Tuesday evening, April 28.

On Thursday, April 30, the Cubs will meet at Baloo's at 6.30 p.m. to travel over the trail to St. Andrew's where a group practice will be held and as this is the final practice before the show goes on next week, every cub is asked to attend.

ST. ANDREW'S

The groups working with the St. Andrew's troop will meet in St. Andrew's Sunday School at 7.30 p.m. on Thursday next to have their final practice for the coming scout craft display. The boys from All Saints', Murray Street, and the Sacred Heart are asked to be on time so that a real good practice can be gone through.

On Sunday next, May 3, Saint Andrew's group is holding a church parade in the evening, and extend a cordial invitation to every pack and troop to join with them in this service.

The groups will meet on Reid street at the back of the Sunday school and will proceed to the church from that point. A special service will be conducted by the group chaplain, Rev. Dr. Young.

WITH HIS MAJESTY'S FORCES

Another Peterborough scout has joined the active forces. This time we are proud to state that Eddie Pinn has joined the Navy. Ed left on Thursday by C.P.R. for Kingston where he had to report, but expected to be posted to some other depot at once. Rover scout with St. John's crew, Ed started on the trail years ago as a cub, and has never been off the rolls since. For the past two or three years Ed. has been with the De Laval Co. in the machine shop. His trade will serve him well as he is now on the roll as an artificer. We sure wish him the very best of luck and success.

GROUP DISPLAYS

It has been suggested that those groups who can, will be given a space where they can put on special displays in the craft show. For instance we know that St. Luke's cubs are making arrangements to display their sixers' corners and other equipment. How about it, scouters? What have you to offer? If you want space, get in touch with Akela Butcher.

DOWN AT ST. GEORGE'S

We are indeed very pleased to be able to report increased activities with every department being brought into working class.

On Sunday last the troop and pack held a church parade, with members of St. Luke's (2nd Armour) pack and troop in attendance. The group paraded to St. George's Church in commemoration of our patron saint, St. George.

The service was conducted by the group chaplain, Rev. Mr. Moore, who gave an inspiring sermon on the Motherland. During the service, Rev. Mr. Moore spoke on the scout movement and promised to give his whole support to the scout movement in the district and especially to the group chartered under the auspices of St. George's Church, this promise giving confidence to the officers and group committee in the future progress of St. George's scouts and cubs. One item of encouragement is the appearance of uniforms among the boys. We regret to note the absence of St. John's cubs and scouts on Sunday as they had promised to give us their support, but no doubt other events interferred. The idea that St. George's are inactive can be shelved, our charter has been placed upon the wall and our registration papers duly signed by the group committee. The officers feel that although the numbers at present are small the quality is good and we hope that you will be hearing from us more often in the future.

At 8 o'clock p.m. sharp on Friday next, May 1, the parents of the cubs and scouts and those who are interested in this work are requested to attend a meeting, being held in the basement of the Church, at which we trust to do some re-organizing of the Mother's Auxiliary and if necessary, increase the membership of the group committee. At present, the following men have stated their willingness to work and have placed their names on the roll: Rev. Mr. Moore, chairman; Mr. Parry and Mr. Lackie.

Good going, St. George's; we can assure you that all the Scout Association is behind you and wish you good scouting.

AT SACRED HEART

Three more names were added to the World Brotherhood of Scouting as C. Dionne, E. Mills and H. Shaughnessy made their scout promise before their brother scouts at a very impressive ceremony held in the Sacred Heart headquarters last week. We wish these new scouts, good scouting.

During a hike on Saturday, several boys got busy and passed some of their tests. Michael Crowley passed fire-lighting and scouts' pace; J. Doyle, fire-lighting, cooking; Geo. Freeman, fire lighting, cooking, scout's pace and compass; B. Hayes, scout's pace.

Victor Cremasco has completed his tenderfoot tests and will be invested on the night of the parents' banquet Tuesday evening, April 28, 1942.

All preparations have been completed for this occasion; the banquet will be held in the basement of the church at 7 p.m. followed by a program in the troop headquarters. All scouters and friends are invited to attend. Please phone Scouter Dominik for reservations.

CRAFT NOTES

The chairman of the craft registration committee has requested that all entries possible will be taken to the Market Hall between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. on Monday next, May 4, so as to eliminate any congestion on Tuesday. Entry blanks will be obtainable from Scouter Dominik at that time. Please cooperate on this matter.

AT THE SCOUT GROUNDS

Several members of the St. John's troop were out at the camping grounds over the week-end and report that several good size trees have been cut down and are laying their while it appears that several others have been carted away. This is the third or fourth time tree cutting has been reported, and we feel that it is time some investigation is done by the grounds committee.

Don't forget the scout craft show at the Market Hall next week.

Niagara Area Favors Sunday Ball

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 29. —Despite a protest from the local Ministerial Association to the City Council, Sunday baseball is gaining strong support in this city, and officers of the Falls Baseball Association and the two senior clubs are being urged to schedule some Niagara District League contests on the Sabbath. Agitation for Sunday play is being boomed in industrial concerns and many business houses, and latest reports are that petitions will be circulated throughout the are asking the city fathers to open the park for these matches.

Council members have taken no sides in the matter, because of not having receeived any request from the baseball leaders, but with such strong pressure being brought on the senior club heads and local association bosses, it's safe to surmise that the centre's governing body will be asked to permit the games on the seventh day of the week.

Western Coach Protests Two Referees

MONTREAL, April 29—(CP). — Montreal Oilers defeated Victoria Dominoes 42-32 here last night to tie the best-of-five Dominion senior basketball final series at 1-1. Three disqualifying fouls were given out in the rough battle, two of them to the Dominoes, and after the game Manager Dave Nichol of the Victoria squad announced he would lay a complaint against the referees. The officials were Frank Ulley and Chuck Malis of Montreal.

Demand New Referees.

"The way those two refereed," Nichol said, "is small town stuff. Montreal is a big city after all. Unless we get new referees for Thursday's game we won't go on the floor."

Nichol said his team was used to playing under United States referees, "referees who know how to handle a senior game. Those fellows acted as if they were handling a bunch of kids."

The Dominoes kept up their offensive and three baskets by Art Chapman and one by Baker gave them a 14-8 lead near the 16-minute mark. But the Oilers began to shoot more accurately and by half-time time they had cut the Victoria lead to 17-16.

The teams split about evenly in the first ten minutes of the final half, but when Ferraro gave the Oilers the lead the western team seemed to be stopped cold.

Ferraro and Bloomfield were the leading scorers on the floor with 12 points apiece. Pacing the Dominoes was Art Chapman with nine points, while Norm Baker tallied eight and Ritchie Nichol scored seven.

Third game of the series will be played here Thursday, with extra games tentatively scheduled for Saturday and Monday.

DODGERS OPEN WESTERN INVASION BY TRAMPLING REDS 7 TO 3

Indians Smite A's 6 to 4 Ninth Straight

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Brooklyn Dodgers are marauding through the National League like a heard of steers in a cornfield—and are proving just as hard to corral.

They have trampled their foes in 12 out of 15 games and seem to have rattled their opponents by the commotion of nine different starting lineups in two weeks.

Yesterday they opened their first western invasion by blasting Cincinnati Reds off their feet with six runs in the first three innings and won easily 7-3. Dolph Camilli returned to his station at first base after five days of illness and on his first time at bat smashed a home run over the centrefield fence at Crosley Field. It was his third of the season and came with one on base.

Whitlow Wyatt, who had hurled only seven innings in spring training and nine at Boston last week, said his arm was lame and retired for a pinchhitter in the top half of the second inning. Hugh Casey held the Reds to five hits after that.

While this was going on Cleveland Indians attacked Philadelphia Athletics for a 6-4 victory, their ninth straight, and took over exclusive possession of first place in the American League when St. Louis Browns ended a nine-game losing string by beating New York Yankees 3-1.

Cleveland's conquest was a loose-hitting affair in which each side collected 13 hits, but it went into the books as Jim Bagby's fourth triumph without a defeat.

Auker Stops Yanks

The Yanks were torpedoed by the submarine slants of Elden Auker, who allowed only six hits including a homer by Tom Henrich. Red Ruffing, in meeting his first defeat, gave the Browns eight safeties, but four were in succession in the sixth inning and two more, both doubles, came in the ninth.

Boston Red Sox closed within a half-a-game of third place in the junior circuit by downing Detroit Tigers 6-1. Broadway Charley Wagner gave the Tigers a six-hit diet and although the Red Sockers made only seven, one of these was a two-run homer by Jimmie Foxx and in addition they were helped by four Detroit errors.

Washington was also held to six hits by Lefty Ed Smith of Chicago White Sox, but brought Buck Newsom a 4-3 victory when Mickey Vernon homered in the eighth and Bob Repass doubled the deciding run home. Newsom gave nine hits to his former teammates.

St. Louis Cardinals captured a 5-4 decision from New York Giants on Johnny Hopp's double in the 10th inning and moved into a three-way tie with the Giants and Chicago Cubs for third place in the National league. Bill Werber helped the Cards get two of their early runs by making two errors in one inning and the Giants got one back when Umpire Lou Jorda called a balk on Harry Gumbert with the bases loaded.

Boston Braves cuffed Chicago Cubs 6-3 with a 12-hit attack directed principally at Bill Lee, previously unbeaten, and Pittsburgh Pirates pounced on Philadelphia Phils 7-1 in 13-hit foray.

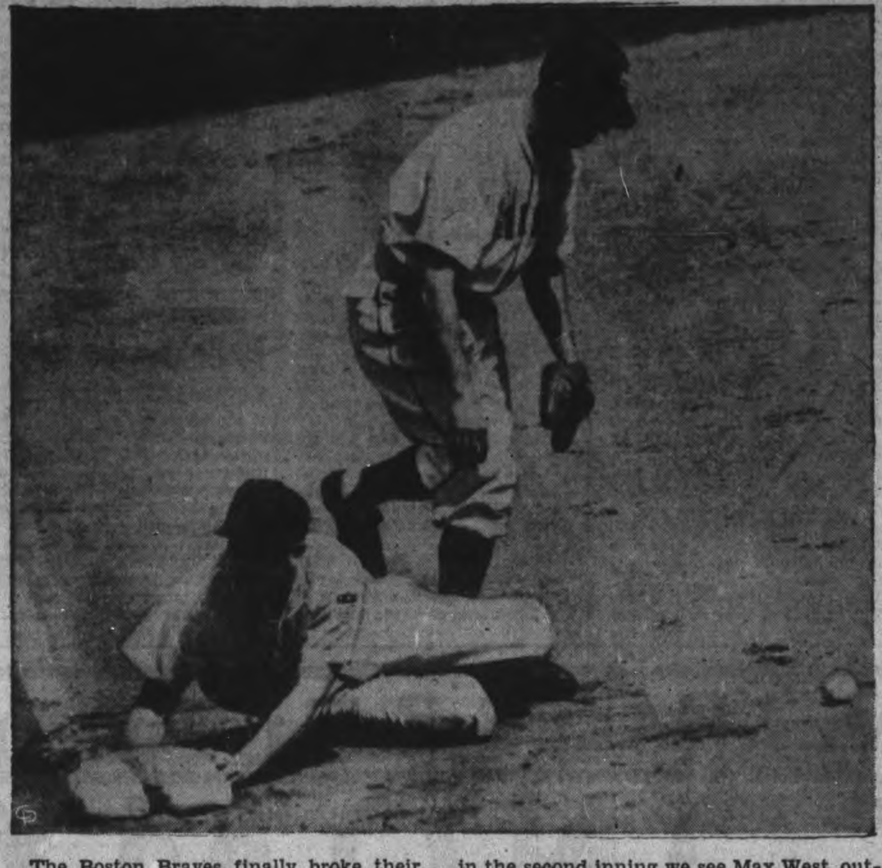
Braves' Outfielder Steals A Base



The Boston Braves finally broke their eight-game losing streak by defeating the New York Giants by the score of 3-2 at the Polo Grounds in the first game of a double-header. The Giants held a four-game winning streak before the boys from Beantown halted them. In this action that took place in the second inning we see Max West, outfielder of the Braves, who stole second base, and when Catcher Danning's throw to Second Baseman Witek went astray, West broke for third and, as you see, made it with plenty to spare. Third Sacker Werber, of the Giants, waits for the ball.

5 N. York Tracks To Donate $500,000 To War

NEW YORK, April 29.—(AP). — New York's five major race tracks took definite steps yesterday toward a substantial contribution to the war effort—perhaps as much as $500,000.

Representatives of Jamaica, Aqueduct, Empire City, Belmont Park and Saratoga Tracks voted unanimously that "each should give as a war contribution the first $100,000 carried as profit and before payment of a dividend."

Joseph L. Corn, public relations director for the five tracks, said no decision had been made as to the distribution of the money the tracks would contribute.

"First," he said, "it will be necessary to see what profit is realized by each track after payment of taxes and all expenses. Each association, presumably, will decide where it wants its share to go."

It was impossible to estimate accurately just how much money would be turned over to war agencies under this plan. There was no certainty that $100,000 profit would be realized by each of the five tracks.

However, Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York State Racing Commission and of the executive committee of the Turf Committee of America, said he believed the figure would be not less than $400,000.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 29.—(CP)—It may be a long time before anyone knows the real story behind Toronto Maple Leafs' decision to part with Gordon Drillon. It can't be as wretched as it sounds.

Known facts are these: Drillon is a nice guy who doesn't backcheck and can't carry a puck through a good defence. He can score. Last season his record was 23 goals, 17 assists. He was the club's highest scorer and second (one point behind Syl Apps) in total points. Without Drillon's scoring, Leafs might have finished fourth or fifth, instead of second.

But in the Stanley Cup finals he was benched. He was booed by small boys in the district in which he and his wife lived—small boys who had been his friends all season and proud of it. Stones were thrown at his windows one night by a band of shouting hoodlums.

Reasons for benching Drillon were not announced. If they concerned only his playing, the punishment (booing, rock-throwing) was overdone because everyone knew all along that if Drillon did any puck-carrying or backchecking it was strictly gravy, not on the regular program. If there were something else, the public should have been told. From the facts at hand, it appears his case was treated with exceptionally poor taste.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, April 29 — (AP). — Times do change Dept: Two games in the Texas league were postponed Monday night, one because the visiting team's uniforms didn't arrive on time and the other because the visiting team didn't arrive . . . The Dodgers had to go west in two sections because there wasn't room for all of them on one train . . . The Rochester ball club, travelling from Baltimore to Syracuse, had to take coaches to Philadelphia and then could get only 16 berths for 23 players . . . Looks as if lack of transportation might cause baseball more trouble than lack of players . . . The housing problem in Washington is so bad that Stan Spence and George Case of the Senators slept in the clubhouse the other night.

For Old-Timers Only

John Miljus, whose wild pitch ended the 1927 world series, is director of athletics at an aviation plant in Hawthorne, Calif., and Fred (Firpo) Marberry has joined up with an aviation company in Dallas . . . Jimmy Delmont, 11-year-old grandson of the famous old-time bantamweight, boxed in the 80-pound finals of a tournament in Boston the other night.

Babe Ruth claims all he said was "look out for the Pirates" and he really figures the Dodgers will win the National league pennant.

See Devil Diver Possible In Derby Guess

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, April 29.—(AP)—This is just about the durndest Derby you ever saw or heard about.

Here is it four days before the pick of the nation's three-year-olds take off in Col. Matt Winn's $75,000 mile and a quarter gallop at Churchill Downs and not one of 16 or 17 probable starters stand out enough to warrant anybody going overboard hook, line and sinker.

At this stage a year ago Whirlaway had caught the fancy of hardboots and invader alike. A year before that it was Bimelech, then Johnstown, Fighting Fox, War Admiral and so on back. True, the horse of the hour didn't always win but at least he was rated the horse to beat.

The nearest thing to a standout today appeared to be Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver but nobody was shouting his name to the four winds.

En route to Derbytown, we heard only one mention of the son of St. Germans and that by the stewardess of our plane. But she didn't even know when the Derby was going to be run.

The ticket agent said he'd like to have a bob or two on Alsab. That was before Al Sabath's 1941 juvenile champion trailed home by three and one half lengths Emerson Woodward's Valdina Orphan and Warren Wright's Sun Again in the mile of the Derby Trial yesterday.

It's not hard to understand why Kentuckians like Devil Diver. No. 1 is the fact he'll be ridden by Eddie Arcaro who grew up in nearby Newport. Eddie did a right smart job of winning with cantankerous Whirlaway last year after taking the 1938 running with Lawrin.

And with other owners willing to gamble $500 on a wide open race it all figures up to the largest field since the Admiral whipped 19 others of his age in 1937. It also may mean a new high in wagering for Derbytown since the boys and girls have been contributing quite liberally to the iron man in these parts this spring. The record is $2,098,701 bet on the day Bubbling Over won for E. R. Bradley in 1926. Last year's figures were close to the $2,000,000 mark.

N.Y. Rangers Not In Market

NEW YORK, April 29—(CP). — Lester Patrick, manager of New York's National Hockey League Rangers, said today the club is "not in the market for players" right now and no plans will be made for next season until after the league's annual meeting in Toronto next month.

"There's no sense in talking about plans for next season yet," Patrick said, in commenting on a report from Toronto last night that Coach Happy Day of the Maple Leafs is in New York trying to arrange a deal with the Rangers for Gord Drillon, right winger.

Patrick said he had learned of Day's presence here, but he believed the Toronto coach was on a vacation.

KINGSTON, April 29—(Special).—Plans are well advanced for a busy baseball season in Kingston, with a four-team city league assured, a juvenile league and an entry in the inter-provincial senior circuit with Hull, Ottawa, Smith's Falls and Buckingham, if transportation can be arranged.

Orioles Shade Royals 2-1; Chiefs Lose 5-2

By The Associated Press.

Usually when a team gets off to a bad start it takes time before it can right itself. But not Baltimore. The Orioles lost their first three games to Rochester Red Wings and dropped to the cellar of the International League.

Since then, they have won eight of their last 10 games, including yesterday's contest with Montreal Royals which they won 2-1.

The winning runs came in the eighth inning. With the bases loaded, Pitcher Jack Kraus walked Hal Seiling to bring in the tying tally. Then, after George Staller fouled out, Kraus passed Sammy Bell to force in the winning run.

The victory moved the Orioles to second place in the standings as Syracuse Chiefs lost to Buffalo Bisons.

Cuban Tom Delacruz, who defeated Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition game and who won his first two International League starts, was pounded for seven hits in five innings as Buffalo defeated the Chiefs 5-2.

Jim Levy of tre Bisons applied the crusher to Delacruz in the fifth with a home run with a mate aboard.

The Rochester-Jersey City game was called wit the score 3-all at the end of the ninth in order that both teams could catch their trains.

Babe Ruth was just making a name for himself in baseball when the Boston Red Sox refused a $100,000 offer for his services 24 years ago today. Two years later, the home-run king went to the New York Yankees with whom he eventually became the highest-paid player in baseball.

Marmora Couple Celebrate Golden Wedding

MARMORA, April 29—(ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. John E. Moloney of Marmora Township celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday. All of their married life has been spent on the farm on which they still reside with their son Edward.

Their marriage took place in Madoc on April 25, 1892, the officiating priest being the late Rev. Father Davis. Mrs. Moloney is 78 years old, while her husband is 77. Both are members of the Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, although Mrs. Moloney has been unable to attend for the past few years owing to ill-health.

On Saturday after attending Mass at Sacred Heart Church celebrated by Rev. H. J. Farrell Mr. Moloney ojined Mrs. Moloney and other members of the family and a few close friends at the home of their son Richard, where a sumptuous dinner was served. It was from this residence that their wedding was held fifty years ago.

The children are Mrs. Michael Shannon, Marmora Township, Mrs. Charles Ferenbach, Marmora Township, Richard, Marmora Township, and Edward at home. There are nineteen grandchildren.

not entirely to be blamed on the present population, they have failed to understand that their homeland can no longer be defended at home. Our own isolationists have been faced with the same bitter lesson, which some of them have learned and some have not.

"But while Quebec was voting nearly three to one against the draft for foreign service, the Dominion as a whole was voting two to one in favor of it. Unless Canada is to subdivide her democracy until every village makes or refuses to make its contribution to the war according to the will of the local majority, the Monday vote must be taken as conclusive. It will bring problems, and one hopes that the Ottawa government will be able to persuade where it has the power to compel."

The New York Sun, saying yesterday that the plebiscite "in itself teaches a lesson in political honesty that was sorely needed," commended the Mackenzie King government for its method in seeking release of its pre-election promise not to resort to conscription for overseas service. "Such scrupulous behavior in these days is heart-warming," said the paper.

that date to post public lists of the ceiling prcies on "cost-of-living" items.

Wholesalers and manufacturers prices will be affected May 11. Begining July 1, rates charged for "retail services"—such as garages, tailors, laundries, dry cleaners, and shoe repair shops—likewise must revert to the March base.

Mr. Henderson paid a marked tribute to Canada for leading the way in universal price control machinery, frankly admitting he was copying many features of the Canadian system and profiting by the mistakes, experiments and experience of the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"We have have a fine working arrangement with our Canadian friends and the closest exchange of information and experience and we may safely guess that will continue," he told his press conference. Henderson was accompanied at the conference by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Co-operation Demanded

Although emphasizing that he expected business to co-operate generally, and that stress would be placed upon government administration rather than policing, Henderson called attention to penalties permitting the office of price administration to put violators out of business.

All stores and wholesalers selling products covered by the ceiling automatically will be licensed by the government, and after one warning, O.P.A. through court action, may have a violator's licence suspended. In addition, the emergency price control act provides for fines of not more than $5,000 or a year's imprisonment, or both; civil suits for treble damages, and licence revocation.

Eggs, fresh vegetables, milk products, (except milk and ice cream) flour, mutton and lamb, live animals, fresh fish and seafood, game and used automobiles are among the few items specifically exempted from the price ceiling.

"Services" not affected include prices charged by barbers and beauty shops, professional fees, wages, insurance and underwriting premiums, public utility rates and advertising fees.

No ceiling was fixed on raw agricultural commodities, but O.P.A. emphasized that, in general, costs of such items are fixed at the time of their first processing.

The United States now has "several hundreds of thousands of fighting men at bases and battlefronts thousands of miles from home.'"

"American warships are now in combat in the North and South Atlantic, in the Arctic, in the Mediterranean, and in the North and South Pacific. American troops have taken stations in South America, Greenland, Iceland, the British Isles, the Near East, the Middle East, the Far East the Continent of Australia, and many islands of the Pacific."

Swarms of American bombers will soon attack Axis Europe.

There have been serious losses in the Orient, but there is good reason to believe the southward drive of the Japanese has been checked. "Australia, New Zealand and much other territory will be bases for offensive action—and we are determined that the territory which has been lost will be regained."

The situation in Burma is serious. The Japanese may cut the Burma road. But "no matter wh. advances the Japanese may mak ways will be found to deliver ai planes and munitions of war to the armies of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

"For every advance that the Japanese have made since they started their frenzied career of conquest, they have had to pay a heavy toll in warships, in transports, in planes and in men. They are feeling the effects of these losses."

In Europe, the Great Russian offensive is "destroying more armed power of our enemies — troops, planes, tanks and guns— than all the other United Nations put together."

Gloom in Axis

Defeatism is slowly spreading in the Axis countries. The Germans and Italians have "a growing conviction that the cause of Nazism and Fascism is hopeless."

Mr. Roosevelt said the Mediterranean area is receiving "vary careful attention," voiced concern that the new Vichy regime might force the French people "to submit to Nazi despotism," and issued this warning:

"The United Nations will take measures, if necessary, to prevent the use of French territory in any part of the world for military purposes by the Axis powers. The good people of France will readily understand that such action is essential for the United Nations to prevent assistance to the armies or navies or air forces of Germany, Italy and Japan. The overwhelming majority of the French people understand that the fight of the United Nations is fundamentally their fight, that our victory means the restoration of a free and independent France—and the saving of France from the slavery which would be imposed upon her by her external enemies and her internal traitors.

"We know how the French people really feel. We know that a deep-seated determination to obstruct every step in the Axis plan extends from occupied France through Vichy France to the people of their colonies in every ocean and on every continent.

"Our planes are helping in the defence of French colonies to-day, and soon American flying fortresses will be fighting for the liberation of the darkened Continent of Europe."

Covers Dakar, Madagascar

The President's reference to "every ocean" and "every continent" would cover the bases at Dakar and Casablanca, two potential threats to the Allied supply routes in the south Atlantic. It would cover the island of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean, reportedly coveted by the Axis to disrupt the supply lines to the back door of the Middle East and to imperiled India. And it would cover all French islands in the Pacific which flank the vital U. S. supply routes to Australia and New Zealand.

Moreover, the United States is ready to order its fleet into action against French naval units, just as Britain did at Oran in 1940, if Vichy placed the ships at the disposal of the Axis.

On the home front, the President said "every single person in the United States is going to be affected" by his seven-point national economic policy of heavier taxes, price ceilings, stabilized wages, rationing of essential commodities, and widespread investment in war bonds.

"The price for civilization must be paid in hard work and sorrow and blood," he said. "The price is not too high. If you doubt it, ask those millions who live today under the tyranny of Hitlerism."

He warned businessmen their profits would be cut, their incomes slashed by punishing taxes. He notified labor it would have to forego higher wages. He told farmers price ceilings are being placed on their products.

"I know the American farmer, the American workman, the American businessman," he said. "I know they will gladly embrace this economy of sacrifice—satisfied that it is necessary for the most vital and compelling motive in all their lives—winning through to victory."

Army Pay

Col. Ralston told questioners that steps had been taken to ensure full dependent allowances for wives who live outside Canada, and for the wives of Canadian Indians.

Wives living in the West Indies had not been receiving the full basic $35 a month allowance because cost of living there was considered to be lower. But that had been remedied.

Wives of Canadian Indian soldiers had not been receiving their full allowance but that also had been remedied and if they did not receive the full amount it was being credited to them by guardians of the Indians on reservations and would be available to them.

Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) and Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South) led the argument in favor of increased allowances for dependents to meet the higher cost of living, and for some form of extra compensation to provide soldiers with a reserve of funds when they leave the army. Col. Ralston did not make any commitment on this point.

John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) made a number of protests, chief of them a repetition of the charge that soldiers called up for compulsory service in Canada were "browbeaten" into joining the active army.

Ralston Denies It

Col. Ralston said he would repudiate that charge in the "strongest possible terms." He repeated what he told the House some time ago, that only one case of that kind had been proven to him and he had taken firm disciplinary action.

Mr. Diefenbaker asserted that if all Canadians had responded to the call to service in the same proportion as had the Indians of Canada, there would have been no need for a plebiscite nor for any pressure to get recruits.

In view of that, he protested, on behalf of the Indians, at regulations which he said set them apart from other soldiers in the matter of using refreshment centres and in other ways. The minister did not cover that point in his reply.

During the discussion it was revealed that members of parliament serving in the armed forces overseas do not receive any allowances for their dependents.

It was also indicated by Col. Ralston and Navy Minister Macdonald that discussion are under way to bring into conformity the pay and allowances of the navy personnel with those of equal rank in the army and air force.

Thomas Reid (Lib. New Westminster) made a plea for greater recognition of military bands which he said were more or less discouraged at the start of the war.

Col. Ralston said that bands now had been authorized in personnel and instruments for every active unit, and for advanced training centres, and instruments but not special personnel had been authorized for basic training centres. The matter of trade pay for bandsmen still was under consideration.

Atlantic against the formidable battle squadron in Trondheim fjord.

Enemy ships now known to be at Trondheim, which lies 400 miles northeast of the Shetlands, include the 35,000 battleship Tirpitz, the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, the eight-inch gun cruiser Admiral Hipper and Prince Eugen and a flotilla of destroyers.

An informed source who was recently on the Nazi frontier, declared German Admiral Erich Raeder must use this squadron to reinforce the U-boat campaign against shipping and attempt to cut the northern supply line to Russia "before the weight of the new British and American naval tonnage is brought to bear this summer."

The Illustrious, damaged in a seven hour attack by German dive-bombers in the Mediterranean 15 months ago, was repaired at Norfolk, Va., and recently returned to service in home waters.

British naval circles are optimistic over the ability of the Royal Navy to deal with the Germans. One commentator said that "if the Germans risk a fleet action they will be utterly destroyed."

Destruction of five of 20 bombers in the York raid constituted one of the most impressive records of Britain's defenders against nocturnal marauders on a percentage basis.

Reports from York said some of the raiders released their bombs from low levels and then machine-gunned streets and shops.

20 Buidings

but the blaze was extinguished before much damage was done. The railway agent, Bob Blair, said his home burst into flames and the roof and walls were partly destroyed before the bucket brigade could extinguish the fire.

The hotel offered the flames a good hold and from this point the fire spread with startling rapidity. Hopkins hardware store was reduced to cinders and the grocery store operated by Fred Mark fell an easy prey to the rampaging fire.

A. W. Robson, editor of the Fenelon Falls Gazette, returned from the scene of the fire late last night and told of the destruction wrought by the flames among the group of frame and brick buildings.

"Everything went like matchwood," he said. "There was little that could be done to contain the area of the fire. The bush back of the village was ignited, but that was put out after a battle."

Buildings razed to the ground, in addition to the Central Hotel, were Claude Austin's radio store, Thompson's groceteria, H. C. Douglas' drug store, Poulson's bakery, MacDonald's barber shop, Fred Mark, groceries, Gordon Mark, drygoods, Mac's Cafe, J. Chalmers, ice cream parlor; Mrs. Harry Austin's home, the old English Church rectory, and Melville Poulson's home. Fred Woodcock lost all his possessions when fire destroyed his apartment over the cafe. Several old sheds and a livery stable also went up in flames.

A dense pall of smoke covered the district for hours, adding to the discomfort of the sweating volunteer fire-fighters. Only one person suffered injury, a fire-fighter receiving a wound to his hand. Some of the storekeepers and householders managed to save pieces of equipment and furniture, but for the most part the contents were a total loss.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

OFFICIALS STAYS HOME

With the baseball season opening in Toronto today, several civic officials were disappointed in their intentions to attend, because there are so many meetings on tonight.

IT'S TRUE.

This story is going the rounds, although the man in question emphatically denies that it is the truth. It seems that there was a little matter concerning the delivery of 52 pounds of maple syrup which had to be carried in from the truck. Forgetting to make a record of the delivery, he was completely at a loss to explain what had become of it, for some little time.

HOT WORK.

It would be interesting to know what the two men on George street were thinking when they tried to load a heavy metal filing cabinet on to a truck. The difficulty occurred when they started to load it and they finally had to take the cabinet apart in the middle of the road, and remove the papers from every drawer.

AN EARLY START.

The Parks Board staff was busy this morning cutting the grass in Victoria Park, one of the earliest manicurings the sward in that beauty spot has received. It is usually about the second week in May before the lawn mowers go into action in the city parks. The tulips in the large bed at Victoria Park are beginning to bloom, too for another record of its kind.

READ THE NEWSPAPERS

Corner grocery store owners are complaining that customers just don't seem to have any idea of the new laws concerning delivery of groceries. A storekeeper cannot deliver any groceries, under one dollar order except fresh meats, which are rated as perishable goods. For instance if a person phone in an order amounting to 80 cents the groceries cannot be delivered. The penalty is severe.

STAMP SALES

Sale of War Savings stamps at the Collegiate for the past week, amounted to $255 and sale of certificates added another $104 to the war chest.

GRENFELL MISSION FUND.

The annual appeal for subscriptions to the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission is now being made. Mrs. G. R. Langley, 239 Burnham street, and the Examiner office, are receiving the funds.

PATRIOTIC PULLET

G. A. Brethen of Hillcrest Farm, Norwood, brought an egg into the Examiner office this morning, which was marked with a perfect "V" at one end. The letter even had the brackets at the top of the two arms. A white leghorn hen produced this unusual egg.

WARNS PARENTS

Many young men from the west-end of the city are using .22 rifles in the vicinity of Jackson Park, and are killing song birds. Action will be taken soon to curb this practice, and many of the parents who can ill afford a $50 fine will feel pretty bad if they do not heed this warning, and see to it that the rifles are not used on birds.

MILITARY FAMILY

Norman Hamlin has enlisted with the Canadian Army Service Corps. He is the youngest son of Herbert Hamlin, Dixon's Lane, and was formerly employed as a taxi driver by Hugh Davis. His uncle, Pte. P. C. Hamlin, a cousin, L.-Corp. Bernard Hamlin, and his brother-in-law, L-Bdr. R. A. Hall, all of this city are now serving with Canada's Active Army in England.

SPRING ON THE RIVER

Spring has hung a curtain of soft green along the Engleburn shore seemingly much earlier than usual. It extends from the C.P.R. bridge all the way up to Riverside Park. Almost overnight the willows have decked their branches with a pastel color of Spring across the river from the eternal fire which Alderman Sullivan undertook to extinguish as a new member of the council. This morning it was pluming a heavy black smoke against the background of the willows by the river.

City Garbage Collection

The co-operation of all householders in the city is sought to Improve the Garbage Collection service.

The Collector is endeavouring to make early collections and householders are asked to place their Garbage out for collection by 7 o'clock in the morning. This will assure prompt collection.

CNR Announces Port Hope Line Will Remain

The Peterborough - Port Hope branch of the Canadian National Railway will remain in operation after April 30, according to a decision of the administrative board received today from J. P. Johnson, Toronto, general superintendent.

The information came to the local offices of the C.N.R. and also to the Chamber of Commerce which had given energetic leadership to district petition to the C.N.R. not to discontinue the service on the old line through Millbrook in the new and troubled circumstances which have sprung out of the progress of the war.

Mr. Johnson's letter to J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, included this statement: "I am in receipt of brief telegraphic advice instructing that the service between Peterborough and Port Hope be not discontinued after April 30, 1942.

"I take this opportunity of getting this word to you at the earliest date as I know you will desire to convey it to parties that are interested, and who were good enough to attend the conference with us at Peterborough."

All the facts relating to the petition which was submitted to the C.N.R. by representative citizens from local municipalities from Port Hope to Lindsay have been published, especially the emphasis which was placed on the urgency of reconsidering the order to abandon the line as a result of the loss of the sources of rubber supply in the Far East and also because of gasoline shortage.

The municipalities of this district made this appeal with full sincerity and some anxiety about possible results of the action the C.N.R. intended to take on the order of the Board of Transport permitting the company to abandon and tear up the branch line from Peterborough to Port Hope through Millbrook.

It is understood that representations were also made to the C.N.R. about the passenger service over this line, and that possible improvement of present accommodations and convenience will be pressed further. One of the suggestions relates to the holding of the noon train for two or three hours in Peterborough to avoid the long wait at Port Hope for people from this city going to Montreal on the evening C.N.R. train along the lake front. That is only one phase of the service which was mentioned to the C.N.R. executives on their recent visit to Peterborough but it was given considerable emphasis.

"The decision of the C.N.R. to continue their full service through Millbrook is a life saver for us," P. I. Bentley, secertary of a citizens committee told the Examiner by telephone this afternoon.

"The news is a great relief to all of us in Millbrook and is keenly appreciated. Without the C.N.R. we would be isolated without the railway because we have no bus or truck transport. I don't know what the people of Millbrook would have done if the service were discontinued.

We also appreciate the support the manufacturers of Peterborough and the Chamber of Commerce gave to this appeal. I think their help made a deep impression on the C.N.R. executives at the meeting in Peterborough a few weeks ago.

At the same time I feel that we could take a little credit to ourselves for our agitation last fall to persuade the company not to take immediate advantage of the Board of Transport's order. We understood that the company intended to abandon the line at the end of December. The extension to April 30th gave us all time to see the seriousness of the situation that was developing and to urge upon the C.N.R. that they reconsider their intention.

Millbrook has a thoroughly satisfactory freight service from the C.N.R., but we feel that there is room for improvement in regard to the passenger service. Now that we have had a glimpse of what the loss of the railway would mean to us we ought to consider whether we can work together as communities in an effort to do something to increase the use of the C.N.R. between Lindsay and Port Hope, especially in our own section. Our citizens will be ready to do their part if some organization is formed for this purpose, and personally I think some one should start it."

Chamber's Appreciation.

"As president of the Chamber of Commerce, it was with a deep sense of pleasure that I learned of the decision of the C.N.R. officials to continue the use of the Peterborough, Millbrook, Port Hope rail-

Cub Leader Is Leaving City

Akela Frank R. Pammett, Cubmaster of St. John's Wolf Cub Pack, who is also Battalion Orderly Room Corporal with the Prince of Wales Rangers (AF), will be leaving the city shortly after many years of service in scouting in this district.

Mr. Pammett first entered the sphere of Peterborough Scouting in 1934 as Assistant Cubmaster of St. John's Pack under the leadership of the late Akela Bill Coleman and served in this capacity until 1930 when he was made Cubmaster to succeed Akela Gordon Clegg, who resigned this position in order to fill the position of District Cubmaster. Cpl. Pammett has seen continuous service as Cubmaster for the past five years with St. John's Cub Pack, and is well known in the city as one of the most capable Cub leaders in this district.

In 1937 Akela Pammett attended the Cub Leaders' Course at Ebor Park and received his Wood Badge, later being granted a Warrant for faithful services to Cubbing. He has been instrumental in conducting several local Leaders' instructional courses and has always been actively engaged in all local Scout activities for the last eight years.

Due largely to the untiring interest and hard work of Akela Pammett, St. John's Wolf Cub Pack has enjoyed the privilege of being widely recognized as one of the best Cub Packs in this district, and it is with deep regret that Mr. Pammett leaves the Pack to answer the call to duty with His Majesty's Forces, of which he has been a member for the past eighteen months while still continuing his Scouting activities.

During the absence "for the duration" of Akela (Cpl.) Frank Pammett, St. John's Cub Pack will be under the capable leadership of Mr. Bernard Hogg, and Mrs. J. Collis, who will carry on the splendid work and keep high the traditions of St. Johns Pack in the Cubbing circles of the Peterborough district.

All Cubs belonging to St. John's Wolf Cub Pack are asked to turn out to the Pack meeting this Friday at 6.30 sharp to say farewell to their Akela, and to welcome George St. and Murray St. Packs who will be their guests on this occasion. Remember to bring in your entries for the Cubcraft Show on Friday night when you come.

$190 Is Needed To Complete 17th Donation

For a number of consecutive nights, four different cities with no military objectives in Britain have been heavily bombed, with rescuers having to work hours clearing the debris in order to release those who have been thus imprisoned, and either killed or injured. A distinct call has been made to all who can do so, to lend a hand in helping those who survive to get cured of their injuries and a fresh start in a new home. There is no better way that residenst of this city can do this than through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

Another five hundred pounds is the best and quickest answer that can be given to this latest example of German inhumanity in bombing hospitals, schools, and old people who, through sickness, were seeking health in Bath, and to make this possible only another $190 is now needed with part of it already in sight.

The spotlight for to-day's list for the fund once again centres on Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parker of Norwood, who are now engaged in selling tickets for a draw on three articles donated by Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Dew of Toronto, and have already, in two payments, realized a total of $23.50 on this effort, with more to follow, and will be brought to a close with a social affair on behalf of the fund to be held in Norwood at a later date. This brings the grand total that Mr. and Mrs. Parker have raised to help the victims of air raids in Britain up to $916.09, a feat anybody might well be proud of.

The Anglican Young People's Bowling League recently held a banquet for the members with the customary distribution of prizes, and from a collection taken at this function the fund is to-day richer by $8.53, which was received from Miss D. Groombridge, the treasurer of this group.

Last Saturday night the draw was made for a tablecloth which was donated to the fund by Mrs. O. Church, the sale of tickets for which had been sponsored by the Star of Bethlehem, L.O.B.A., by Mrs. Stan Cummings at a bingo game held in the Orange Hall, and the winner proved to be Mrs. L. Bass of Port Hope Highway, the holder of ticket No. 29, the lucky number drawn.

Previously acknowledged	$40,518.93
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parker, part proceeds of draw for three prizes donated by Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Dew of Toronto	22.20
Anglican Young People's Association Bowling League, proceeds of collection at banquet, per Miss D. Groombridge	8.53

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 29 — (CP).—Six hundred fat market hogs, valued at $16,000, were lost early today when fire destroyed the piggery of Charles Parm at Cannifton. Loss of the building was estimated at $7,000.

Parm and his helpers saved 140 animals before the flames enveloped the entire building. The hogs were to have been marketed today.

Rangers Move In May To Camp Niagara

Within the next few weeks, the Prince of Wales Rangers will move from Peterborough and take up station at Niagara-on-the-Lake, according to information received from military district headquarters, at Kingston. The regiment will probably remain there at least for the early summer months, and it seems likely that they will be in barracks for their stay. There is, as yet, no certain news as to the type of training the men will receive or as to just how long they will stay in the Niagara district. They will, however, move off from the Armouries not later than May 15.

Lieut. Homer Borland, Quartermaster of the Rangers, left last Friday for Ste. Marguerite, P.Q. During the next four weeks, he will take the course for quartermasters at the Canadian School of Army Administration.

Young People Hold Joint Meeting

A joint meeting of Trinity Club and St. Andrew's Young People's Union was held Tuesday night in St. Andrew's Ladies Parlor. The worship service was led by the Trinity group and included Bible readings and commentaries on the exodus of the Hebrews from Egypt at the time of Moses. A comparison of the trials and hardships then and now showed that we, in trying to retain our freedom, are not suffering any more than the Hebrews did while trying to gain theirs. This was found most interesting.

After the worship service, six essentials of a group for building Christian personality were presented—personal association, sharing in a "give and take" attitude, minimizing social distinction, concern for interests and needs of other groups, holding together in spite of opposition, and consciousness of the relationship to a Christian community.

Games under the direction of Mrs. S. Laing, were very much enjoyed by everyone, and the evening closed with refreshments served by Audrey Larmer and her committee.

Absent Glitter Is No Loss to Y Revue

The annual Y.W.C.A. pageant has lost a lot of the glitter in the interests of wartime economy. but it retains a few of the pretty costume dances by the younger children which have proved so popular in other years. The pageant has resolved itself from an elaborate pantomime to a snappy review of gym work, designed chiefly to emphasize the importanc of regular and pleasant exercise in the maintenance of physical fitness.

There will be, as has been said, a few pretty costume numbers, ballets and folk dances and a delightful doll-dance by the babies' dancing class. There will be gym displays by all the classes from the tiny tots to the senior gym, including, by popular request, the babies' Dumbell Drill.

The draw for the hooked rug made and donated by Sybil Ecobichon, will take place on the opening night. The Review will take place in the gymnasium.

Pupils And Staff Hold Spring Tea

MILLBROOK, April 29 —(ENS)— Many parents and friends were present at the Continuation School on Monday from 4 to 7 p.m., as guests of the staff and pupils for their anual spring tea, the Maple Leaf Junior Red Cross having the enjoyable event under its auspices.

Receiving in the entrance hall, besides the principal, Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., and the new member of the staff, Mr. D. L. David Hatherley was cashier, all proceeds going to Red Cross work.

In charge of the tables where the lovely knitted and crocheted articles, beautiful baby garments, afghans and scarves in the popular weavette design, and other things which vividly showed the interest and industry of the young workers, were Audrey Wood, Mary Seney, and Betty Thornton, conveners of groups 1, 2 and 3 of the Maple Leaf Club. Esther Armstrong and Ruth Forsyth looked after the showing of work done by the school pupils, and Rhoda Gibson sold tickets on the lovely wool afghan made by the members of Betty Thornton's group ten dollars was taken in from this source and more tickets will yet be sold as the wool alone cost this sum. The handsome braided floor rug donated by Miss Mary Eagleson was drawn for, Mrs. John Allen, Sr., holding the lucky ticket; approximately $10 was received from this gift.

A profusion of spring flowers created an appropriate atmosphere in the library, converted into the tea room for the occasion, with Mrs. L. J. Byam and Mrs. W. R. Piano selections by Audrey Wood were an added enjoyment during the tea.

For Thursday, April 30

A particularly lively and enterprising day is read from the predominant planetary aspects, although this initiative and progressive attack of new and important projects may have many difficulties, misunderstandings and antagonisms to compose. This opposition may come from important places, or persons, with those in power, standing or in public positions withholding support or friendly attitude. This may be due to demands on public or corporation funds deemed extravagant or unnecessary. Such an inflationary or prodigal spirit may likewise permeate and becloud the personal or domestic happiness.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much activity and enterprise with all affairs of importance, especially new propositions, moving at high tempo and possibly with misspent energy and initiative. This may be due to the antagonism and want of friendly co-operation of those in high places either in public or private bodies, who disapprove of extravagance, excessive outlay or other plans of prodigal proportions. A similar disaffection may penetrate to private and domestic life, inspiring opposition as well as trickiness or subtle undermining. With reason and proper restraint there should be many benefits and progress.

A child born on this day while being enterprising, progressive, and of definite skill, ingenuity and sound purpose may be carried away by its ardor, overenthusiasm, and tendency to plunge and take chances with public or other financial substance. Its domestic life may be subject to emotional or passionate commotion.

DOMESTIC WORRIES BREAK MORE MEN THAN BUSINESS

Don't Be a Nagger or Spendthrift—Be a Good Cook and Keep a Comfortable House

It is a queer thing that the great majority of women look upon marriage solely from the sentimental point of view. They virtually never consider it as a business proposition or realize that it pays a woman just as much in dollars and cents to be a good wife as it would to be an expert stenographer or saleswoman. Yet it does. For the contented husband, like the contented cow prdouces the cream, and whether a man is a success or a failure, whether he climbs to the top of the ladder or spends his life sitting on a clerk's stool, depends largely upon how his wife does her job. If she makes him happy there is nothing within the range of possibilities that he cannot do. If she makes him miserable there is very little that he want to do, for there is small encouragement for a man to work himself to death for a nagger or try to build up a home that is nothing but a jail. This fact is so obvious that you would think that even a female moron would perceive it, but the average wife never seems to think that the way she treats her husband has any bearing on the way he gets along in the world. She just sets it down to luck and eliminates herself from all responsibility in the matter.

Apparently, for instance, it never occurs to the average wife that if she wants her husband to succeed it pays her to be a good housekeeper. Yet it does, for when a man marries he turns not only his heart but his stomach over to his wife's keeping, and whether he is going strong at 60, or is a wreck with dyspepsia at 40, depends upon how she has fed him and taken care of him. The wife of a famous criminal lawyer once told me that when her husband was engaged on a big case she cooked every morsel he ate and saw to it that he ate nothing but the most nourishing and digestible food.

It pays a wife to make a husband a home that is a haven of peace and rest to which he can come to build up his strength for the next day's battle. Domestic worries break more men down than business troubles do. No man goes from a breakfast table spat with his wife with a clear mind and fitted to give the best that is in him to his job.

It pays a wife to praise her husband and build up his faith in himself. As long as a man's wife believes in him he will strive to justify her expectations, but it takes the last bit of hope and strength out of him for her to belittle him and compare him invidiously with other men. The wet-blanket wives send

He's happy ... but his clothes get grubby

is exactly suited for applying straight on to the real dirt

● Any good washing preparation will remove the average "all over" dirt from clothes, but where dirt is stubborn, concentrated, you need the help of Sunlight. Because of its "extra-soapiness" Sunlight is exactly right for treating the very grubby parts of clothes.

Sunlight enables you to get straight on to the real dirt at once — to give an extra soaping just where it is most needed.

It is only necessary to apply Sunlight lightly to the grubby part. That is sufficient to leave a film of pure, rich soap in contact with the dirt. Then you'll find every speck of grime comes away readily. No hard rubbing or scrubbing is required at all. Use Sunlight for everything you wash—for household cleaning as well as laundry. It is absolutely safe and gentle to fabrics and to your hands.

Citizens' Responsibility Stressed By Hon. Farquahar Oliver At Annual Meeting Children's Aid

Hon. Farquahar Oliver, Minister of of Public Welfare, was guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society, held in St. John's Parish Hall on Tueseday evening. Mr. Oliver spoke of various aspects of the work of his department and of our responsibilities as citizens of a democracy.

The speaker said that nobody could deny that democracy had not been an all out success, but that even when we have recognized its faults and weaknesses, it was still better than dictatorship, still worth fighting for. "Our soldiers, sailors and airmen are going overseas to fight for democracy; it is our responsibility to make that democracy work, to prove that it is worth fighting for." The definition of democracy, said the speaker, cannot be read in books or painted on a poster. Nobody can explain it to you. For democracy is in a man's heart.

Mr. Oliver admitted that when he first became Minister of Public Welfare he knew very little about the work, and that he is still learning about the wide and varied activities of his office. He said "we too often forget to acknowledge the great work of volunteers in the field of social service. Ontario owes them a great debt of gratitude. A time of war necessarily brings with it increased difficulties in this field; people are moving frequently, the time of strain brings about a certain lifting of restrictions, a looser way of living and problems such as unmarried mothers, neglected children, naturally increase. The voluntary worker has seen the added problems and has tackled them willingly."

Mothers' Allowances

Mr. Oliver quoted some interesting figures regarding the Mothers' Allowances, Old Age Pensions and Blind Pensions. The Mothers' Allowance Act was passed in 1920, and between 1920 and 1935 10,000 mothers and 21,000 children benefitted from it. Up to that time the allowance had been paid only to mothers with two children but in 1935 this was changed to allow mothers of one child to receive the allowance.

There are in Ontario 60,000 old age pensioners and 1,500 blind pensioners receiving $20 a month. Serious consideration has been given to suggestions that this allowance be increased but the inancial obligation, which would amount to $5,000,000, is an obstacle in time of war. The department has decided, however, to provide free medical service for all pensioners.

Relief is now a minor problem, with 32,000 people on relief as compared with the 500,000 on the relief rolls in March, 1935. Most of these people are unemployable for one reason or another, but they are being weeded out and employment found for many of them.

An amendment has been passed to the Deserted Wives and Children's Maintenance Act, making it easier to keep track of the men who desert, and fail to support, their families.

Rev. F. W. Craik offered a vote of thanks to the speaker, which was heartily approved by the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Alderman Max Swanston.

Mr. James Dutton, president, was in the chair for the meeting and spoke a brief message of welcome to those who had been able to come, especially to those out-of-town visitors from Lindsay and Port Hope. He said that the work of the Society was increasing rapidly but that an increasing public consciousness was a valuable asset in child welfare work.

Tribute To Miss Young

The president paid warm tribute to the work of Miss Rachael Young, the supervisor, who has been ill for the past two weeks and was unable to attend the meeting. He suggested that it might be a good idea if the city itself employed a trained social worker. He also thanked the doctors and dentists who have looked after the children at sacrifice to themselves, and to those who send gifts and provide entertainment, and otherwise help to care for the children in the Shelter, and paid tribute to the work of Mrs. Gerald MacMillan at the Shelter.

In the absence of Miss Young, the supervisor's report was read by her assistant, Miss Alfreda Skenfeld. In her report, Miss Young said that economic security had brought anything but stability in many homes. To many it has brought freedom to enjoy themselves at the expense of their children. To others, it has brought a sense of false values, a lack of appreciation of the value of money.

The housing question is acute. War-workers have had houses built for them by the government. In Halifax, 50 of the houses were set aside for other than industrial workers, and it looks as if the same thing will be necessary in Peterborough. Another housing problem, the wood camps, is not entirely solved, but steps have been taken.

War has added considerably to the tasks of the Children's Aid Society. Last year 72 investigations were made for the Dependents Allowance Board and nine dependents allowances have been administered by the Society in homes where the mother has proved unstable. This necessitates a tremendous amount of work but insure that the children will have a good food the last week in the month as the first. Requests for special funds to meet certain emergencies in soldiers' families are also investigated by the Society.

191 Families

The society began the year with an interest in 172 families and had referred to them 191. They presented problems of personality, marital discord, drunkenness, physical neglect, non support, separation of parents and desertion. This work involved 103 court appearance.

Ten children were made permaments wards of the society during the year. Unless they are infants, these children are taken first to the shelter, where efforts are made to place them in suitable foster homes. Children come to the shelter with little, if any decent clothing; they are generally very dirty, and their habits are very poor. During the year 3,193 days' care was given to children at the shelter. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald MacMillan try to make the shelter as home-like as possible and every attempt is made to help them to be good citizens.

The finding of foster homes has proved a great difficulty. Because of the tire and gas shortage, the society has tried to get homes as near the city as possible but the competition of industrial workers is too keen. Children who required medical care have been kept in Shelter for a time which the Society feels is too long, because homes could not be found for them in the city.

The question of clothing becomes increasingly difficult. It has been found impossible to buy all the clothing for the children in one store. Several ladies have sewed for the children at the Shelter and this has been a great help.

Several boys availed themselves of special courses offered to industrial workers and others are doing their bit working on farms. Some of these boys have learned from foster fathers at farm homes.

There are now 132 children in the care of the society, an increase of 22 over a year ago. The contributions from parents have increased considerably. Fourteen adoptions were completed during the year.

The unmarried parent work has shown an increase of 33 p.c. during the past year. The society has been called upon more and more to find foster homes for babies and this, added to the follow-up in the matter of feeding and medical care has consumed a great deal of time. In the course of the society's work they have made 4,016 visits and had 1,715 office interviews and travelled 12,400 miles.

The Society is interested in legislation which affects their work but Miss Young reminded the audience in her report, that unless the citizens of Peterborough are aroused to the point of action in these matters. nothing will be done and the situation will probably become worse.

Toronto-N. York Food Prices

Like Canadians, citizens of the United States from now on will live in a land where the prices of virtually all commodities and services have been frozen at fixed levels. Under last night's order of the Office of Price Administration, the highest price charge during March will be the standard for many of the things which Americans eat, wear and use.

Although a list of food items has been exempted from the United States price-fixing order, the greater part of what Americans eat will henceforth come under the maximum price regulation.

The following table shows what Torontonians and New Yorkers are paying for a variety of food items. The Toronto retail prices were taken from recent advertisements, while the New York prices were published recently in a newspaper in that city.

Knox Church YPS Presents Delightful Play

The hilarious three-act comedy, "Look Who's Here," presented Tuesday evening by Knox Young People's Society and directed by the Rev. H. J. Mahoney, was played before a large audience which was not slow in voicing its appreciation.

The play was well done and the actors gave a fine interpretation of the characters they represented. They particularly entered into the spirit of the thing as they worked towards the climax.

The play concerned the trouble of a young married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Winchell, who lived on money received from Mr. Winchell's aunt, a marriage hater, who knew nothing of her nephew's fall from grace.

As the play opened, the Winchells found themselves in a desperate financial position, due to Mrs. Winchell's extravagance. The aunt's cheque was overdue and to their horror, instead of the cheque, Aunt Alice arrived for a visit.

The result was a comedy of errors further complicated by the appearance of old fiancees.

With jealousies simmering beneath the surface and everyone working at cross purposes, it was not surprising that Aunt Alice learned the truth. However, she came through in the end and gave the young people her blessing.

Estelle Winchell, played by Helen Ward, was one of the finest performances of the play. As the irresponsible wife, her vivacity lent charm to her performance.

Another outstanding performance was that of Gladys Gerard, the bigoted, excitable aunt. The part called for considerable characterization and Miss Gerard gave it her all to the delight of the audience.

Lyman Winchell, portrayed by Clifford Beano, was an easy-going, inoffensive man, whose one desire in life was to keep his aunt ignorant of his marriage.

The other performers, Bill Hamilton as Tommy, Eleanor Rosborough as Grace, Velma Stewart as Jennie, and Wilma Armstrong and Mrs. Clare Jones as Rose and Irene respectively, did a fine job that had much to do with the play's success.

Tears For Rommel

LONDON, April 29—(CP). —British submarines have sunk two heavily laden enemy supply ships and a minesweeper and left a German gasoline carrier burning fiercely in the Mediterranean, the Admiralty announced last night.

One large supply ship, heavily laden with material for the Libyan army of Marshal Erwin Rommel was torpedoed and sunk, the Admiralty said. The explosions indicated a cargo of munitions.

An armed gasoline carrier flying a German flag was attacked by gunfire and left burning fiercely and a large, loaded schooner and an enemy minesweeper were sunk, the Admiralty added.

OF Course You are Sorry for the People "Over There"

- for the thousands of civilians who, through enemy action, are suffering privation and discomfort.
- for the maimed and wounded, the homeless and the bereaved.
- for the prisoners of war who look so eagerly for the parcels which the Red Cross sends to them.
- for our brave sailors, soldiers and airmen who are cheerfully facing dangers far from their homes and families.

But... HOW MUCH Are You Sorry?

The Canadian Red Cross Society will shortly make an appeal for much needed funds, "over here", for much needed help "over there". When the canvasser calls, let the size of your cheque match the size of your sorrow.

many a bullet into a discourged husband's heart.

Thrift Is Essential

It pays a wife to be thrifty. "If you would prosper, ask your wife," said wise old Benjamin Franklin long ago. An it still holds true. Many a woman at middle age wears sables and lolls in a limousine because when she was a bride she turned her old coat and hopped the street cars. A woman can throw more out of the back door with a teaspoon than her husband can put in at the front door with a shovel and a man has to be indeed a financial genius if he can make any headway against a wife who is extravagant and bitten with the desire to keep up with the Joneses.

It pays a wife to keep her husband in love with her and thinking she is worth working for. Every man must have some incentive to spur him on to achieve things, and he will cheerfully work his fingers to the bone to keep his wife soft and easy and load her down with trinkets as long as she glories in his triumphs and makes him feel that it is a privilege for him to serve her. But when she is peevish and fretful and dissatisfied, and he grows tired of her complaining, he asks himself what's the use, and slacks down.

Furthermore, it pay a wife to keep her husband in love with her because it automatically eliminates the Other Woman, and that is not only happiness in her heart, but money in her pocket. For better is a husband's whole income than a little grudgingly paid alimony. The moral of all of which is that it pays women financially as well as sentimentally to turn out good jobs as wives

Age and Youth

Dear Dorothy Dix.—I am an intelligent, supposedly very clever business woman, yet a year ago I fell in love with a man much younger than myself. Although he has always been most kind and considerate, every time I asked him to take me out to some public place to dine and dance he always made some excuse not to do so. A few weeks ago I happened to be at a gathering where he was with a number of his young friends, and seeing him so attentive to a pretty girl made me realize how foolish I was to set my heart upon him. I made up my mind to give him up, but every time he comes around my good resolutions vanish. What to do?—Perplexed.

Answer.—Bolster up your courage and break with the youth. No woman ever finds happiness in marrying a man much younger than herself. She is filled with jealousy of every pretty girls she sees. She knows that he is ashamed of her. She dare not relax and be her age. When she undertakes to keep a boy husband amused and interested, she lets herself in for the hardest job on earth. No man is worth it.

—DOROTHY DIX.

the bottom.

"Just like pinning down a butterfly," she said slowly.

"That's it," said Baldy. "That's just it. Give 'em a chance and they'll quit, and you've chosen 'em all for nothin'."

Myra began to understand why Fay had run away. She looked up the lake for her sister and saw an empty canoe floating idly with the current.

It was the blue canoe that Peggy and Nigel had taken. It drifted slowly from an island that lay at the far end of the lake, and had it been occupied by anyone except her sister and the capable Nigel she might have been worried. As it was her eyes narrowed slightly as she wondered what prankish trick Peggy was up to now.

Peggy, as Myra suspected, had worked out her plot as carefully as any teen-aged strategist. As Nigel guided the canoe up the lake, flicking his stern paddle against Peggy's bow strokes to scan the wood shore for any sign of Fay Ransom, she studied him with a calculating air. Not handsome, she observed again to herself, but with possibilities as a charming companion. He was also—point for any designing female to remember — fairly well-to-do. But for other and more devious reasons he fitted into her plans and Peggy, not one to undersetimate her own attractiveness, intended to make him useful. If they were to loes the canoe.

C.N.R. Port Hope Line

way," George A. Macdonald said this afternoon.

"The Chamber of Commerce was delighted in having a share in bringing about this desired result. We were pleased to have had the opportunity of arranging the meeting with the C. N. R. executives at Peterborough, and we appreciate the splendid cooperation of the manufacturers, Mayor Hamilton and the members of the City Council and our good friends from Millbrook, Hope township, Cavan and Port Hope.

"We also wish to thank Mr. Johnson of the C.N.R. and his officials for the very courteous and sympathetic hearing they gave up, and for their good judgment in deciding to continue this much needed service, and their intention to improve the passenger service. So all in all everything has been very satisfactory and we are truly thankful."

Ald. Bradburn Pleased.

Alderman Bradburn, chairman of the manufacturers' committee of the city council, remarked to the Examiner to-day that the action of the C.N.R. was good news to Peterborough.

"I was greatly pleased to hear it this morning," Alderman Bradburn said. It will be a satisfaction to the manufacturers of this city to whom railway transportation is essential, and I know the other communities along the line of the railway will be glad. It seems to me that with the probability of development of the St. Lawrence waterway this line to Port Hope will become of more importance than ever to this section of the province. Now that we have got an extension of this service I think we should begin doing something to show the C.N.R. that we really do need it and appreciate it. However, that is something we can discuss a little later on. The main thing is that the answer of the C.N.R. to our petition has been all that we asked."

Rules for Guidance

Fashion drawing may be your field. If you have a flair for drawing, and want to make some extra money, you can learn at home. With the help of guide lines and charts you may soon become an expert.

When sketching a figure, first draw these guide lines: a vertical "line of balance," around which to build the figure, and two pairs of parallel lines—one pair to place shoulders and bust, one for waist and hips.

Following these guide lines, sketching the figure is easy. The side that supports the body weight is drawn in sharp, angular lines; the other side is smooth.

Guide lines and charts also simplify drawing head and body in correct proportion.

Our 24-page instruction book has these guides and charts and shows how to draw lovely figures in all sorts of poses. Explains perspective, foreshortening, techniques; the drawing of clothes, textures, accessories.

For your copy of booklet on "Fashion Drawing" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to Examiner's Home Service Department, Peterborough. Be sure to write your Name and Address plainly, and also name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SOME KNOW IT ALL

THIS WORLD is full of people who can tell you exactly what you should do in most situations which trouble you. But if they are talking about the best way to bid a really freakish bridge hand, the chances are that they are talking through that thing which they place on top of a certain lump of flesh rather than from the inside of the lump. They are trying to impress you with the contents thereof, whereas they may not be any such thing. Seriously, with many hands, your guess is as good as the greatest super-duper expert the world will ever see.

North: ♠ Q J 6 4 2 ♥ 9 8 ♦ 10 9 ♣ Q 9 8 6

West: ♠ 10 7 5 ♥ 4 2 ♦ K J 6 4 3 ♣ J 10 2

East: ♠ None ♥ A K Q J 10 7 5 3 ♦ Q 8 7 ♣ A 4

South: ♠ A K 9 8 3 ♥ 6 ♦ A 5 2 ♣ K 7 5 3

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

	South	West	North	East
1.	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♥
	4 ♠
2.	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Dbl
	4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♥
3.	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	3 ♥
	4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♥

There you have the bidding at three duplicate tables on this deal. Nobody will ever figure out the sure-fire way whereby East can know that he cannot help making either 5-Hearts or 6-Hearts. If anything but a club is led, and South does not hold up his diamond A until the third round, the losing club can be discarded, and all but one trick taken.

It happens that South can make 4-Spades, like rolling off a log, with the loss of just one trick in each side suit if he plays the clubs to good advantage, as every spade declarer did. The one guess of the hand concerns the problem of whether East should bid 5-Hearts or whether West can chance taking him to that spot.

If you get in a serious argument on that kind of point, the winner will probably be the one who ate the most eggs for breakfast.

North: ♠ 8 6 3 ♥ Q J 10 3 2 ♦ 7 4 ♣ K 8 7

West: ♠ A K Q 4 2 ♥ K 9 6 ♦ A K 2 ♣ Q 2

South: ♠ 9 7 5 ♥ A 7 ♦ Q J 9 8 5 ♣ 9 4 3

South having bid diamonds, and north leading the 7 of that suit, how should West play this deal at 3-No Trumps in rubber bridge, and how in match point duplicate?

In Good Spirits

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 29— (AP). — Five United States airmen who made a forced landing on Soviet soil a week ago to-day are reported "well and in good spirits" under internment at Khabarovsk, the administrative centre of Russia's Far Eastern area. (Khaabrovsk lies 400 miles north of Vladivostok.)

Swimmers Liven Marmora Pond

MARMORA, April 29 — (ENS). — The summer-like weather of Saturday and Sunday suggested to the Juvenile population of the village that a return to the old swimmin' pool, the mill pond, was quite the thing.

On Sunday afternoon a walk through the semi-shaded woods on the western bank of Crowe river appealed to many of varying ages and with nine of every ten couples encountered, someone was carrying a camera.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tompkins on Friday evening in honor the newly weds, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Gambles. The evening was spent in dancing to music provided by Harold Auger and Charles Campion. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess. The couple were the recipients of many useful gifts.

Dog Bite On Lip Brings $3,500

TORONTO, April 29.—The lawsuit which resulted when a Kerry Blue terrier named Brian bit a professional pianist on the lip, concluded yesterday when a Civil Assize Court jury awarded the pianist $3,500 damages and recommended the dog be destroyed.

Mrs. Marjorie Lee, known professionally as Marjorie Daines, brought suit against Mr. and Mrs. Eric Quilter, owners of the dog claiming her work had suffered as the result of the attack and that for a long period she was subject to bad dreams, insomnia and extreme nervousness.

Mr. Justice Makins awarded costs of the action to Mrs. Lee, but told the jury he had no power to make an order for Brian's destruction.

Answering questions framed by his Lordship, the jury decided the dog is of "vicious disposition" and that Mr. and Mrs. Quilter "knew he was of vicious disposition prior to the attack.' Both the husband and wife were named as owners of the dog.

The attack occurred on Oct. 29 when Mrs. Lee visited a friend of the Quilters on Four Oaks Gate in East York. She said the Kerry Blue jumped at her and bit her severely on the lip.

In his remarks to the jury, Mr. Justice Makins referred to evidence adduced by David J. Walker, counsel for the plaintiff, that the dog had bitten an airman on a previous occasion. The airman, Lloyd Stormer, had testified the dog leaped at him biting his arm. "Would a playful dog do that?" asked his Lordship. R. H. Greer acted for the defendants.

Engines Crash

WINDSOR, Ont., April 29—(CP). —A locomotive's crash into the side of a moving freight train in the Canadian Pacific railway yards at Wyandotte street Monday afternoon sent two men to hospital. One engine hit an open switch.

Though the two men were in a locomotive cabin that was crushed and shoved on top of the boiler, they escaped with comparatively minor injuries.

Wealthy Recluse Dies Of Hunger

OWEN SOUND, April 29.—An auction sale of the effects of the late Mary Jane Stephens, aged recluse, who died alone in her apartment several months ago, was held Saturday afternoon. Hundreds of curio and antique seekers attended.

Furniture of the Victoria period which had filled the huge Stephens home of twenty-five years ago before the deceased woman moved to the downtown apartment, as eagerly snapped up. Solid walnut arm chairs brought around $65 each, while the huge rosewood piano, treasured possession of the brilliant pianist, was a much sought-after curio.

Miss Stephens was found dead in her apartment over a grocery store and medical opinion stated that she had died of starvation. In the drawers of old-fashioned bureaus was found thousands of dollars in stocks, bearer bonds and currency, while additional funds had been banked by the woman during the years.

In the rooms of the apartment were found hoarded packages of tea, packaged in heavy lead containers, many green with age. In a corner of the kitchen were bags of sugar. In the pantry were jars of preserved fruit of all kinds.

The woman left no immediate relatives. Her estate will be divided among a few cousins.

Flats, Blowouts On The Increase

TORONTO, April 29 — The tire-changing "glories of motoring" in the early twenties seem to be returning in the forties with rubber rationing, according to highway traffic officers, who claimed that motorists were "having flats all over the place."

Provincial Police Constable Robert Duke said he passed five cars in ten miles whose occupants were busy with wrench and jack, substituting the spare tire for the exhausted regular.

"But," he said, "there were dozens of others over the week-end. I even had to fix one myself. It seems to be becoming a regular thing around the Brampton-Cooksville district lately."

Kingston Road played host to "more than fifteen" unfortunate drivers, while a "dozen or more" flats were reported on the Queen Elizabeth Way. Newmarket had "at least a couple."

Tweed Boy Dies Of Gunshot Wound

TWEED, Ont, April 29—(CP).—Corporal Douglas Ross Duggan has died from gunshot wounds while on manoeuvres, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Duggan, have been notified. The message stated that his death was entirely accidental.

Corporal Duggan's death is the first casualty among those who have left for overseas from this Hastings County village. Corporal Duggan was with the Canadian troops in France for a short time in 1940.

F.D.R. Proposes Cut In Salary

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP). —President Roosevelt proposed in effect yesterday to cut his own salary and the pay cheques of hundreds of other executives who earn more than $40,000 a year.

Specifically, he asked Congress to fix the tax law so that no individual could keep more than $25,000 a year out of his income after paying taxes. Under the present Federal tax scale, a person who makes $40,000 can keep about $25,000.

The President is the only Federal official who gets such a pay cheque. His salary, by law, is $75,000. No figures are available on how many persons in private life have such income, but the number of corporation executives who earn more than $40,000 is in the hundreds.

Spry Flier Home After India Trip

OTTAWA, Ajril 29 (CP)—Graham Spry, who calls himself a "sort of office boy" to Sir Stafford Cripps, arrived Saturday night by plane from New York on a "purely personal" visit.

The 42-year-old former newspaperman, who was born in St. Thomas, Ont., and was appointed personal assistant to Sir Stafford Feb. 26, said he intends to spend a few days in Ottawa with his wife and young son, Robin. Robin was born in Toronto while Mr. Spry was in India, and until last night father and son had never met. Mr. Spry jokingly claimed the distinction of being the first man to fly from New Delhi, India, to Ottawa, but acknowledged that he travelled 100 miles of the trip—from Baltimore to New York—by train. His air journey from New Delhi to Baltimore took eight days.

He told reporters he is not ready to make any statement yet on India. But he said he had discussed Indian problems with Lord Halifax, British Ambasador to the United States.

He recalled an interview in Cairo with General Sir Claude Auchinleck, British Middle East Commander-in-Chief. "The general and I talked about flowers," Mr. Spry said.

Mr. Spry plans a press conference next Thursday. He expects to visit relatives in Toronto shortly, and will return to London by way of Washington.

Holy Name Society Meets In Marmora

MARMORA, April 29 — (ENS).— The April meeting of the Holy Name Society was held on Thursday evening in the Parish Hall. The meeting opened with prayer by the chaplain, Rev. H. J. Farrell. The president, James Black, presided. After the business of the meeting had been disposed of, a very instructive program was enjoyed. This consisted of an interesting paper on "Lourdes," read by James Shannon. A splendid talk on "Safety" by H. A. McNally, "Rome at War and Peace,' was the subject chosen by C. T. Nicholson. Rev. Father Farrell addressed the meeting, touching on the papers given and the good which is accomplished by these meetings. To add a little touch of humor to the program a "liar's" contest was indulged in, the winner being James Gehan. A very tasty lunch was served and an enjoyable evening brought to a close.

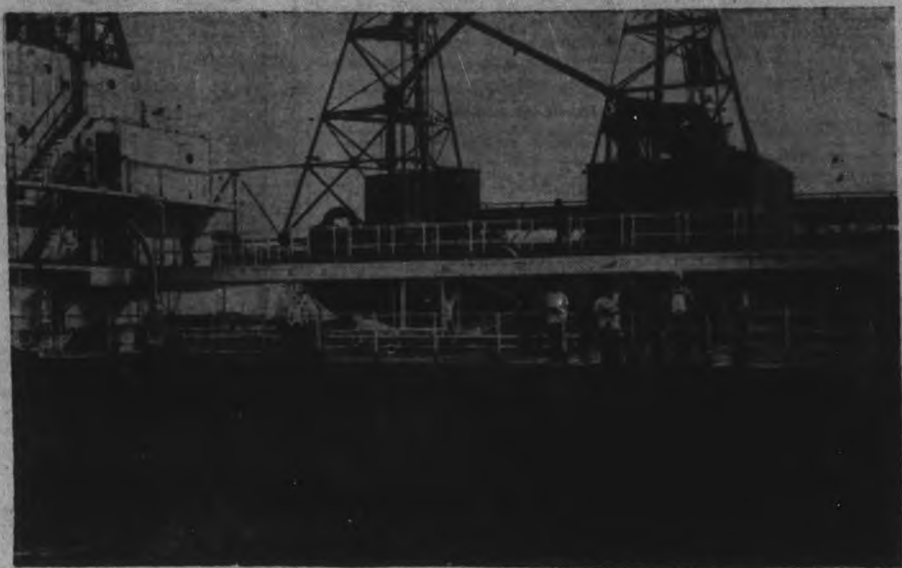
Neutral Ship Is Victim Of Attack At Sea



The motorship Victoria, first Argentine ship to be attacked in this war, reached a U.S. port after having been torpedoed in two attacks. The attack took place on the afternoon of April 17 at a point 300 miles off Cape Hatteras during her voyage from Buenos Aires to New York. This photo shows a section of the ship that was damaged by one of the torpedoes. The ship had been abandoned and then remanned by her crew, some of whom can be seen along the ship's rail.

50,000 In States Have Over $25,000 Income

WASHINGTON, Ajril 29—(AP).— At least 50,000 persons in the United States, including President Roosevelt himself, have incomes over $25,000 a year—the figure which the President said ought to be an individual's maximum after payment of taxes.

In 1940, last year for which income tax studies are available, 50,747 persons reported incomes of $25,000 or greater. However, probably no more than half that number at most had $25,000 left after paying the tax collector.

(To retain an annual net income of $25,000 after payment of present taxes, a married Canadian with no dependents must have a minimum earned income of $53,315 a year or an unearned income of $59,800, Revenue Minister Gibson said last night at Ottawa.

Number of Canadians who now have a net income of $25,000 or more was not available but Mr. Gibson said that 1939 figures showed 1,974 persons had a net income of $25,000 or more. They constituted 6.5 per cent of the Dominion's 300,364 individual taxpayers and contributed $25,223,460 of the total individual taxation of $51,544,969.)

Under present tax laws, a person can earn up to about $40,000 a year and, after paying Federal taxes, stay within the President's limit. But in about half the States, State income taxes also take a chunk out of the large incomes.

President Roosevelt's salary is $75,000 and he has additional income from personal property. He pays Federal and New York State income taxes.

(In connection with the talk of salaries, White House officials said Mr. Roosevelt is a poorer man than when he became President. While his mother left him an estate of more than $1,000,000, it was explained he will not come into possession of it for another year because it is in process of settlement.)

Treasury reports—the latest available—show that forty-one persons paid tax on 1939 incomes in excess of $1,000,000, but do not disclose their names.

Following is representative comment throughout the country:

Screen Actor Tyrone Power: "Anything the President says or does is fine with me."

Film Producer Samuel Goldwyn: "I agree with the President that incomes should be limited for the duration. While the boys in the front lines are sacrificing their lives, the least we can do is limit our incomes."

Movie Actress Ann Sheridan, whose salary probably is well over $100,000 annually: "I regret that I have but one salary to give up to my country."

is now a vital war material

Enemy action in the Far East has caused such an acute shortage of rubber that our whole war effort is in serious danger. Canada and her Allies must have rubber, quickly, for the armed forces, for factories, for ships. The Japanese control our source of crude rubber imports—the only other quickly available supply is old scrap rubber, which can be reclaimed. Every citizen in Canada must do his part in collecting all the scrap rubber in the country and turning it over to the Government for war purposes. Here is how to do it.

THIS IS AN URGENT APPEAL FOR YOUR HELP

Question: Is the rubber situation really serious?

Answer: The shortage of rubber is so grave that any citizen hoarding rubber or using it unnecessarily is committing an act of disloyalty. It is now illegal to destroy any rubber article.

Question: Of what use is reclaimed rubber?

Answer: Old rubber is processed so that the rubber content is reclaimed. This reclaimed rubber is used in the manufacture of essential articles for our war effort, thus replacing crude rubber.

Question: How much scrap rubber is needed?

Answer: Fifty Million Pounds. This is a large quantity, but it MUST be found. Every old piece of rubber in Canada, no matter how small, is needed, QUICKLY.

Question: Should I turn in any usable rubber articles as well as worn out ones?

Answer: Absolutely not! By no means discard anything that is still useful and that might have to be replaced. On the other hand, rubber tires used as boat bumpers, swings, etc., should be turned in for war uses.

Question: What kind of scrap rubber is needed?

Answer: Every all-rubber or part-rubber article must be salvaged. Here are a few of the articles you must turn in:

Old Tires of every kind Rubbers
Old Inner Tubes Overshoes
Rubber Boots, Hats, Coats, Aprons, Pants
Gloves, Tubing, Matting, Toys
Sport Shoes (crepe soles are especially good)
Garden Hose Hot Water Bottles Stair Treads
Bathing Caps and many other articles

Question: What happens to the scrap rubber collected?

Answer: The scrap is sorted, baled and assembled into carload lots and is then purchased by the Government at fixed prices throughout Canada. The Government pays forwarding transportation charges on these carload lots, and is responsible for their allocation. You may be sure that every pound will be used directly or indirectly in the war effort.

Question: How do I go about saving scrap rubber?

Answer: Start hunting for it TODAY. Clean out your cellars, attics, garages and sheds right away. You will find more rubber articles than you expect. Start them all on their way to the battlefront.

HOW DO I TURN IN MY SCRAP RUBBER?

The school boys and girls of Canada are being organized, through the school authorities, to act as Official Collectors of Scrap Rubber. The school nearest you is, therefore, your best Collection Depot. You may dispose of your scrap rubber in any one of the following four ways:

1. Give it to the children for their school collection.
2. Give it to your local National Salvage Committee.
3. Leave it with any Service Station or Tire Dealer where you see the sign: "Voluntary Scrap Rubber Receiving Depot."
4. Sell it to a junk collector.

When you gather up your scrap rubber and dispose of it by one of these methods, it will be used by the Government for Canada's War Effort. Do it NOW!

R.A.F. Smash Paris Aero, Rubber Plants

FOLKESTONE, England, April 30—(CP)—A gigantic air battle between the R.A.F. and the Nazis was fought out this afternoon 25,000 feet over the Northern French coast.

The R.A.F. blasted and set fire to the Goodrich Rubber Works and Gnome-Rhone aero plant in the Paris suburb of Gennevilliers last night in a vigorous renewal of the campaign to destroy captive French factories contributing to the German war arsenal.

The Air Minstry said both plants were left aflame by low-level attacks made in the face of anti-aircraft defences strengthened since the raid on the Gnome-Rhone factory April 5-6.

Six British planes were listed as missing in the night's operations, which also included blows at the docks at Ostend, airdromes in the Low Countries, and mine-laying in enemy waters.

It was learned authoritatively that fighters and Hurricane bombers struck at shipping off Brittany and destroyed two German fighters during the morning, then later swept over the Calais area and escorted Boston bombers in an attack on the Le Havre docks.

(The Germans acknowledged that considerable damage was done to buildings at Gennevilliers, 10 miles from the heart of Paris, and said the R.A.F. also raided the north German coast).

5th Raid in 2 Months.

Reuters News Agency said the Vichy radio reported 52 persons killed and about 100 injured in Gennevilliers. It was the fifth raid in less than two months on factories in the Paris area.

The R.A.F. resumed its attacks on occupied France today with a heavy assault, the sound of which could be clearly heard on the English southeast coast. The explosions reached their peak between 10 and 11 a.m. (4 to 5 a.m., E.D.T.) and a short time later planes crossed the English coast coming from the direction of Calais.

While R.A.F. bombers were engaged over the continent last night, the Nazi air force lashed back with a short but sharp overnight assault on Norwich, in East Anglia, which a communique said had caused casualties and damage—mostly in residential and shopping areas.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 30 — (AP). — Soviet government agencies stressed reports of German manpower and aerial losses on the Russian front today, although troop poitions were said to be essentially unchanged.

The Moscow radio said several regiments of the Nazi 5th Division, termed "the spring division," were slashed to pieces by the Red army 12 hours after they entered the front lines.

The Soviet information bureau said Russian troops "wiped out about 1,000 enemy officers and men" in two days of fighting on a sector of the central front, the Smolensk zone.

Seventy-five German planes were reported destroyed Tuesday against a loss of 14 Soviet aircraft, a ratio of better than five-for-one.

Fourteen German transport planes flying reserves from Koenigsberg, East Prussia, were shot down in a day, the Moscow radio said. Koenigsberg has been used as a base for reinforcement of the German 16th army encircled at Staraya Russa, on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow.

City Aflame Burma Lines Split

Most Of Lease-Lend Supplies Saved, See Mandalay Next

CHUNGKING, China, April 30—(AP)—Lashio, the Burmese back door to China, fell to the Japanese Wednesday after a battle in which both sides suffered heavy casualties, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Both old and new Lashio have fallen, but a battle is continuing in the vicinity of Lashio, a communique said. Twelve Japanese tanks were listed as destroyed.

The loss of Lashio menaced the entire British-Chinese defence of Burma.

The threat to bomb-ruined and now outflanked Mandalay never was graver.

Fierce fires were reported raging at Lashio, indicating that Burmese fifth column incendiarists had risen there, that the Japanese actually had penetrated the town from outlying positions, or that the Allies themselves, giving Lashio up for lost, were putting the place to the torch.

Supplies Destroyed

At least some of the lease-lend supplies which the Burma Road's overburdened truck transport had failed to move on into China were known to have been destroyed. A Chinese army spokesman said this was the fate of supplies remaining after the bulk had been carried on.

(A well-informed London source said the Japanese actually were astride the Burma Road, evidently north of Lashio, separating the bulk of Chinese fighters in Burma from the British and Indian forces which have been fighting on the western flank.

A Chinese spokesman said there was only minor fighting on the central and western fronts in the Sittang and Irrawaddy River valleys but that a Chinese force still was engaging the Japanese around Pyawbwe, 85 miles south of Mandalay, and that another Chinese force was attacking eastward from Taunggyi, 60 miles east of Pyawbwe.

This latter force could, with sufficient strength, isolate the Japanese near Lashio by cutting their communications, he said, but he noted too that in this war of swift movement and infiltration the Japanese would have the choice of proceeding on northward, toward the Chinese border, or swing west to encircle Mandalay.

Ottawa To Ban Competition For T.C.A. Lines

OTTAWA, April 30.—(CP).—Main air line service in Canada is likely to remain under pubilc ownership with Trans-Canada Air Lines protected from private competition, Munitions Minister Howe indicated at a meeting of the House of Commons Railway and Transport committee today.

Mr. Howe told the committee the government would be unlikely to approve any applications for new lines which would be competitive with T.C.A. routes.

The committee learned from H. J. Symington, T.C.A. president, that 80 per cent. of the passengers now being carried in T.C.A. planes are travelling in connection with war work.

Mr. Symington expressed optimism of Canada's place in postwar aviation and said he believes there will be an increase in air travel after the war.

Six planes now are on order in the United States for T.C.A. and as soon as they are delivered a new route to Alaska will be put into service, Mr. Symington said. Post war plans include a shortening of the Toronto-Winnipeg route with four-motor planes flying by way of Sault Ste. Marie and Port Arthur.

Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib St. Boniface) presided at the committee meeting.

Rome Hotel Shut Fed Japs Bread

BERNE, Switzerland, April 30—(AP)—Coffee is known as "black gold," fruit is next to unobtainable and other food is growing ever scarcer within warring Italy, advices at Italian border points indicated today.

One Rome report said the Italian birth rate had risen since the nation entered the war as an Axis partner, but that infant mortality had tripled.

A traveller who left Italy recently said the people still listened to foreign radio broadcasts despite a government order against the practice and jamming of British programs.

A sharp rise in the price of jewelry was reported today and accompanied a decline in the purchasing power of the lira, despite Mussolini's cry against "the buying of antiques."

A jewelry collection valued at 40,000 lire before the war sold recently for 800,000 lire, it was said, and most dentists now require patients to bring their own gold—taken from jewelry — if they want that metal put into their teeth.

The famous Alfreddo's in Rome, where world notables hied for spaghetti, recently was closed for a week because its staff served bread to Japanese who did not have ration cards, it was reported.

No Lack of Jobs for Troops After War

OTTAWA, April 30—(CP).—Hon. Ian Mackenzie told the parliamentary committee on post-war reconstruction today that Canadian men on active service will not face unemployment, low standards of living or lack of economic opportunity in Canada.

But the pensions minister, who is chairman of the cabinet committee on demobilization and re-establishment, said that Canadians must be prepared to sacrifice their way of living for a time, if post-war reconstruction is to be effective.

"Post war reconstruction will undoubtedly take place in conditions intensely complicated as a result of the war," he said. "And whatever new order is established may not necessarily compensate for the sacrificese we have to make.

"If the war continues, our Canadian way of life will be greatly altered. Every war and post-war policy must be considered in its relation to its possible contribution to victory.

"We must surrender such desirable things as leisure, recreation, travel, refreshment, better shelter, luxury clothing and food, sport, culture and refinements of civilization until our lives, homes and children are safe from murder, plunder, slavery and worse.

"If everyone in Canada enjoys more of these good things than he did before the war, he should examine his employment and his contribution to Canada."

Referring to the recommendations in his report, Mr. Mackenzie added: "These enormous changes may appeal to the zealot for reform as inadequate They cannot be described as signs of inaction."

Three Bills On Way

Three bills to provide post-war re-establishment now are before the House. He said the Pension Act, which passed last year, "has been received with great satisfaction throughout the Dominion."

The Minister declared every man discharged from the armed forces as physically unfit is considered for pensions entitlement under the Pension Act. On Jan. 1 of this year disability pensions were paid to 976 present war dischargees while 723 dependents were receiving allowances following death of a man on active service.

He said the facilities of the Pension Act also have been made available to civil servants during abroad and personnel of such Canadian auxiliary services as the Canadian Legion War Services; Knights of Coumbus Huts, Salvation Army; the Y.M.C.A.; merchant seamen under certain conditions; salt water fishermen, as well as A.R.P. personnel.

Last January 31 there were 5,525 patients being cared for in hospitals by the Departments of Pensions and National Health. Of these 2,143 were veterans of the First Great War and 3,383 from this war.

Provincial Wards.

The Department, Mr. Mackenzie said, is in a position to meet every meritorious requirement for treatment and hospitalization. But ex-servicemen whose disabilities were not attributable to service were considered by the committee to be provincial social service responsibilities.

"The central problem in the civil re-establishment of a veteran is that of securing him remunerative employment," continued Mr. Mackenzie. Machinery to carry this out was being set up.

Records of every ex-serviceman would be made available, giving his trade training, aptitude testing and service in the armed forces.

The minister said the Pensions and National Health Department is also establishing a vocational train-

SELMA, Ala., April 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Evelyn Gilmore, thanking the Birmingham Age Herald for printing Associated Press stories written in Russia by her son, Eddy, wrote: "These are my only letters from him as the Soviet is too busy for a foreign postal service. Occasionally I receive a cable or a letter that some foreign envoy returning from a mission in Russia mails in this country."

Adolf, Duce, Jap Envoy To Meet

LONDON, Apri 30.—(CP)—Hitler, Mussolini and Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Germany, are to meet in a few days, according to a Tokyo broadcast quoting the newspaper Hochi and recorded here by Reuters.

The place of the meeting was not indicated. However, the Berlin radio broadcast a Munich dispatch reporting Oshima's arrival there today to take part in "the week of interstate cultural work."

The Munich station was decorated with Japanese and German flags and representatives of the army, Nazi party and local governments were on hand to welcome him.

Oshima recently returned to Germany from Bulgaria, where he conferred with the Japanese ambassador to Turkey, presumably reviewing Axis prospects in the Middle East.

HELSINKI — (AP) — Coinciding with increased Russian pressure along the Finnish front, the Moscow radio has renewed urgings that Finland make a separate peace, a Finnish newspaper said today.

Defence Crimps Norwich Raid

NORWICH, England, April 30—(CP)—Several large stores in Norwich's shopping district lay in ruins today as a result of last night's short but sharp German air raid on this city, the second attack here in three nights.

Apparently the Nazis had planned a longer raid on the city but British authorities said they were cut short by night fighters and the heavy weight of explosives hurled into the sky by anti-aircraft guns.

During the half-hour raid one church was damaged by an explosion and another by fire. Two motion picture theatres were hit and homes in several areas were damaged or demolished.

Two public shelters were struck by bombs and seven persons were killed.

Fire's Blitz of Kinmount Like Hun Raid

Nothing Remains Of A Once Very Prosperous Business Section

By Staff Reporter.

KINMOUNT, April 30. — Blitzed, flame-scarred sections of Britain have a Canadian counterpart in the tiny village of Kinmount, 20 miles north of Bobcaygeon and nestling in the valley of the Burnt River, where a disastrous fire levelled about half of the buildings in the community on Tuesday evening.

Nothing remained of a prosperous business section on Wednesday but scattered piles of brick and rubble, and the original estimates of $100,000 may be doubled when insurance adjusters complete the work of evaluation. The dog-tired villagers, who worked throughout Tuesday night in the vain effort to save the village, snatched a few hours' sleep on Wednesday, only to be called into action again in the afternoon, when fire flamed through a big stand of pine at the edge of the village, threatening to wipe out a Government reforestation project, north-east of the village.

14 Families Homeless.

At least 14 families are homeless, and escaped with little more than the clothes they were wearing. Others who saved some of their belongings were bitter to-day, claiming that looters had carried away much of the salvaged goods during the height of the fire. Mickey Mansfield, a veteran auctioneer, stated pillow slips were taken off pillows, and that two suits of clothes saved from his apartment were stolen. "I saw two boys going up the street, with logging chains draped around their shoulders, carrying as big a load as they could," he said.

The fire was so complete in its destruction of the business section that one could not purchase a bottle of soft drinks any place in the town, nor could groceries, dry-goods or any other commodity be purchased in this village without a business section.

The fire started in a sawmill at the Burnt River Dam, owned by Austen & Sons, and located at the south-west corner of the town. Harvey Gardner and another workman had just laced a belt, and put it back into service shortly after five on Tuesday afternoon, when they noticed smoke from near the sawdust hopper. In a few minutes, a bunch of flaming sawdust fell down from the ceiling, into the sawdust hopper, and soon the complete hopper and a large truck outside the mill were all ablaze.

The mill with all the sawmill machinery, including shingle machines, turbines, drive shafting, etc., was destroyed; then flames leaped to the west to teh large office and sleeping quarters on Austen Avenue. The Austen home on the west side of the road caught next, then the strong wind from the south-west hurled a barrage of burning embers into the heart of the business section, and fires seemed to break out in several spots at once.

Fight Was Futile

By this time, every man, woman and child in the village, along with hundreds from the district had mobilized into bucket brigades dragging water from the Burnt River, but their fight was futile, and the flames raced on licking up one building after another. Duce Raps Discipline Lack

Announces Civilian Mobilization Of Labor

BERNE, April 30 — (AP). — Italian newspapers disclosed on Wednesday that Mussolini in his Tuesday conference with Fascist prefects of the realm, assailed "a certain lack of discipline" in addition to discussing the problems of food, transportation and imports.

The newspaper La Tribuna said the food problem, which "already was grave, has now worsened because of the necessity to aid peoples of the occupied regions."

The food problem, Mussolini told the prefects, involved the difficulty of transportation and import, plus the fact that in the last year a mediocre harvest forced adoption of rationing, especially bread, to a level "so low as almost to touch the limit."

"The secondary cause of uneasiness," Mussolini was said to have declared, "is cheats and the lack of discipline of certain persons. They are considered traitors and will be shown "no mercy."

The country's total energy, Mussolini added, must be directed at the war aims. To this end, civil mobilization of labor will be considered a military matter.

Grant Army Woman Pension

To Get Same Re-establishment Settlement As Men

OTTAWA, April 30 — (CP). — Women who enlist in the Canadian active services will be looked after when the war is over Pensions Minister Mackenzie told the parliamentary committee on post-war reconstruction today.

He said that women discharged from the Canadian Women's Army Corps and the Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) will receive the same re-establishment benefits as men of the armed forces.

The girls in uniform were eligible for disability pensions. Under certain restrictions, they would also be paid out-of-work benefits, if they had difficulty establishing themselves when they were discharged.

Mr. Mackenzie said this unemployment payment to them, however, will not exceed their rate of pay while they were a member of the armed forces. A dependent wife or a pensioned widow would receive this benefit unless such re-establishment grant was necessary.

THREE NAZI PEACE PROPOSALS WOULD RETAIN RULE OVER EUROPE

LONDON, April 30 —(CP)—Germany is declared by the Free French News Agency A.F.I. to have proposed peace to Britain three times since mid-March, basing this spring offensive upon a nine-page "Goering memorandum" which would give Germany undisputed mastery of continental Europe. Freedom for concentration of Nazi forces on the Russian front —ending of Allied aerial blows and the threat of new land action in the West— was the reported aim of Hitler's Government.

British official disclaimed knowledge of any such overtures and, although newspapers freely discussed a possibility that Italy would drop out of the war, there was no direct authoritative or journalistic disposition to place much stock in rumors about Axis peace feelers.

Moreover, both Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have declared there would be no negotiations with the Nazis, described by Mr. Churchill as "the guilty men who have let hell loose upon the world."

However, the A.F.I., affiliated with Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French Government, reported details without qualification in a dispatch last night. It said the three proposals were rerouted through Turkey, Switzerland and Sweden; that all were similar.

The agency said the memorandum provided that Germany would control the continent, annex "living space" from Russia and control virtually all the French, Dutch and Belgian colonial possessions.

What Hitler Would Do

If the Allied powers accepted these conditions, it said, Germany would undertake:—

1. To recognize the British Empire in its present form.

2. To recognize "control" of Latin America by the United States "both in political and economic spheres."

3. To collaborate in setting up a trade system among the three resultant "empires."

The last paragraph was reported to have referred to assistance which Germany would be prepared to give the Allies in order that they might "drive Japan back to her natural limits."

(A Berlin propaganda broadcast last night concerning President Roosevelt's Tuesday night speech referred three times to "the Axis powers and Japan," as if Japan were not a part of the Axis. It suggested that the United States would restrict military activity to the western hemisphere for "a perfectly comfortable war."

(Japan reported last Dec. 11 that Japan, Germany and Italy had signed a pact and that none would make a separate peace.)

Attribution of the peace memorandum to Goering recalled the Ru-

Japs Divide Allies Near Lashio

Force Quick British Retreat North To Guard India Routes

LONDON, April 30—(CP).—The Japanese astride the Burma road in the vicinity of Lashio have separated the British and Chinese defenders of Burma so that the British forces must withdraw rapidly northward to eescape being cut off and to guard thte way to India, a well-informed source indicated today.

This source said the British forces on the west and the Chinese on the east would continue to defend Burma on two different fronts and might attempt to reunite by making desperate counter-attacks from the northest and northeast.

British troops, however, must pull out of their present positions below Mandalay, now vulnerable to a Japanese thrust from the northeast —the left rear. In any case, it was said, they would continue to fight along the Irrawaddy river from Mandalay clear up to the headquarters at Bhamo, 175 milese to the north, if need be.

Must Hold New Routes

They must protect that region to save the new routes now being constructed between China and India. The source here said the British forces expect to receive extensive supplies and reinforcements over those routes when they are completed.

The British troops around Meiktila, 80 miles south of Mandalay, killed 150 Japanese and destroyed an invader transport two days ago, it was said, but this small victory does not change the necessity for a rapid withdrawal northward because of the Japanese advance against the Chinese on the east.

To be successful, this withdrawal must already have begun, many informed sources in London thought.

There is a tendency here to lay the Chinese weakness on the east to the fact they sent reinforcements into the west to relieve a British force encircled at Yenangyaung last week.

Well-informed military sources discounted this, saying the Chinese sent to Britain's assistance were fresh from China and that in any case "reinforcements were sent where they were needed at the time."

The Chinese now are expected to continue fighting parallel to the Burma Road, possibly with reinforcements and fresh supplies sent from China.

The British and Indian forces are expected to make stands along the Irrawaddy, making use of a narrow-gauge railway west of the Irrawaddy from near Mandalay northeastward through Shwebo and Kawlin to Myithkyina, 81 miles north of Bhamo and 900 miles upriver from the sea.

ing division to assume responsibility for the training and re-establishment of special casualties, such as amputees and the blind. It will also choose those who will assume their interrupted education with public assistance and will provide vocational guidance and training for physically fit discharged men.

Discharged men will receive subsistence allowances while undergoing vocational training; while completing educational courses interrupted by enlistment; while awaiting returns of an independent enterprise, such as farming and while waiting employment opportunity.

Carry On Insurance

So that enlisted men will not lose the benefits of the unemployment insurance fund, Mr. Mackenzie said, the government will pay into the fund the contributions that, in the case of a civilian, would be paid by employer and employee. The discharged person entering into insurable employment would be credited with the period of his active service as if it were insured employment. However, he would not be able to collect unemployment insurance until he had worked for at least 15 weeks within a year after discharge.

Many subcommittees on rehabilitation were still working on such problems as vocational guidance techniques, vocational training procedure; returned soldiers' insurance; specialized placement of handicapped men, occupational statistical analysis and demobilization.

Seeks $100 Loan Gets $7,000 At Gun Point

MONTREAL, April 30 — Staid Montreal banking circles were nonplussed last night by the unorthodox methods reportedly used by a well-dressed "businessman" to obtain a loan.

After having discussed the matter of borrowing $100 with a bank manager for an hour and a half, the man walked out with $7,000 he obtained at the point of a gun.

J. L. Kinsella, manager of the Royal bank of Canada branch at 6969 St. Denis street, told police a prosperous-looking stranger entered the bank shortly before 3 p.m. closing time and asked him for a loan of $100.

"He impressed me as a man with a good position who needed $100 very badly," Kinsella said. "We talked the matter over until 4.30. He was very persistent, even when I explained he would have to have some one back his note.

"Then he pulled a gun on me. It was a real gun—it was no toy," he declared, recounting how the holdup man had held it pressed against him. The bandit back Kinsella and four other bank employees into the bathroom and tied the door shut with a rope from the door-knob to the leg of a table.

Kinsella said the five pushed the door open and reached the front of the bank in time to see the man drive off in a black coupe.

Kinsella said the would-be borrower was about 35 year old, six feet tall partially bald clean-shaven and exceptionally well-dressed.

Claim House Grip Slips On Spending

Private M.P.'s Demand More Work, Put Finger On Senate

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 30.—(CP)—Several members of the House of Commons were on record today with protests that parliament is losing control over expenditures of public money.

The protests—similar to those heard on many occasions in recent years—came at yesterday's short sitting of the House, coupled with demands for more participation by private members in the work of government, and a demand for investigation of the Munitions and Supplies Department expenditures.

For more than an hour the House debated points of order on refusal of the government to reveal names of persons receiving subsidies and bonuses, and for nearly two hours the House discussed a resolution to reorganize last year's committee on war expenditures.

There was also a suggestion in the debate that parliament, partly through its own fault, was "falling into disrepute" and a suggestion that senators should be made to work harder for their sessional indemnities.

Normal proceedings, as scheduled on the order paper, were lost in a flood of argument and oratory, and "orders of the day"—that stage when members are permitted to ask questions of the ministry—had not been reached at adjournment, the first time in years that this has happened.

Game for Punsters

Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) declared that "Parliamentary institutions in this country have, to some extent, fallen into disrepute," and he protested at the manner in which the nation's business was being conducted.

"Parliament has become fair game for punsters, wits and columnists," he said, "and we in this House must accept some share of responsibility for the fact that there is a growing feeling that parliament has become largely a talkshop rather than a workshop."

But John Blackmore, leader of the New Democracy, disagreed. Of those who claimed there was too

Kansas Tornado Kills Another 12

OBERLIN, KaKs., April 30 (AP)—A midnight Tornado ripped through southern Decatur County today killing 12 persons. Thirteen others suffered severe injuries.

Two entire families were wiped out by the storm which slashed through a farming area south of Oberlin. A four-year-old, blown away had not been found by rescuers hours later.

The city, itself, escaped damage.

The furious blast carried away livestock and levelled farm buildings through an area one-half-mile wide. In several instances not a trace of the buildings remained.

One victim, Mrs. Dale Paddock, was found on a creek bank, her head and shoulders driven into the ground by the twister. Her son vanished, her husband, the third member of the family was killed also.

Gus Leipner, his wife and daughter, were killed in the wreckage of their home.

Oberlin is in the northwest corner of Kansas, about 30 miles south of the Nebraska line.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 30 — (CP). — Darius Jackson and two of his children, a 10-year-old girl and an eight-year-old boy, perished in a fire which swept through their home here early this morning. Two other girls jumped to safety through a second-storey window and suffered cuts, burns and bruises.

The fire apparently started from an overheated stove in a kitchen at the rear.

Firemen were able to bring the fire under control and remove the bodies of the three victims, who apparently were smothered in the smoke.

Mrs. Jackson was visiting her mother in a local hospital at the time of the fire.

Damage is estimated at $1,200 to building and contents.

Chandos Man Fined For Dog Being Free

For allowing a dog to run at large during the closed season for deer and in a district where deer were known to be Victor Tanner of Chandos township was fined $10 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

The young farmer, who pleaded guilty to the charge told the court that it was only through an accident that the dog had got away on this occasion.

The dog had gone into the woods, chased and caught a deer and injured the animal so badly that it had to be killed.

"The deer was in very bad condition," Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons stated. "Otherwise I don't think the dog would have caught it."

"He does not look like the law-breaking type of citizen," Magistrate Langley said in imposing a minimum fine on the accused.

U.S. Supply Flow Satisfies Stalin

KUIBYSHEV, April 30—(AP)—William H. Standley, United States Ambassador to Russia, declared today that the flow of United States war supplies to Russia is up to commitments as of the end of April, and said Premier Joseph Stalin had expressed satisfaction with the deliveries.

Standley who just returned from Moscow, said Stalin had no complaints.

He said he also discussed with Stalin the internment of the crew of a United States bomber which landed in Siberia after the air raids on Japan reported April 18.

The ambassador added that there was nothing new to disclose beyond the fact that the airmen were all right and were receiving treatment in accord with international law.

"Stalin has confidence in victory," said Standley, "but he does not underestimate the problem before Russia."

Kinsmen Told Civil War Now In Canada

COBOURG, April 30 — (ENS).— I. D. Willis, editor of the Port Hope Evening Guide, delivered address to the Cobourg Kinsmen Club at their regular meeting here. Mr. Willis, who has travelled extensively in the East, took "Democracy" as his subject.

"If we think only of what we are fighting against, we are missing something," he declared. "We must also find something for which to fight. After the war, it will not do any good if we lapse back into our former ways."

"A civil war is now going on here," Mr. Willis declared, "between the forces which want to see a better Canada and a group which is saying 'Why should I give up things for others?'

"Are we going to have a Canada that is a real nation or one that is a group of nine little, squabbling republics?" he queried. "The wealth of Ontario should be shared with fellow Canadians."

Quoting from R. H. Markham's "The Wave of the Past," he said, "Democracy and only democracy enables the people to make real gains for the people. Democracy is the sovereignty of the people, carrying responsibility, power and willingness to sacrifice. We are responsible for each other, but mostly for the children and for the old people."

"We can make democracy work if we are prepared to have the will and the wisdom to make sacrifices. We are the sovereign power, but we must accept responsibilities which go with it. It's far more right to fight for a cause we believe right, rather than in hate alone."

Russian Morale Will Save Soviet Nation

PORT HOPE, April 30—(ENS).— The guest speaker at the Canadian Club meeting on Tuesday night in the Library Hall was A. H. Humble. Mrs. J. A. V. Fraser, president of the club, in introducing the speaker, mentioned that how fortunate the club was in having such splendid local speakers available. Mr. Humble is a teacher at Trinity College School.

The speaker took as the topic of his address "Some Aspects of the Russian Successes," and explained how he had become interested in this subject at a dinner in London, England, when he had listened to discussions by Sidney Webb, perhaps better known as Lord Passfield, and the author, J. K. Chesterton, on Russia, and it was then that Mr. Humble decided that Russia would make a most interesting study. This he did through contact and in getting other people's views, and through books and magazine articles.

Wrong Impressions.

Mr. Humble pointed out the wrong impressions a great many people get from brief visions of travellers who are only possibly in a country a couple of weeks and then draw their conclusions from only what they are able to contact in that brief time.

Mr. Humble continued his address by telling how difficult it had been to understand the modern Russia with its five-year plan experiments. The first five-year plan proved somewhat of a failure, while the second benefitted by those failures, and was partially successful. In 1937 Russia introduced a new constitution giving everyone a vote by secret ballot, which could not possibly have been done ten years before, but through these five-year experiments it was made possible and was an indication of the trend of events toward the betterment of Russia. At the outbreak of war in 1939 Stalin realized the necessity of the replacement of the German-made machinery which Russia was using almost completely, and he had to make a study of all agreements and his acceptance of such was only because he realized that a break with Germany at that time would be disastrous to Russia.

According to the treaties, Russian economic help to Germany was to be forthcoming but Germany, not getting this expected assistance, invaded Russia and international Bolshevism gave way to Socialism.

Mr. Humble stated that the young Communists came to the fore in 1937 and 1938 and they saw before them a great future. Attention was drawn to the trickery of Stalin in using the oldest of his tanks and equipment for all reviews so as not to expose to Germany the real power of the Russian army.

In closing Mr. Humble declared that when this war is decided, it will be the moral of the Russian people that will have saved them from the Nazi.

The meeting was declared open by the speaker for questions which were many and most interesting ones, which were ably answered by Mr. Humble, who was thanked by Mrs. Fraser for such an interesting and beneficial lecture.

The meeting closed with God Save the King.

Lions Juvenile Court Goes On

PORT HOPE, April 30.—(ENS).— One of the most interesting meetings yet held by the Lions Club Safety Club was held on Wednesday night in the form of a mock court.

This court was held in the court room at the town hall with Magistrate R. B. Baxter presiding. Lawyer Lewis was counsel for the defence, while Lawyer Richardson was prosecutor. To add to the atmosphere of the evening Constable Weatherup and Constable Rafter of the town police force were also present.

Some of the offences heard were jay walking, crossing in the centre of an intersection, playing ball on the road, bicycling on the sidewalk. These cases were examined by the solicitors and cross-examined, making the procedure very realistic. Even the court stenographer, Miss Ola Fox, was in attendance and taking down the usual case history.

The penalties were adminstered to the extent of the prohibition of the use of a bicycle for one day, a 3c fine. One case was dismissed and one case given suspended sentence.

One of the lovely gestures of the club was the presenting of a lovely bunch of sweet peas tied with tulle to Miss Fox as a gesture of appreciation.

Canuck Bags Junkers

LONDON ,April 30—(CP Cable). —A Canadian Spitfire pilot on dawn patrol shot down a German Junkers bomber to-day.

With another Spitfire pilot, the Canadian, PO. Lyman Edward Hokan of St. Catharines, Ont., was at 1,000 feet when he saw the Junkers flying close to the water three miles away.

The Spitfires gave chase and the enemy jettisoned his bombs into the sea. Hokan opened the attack from a height of only 100 feet and saw a piece of Junkers tail fall into the sea after the first burst.

Parental Neglect Blamed For Delinquency

An interesting and educational description of civil and criminal law extant in this province was given to the members of the Port Hope Home and School Club this week by Magistrate R. B. Baxter. His topic was "The Magistrate and His Work."

He started his address with the explanation of the difference between civil and criminal law and how the administration of the criminal law falls into three divisions.

There is the magistrate, the county court judge and the supreme court. The magistrate deals with practically 75 per cent or more of the criminal cases. A summary case where the magistrate's view is final and an indictable offence which is more serious and the offender has a choice whether he will be tried by a magistrate or by a judge and jury. Mr. Baxter however stated that a magistrate gets practically 95 per cent of these cases.

A magistrate is appointed by the attorney-general and is authorized to issue warrants which up to 1934 a warrant was only valid in the district where it was issued, consequently there was a great loss of time in serving the warrant on the offender, but now a magistrate can serve a warrant which is good all over the province. All magistrates must be lawyers, at one time this was not necessary.

A magistrate's duty it is to preside at court and in this district there are three magistrates and eight courts and any may be called to sit in any court. Mr. Baxter also explained that a magistrate never knows what he is going to run into as a judge usually knows some details ahead, a magistrate doesn't.

The minimum and maximum penalty was then discussed and Mr. Baxter gave splendid illustrations as he proceeded with his address. In this case he told of seven boys who were up for stealing and how three different sentences were given four were sent to reform school and two to the penitentiary and one given suspended sentence. In this case back history helped determine the sentence given each.

Another illustration was of three children who appeared in juvenile court for non-attendance at school and when he asked the age of the children the father did not know. When Mr. Baxter questioned the father he found there were seventeen children in this family so decided that even a $5 fine would be out of place so gave a suspended sentence here.

Magistrate Baxter pointed out that often it was only fatherly advice that he was called upon to give.

Some of the most frequent cases a magistrate has to deal with is the violation of the Highway Traffic Act, Liquor Control Act, Desertion Act, Children's Protection and petty trespass.

In 1893 the criminal code became the same in all provinces of Canada and up till that time each province had different laws.

Mr. Baxter gave an example of juvenile court cases taking for an example an eleven-year-old girl, who on her third appearance had to be put in a reform school, but whose background and parents were really to blame for the child's unfortunate acts. The majority of these juvenile cases when investigated are found to have home influence lacking.

Magistrate Baxter concluded his address by saying that in general his work was most interesting.

Mrs. Van Everdingen expressed the appreciation of the club to Mr. Baxter for a most instructive address.

The meeting closed with "God Save the King" after which coffee and doughnuts were served.

Less Cigars For Ruth

NEW YORK, April 30 — (AP).— Babe Ruth, whose chief worry two weeks ago was pneumonia, came home today from the west coast confronted with a new problem— how to reduce his daily consumption of 10 to 15 cigars.

"The doctors say cut down on cigars—and no beer or highballs," the former home-run king said as he arrived by train from Los Angeles.

Ruth was stricken while playing in a film, based on the life of the late Lou Gehrig, but made a rapid recovery.

Campbellford Bowlers Are Out On Greens

CAMPBELLFORD, April 30. — (ENS). — Local bowlers who beat their all-time early opening record when they visited the green three days ago with a men's doubles game returned to the green again on Wednesday for two 16-end rink games with President H. J. Taylor and J. A. Linton taking on Charles Calver and Lloyd Taylor. The two sides broke even on the score despite the fact that all but Charlie Calver inaugurated the season on April 26. Though the opening tourney here will not take place until June 11, members expect to have a good number of games in before that time. If present weather conditions continue the local games schedule will be drawn up by mid-May.

Nickel Expanding On War Demand

TORONTO, April 30. — (CP).— The International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited is opening new ore bodies and expanding its production plant at a cost of $35,000,000 to meet the demands for nickel for war purposes, Robert C. Stanley, chairman and president of the company, told shareholders in is address at the annual meeting here yesterday. With the new plant in operation in 1943, the company's output of nickel will be approximately 50,000,000 pounds greater than in 1940.

The company is financing the expansion from its own treasury but to ease the burden the government, said Mr. Stanley, is permitting the company to amortize within a five-year period expenditures up to $25,000,000. It is assumed that part or all of the new plant may not be needed after the war.

With regard to copper, the president said the company's contract with the British government was renewed last September with the terms unchanged. Delivery is made at a Canadian port at a price equal to that prevailing on the London metal market just before the outbreak of war with allowances for increases in costs over pre-war costs. Deliveries are made to the Canadian market on about the same terms, the return to the company being "substantially less than the price ruling in the United States."

Urges Franchise Be Given Girls And Boys At Age 18 Years

PORT HOPE, April 30—(ENS).— The monthly meeting of the Home and School Club was held Tuesday night. In the absence of the president, Mrs. D. Warner, a past president, Mrs. C. M. Thompson, presided. Mrs. Thompson, in her opening remarks, referred to a slogan given by Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin at a home and School club meeting that "You can't have your cake and eat it" and how every person must sacrifice and put everything into the war effort and how the Home and School organization can give such valuable assistance to this work.

Nomination blanks were given out by Mr. Austin, who stipulated that these blanks must be filled and returned to the nominating committee before May 15. In the treasurer's report fifty-five members were recorded and a balance of $8.50 in cash.

A letter was read by Mrs. Van Everdinger from Miss Jean Peacock, acknowledging the six layettes which the club had sent to England.

Mrs. Moncrief, who had attended the Home and School convention in Toronto, gave a report which was most interesting. She spoke of the session presided over by Mrs. Mancekivell, where questions were asked, discussed and forcefully answered. At one of the luncheons Dr. A. B. Currie addressed the ground on "Parents and Democracy." One of his statements was that "the home is the citadel of democracy and the parents are its guardians" and our present day educators problem is to make the educational system fit the times and how the children must be prepared for family life and responsibilities.

At another session Dr. C. C. Goldring, superintendent of schools in Toronto, spoke on "Some Educational Gaps." Some of his suggestions were that boys and girls be allowed to vote at 18, which is an age when an interest in public affairs is very keen and they have a good knowledge of citizenship as a result of their school education, while sometimes by the time they reach the age of 21 this interest is lost to some extent. Dr. Goldring also suggested that the school age be extended from 16 to 17 to help the employment situation. He also dwelt on the health situation in Canada and how only 56 per cent of the men examined for armed forces were in category "A".

Capt. [illegible] G. Cavell spoke at one of the [illegible] on "This Fight for Civil[illegible] which was an interesting address dealing with Japan, where he had spent some time.

Mrs. Silcox, who had been president of the Confederation of Home and School Associations resigned after three years in office and was succeeded by Mrs. R. K. Hall. Mrs. Silcox, in her address at this convention, told how the Home and School Association had gone forward even in these trying times and how in the last three years 100 new associations had been organized, making a total of 440 with a membership of over 30,000. Mrs. Silcox was presented ith a life membership by Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin.

The local Home and School club expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Moncrief for her most interesting report of the convention. After this Dr. C. B. Kelly gave a short talk on toxoids emphasizing the real need to immunize the children. Last week, Dr. Kelly stated, was toxoid week, and the response was poor.

PORT HOPE, April 30.—(ENS).— One of the most interesting meetings yet held by the Lions Club Safety Club was held on Wednesday night in the form of a mock court.

This court was held in the court room at the town hall with Magistrate R. B. Baxter presiding. Lawyer Lewis was counsel for the defence, while Lawyer Richardson was prosecutor. To add to the atmosphere of the evening Constable Weatherup and Constable Rafter of the town police force were also present.

Some of the offences heard were jay walking, crossing in the centre of an intersection, playing ball on the road, bicycling on the sidewalk. These cases were examined by the solicitors and cross-examined, making the procedure very realistic. Even the court stenographer, Miss Ola Fox, was in attendance and taking down the usual case history.

The penalties were adminstered to the extent of the prohibition of the use of a bicycle for one day, a 3c fine. One case was dismissed and one case given suspended sentence.

One of the lovely gestures of the club was the presenting of a lovely bunch of sweet peas tied with tulle to Miss Fox as a gesture of appreciation.

Canuck Bags Junkers

LONDON, April 30—(CP Cable). —A Canadian Spitfire pilot on dawn patrol shot down a German Junkers bomber to-day.

With another Spitfire pilot, the Canadian, PO. Lyman Edward Hokan of St. Catharines, Ont., was at 1,000 feet when he saw the Junkers flying close to the water three miles away.

The Spitfires gave chase and the enemy jettisoned his bombs into the sea. Hokan opened the attack from a height of only 100 feet and saw a piece of Junkers tail fall into the sea after the first burst.

Parental Neglect Blamed For Delinquency

An interesting and educational description of civil and criminal law extant in this province was given to the members of the Port Hope Home and School Club this week by Magistrate R. B. Baxter. His topic was "The Magistrate and His Work."

He started his address with the explanation of the difference between civil and criminal law and how the administration of the criminal law falls into three divisions.

There is the magistrate, the county court judge and the supreme court. The magistrate deals with practically 75 per cent or more of the criminal cases. A summary case where the magistrate's view is final and an indictable offence which is more serious and the offender has a choice whether he will be tried by a magistrate or by a judge and jury. Mr. Baxter however stated that a magistrate gets practically 95 per cent of these cases.

A magistrate is appointed by the attorney-general and is authorized to issue warrants which up to 1934 a warrant was only valid in the district where it was issued, consequently there was a great loss of time in serving the warrant on the offender, but now a magistrate can serve a warrant which is good all over the province. All magistrates must be lawyers, at one time this was not necessary.

A magistrate's duty it is to preside at court and in this district there are three magistrates and eight courts and any may be called to sit in any court. Mr. Baxter also explained that a magistrate never knows what he is going to run into as a judge usually knows some details ahead, a magistrate doesn't.

The minimum and maximum penalty was then discussed and Mr. Baxter gave splendid illustrations as he proceeded with his address. In this case he told of seven boys who were up for stealing and how three different sentences were given four were sent to reform school and two to the penitentiary and one given suspended sentence. In this case back history helped determine the sentence given each.

Another illustration was of three children who appeared in juvenile court for non-attendance at school and when he asked the age of the children the father did not know. When Mr. Baxter questioned the father he found there were seventeen children in this family so decided that even a $5 fine would be out of place so gave a suspended sentence here.

Magistrate Baxter pointed out that often it was only fatherly advice that he was called upon to give.

Some of the most frequent cases a magistrate has to deal with is the violation of the Highway Traffic Act, Liquor Control Act, Desertion Act, Children's Protection and petty trespass.

In 1893 the criminal code became the same in all provinces of Canada and up till that time each province had different laws.

Mr. Baxter gave an example of juvenile court cases taking for an example an eleven-year-old girl, who on her third appearance had to be put in a reform school, but whose background and parents were really to blame for the child's unfortunate acts. The majority of these juvenile cases when investigated are found to have home influence lacking.

Magistrate Baxter concluded his address by saying that in general his work was most interesting.

Mrs. Van Everdingen expressed the appreciation of the club to Mr. Baxter for a most instructive address.

The meeting closed with "God Save the King" after which coffee and doughnuts were served.

Less Cigars For Ruth

NEW YORK, April 30 — (AP).— Babe Ruth, whose chief worry two weeks ago was pneumonia, came home today from the west coast confronted with a new problem—how to reduce his daily consumption of 10 to 15 cigars.

"The doctors say cut down on cigars—and no beer or highballs," the former home-run king said as he arrived by train from Los Angeles.

Ruth was stricken while playing in a film, based on the life of the late Lou Gehrig, but made a rapid recovery.

Urges Franchise Be Given Girls And Boys At Age 18 Years

PORT HOPE, April 30—(ENS).— The monthly meeting of the Home and School Club was held Tuesday night. In the absence of the president, Mrs. D. Warner, a past president, Mrs. C. M. Thompson, presided. Mrs. Thompson, in her opening remarks, referred to a slogan given by Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin at a home and School club meeting that "You can't have your cake and eat it" and how every person must sacrifice and put everything into the war effort and how the Home and School organization can give such valuable assistance to this work.

Nomination blanks were given out by Mr. Austin, who stipulated that these blanks must be filled and returned to the nominating committee before May 15. In the treasurer's report fifty-five members were recorded and a balance of $8.50 in cash.

A letter was read by Mrs. Van Everdinger from Miss Jean Peacock, acknowledging the six layettes which the club had sent to England.

Mrs. Moncrief, who had attended the Home and School convention in Toronto, gave a report which was most interesting. She spoke of the session presided over by Mrs. Mancekivell, where questions were asked, discussed and forcefully answered. At one of the luncheons Dr. A. B. Currie addressed the ground on "Parents and Democracy." One of his statements was that "the home is the citadel of democracy and the parents are its guardians" and our present day educators problem is to make the educational system fit the times and how the children must be prepared for family life and responsibilities.

At another session Dr. C. C. Goldring, superintendent of schools in Toronto, spoke on "Some Educational Gaps." Some of his suggestions were that boys and girls be allowed to vote at 16, which is an age when an interest in public affairs is very keen and they have a good knowlodge of citizenship as a result of their school education, while sometimes by the time they reach the age of 21 this interest is lost to some extent. Dr. Goldring also suggested that the school age be extended from 16 to 17 to help the employment situation. He also dwelt on the health situation in Canada and how only 56 per cent of the men examined for armed forces were in category "A".

Capt. [illegible] G. Cavell spoke at one of the [illegible] on "This Fight for Civi[illegible] which was an interesting address dealing with Japan, where he had spent some time.

Mrs. Silcox, who had been president of the Confederation of Home and School Associations resigned after three years in office and was succeeded by Mrs. R. K. Hall. Mrs. Silcox, in her address at this convention, told how the Home and School Association had gone forward even in these trying times and how in the last three years 100 new associations had been organized, making a total of 440 with a membership of over 30,000. Mrs. Silcox was presented with a life membership by Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin.

The local Home and School club expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Moncrief for her most interesting report of the convention. After this Dr. C. B. Kelly gave a short talk on toxoids emphasizing the real need to immunize the children. Last week, Dr. Kelly stated, was toxoid week, and the response was poor.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.

To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Canada As Mediator

Mr. Henry R. Luce, publisher of Time, Life and Fortune, gave a meaty address to the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto on Tuesday night, and in the course of it he made this statement: "Canada occupies a unique position as a mediator of understanding between the United States and Great Britain," and he continued: "If I may be quite honest, with you, I am not sure that you in Canada have fully discharged your duty in this respect in recent months—either to us, or to Great Britain or to yourselves. You are a part of an Empire which it is your business to reconsider. That involves a reconsideration of the world. We await the results of your consideration."

We have all heard about Canada's position as mediator between Great Britain and the United States many times, and most thinking people in this country are in complete agreement with Mr. Luce. But there have always been certain practical difficulties in the way, and war has increased them. As a mediator between the two great countries Canada is rather like a boy of twenty set to mediate between two vigorous, opinionated men of fifty; they may give the boy a courteous hearing from time to time, but when the argument is hot they simply ignore him. There is some justification in their attitude, but it is hard on the boy's self-esteem. His ideas may be good, and he may see better than the others what needs to be done, but he simply has not the shouting-power to make himself heard or the strength of personality to overcome the handicap of youth. And the fact that, if a bomb drops on the party he will be blown as high as his elders makes no special difference.

The role of mediator is difficult also when prejudices exist against both parties. The greatest single cultural and commercial influence on Canada is the United States. And yet we are eager to retain our individuality, and insist that we are a British country whenever the U.S. seems inclined to take us for granted. But in spite of our British protestations the majority of us have never seen Britain and deeply resent anything which smacks, however faintly, of patronage by the Mother Country. Both our good friends have found that the maple leaf can be very thorny. It is unfortunate that Canada is not able to relax more in the assurance of her dignity and worth; a good mediator must be unobtrusive without being insignificant.

Nevertheless, the role of mediator is ours and we cannot shelve it until we are fully grown up; if necessary, we must force our growth a little. As Mr. Luce points out, Britain must always be slightly uneasy until the U.S. gives unmistakable signs that she will assume her place in world affairs when the war is over. If the U.S. were to retire again in disgust from international politics, adopting an isolation which is in fact a repudiation of responsibility, Britain would be left holding the bag, and it is doubtful if she could hold it for long. There are many indications that the people of the U.S. have awakened from their long dream of isolation and realize the demoralizing effect upon the world which results when an enormously powerful and wealthy country refuses to accept its responsibilities. But after the fighting is done there will be agitation once again for the chimaerical pleasures of isolationism, and the cry will go up that the U.S. can best serve itself by minding its own business. Nothing could be more untrue. It is only when the fighting is done that the real struggle to build a lasting peace and a better world may begin, and unless the U.S. takes its full part in that struggle a century of chaos will result.

* * *

Does Mr. Luce then see it as Canada's duty to stress the part which America as a whole must play in world reconstruction? Are we so to infect the people of the U.S. with our determination to see the war and the peace through, without slackening our effort for an instant, that they will not even hear the siren song of isolationism? Are we to appear to Great Britain not merely as a friend, but as a blood relative on this side of the water, determined to subordinate self-interest to the common good when the war of guns is over and the deadlier war of economics begins? If that is what is expected of us we must shake off our fears and set to work now, for the task will grow more difficult every day it is deferred.

The Port Hope Line Remains

The citizens of Peterborough and district will be glad to hear that the C.N.R. has decided to postpone the closing of the branch line between Port Hope and this City indefinitely. If the line had been closed it would have meant considerable hardship to many people in this area who depend upon its service to send their produce to the market and to make trips to larger centres themselves. It would also have closed one of Peterborough's outlets to the lakeshore and would have made communication with those towns a nuisance and sometimes an impossibility.

It is also extremely necessary that this city keep a direct communication with the lakefront, now that the St. Lawrence Waterway plan is advancing.. If the Waterway is to have the influence upon trade which is imputed to it by its supporters, it would not do for an important manufacturing city to be cut off from its benefits. Even at some present inconvenience and loss, we must keep the line open as an investment in the future.

A great part of the credit for the maintenance of this service is due to the local Chamber of Commerce, which made vigorous representations to the C.N.R. on the subject. We are fortunate in having such a body to safeguard our interests in matters of this kind.

Amusing—But Not Now

This war has provided many extremely funny incidents; it is a pity that we have no time to stop for a laugh. The latest joke is the declaration of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru that Sir Stafford Cripps had a wrong approach to the Indian problem and that he succeeded only in augmenting native bitterness. Sir Stafford's approach was "communal" when, presumably, it should have been exclusively Indian. The disappointment over the failure of the talks will inevitably affect India's progress of resistance to the aggressor, we are told.

Lack of realism in India, and nothing else, was the reason for the failure of the talks. It is certainly a matter for regret that Britain's proposition to India had to be put before the Indian leaders at such a moment, but history rarely gives instances of important things happening at the most convenient time; Western man moves only when he is goaded by circumstances—Eastern man not even then. The offer was made and it was refused, and the wailing and wringing of hands which is going on in India now is nothing more than disappointment that other offers were not forthcoming. But arranging for the self-government of a huge country is not haggling over the price of a hen in a bazaar, and India cannot expect Britain to waste valuable time now. Britain must defend India in the best way possible, and the actions of the Indian leaders at present inspire little confidence in their ability to handle the problem for themselves, even if they had been given the chance to do so.

Britain has made it clear that the next move toward a better understanding must come from India; India has made it clear that her Congress will not move a step in this direction, and some Indian leaders are wasting valuable time in blackguarding Cripps. Meanwhile Nehru's plea that the United Nations acknowledge the independence of India is amusing, though we have no time for prolonged laughter.

A Shattered Illusion

One of our most cherished illusions has been shattered. For many years, in common with several million other people, we have found much relaxation and vicarious excitement in stories of espionage, and in these stories a beautiful female spy was always a prominent figure. She was invariably possessed of a beauty which maddened diplomats, statesmen and military leaders, driving them to reveal the most cherished secrets of their countries; not infrequently she was engaged in securing the plans of new and deadly weapons, which she conveyed to the government of the country for which she worked.

Early in the progress of this war our favorite dream was interrupted, when we learned that the plans of even quite a small gun spread over a ton or more of blueprint paper; obviously our spy would never be able to conceal them in the bosom of her dress, or have them traced upon her right thigh, later to be examined by fascinated engineers in her native land. Still, we thought, she might sneak the most important diagrams into a couple of trunks. But now we are forced to abandon our concept of the beautiful spy altogether, for we learn that Germany is the only country in the world which employs such operatives, and one has been captured in Yucatan who seems to be an arrant bungler.

In the first place, she let herself be caught. No beautiful spy in a book would ever do that; she would shoot herself with a pearl-handled revolver first. In the second place, she revealed her country's plan, which involved a fueling station for submarines; in a book she would have fascinated her captors and so have wormed a few secrets out of them. Finally, she has been shipped to the U.S. and is now in jail. A beautiful spy in prison garb is unthinkable; in books their working clothes are made of black velvet, and not too much of that. The whole affair, we may say, has been a blow to us, and we are giving our whole library of spy stories to the troops, who will probably find them laughable. Illusions are harder to keep than money, these days.

Soaking The Rich Again

It is interesting to see that President Roosevelt means to ask Congress to limit income in the U.S. to $25,000 yearly, or less, after income tax has been paid. This will come as a blow to many wealthy Americans, and it is very doubtful if, once such legislation was ratified, it would ever be possible to get rid of it.

If a similar ceiling on incomes were to be introduced in Canada it would not affect many of our citizens. A man must make $60,000 a year here before he is allowed to keep $25,000. Of course, such matters as the size of his family, the number of dependents, and his gifts to charity affect these calculations. There are perhaps 400 men in this country who would suffer by the imposition of such a ceiling.

To most of us $25,000 a year seems wealth beyond the dreams of avarice, but increased income and increased responsibilities go hand in hand, and the calls upon the wealthy, quite apart from those made by the Government, are many. The effects of the American experiment, if they make it, will not be apparent for a few years, but when they emerge at last they should provide an extremely interesting study.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Mr. King Walks Half-Mile To Exercise His Franchise," says a headline. Probably stretched his legs, too.

An American tank arriving in Britain was found to be full of cigarettes. Symbolic, presumably, of America's intention of standing by her ally to the last gasp.

The St. Thomas Times-Journal suggests that something be done about rationing loose talk. Maybe a general tightening-up would do the trick.

Coffee has been reduced to 75 per cent. of normal consumption in the U.S., we see. Our coffee-loving friends will find this a real hardship. When Americans have to cut down on coffee and Britons on tea—that's sacrifice.

Toronto children, we observe, are to be taught the value of eating plenty of fresh vegetables by means of puppet shows. Still, we doubt if the children will be flattered by the idea that they have anything to learn from a lot of wooden-heads.

We observe with alarm that the Quiz Kids ("America's Amazing Mental Marvels") have been awarded a medal by the National Father's Day Council. Most fathers have enough trouble with their own Quiz Kids, without encouraging the question-asking habit.

Sir William Mulock, we notice, asked to see a copy of the statute regarding the plebiscite before he marked his ballot. What we should like to know is: What would Sir William have done if he had found something which was not in order?

JAPANESE REPORT!

After the War report your gallantry,
That with an embassy of peace you came;
Inform your ancestors, that they may see
The brand of infamy upon their name!
Declare our foolish faith, your smooth deceit
And clever victory, but that instead
Of tears, we felt no shame for our defeat—
O gallant victors, tell this to the dead!
But tell the Unborn, for a thousand years,
This story of a treachery so base
That you were branded meanest of your race!
Report that from that day, in place of fears,
You gave us fearlessness from shore to shore,
Proudly to meet our Dead forevermore!

Love Of Russia Becomes Respectable

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

FOR the past twenty years it has been impossible to express strong admiration for anything Russian without incurring the suspicion of almost anyone who possessed a steady income and a decent standard of living. To all such Russia meant Communism, and Communism meant a threat to the aforementioned income and standard of living; it also meant the horrors of atheism. Russians, we were assured, were prohibited by law from believing in God, and there was no public worship. We were also assured that no Russian could call anything, not even his toothbrush, his own. Russians upon the whole were considered a bad lot, and the local supporters of Communism were lumped in with them.

Now the song has changed, and with reason. The Russians have revealed themselves as much more astute politically than we, and they have shown a passion for their country and a valor in its defence which puts us to shame. The popular belief that the Russian people were unhappy under Communism and were only too eager to be rid of their leaders has been shown up as a complete misapprehension. We have also seen that, whether or not Russians own their own toothbrushes, they certainly believe that they own their whole country and are willing to go to any lengths to defend it. We have learned that belief in God is not encouraged, but that public worship does go on and that no one who wishes to take part in it is forbidden to do so. And the Russians, far from being a scurvy lot of funny-paper anarchists, have shown themselves as real men and women, somewhat more alert to realities than ourselves.

IT WAS Russia's supposed atheism which most repelled the majority of Canadians, who refused to think even superficially on the subject. Consider: what did religion mean to the Russian people under the Czarist regime? Was it not an instrument of oppression, designed to keep the people humble and the aristocrats in power? When Karl Marx (who was, by the way, a German Jew and not a Russian) said that religion was the opium of the people, did he not state the truth of the Russian situation? Would those who condemn Russia's atheism care to exchange their nonconformist Protestantism for the old Russian Orthodox church? And furthermore, are we to suppose that God would rather see a people oppressed and miserable and religious, rather than happy, free (in a sense) and irreligious? Depend upon it, Russia's atheism will vanish when the Russians feel the need of religion and when they are sure that religion will not prove again an instrument of oppression.

Much of our mistrust of Russia, of course, springs from the strange behavior of the local adherents of Communism. These are of many sorts: some are intellectuals who like to espouse advanced political views in order to be provocative, but who would be utterly incapable to assuming the power of government if ever it should fall into their hands; in fairness it must be said that some of these are people who sincerely believe that democracy is an unworkable ideal. There are other Communists who are simply confused and ignorant souls who, for one reason or another, have a grudge against the established order; they like to think of a day when all their enemies and oppressors, and all the rich and happy, will be levelled and humiliated. There are still others who like to make mischief with labor, either because they are a part of the labor racket which wants to exploit legitimate unions for their own ends, or because it is easier to be an agitator than a good laborer. The events of the past year have shown that these apparent Communists are not in the counsels of the Kremlin and are certainly not the people whom Russia would pick to represent her in a foreign land. Their importance has largely been built up by the foolishly fearful attitude which we have taken toward them.

BUT now we all have cause to be grateful to Russia and it is to be hoped that the foolish fear and mistrust which we have shown toward that country will never be revived. Britain has already made a surprising change of face, and the U.S. is following closely in her path. Communism is not a doctrine which could flourish in either of those countries, but it is clear that co-operation with Russia is possible and that an Anglo-American-Russian peace could ensure a powerful world-order and a quiet Europe.

It has become clear, also, that fear of Communism in such countries as Canada is nonsensical. We cannot maintain the status quo forever; changes in our governmental system are inevitable and these will probably be socialistic in form. But there is no need here to deliver an oppressed class from the toils of its oppressors, and consequently no need for revolution or the establishment of a Communist state. There are a good many things which we might advantageously learn from the Russians, and we must certainly keep on good terms with them. People who seek to keep alive the old ignorant hatred of that country and all its works are doing a disservice to Canada now and are storing up trouble for the future. An admiration for Russia has become perfectly respectable and more than that, it is a sign of practical wisdom.

• F.D.R. Sees Russia the Key

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 30 —(AP)— Further bad news from Burma points to an early test of President Roosevelt's pledge that even Japanese closure of the Burma Road will not halt American help for Chinese armies. Since he spoke, the Chinese have announced that a Japanese spearhead has reached the suburbs of Lashio, railhead of the Burma route.

The President made no secret of his conclusion that the chances of stemming that surprise thrust until the monsoon rains developed in full force were not good. The rains have started in West-Central Burma, however. Wind-borne showers, a certain prelude to tremendous downpours, are falling in the mountains west of the Mandalay plains. And it is through those mountains, the most rugged of Burma's triple north-south ranges, that any Japanese flanking thrust from the west must come.

British planes scouting the Bay of Bengal have reported enemy shipping moving northward, presumably for landing operations on the upper Burma coast. Even the earlier rains, already raising stream levels along the western watershed, are apt to impede any such attempt.

It seems possible in view of that, that British help for the Chinese under General Stilwell still struggling with the enemy near the Mandalay-Lashio railroad could be shifted from the Allied right flank to the left.

In weighing the significance of the President's war review, however, chief interest must attach to his stress on European developments, particularly in Russia. He said that the Russians "have destroyed and are destroying more armed power of our enemies—troops, planes, tanks and guns—than all the other United Nations put together."

The British air offensive was raging to a new high in power against Trondheim and Kiel as the President spoke. He disclosed that American fighting men by the "hundreds of thousands" are now far deployed east and west, American warships are in action on all sea fronts and American-made and manned planes "in actual combat over all the continents and all the oceans."

However, in the President's informed opinion, Russia's "crushing counter-offensive" is the signal war development. It is the key to United Nation grand strategy on all fronts. That Mr. Roosevelt believes Russia is the crucial battlefield of the struggle goes without saying.

And to lighten a little the gloom unofficial word comes from Russia that Red troops have advanced forty-five miles through German lines somewhere on that vast front. By every indication it is on the Orel-Kursk sector where the Oka River rises.

If that is true, further delay in the already overdue Nazi offensive in the south against the Caucasus may result. Reserves mustered for that operation must be used elsewhere first, just as Nazi air power urgently needed in Russia cannot much longer be held in the East because of the rising tempo of British bomb forays in the West.

• Holiest Thing on Earth

IN latter years the uniformed agents of destiny in Japan have not been so ready to sacrifice their lives, or even their careers, on the altars which they themselves have erected to the imperial myth. They have given close observers many reasons to believe that their attitude toward imperial sanctity is as cynical as that of the Roman Senators defied their despised Caesars. But the difficulty is that their power over Japanese policy at home and abroad is founded upon the reverence for the imperial legend and the imperial person which they have instilled into the whole population.

By making the Mikado the holiest thing on earth in the sight of successive generations of school children and by insisting that the man with the sword is divinity's highest priest and most responsible agent, they have acquired the power to denounce and crush every element in Japan that has sought to express a national aspiration contrary to their own mad schemes of world conquest. With this growth of power there has been a growth of responsibility, however. The holier the person of the Emperor has become in the sight of the people and the more numerous the rights asserted by the armed agents of unspeakable holiness, the greater becomes the responsibility of these agents to defend the person and sensibilities of their wretched little spectacled puppet in old Yedo's moated palace against the remotest possibility of alien desecration. — New York Herald Tribune.

• All Kinds of Offensives

HERE'S a new variety of offensive for all of us to worry about: Acrhibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, warns us that "an Axis peace offensive is in the making" and that it is potentially more dangerous to the American cause than "all the raids from all the aircraft carriers of the Axis navies."

We agree, for a peace offensive will allow rats, native and foreign, to use our love of peace against us. "In so far as our enemies are able to control them," says MacLeish, peace propaganda items "will come, or they will appear to come, as American suggestions originating within the U.S." To guard against this poison we recommend a simple rule to paste in the hat: The only talk of peace with the Axis which will ever be anything but sucker-bait will be unmistakable when it comes—from a prostrate and thoroughly licked enemy.—New York Post.

• A Major Achievement

JAPAN proper consumes in normal times approximately 90,000 tons of rice a day. About half of the minimum requirement is grown at home. The rest in recent years has come from Formosa and Korea. If production in those dependencies declined, famine was threatened in Tokyo. The danger of stock food shortage has been one of the arguments which the Black Dragon militarists have used with effect in dealing with their pacifistic opposition at the court of the Mikado.

Gross gains for Japan in terms of rice thus far reported in less than four months of campaigning include: The Philippine Islands, 1,200,000 tons; the Dutch East Indies, 3,200,00 tons, and British India, an undetermined quantity. Rangoon, the capital of Burma, was the world's leading rice port before the outbreak of hostilities. To what extent its famous elevators were wrecked is problematical. No doubt, however, exists as to the richness of surrounding territory, now in the hands of Japanese armies. — Washington Star.

TRANSLATOR NEEDED

"The Jazz Record Book" describes a series of recordings by Louis Armstrong's Hot Five Group:

GOT Bucket orients the Hot Five collection, as, with appropriate jive talk, Louis introduces each player in turn as he takes his solo, the performance concluding in a typical New Orleans jam ensemble. Muskat, aside from the tremendous swing of its closing choruses, exhibits Ory's hard-hitting vamp or tailgate style at its best. Skid-dat, an unusually beautiful and rhapsodic improvisation, contains one of the earliest of Armstrong's scat vocals. He drives the ensemble with flaming intensity, sings a rich, throaty vocal, then knocks off several screwy breaks. — Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting.—Ps. cxxxix: 23, 24.

The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger.—Job xvii: 9.

Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me: and as I said unto the Jews, whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say to you ....Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me; but thou shalt follow me afterwards.—John xiii: 33, 36.

And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know. Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way? Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.—John xiv: 4-6.

A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, because I go to the Father....Verily, verily, I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the word shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned unto joy....These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.—John xvi: 16, 20, 33.

A Bit of Nonsense

Expected Too Much

Having hired a taxi to take him in the black-out to a restaurant which he had not visited before, a hungry man walked into the building outside which he was set down.

In a dimly lit corridor he was asked for his pass.

"I will show you my pass, certainly, but why should I have to show a pass when all I want is a meal?"

"Meal, sir?" said the challenger. "You don't get a meal here. This is the Ministry of Food."

Civilian Aid In Recruiting Reserve Unit

Civilian promotion of recruiting of the reserve battalion of the Prince of Wales Rangers will be considered by a committee of members of the city council, to be appointed by Mayor Hamilton, in conference with officers representing the regiment.

This proposal by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Gordon, at the meeting of the finance committee last night followed the hearing of a request for assistance made by Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., Lieut.-Colonel M. H. Park and Major V. M. Eastwood.

The members of the deputation emphasized the recent development in military organization by which reserve units were ordered to enlist to full strength. In some cities, notably Toronto, civilian co-operation has been remarkably successful, and it was suggested that the same spirit and practical undertaking in Peterborough should have the same proportional effect.

"We are hoping that some leadership and practical action to stimulate recruiting may be contributed by the council," Colonel Park said, and Colonel Dewart said that the officers were fully prepared to do everything on their part, and that citizens could help substantially by emphasizing the importance of the reserve units in the new role of home defense that has been assigned to them.

"We don't need to tell you why the need of reserve units has become great," Lieut.-Col. Park said. "It has become generally recognized, and there has been a great impetus of recruiting in the reserve army throughout the country. The status of the reserve army has been clarified. We know definitely who are eligible for a reserve battalion. In Peterborough we have been ordered to recruit the second battalion of the Rangers to full strength. We can do a great deal in this recruiting but it is really the duty of the citizens of Peterborough to see that we get the men to train."

Opportunity To Citizens

Citizens should do their part in helping the officers to enlist the r... to fill up the second battalion, and the officers will gladly ... rest, Colonel Dewart said. He explained that he had come along with the deputation to support the appeal of Colonel Park, officer commanding the reserve battalion and Major Eastwood.

"The reserve army has a straight home defense role since its status has become clarified," he explained. "In the last war there was a home guard, but it did not have official military standing. The reserve battalion appeals to those who ordinarily will not be called for active service. The categories comprise boys of 17 and 18 years, single men or 36 to 50 years and married men of 31 to 51 years, in A, B, and C categories, and also men who have been rejected for active service."

Threat Of Invasion

Colonel Dewart stressed the danger which which Canada would be threatened if the enemy gained dominant sea power, including the possibility of the French fleet passing into the control of Germany. "If the Japs got freedom of movement on the sea we would be faced with a definite threat of invasion," Colonel Dewart stated, and to meet such a danger a reserve army for defense of our homes and our families was urgently needed.

The officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers were requesting the council to give encouragement to men to join the home defense unit so as to be prepared to meet any situation which might develop.

"If we get the idea across that men are really needed for the reserve battalion, that enlistment is the thing for them to do, we feel certain that the men of Peterborough will do their part," Colonel Dewart said. "Even a resolution from the council urging all citizens to join would be a help, and a citizens' committee might be formed."

Alderman Dutton suggested that Mayor Hamilton name a committee to meet officers of the regiment and discuss their proposal as a first step in civilian co-operation with the officers of the reserve battalion. Alderman Gordon seconded this motion.

City Purchases 12,000 Copies Tourist Edition

A full page advertisement in the rotagravure section at a cost of $160 plus $720 for 12,000 copies of The Examiner's 1942 Tourist Edition, was the contribution recommended to the city council last night by its manufacturers committee.

W. J. Garner, advertising manager, showed the members of the committee an art "layout" for the full page advertisement and also explained the details of this year's "mail-it-away" of which 35,000 copies will be distributed with the co-operation of the Tourist Bureau of the Ontario government, and through other well triedchannels.

Ten thousand copies will be placed on Toronto news stands, Mr. Garner said, as a means of attracting people from our own province into the Kawartha district for a vacation this year.

The attitude of the committee generally was that it was good business to maintain the enterprise of attracting tourists through the Examiner's annual special edition. A lag is expected this year on account of war work and all the other disturbed conditions in the United States, but it was felt that many persons might be able to get some time off for an outing, and any way it was advisable to sustain the enterprise as much as possible instead of letting it lapse and then trying to revive it.

That of last year amounted to $2,846,890.

Mr. Hagerman discussed the work of a Navy League branch and told of the happiness a sailor received from a ditty bag containing the various sailors comforts. The Navy League files contained many letter from grateful sailors thanking the league for being remembered by the ditty bags, he said.

District Men Joining Local Regiment

Friday morning, two company sergeant majors leave to take advanced training for service with the Rangers. They are C.S.M. Curly Curtain and C.S.M. Watson Butcher. They will leave for specialized training in infantry at the Advanced Infantry Training Centre (A12) at Farnham, Que., and will be on command there for the month of May.

This morning the Rangers appeared on parade for the first time organized into the headquarters company and four other companies, which will be its permanent formation. This rearrangement, completes for the present the distribution of officers, N.C.O.'s, and men for the purpose of initial training during the summer months.

Thursday is payday for the army, the day when the paymaster takes precedence over everyone. "Long leaves and pay day—they are the things the soldier really looks forward to", said Lieut. D. J. McFadden, paymaster of the Rangers this morning, and hinted that there might be some pleasant surprises for the men in the ranks. Last payday 59 men appeared on the paysheets; this morning over a hundred men marched up before the paymaster, saluted, signed the roll, received their pay, saluted once more and marched off with bulging pocketbooks.

Delay Laying Of Sidewalks

Applications for such necessary improvements as concrete sidewalks were shelved for a month Wednesday night by the Board of Works for some hazy reason about scarcity of men to do the work.

New walks were wanted on the north and south sides of Douglas avenue, on the west side of Rogers street from Sophia to James, and on the south side of Sophia from the present end easterly to the west side of Rogers.

Then there was a recommendation from the Board of Health that the council should lay a sewer on Gilchrist street to cost $705. Possible these jobs may be reached before the summer ends, but for the present the applications were bundled up and laid away for a month.

A resolution by Alderman Gordon instructed M. E. Shaver, treasurer, to advance money from time to time on the certificate of Alderman Dutton, chairman, for the purchase of gasoline and oil for the Board's car.

The municipal car driven by Mr. Parsons is of the passenger type, and it is excluded from the official permission to fill up at the city's gasoline pumps. It has to be taken around to some service station with the rest of the passenger cars, and that means an extra cost of 9 or 10 cents a gallon taxes.

Herb J. McCannan requested that street signs be set up on McCannan avenue, a new street south of Douglas avenue, both of the stemming easterly from Monaghan Road. Alderman Bradburn remarked that the plan to place new signs on all the city's streets seemed to have been hoisted, presumably till steel was available.

City Engineer Parsons said that some temporary wooden signs were being made for the new streets in the Park Hill suburb, and Alderman Swanston urged that similiar signs be made for McCannan, Pine, Maple and some other new streets that are not yet designated with name signs.

Mr. Parsons was asked to report Monday night on the number of such signs that would be needed to mark all the new street.

Swimming Pool Too Costly Alderman Fear

Swimming pool frills to a project of supervised playgrounds proposed to the Board of Works Wednesday night by a deputation from the Kiwanis Club will have to be abandoned for this year on account of lack of money and also because there is a scarcity of labor for city work.

That was one phase of the Board's answer to Gordon Miller, president, Leo W. Copp and H. S. Longhurst. However, the Kiwanians were complimented on their interest in the children and some plan of supervision may be arranged within the next few weeks.

"We have no surplus money provided for this year," Alderman Dutton said when a Chatham pool costing $4,000 was mentioned as an example of what could be done, probably at Riverside Park.

"The Kiwanis Club became interested in supervised playgrounds from the statement of Major Turnbull who came home from overseas some weeks ago, that soldiers over there would feel relieved if adequate supervision of play was provided for their children," Mr. Miller said.

The Board referred the proposal to a special committee composed of Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Dutton, Curtis and Swanston to consider and report for next Monday night.

Wartime conditions virtually excluded the possibility of spending money on swimming pools even with the Kiwanis willing to assume some part of the cost. On the other hand the Board expressed appreciation of the Club's interest and expressed the hope that it would not abandon the entire plan but would proceed to undertake supervision in three parts of the city for the summer months.

WATCH GLASS.

Citizens are urged to be more careful of leaving broken glass and nails lying around on the streets. On Wednesday it was discovered that one tire on a truck had a screw nail, two nails, and several pieces of glass embedded in it. That sort of thing is not going to help conserve rubber. On Tuesday afternoon at the corner of George and Murray Streets, the whole centre of the road was littered with broken glass fragments.

Youth Is Fined $25 For Shooting Dog

"You had no right to take the law into your own hands," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., informed Glynn Davies, 18, of 215 Barnardo avenue after the youth had pleaded guilty to shooting and killing a wire-haired fox terrier, the property of Mrs. E. Telford, Smith Township.

Davies was fined $25 and $1 costs.

"I knew the dog was supposed to be tied up," Davies told the court, "and I though it was all right to shoot him under the circumstances." The accused said that the dog had been killing cats and there had been complaints on that account.

Mrs. Telford who was called to give evidence for the crown, said that $15 had been paid for the dog when it was a pup. "We thought the world of him," she said, explaining that the dog that been found dead on the road. It had been shot.

Provincial Constable Price Morris told the court that last autumn he had received telephone complaints about the dog and he had telephoned Mrs. Telford in connection with the matter.

In fining the accused Magistrate Langley said that it would be a serious matter if every individual thought he was justified in taking the law in his own hands.

O'Brien Faces Charge Of Careless Driving

As the result of an accident in which three men were injured when an automobile collided with a parked car, Bernard O'Brien, one of the victims who has only recently been discharged from hospital faced a charge in police court this morning of driving or permitting his car to be driven without due care and attention.

O'Brien pleaded not guilty and asked for a week's adjournment. The crown also wanted a delay in the matter so the case was enlarged until Thursday of next week.

"This boy was badly shaken and is just out of hospital," Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer explained to the court.

FIERY VICTORIA BASKETEERS STILL HOT ON REFEREE QUESTION

C.A.B.A. Refuses Dominoes New Referees

MONTREAL, April 30 — (CP). — Montreal Oilers and Victoria Dominoes were scheduled to battle it out tonight in the third game of the Dominion senior basketball best-of-five final amid rumors that the Dominoes would withdraw from the series unless new referees were appointed by the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association for the remainder of the series.

Dominoes won the first game 26-34 but Oilers came back and won the second 42-32. Following the second game Dominoes protested over the officiating and at a meeting yesterday C.A.B.A. officials decided that the same referees would handle tonight's game.

Roy Mackenzie, Quebec representative of the C.A.B.A., who announced the re-appointment of Chuck Malis and Frank Ulley, both of Montreal, said that he thought "the refereeing was impartial Tuesday night."

"Nichol (manager Dave Nichol of Victoria) said after Monday's game that the refereeing was good. I think it was as good Tuesday. That's why we'll have the same two back tonight."

When contacted last night, Nichol said of the "re-appointment" of the two officials that "they didn't appoint them—they just steered them in."

"Unless there's one neutral referee tomorrow night," Nichol added, "we're finished. Malis is all right but Ulley can't handle the game."

Ulley handed Norm Baker a disqualifying foul late in Tuesday's game after Baker had body-checked Dudey Bloomfield of the Oilers into the stands.

Manager Lennie Hutton of the Montreal quintet said he was "certainly satisfied with the officiating in both games."

Joins R.C.A.F.

Lew Hayman, coach of Toronto Argonauts, joins the R.C.A.F. the first week in May with rank of flying officer. Probably the foremost rugby coach in the Dominion, Hayman achieved spectacular success directing three championship Argonaut teams.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 30—(CP).—It's hard to say who is right and who is wrong in the Canadian basketball final's down-with-the-referees department. The decision lies with the individual fan and depends mainly on for whom you cheer.

The Victoria beef is not surprising, because its something that happens almost every time a western champion from British Columbia plays in the east. Vancouver and Victoria are co-capitals of basketball in Canada and have the best of everything in crowds, accommodation and referees.

One huge reason for the game's popularity in British Columbia is its refereeing system, using United States officials extensively. These imported arbiters are inclined to let boys be boys, calling only the flagrant offences. It makes the game better to watch. Our excessive Canadian whistle-tooting damages the sport as a crowd-drawing spectacle in other parts of the Dominion.

But from the score of the final's second game (Montreal 42, Victoria 32) it is obvious that officiating didn't win or lose that contest game and wont win or lose the series. Both teams are good, and they're evenly-matched. Relaxation of the law-enforcement for the balance of the series probably would have only one definite result; the games would be more exciting.

Latest rumor on Edgar Laprade: That Montreal Canadiens offered him $16,000 for two seasons, but he turned it down.

NY Moves To Ban Night Ball For Duration

NEW YORK, April 30 — (AP).— New York moved last night to ban night baseball and other illuminated sports for the duration of the war as a measure of coastal defence after the Army turned enforcement of its new "dim-out" order over to local authorities without making an objection to night sports.

Lights Can Be Seen at Sea.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine of New York, indicating that all sports requiring artificial illumination would be prohibited here, declared the dim-out regulations "will affect baseball and other sports at night, since the lights can be seen above the horizon. That means they can be seen far out at sea."

Valentine's statement followed that of Major-General Irving J. Phillipson, commander of the 2nd Corps area, who said:

"The enforcement of the regulation covering the dimming of lights in the coastal areas of the 2nd Corps area was placed in the hands of the State and local authorities concerned for enforcement."

Earlier, however, an Army spokesman had indicated that night baseball did not present a problem. He told the Associated Press that "all we are interested in at present is dimming shore lights so that there will be no bright prosphorescent glow against which a submarine can silhouette a ship."

But at Hackensack, N.J., where a group of civilian defence officials were preparing to make off-shore observations of the dim-out or the second straigh night, Colonel Walter W. Metcalfe, acting director of the 2nd Civilian Defence region, said the Office of Civilian Defence feels that a glow in the sky would be as helpful to enemy craft as a background of building lights.

Metcalfe pointed out, however, that the O.C.D. is acting only in an advisory capacity and that enforcement of the dim-out regulations would be up to local authorities, at least for the time being.

There were few local baseball officials available for comment since the only New York team at home was the Yankees who do not play night ball at the Stadium. Both the Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers, now on the road, have a full quota of night games on the 1942 schedule.

Glad to Co-operate.

Leo Bondy, vice-president and secretary of the Giants, said his club would be glad to turn the Polo Grounds over to observers for a night test to see how far the lights could be seen off shore.

"We have found that we cannot see the Polo Grounds lights from downtown New York," he observed. "All the lights are focussed directly on the playing field, of course, so that there is a minimum of glare. Another thing, they could be switched off entirely in thirty seconds in the event of a blackout."

President Ford Frick of the National League said he had been advised not to worry about the dim-out restrictions.

"Our main headache right now is obtaining transportation," he said, making a rapid change of subjects. "We've already had one slight mix-up and I suppose there will be a lot more of them, but we're prepared to make the best of it. We're lucky in that we can ask for reservations a long time ahead.

"I wouldn't be surprised if some of the boys find themselves riding in day coaches now and then this summer, though. They might even have to double up in upper berths occasionally, but it won't hurt 'em."

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

This baseball is a funny game. Take the doings in the American League for example. For two weeks the St. Louis Browns had been kicked around by the other three western teams in the circuit, without being able to cop a game. Then the inter-sectional series started and the Brownies, lined up against the New York Yanks have taken two in a row from the world champs and toppled them out of first place. St. Louis defeated Joe McCarthy's clan yesterday 11 to 6 with Denny Galehouse spacing out eight Yank hits while the Browns were hammering the offering of Chandler and Lindell for eleven blows including two homers by Judnich. Meanwhile the Cleveland Indians increased their lead to two full games by grabbing off their tenth straight win at the expense of the Philadelphia A's. The score was 11 to 6 and it was an easy win for Al Milnar who was touched for 12 blows but was effective in the pinches. Phil Marchildon started on the hilltop for the losers but it was not his day and Caliguri had to go to the rescue.

The Boston Red Sox 29-year-old rookie Yank Terry, late of the San Diego club of the Pacific Coast League failed to go the route against the Detroit Tigers, blowing up in the ninth and the latter took yesterday's game 4 to 2 with Manners getting the pitching credit for the win. Incidentally that victory for the Tigers sent the Detroiters over into second place, the Yanks dropping back to the third slot. In other words western teams are riding first and second in the American League parade today. In the other game in the junior loop the Washington Senators pulled off another win at the expense of the Chicago White Sox, taking the verdict by a score of 10 to 4. It was an easy triumph for Hudson who allowed the Pale Hose only four hits.

As for the National loop the motto of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be "Keep Them Rolling." The Bums won a ten-inning battle from the Cincinnati Reds yesterday 5 to 2 with Bucky Walters coming into the game for the Reds in time to take the loss. That was Brooklyn's thirteenth win in 16 starts and if anybody is going to head off the Daffyness Boys they had better get started. Only the Pittsburg Pirates, at the present writing, look to be seriously interested in the job of trying to keep pace with the Dodgers. They came through with another win yesterday, beating the Phillies 7 to 6 in a ten-inning affair with the former Dodger twirler Luke Hamlin going the route for the winners. Javery picthed the Boston Braves to a neat win over the Chicago Cubs and the Boston gang are showing more punch than some of the better-favored ball clubs, notably the Cincinati Reds who are down in seventh place and not doing a great deal about it.

In The Right Direction

The C.A.H.A. decision to cut down the number of players from 12 to 10 is called a war measure but there are many hockey students who will call it a move in the right direction, regardless of the fact that it has been adopted as an expedient. The arrangement will give teams two forward lines and an extra defence player and that should be ample. After all it is easier for most clubs to get ten good players than to ice twelve and there is no reason to fear that the quality of hockey will fall off because of the smaller number of players in uniform. The recent Allan Cup finals which saw the Kraut line in action for long periods at a time surely demonstrated that it is not necessary to sub players every two or three minutes to keep a game full of action. Many players take that long to get warmed up and just about the time when they are ready to turn it on effectively they are waved into the bench. Under the new set up players will have more chances to show their class and we will be disappointed if the results are not decidedly pleasing.

Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard has some interesting hockey dope of the days that are past in the following interesting paragraph: "Vernon "Buck" Crawford, whose funeral was held this afternoon in Kingston, was one of the stars in the first Allan Cup game when Queen's defeated Ottawa Cliffsides for the Canadian senior amateur championship. His name is almost forgotten in the records of hockey except in the memory of his many friends and followers of the sport in Eastern Canada a few years before the First Great War, yet he played a prominent part in the first final for the now famous Allan Cup. Buck Crawford was one of a collection of great hockey players developed in Kingston that included Marty Walsh, George Richardson, Jock Harty, Scotty Davidson, Curly Campbell, the George brothers, Bill Bennett, Bill Dobson, Senator Powell and George Van Horne. The Cook brothers, Flat Walsh and the stars of immediate years after the First World War came later. Crawford was a member of the Queen's team that first challenged Ottawa for the Allan Cup, presented in 1908 by Lord Montague Allan of Montreal. The first game for the trophy set an example for excitement that had been carried on through the years. Overtime was needed before Queen's beat Ottawa for the title and trophy, Curly Campbell netting the winning tally after 14 minutes of extra play, the game ending with the first score."

Billy Westwick writes in the Ottawa Journal: "While hockey men ponder the uncertain future of the National League, it's interesting to note the reaction to the first two weeks of big league baseball's first wartime season. When the U.S. entered the war there was considerable uneasiness among club owners. There were a few hysterical utterances from some quarters anent the future of big league ball, but under the guidance of Judge Landis big league owners sat tight, sought no favors from Washington and eventually received the "green light" from President Roosevelt. Now as big league baseball enters its third week of the schedule there has been nothing but comforting signs for club owners. They were asked to go ahead by the President and without any guarantees from Washington they have organized and are prepared to carry on as long as possible. The crowds have been highly gratifying in every park. With increased restrictions on tires and gasoline the prospects are brighter for even larger throngs attending ball games as the season progresses. The public seems satisfied that a sincere attempt has been made by the ball clubs to fit themselves into the wartime picture. There has been no resentment shown against the ball players. Generally, the big leagues are being appreciated by the public as a source of athletic reaction in troubled times."

Propose Third Of Golf Clubs Be Given Away

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 30 — (CP). — A leading authority on the subject drove straight and true from the tee today with a design for wartime golf which would transform ritzy fairways into parade grounds for soldiers in training.

This radical proposal was advanced by Stanley Thompson of Toronto, golf architect and a former champion himself. Without any manifest sympathy for his fellow golfers, Mr. Thompson suggested that one-third of the nation's 700-odd courses shut down for the war's duration.

He gave as his view that exclusive clubhouses could be used as military training headquarters, particularly for local reserve units. Deserted fairfairways would echo to the tramp of trainees on drill manoeuvres.

"It wouldn't hurt the courses at all," Mr. Thompson said in an interview. "With reasonable care, top dressing and judicious fertilizing, they could be restored three months after the war ended."

Help the War Effort

Mr. Thompson ought to know. He has designed 96 of the most picturesque courses in the country, including Banff Springs, Alta., Capilano in Vancouver, Seigniory Club, Que., and the Cape Breton Highland National course. He is in Ottawa inspecting the layouts he designed in this district.

His shut-down plan for golf had several other features he believed would help the war effort.

"Appoximately $60,000,000 is invested today in courses, clubhouses, land and equipment," the architect said. "It takes several million more each year for labor and material to keep the courses running.

"About one-third of these could comfortably close down for the duration. If the extra money went to the government, it would buy a lot of war machines. Thousands of workers would be released for war industry."

What about the golfers?

"Well, there probably would be shouts of protest," Mr. Thompson said. "They'd be crowded a bit if one-third of the courses were shut down, but there would be plenty of room for those who really wanted to play."

Generals Victors In First Fixture

The North End Generals inaugurated the softball season Wednesday night by defeating the C.G.E. Drafting Room apprentices in an exhibition game at Nicholls Oval by 24 runs to 12. The game went seven innings. Both teams scored twice in the first frame but the Generals came up with a three-run splurge in the second inning and were never headed after that, scoring in every frame and putting over a six-run barrage in the sixth. The score by innings:

C.G.E.	202 422 0	12
Generals	235 356 x	24

Then Generals lined up as follows: D. Quigley ss, S. Saunders lf, D. Burrows p, W. Andrews 1b, D. O'Brien c, P. Kylie rf, W. Henry 2b, J. Pearson cf, S. McCurrach 3b.

The Generals are open for a challenge from any junior team in the city.

LEAFS POUND OUT 6 IN NINTH TO WIN BEFORE 10,000 HOME FANS

Whip The Giants By 10 to 9 On Opening Day

By The Associated Press

Its' only two games, but it's the longest winning streak of the season for Toronto Maple Leafs who show signs of climbing out of the International League cellar for the first time since most fans can remember.

During the winter, the Leafs perfected a working agreement with Pittsburg Pirates of the National League, ending their previous tie-up with Philadelphia of the American League.

The Pirates nominated Burleigh Grimes for the pilot's post and sent some of their more promising recruits as their part of the agreement.

The fans were in favor of the new setup and expected a highly successful season. Toronto hadn't won a pennant since Dan Howley's gang turned the trick in 1926.

The opening of the season was eagerly awaited, but after the first 10 days of play there were many who wished that it never had started, for the Leafs dropped eight of their first 10 games. It seemed they were doomed for another dismal year.

But yesterday Toronto won its second straight game, defeating Jersey City Giants 10-9 in the only contest on the day's schedule to creep within .024 per cent of seventh place Buffalo.

Giants Pile Up 9-4 Edge

Ten thousand fans came to see their hopefuls in the first home game of the year. The Little Giants began to make it a sad day for the fans by piling up a 9-4 lead going into the last of the ninth. Then with one away Toronto turned apparent defeat into glorious victory by pouring six runs across the plate.

With one away in the ninth Frank Colman, London, Ont., product, smacked his fourth single of the game and Al Rubeling beat out a bounder to short.

Nick Gregory, Ed Fernandez and Joe Mack walked, bringing in two runs, Jim Russell dragged a bunt which registered two more. Ed Yount walked to fill the bases for the second time and Johnny Wyrostek delivered his third hit to bring in the deciding tallies.

Rubeling connected for a three-run circuit blast in the third inning for Toronto. Buster Maynard walloped one for the Jersey City Giants in the ninth.

While the rest of the league was idle, Montreal Royals announced the purchase of Lester McCrabb, righthanded pitcher who won nine games and lost 13 for Philadelphia Athletics last year. The price was not disclosed.

Fred Corcoran's Sod Gallery Ace Sam Snead Is Joining U.S. Navy

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP).—Sam Snead is joining the navy, and Freddy Corcoran gets a hollow feeling in his stomach every time he thinks about it.

Not because Snead, winner of the Canadian open the last two years, has been the No. 1 gate attraction of the Professional Golfers Association the last five years, and Corcoran's job as tournament manager is to line up attractive fields and tournaments so the pros can make more money.

It's because there is an invisible tie between the two; a sentimental tie always present when two individuals start out together as timid neophytes and whose careers are closely blended during the years of the climb to success.

For Snead, a bashful hillbilly and Corcoran entered the P.G.A. picture at the same time. It was on the winter tour in 1937, and—well, let Corcoran tell it:

"Sam had come west virtually unknown. He had finished seventh in the Los Angeles open, but he was such a dark horse the papers spelled his name 'Sneed.'

"The tour moved up to Oakland. I'd only been on the job about a week, and I went around introducing myself to the pros and asking them if they would attend a 7 o'clock breakfast arranged by a group there.

"I went down in the lobby at 6.30 the next morning and there stood one forlorn figure. It was dark, and it was cold—snowing if I remember—but there stood Samuel Jackson Snead, who identified himself as a pro, and said he'd like to attend the breakfast.

"You know what happened at Oakland. Sam, whose first pro job paid him $45 a month, won the tournament witht 271, and after getting over his fright due to the photographers' flash bulbs, something he'd never seen before, astounded the reporters by casually blurting out that 'once ah shot a 61.'

"That was Snead's start in the big time. You know what he's done since. He's won $78,000 in P.G.A. purses alone in the last five years, and with exhibitions and things he's probably earned close to $200,000. He made $19,600 in 1938, the all-time high for a regular year. Gene Sarazen made more over a 12-month period, but not from Jan. 1 to Jan. 1.

"He's never won the open, or the P.G.A. or the Masters, but he's the one golfer who can start a tournament with a 78, and still have his gallery the next day .He's the man the tournament committees want."

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP).—The war may be rough on the minor leagues, but apparently baseball will keep right on going . . . For example, when the class "C" Arizona-Texas League folded up, Tucson, Ariz., organized an eight-club semi-pro circuit . . . Season will start May 5 (Mexico's Independence day) and run for 18 weeks with four night games weekly . . . The league includes two army teams and the ball park is practically on one of the posts which should provide plenty of customers at 10 cents a throw for men in uniform . . . And Michigan towns are replacing the Michigan State league with a non-professiona loop that may take in 12 clubs.

Wrong Number

When Bron C. Bacevich, coach at St. Bede's Academy of Peru, Ill., read that Aquinas high school of Chicago had been admitted to the Illinois high school association, he wrote there suggesting a football game. He received this reply: "Dear Mr. Bacevich: We have 466 lovely young ladies at our Dominican high school. If you still are interested in a football game, please let me know.—Miss Elsie Bergman, coach."

Minor Matters

Bill Diehl of the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch casts a vote for manager Buzz Boyle of the Norfolk Tars for plain courage . . . The other day Norfolk and Portsmouth went into the 12th inning with the score tied 1-1 . . . The Tars loaded the bases with two out and Boyle yanked the cleanup hitter and went into bat himself . . . He took himself off the spot by socking the third pitch for a game-winning double.

15 Major Squads Call Reliefers; Indians Clip A's

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

Relief pitchers get only fleeting attention from the fans and often little credit from their own clubs, yet they are the wheel horses who pull the biggest loads in the major leagues.

Yesterday 15 of the 16 teams had to call for help from the bull pen.

Cleveland Indians ran their winning streak to 10 games with an 11-6 triumph over Philadelphia Athletics. This sounds like a big batting spree and it was—26 hits. But the A's were put out of commission for the last 5 2-3 innings by Joe Heving after they had routed Al Milnar in the fourth.

The Indians, on the other hand, remained on the warpath throughout the game and staged one big six-run massacre in the fourth. Roy Weatherly hit a home run, a triple and a double to account for four of the Tribe's total.

Brooklyn Dodgers bagged their fifth straight victory in a 10 inning 5-2 affair at Cincinnati. Dolph Camilli gained the fans' spotlight by hitting his fourth home run of the year, and second in two days, after two were out in the ninth to force the game into overtime. Then the Dodgers banged three run on three his off Bucky Walters to win in the 10th.

What some people may have overlooked, however, was that after Kirby Higbe gave way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth, Newt Kimball and Johnny Allen paired in pitching three no-hit innings for the Dodgers. Altogether the Reds made only four hits, one of them Frank McCormick's fourth homer of the season in the second inning.

Fernandez On Big Day

Boston Braves crushed Chicago Cubs 8-3 and all eyes were on Froilan (Nanny) Fernandez, the rookie batting sensation, who hit a homer, a double and two singles to extend his hitting streak to eight games. However, another rookie deserving praise was Johnny Sain, who took charge on the mound when Al Javery was knocked out in the fifth and allowed only one hit in the last 4½ innings.

At Pittsburg the Pirates gave Luke Hamlin an early four-run lead over Philadelphia Phils, but neither he nor John Lanning could hold it. Finally Rookie John Barrett set off a two-run ninth-inning rally with a single and he hit another in the 10th to drive in the run that won 7-6.

St. Louis Cardinals, blanked for eight innings, drove old Carl Hubbell off the mound with a three-run rally that tied New York Giants in the ninth. Then Ace Adams came out of the bull pen for the eighth time in 15 games and put out the fire. After the Giants sneaked a run across in the 10th Adams allowed no hits to save the 4-3 margin.

Sid Hudson, although allowing only four hits, blew a four-run lead Washington gave him over Chicago White Sox and was replaced by Bill Zuber in the ninth. Zuber pitched no-hit ball for 3 2-3 innings and the Senators got up steam again to win 10-4.

At Boston Yank Terry was within one batter of a shutout and suddenly lost control. He gave two walks and two singles to let Detroit tie the Red Sox at 2-2. Then Mace Brown gave two more singles and the Tigers won 4-2

The only pitcher to go the route was Dennis Galehouse of St. Louis Browns, who beat the Yankees again 11-6 to knock last year's world champions into third place in the American League. Galehouse allowed eight hits, but his mates pelted four New York pitchers for 11, including two homers by Walt Judnich and one by Glenn McQuillen.

Waller's Trainer Is Suspended

NEW YORK, April 30 — (AP).— The New York State Racing Commission announced yesterday the suspension for thirty days of A. G. Robertson and Ernest Edgarson, trainer and groom of Waller, winner of the Excelsior Handicap at Jamaica on April 16.

The action was taken at a hearing following detailed inquiry after an official saliva test, taken after Waller's race had disclosed the presence of benzedrine. The testimony, however, showed no participation in the drugging by either Robertson or Edgarson.

The ruling is in conformity with the tradition of the turf and the rule of the commission and the jockey club that the trainer and the groom are always responsible for the condition of horses in their care.

Waller's share of the Excelsior Purse will be paid to the Barrington Stable, owner of Olympus, who finished second. Boysy, who finished third will be given second money, and Sir Jeffrey, originally fourth, will be placed third in official records and given the third horse's share.

All horses now in Robertson's hands as trainer will be barred from racing during the suspension until transferred to another trainer approved by the racing commission through Francis P. Dunne, presiding steward.

The winner's share of the Excelsion Purse was $6,775.

Find Body In Harbor

BELLEVILLE, Bermuda, April 30 (CP.—Missing since April 6, and the object of a widespread search throughout Prince Edward county, the body of William J. Calnan was discovered in the Picton harbor late last night by Roland McKenzie, 16, who hooked the body while fishing from the dock.

When the body was brought to the surface it was discovered that a 14-inch garden tile weighing four pounds was fastened around the man's waist with a length of rope.

An inquest was ordered but the date has not yet been set by Coroner Dr. Don Lighthall.

Cavan Parishioners Say Farewell To Archdeacon and Mrs. Simpson

MILLBROOK, April 30—(ENS).—An atmosphere of good fellowship tempered "the sadness of farewell" at the social gathering which filled the Parish Hall of St. Thomas' Church to capacity on Monday evening in honor of Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson and Mrs. Simpson, before their removal to their new home at Blackstock which takes place in the early part of next week. Archdeacon Simpson, however, will take the services in his new parish of Cartwright on Sunday, May 3. Percy Hamilton, principal of the local Public School, will take charge in Cavan Parish, and E. H. Barnes and Captain W. E. Massey-Cooke will serve for the two following Sundays.

The people's warden, L. H. Winslow, was in the chair for the informal program on Monday evening among those taking part, following the opening "O Canada," being Miss M. L. Collins and Mrs. Massey-Cooke, who were heard in piano duets, Miss L. Malone, Mrs. J. Jackson, and Margaret McNeil, who gave readings, the latter's number "Home" by Edgar Guest, having piano accompaniment by Miss Lean Lough of Ida; and addresses by Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson and Rev. A. L. Sisco, both of whom stressed particularly their appreciation of the warm friendship formed with Archdeacon Simpson during their respective pastorates, and the harmony of relationships which had permited working together with the finest -o-operation as many undertakings affecting all three churches of the community were carried successfully through together.

Congregations Well Represented.

All three churches of the parish were well represented at Monday's gathering and only the limitations of the Parish Hall as to accommodation prevented the event being thrown wide open to the community and countryside. At the conclusion of the program the chairman invited the rector and Mrs. Simpson to take seats on the platform, when Herbert Morton, of St. John's Church, Ida, read an appreciative address, and on behalf of the parish of Cavan, James Johnston of Christ Church, Baillieboro, presented them with a purse of money.

The address was signed by the wardens of the three churches, R. I. Fallis, L. W. Winslow Oscar Jackson, James Johnston, W. H. Morton, and Beatty Fee.

In his reply, Mr. Simpson referred feelingly to the happy fellowship which had existed with his brother ministers, and with the people of his entire parish; to the many pleasant and lasting friendships formed "since we arrived here eleven years ago on Friday, March 13, 1931; we have been through many things together; we have worked together, worshipped together, been through joys sickness, and sorrows together. When you say to me, 'I am sorry you are leaving,' I feel like replying, 'I am glad you are sorry,' for it means there is a bond between us that cannot be broken."

Having purchased a home in Millbrook, Archdeacon and Mrs. Simpson expect, after his retirement from the active ministry, to return here for permanent residence. The singing of "For they are jolly good fellows" and the National Anthem was followed by the service of refreshments. Mrs. L. H. Winslow pouring tea at a lace-covered table, centred with a low green pottery bowl of golden daffodils, other spring flowers being used for decorative purposes on the platform and in the hall. Among those assisting with the service were Mrs. Frank Stinson Mrs. D. Sheppard, Mrs. H. A. Attwooll, Mrs. T. A. Campbell, Mrs. D. R. Fowler, Misses B. M. Turner, M. L. Collins, Ada Attwooll, and Muriel Smith.

Twenty Buildings Are Destroyed By Fire

Twenty buildings are in ruins after a fire that swept through the little village of Kinmount, 35 miles from Lindsay. This aerial photograph shows the triangular area in the foreground with all that remains of 20 wooden buildings. The 500 residents fought for five hours to bring the flames under control. Starting in a sawmill, the fire was fanned by a high wind and swept everything before it. The ruins still smoke near the dam in the background.

and the Anglican Church parsonage were levelled in a row. At this point the flames stretched their red fingers of destruction to the top of the water-tower near the Kinmount station. Embers from this tower showered down on the main street where all the stores were, and the full force of the catastrophe became apparent.

The main street comprised the following: on the west side of the street was the general store of Mark and Mark, G. H. Hopkins dry goods store, J. Chalmers restaurant, while on the east side it was a solid block of buildings. The Post Office, Claude Austen's radio shop, J. Thompson's general store, T. H. Cunningham & Sons garage and service station, Clair Douglas drug store, McDonnell's barber shop, H. Butts three-storey hotel and Poulsom's bakery. Of these buildings, nothing remains but piles of brick and debris scarcely high enough to fill the cellar foundations.

The fire burned the ties of the railway, interfering with traffic on Thursday and several new ties, were placed under the sagging steel to permit the train to get through to Bancroft. By some freak of circumstance, the flames left the Kinmount railway station standing unharmed directly in the centre of the section of destruction, and up at the north end of the main street, the flames hopped over a new bungalow, and demolished two stables in the rear. It also hurdled two houses owned by Chalmers and McDonnel's at the top end of the main street, and blotted a one-storey dwelling owned by Jim Mansfield. Actually the fire burned itself out, for it swept everything ahead of it until it reached the west bank of the Burnt River, where it seemed to halt for awhile for breather, before hurling its fury into the pile woods, north-east of the community.

The heavy stocks carried by the general stores, and the fact that above every store was the furnished living quarters of families, will boost the fire loss considerably. Besides the items mentioned as destroyed was a considerable quantity of lumber owned by the Austen Lumber Company.

Saved Several Homes

The north wall of Poulson's bakery was instrumental in saving the frame home of Jessie Chalmers, Russel Kellett, Orlo Brandon and Earl Askey, three of the fire-fighters who comprised the bucket brigade pointed out that the intense heat had boiled the tar out of the insul side of the dwelling, but the buckets of water kept the walls cool. Chalmers lost enough in the fire, he had taken over the restaurant a month ago, and lost all of the fixtures, stock and the building. The wall of the bakery which had served as barrier against the fames, was a hazard, and plans were being made to push the wall over, as it would crush the Chalmers dwelling were it to topple to the north.

An unusual feature of the picture of destruction is the number of stoves lying in the piles of debris. Apparently on the lower floors of the stores, two or three stoves were used to heat them in winter, and a couple more would be in use on the upper floors where the living quarters were.

The $6,000 pumper owned by the Fenelon Fall fire department met its waterloo in the flames. The pumper was located alongside the post office, less than 15 feet from the Burnt River, but when it became encircled with burning buildings, the firemen struggled to get it moving, but failed. They claimed the brakes had seized but other firemen believe the gear shift lever was in place, locking the gears, and in the excitement, the men forgot it. If they could have pushed it into the river, it would have been saved.

Priests Stand Guard.

Two of the busiest men in the village during the night were the two priests, Rev. Father Butler and Rev. Father Kay, who stood guard on the east side of the Burnt river, and extinguished at least 20 fires in a sawdust and shaving pile. If this had started to burn, the entire section of the village on the east bank of the river would have been destroyed too. The Anglican rector was sweating in the path of the flames, a member of the bucket brigade, and his parsonage was burned.

The stand of pine woods which is still burning is owned by Charles Doherty of Lindsay, a storekeeper, and it borders on a large section of reforested government land. Archie Henderson, fire ranger from the Nogie's Creek tower was directing the work of a large number of fire fighters in the bush, and reports indicated this man had no sleep for three nights because of bush fires, and Kinmount blaze. Johnny O'Toole, a 14 year old youngster who has relatives in Peterborough, was with the fire-fighters wielding a shovel. The group included H. Gardner, Jack Spencer, Austin Jackson, Henderson and J. Smith. Thirty other men were battling the flames along the rim of fire.

Captain W. R. Mark of the Peterborough Military Training Centre, whose wife and children operate the post office, and have living quarters on the second floor, lost every bit of his furniture except the radio.

Population of 600.

Kinmount lies exactly 20 miles north of Bobcaygeon, and has a population of about 600 people. It serves a large industrial section, including Galway, and Cavendish in Peterborough county, although it is actually in Victoria county. As the crow flies it is about nine miles east of the Lindsay-Minden highway. The last disastrous fire was back in 1914, when the west side of the main street was demolished. It consisted of a store owned by Doherty, a butcher shop owned by Ed. Wallstood, the post office and the residence of Dr. White.

No information could be ascertained on the plans for the future, as the people had scarcely gotten over the shock of the disaster. There was not a place left to shop, not even a pack of cigarettes, a can of beans, a soft drink, or a toothpick was available for purchase.

much talk in parliament he asked: "What on earth else they think a member of parliament in this House can do except speak? What is he sent here for if it is not to talk."

However Mr. Blackmore agreed with Mr. Douglas and others that members should be given more opportunity to use their talents and experience in helping the government conduct the business of the country in time of war.

The sitting started with an argument lasting more than an hour over refusal of the government to give details of subsidies paid companies and individuals to maintain the price ceiling policy, and of amounts paid to individuals under the wheat acreage reduction bonus system.

Bonuses a Secret

Finance Minister Ilsley and Agriculture Minister Gardiner declared it was not in the public interest to reveal the names of those receiving these subsidies and bonuses and the amounts each receives.

This brought on a protest that parliament had the right to know where every cent of public money is spent and who receives it, with Conservative House Leader Hanson, C.C.F. House Leader Coldwell and Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) leading the protest.

But Speaker Glen finally ruled that if the ministry decided such answers were against the public interest the questions would have to be dropped, and when Mr. Hanson attempted to divide the House on the ruling Mr. Speaker ruled that there was no appeal under House of Commons regulations.

An Unfinished Issue

Prime Minister Mackenzie King then moved a resolution standing for some days on the Order Paper, setting up a committee similar to that which sat last year, to examine war expenditures.

This provoked a debate which was still unfinished when the House adjourned. Mr. King said he hoped, when discussion is resumed today, that it would be concluded "rather speedily."

The committee resolution is identical with that moved last session and the personnel is the same, with two or three exceptions.

Jean Francois Pouliot set off the debate when he complained that the House Public Accounts Committee, which ordinarily would examine public expeditures, had not functioned for 11 years.

Mr. Hanson said he hoped that the committee's sitting would be open to public and press, and declared that "there should be no limitation or restriction of the power of the committee to investigate any and every contract."

Karl Homuth (Con., Waterloo South), a member of the committee, said he accepted his place on it with the hope that something could be done to get idle plants and idle people into war production.

Mr. Coldwell, a member of the committee last year, said he hoped it would devote part or all of its time this session to the Munitions and Supply Department, rather than to the Defence Departments which occupied it last year.

"I am alarmed at the state of things in this country," Mr. Coldwell said. "Since the war broke out we have seen powerful industrialists and those who serve powerful industrialists and monopolies placed in key positions in connection with the purchase of supplies and the control of the economic side of our war effort.

"I do not believe it is wise because it undermines the confidence of the great masses of the people in what is being done in this country."

Mr. Coldwell mentioned committee inquiries have been conducted in the United States recently. "I do not know what the condition is in our country," he said.

Want No Sellouts Here.

"But I have read of the attitude of the Standard Oil Company, of the situation created by the Steel Corporation, the Aluminum Company, the Great Oil Companies of the United States and so on.

"I think it is the duty of this House of Commons to make sure that nothing of that kind has happened or is happening here."

Lack of time would block a full examination of war expenditures, said Rev. E. G. Hansell (ND. MacLeod), a member of the committee last year, even if there were no restrictions as to scope.

The committee last year only "touched the fringe" of the subject, said Mr. Hansell. It would take a full year of steady work to do the job thoroughly, he said.

He urged that all meetings be kept open to the press. Last year many sittings were private yet matters revealed at secret meetings later were the subject of detailed newspaper stories and radio broadcasts.

Mr. Hansell urged creation of a single co-ordinated hospital system for the three services making up the armed forces instead of separate units for army, navy and air force.

Dr. J. J. McCann (Lib. Renfrew South) said he felt that geographical considerations seemed to have influenced selection of that committee personnel rather than capabilities or experience of the members.

Room for Some Others.

There were 15 lawyers on the 24-man committee, but, although it would have to do with expenditures for Army dental and medical services, there was not a single doctor or dentist on it. He said there were some 15 or 20 medical men in the House and made the suggestion that the skilled professional men and technicians in the House could be given useful work to perforn.

Mr. Douglas endorsed this suggestion and declared that since the war so much had been done by Order-in-Council and by special bodies set up outside Parliament that members had no part in the war effort.

Members were unable even to obtain the necessary information intelligently to criticize what the Government was doing, Mr. Douglas said.

There had been no meeting of Public Accounts Committee since the war started, and this proposed committee was being set up after Parliament had been in session three months.

T. L. Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) protested that setting up such a committee meant that "Parliamentary government is at an end."

Public money in "astronomical figures" was being spent without the housing exercising any control, said Mr. Church.

Mr. Church asked what the Senate was doing. "They have sat for about six hours since last June," he said. "Why should not their services be utilized? The system is all wrong and it cannot go on much longer."

Mr. Blackmore agreed with the suggestion that senators be asked to do more work.

"I do not know what on earth this country is paying members of the other House $4,000 a year for if it is not to come here and do something,' he declared.

by reports from Stockholm which quoted Berlin sources as saying that United States fighter planes now are participating in the defence of Malta, Britain's vital Mediterranean island base.

The Berlin sources did not specify how the American planes had reached Malta, but suggested they might have come from an aircraft carrier.

(President Roosevelt said Tuesday night in a radio address that American warships now are in the Mediterranean).

The R.A.F. was favored by good weather and a bright moon over the continent last night, and there were indications the attack on the Gnome-Rhone works was extremely heavy—much heavier than the April 5 assault, which was subsidiary to a simultaneous raid on the Rhineland.

Bases in occupied France also were pounded by the R.A.F. in daylight yesterdayq. Boston (Douglas) bombers, escorted by fighters blasted at the broken docks of Dunkirk. This foray and other daylight sweeps over northern France cost the R.A.F. two planes. Germany also lost two aircraft.

LAKEFIELD

Debate Features Mission Circle

LAKEFIELD, April 30.—(ENS)—"Resolved that co-operation has done more for the world that competition" was the subject of a very lively and educational debate, at the April meeting of the United Church Mission Circle, at the home of Mrs. Stanley Richardson Tuesday evening.

Mrs. S. A. Grylls and Mrs. Charles Hunter very ably presented the affirmative side, while Mrs. Elwood Northey and Mrs. Don Campbell put forth some splendid arguments for the negative. The judges, Miss Elsie Kidd, Miss Bertina Beavis, and Miss Eilene Young, brought in a decision in favor of the affirmative.

Mrs. Everett Sloan was in charge of the devotional part of the evening consisting of the scripture reading by Mrs. William Whetung; prayer by Miss Zelma Darling, "A Meditation," Mrs. George Graham, and a short poem by Mrs. Sloan.

During the business session taken over by the preident, Mrs. Alex Graham, it was decided the Mission Circle would look after flowers for the church in June.

A social half-hour was pleasantly spent and lunch served by Mrs. Frank Erskine and Mrs. Carm. Payne.

Special Quilt Draw

Cyril Coughlin was holder of the lucky ticket, drawn by Claude Shewin, that won the special prize quilt at the Legion bingo, in the Memorial Hall Tuesday evening.

The quilt, the top of which was donated by Mrs. Stan Windsor was made by the Ladies' Auxilary to the Canadian Legion. Proceeds realized were $21.25, which were added to the auxiliary's fund for war work. Over 80 were in attendance.

Mrs. Walter Millage has been confined to her home for the past week.

Tallying up the cross-channel offensive for April, the R.A.F. made 16 raids on German targets during the month, two raids on Norway and one each on Italy and Czecho-Slovakia in addition to numerous forays over northern France at a cost of 137 planes.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS.

The City Council accepted an invitation to attend the 25th anniversary service at St. James' United Church on Sunday morning. Rev. H. A. Kent, principal of Queen's Theological College, will preach.

A WHAM SESSION.

Winter must have its compensations for the folks who live within a block or so of that part of the main stem that echoes to the dance band in the Piccadilly Club. Last night the boys were hot, especially the drummer, who seems to have been greatly elated at something or another. You could hear him and his confederates away up at Grafton's. That's how powerful they were. The gang was in the throes of wham, but in winter with the windows down and tight all that boiler-making finesse was kept soft pedalled as far as the general public went along the street. Now you see them wondering whether they should dodge into doorways when they get in range of the drummer.

BENCH WARRANT ISSUED

When a local man who had been granted an adjournment on a drunk charge failed to answer to his name in police court this morning the police applied and were granted a bench warrant for his arrest.

FOUND-INS FINED

Six men who entered written pleas of guilty to being found in when police raided 440 George street on a recent Sunday afternoon and broke up a crap game were fined $11.50 and $1.75 costs each in police court this morning. Similar charges against a number of others remain to be dealt with.

SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

Overcome by a heart attack at Charlotte and George streets Wednesday night, George Connelly, 340 Aylmer street had to be removed by ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

ON GRAND EXECUTIVE

C. Alex Sollitt has been elected to the Grand executive of the Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons of Canada and chairman of the committee of finance of the Grand Chapter, also Grand Representative of the Grand Chapter of Saskatchewan. Election of Grand officers was announced today.

TWO GORDON STREETS

Gordon Avenue, one of the new streets on the west side of the city, is to be given a new name. It is duplicated in the south end by a street named for the late Roch Gordon, according to a statement at the Board of Works last night. Hugh Campbell of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company has a new residence in the west end street, and the conflict of the two identical street names has caused some inconvenience in deliveries of goods. A by-law to effect the change will be passed Monday night.

APPROVE TWO SEWERS

Sewers proposed by North Monaghan council for McGill street and at the west end of Charlotte street were approved by the Board of Works last night. Another sewer for Fradette Avenue south of Brinton Carpet property will have to be reconsidered because the land falls too low at the east end. City Engineer Parsons told the Board that a sewer could be laid on Fradette at its westerly end to connect with a group of houses in that section, but further extension to the east would involve further work on Sherbourne and Morrow streets and along the river to Fradette requiring easements through some private property.

MARKET RECEIPTS DOWN

Market receipts for April amounted to $153.53 Alderman Swanston reported at last night's meeting of the property committee. It was decided to renew an effort to have vendors to conform to a bylaw which requires each seller to show some identification on their baskets or produce.

MUST GET PERMISSION

Groups of citizens desiring to use the city council chamber or committee room are required to obtain permission from City Clerk Outram henceforth, and also to give him 48 hours' notice. The motion was adopted at Wednesday night's property committee meeting, proposed by Alderman Dutton and Alderman Sullivan. Mr. Outram had informed the committee that some persons neglected to say anything about their wish to make use of the hall and consequently did not arrange to have the doors opened.

FIRST AID ACTIVITIES

In connection with the Civilian Defence program, a St. John Ambulance first aid course is given on Tuesday evenings by Dr. W. Gordon and Warden's lectures on Wednesday by Dr. Avison, M.O.H. A new first aid class begins next Tuesday sponsored by Zellers store, which can accommodate a few more members. Applications should be sent to D. J. Fitzgerald at the store. Recent St. John Ambulance course graduates included Bell Telephone employees and members of the Ontario Voluntary Constabulary.

FOREST FIRE RAGES NEAR KINMOUNT AFTER HALF THE VILLAGE IS LEVELLED

Kinmount village, a community of 600 in northern Victoria county, suffered the worst fire of its history on Tuesday night, and today fire rangers and volunteers were still fighting a bush fire which followed the community conflagration. At TOP LEFT in (1) is shown the ruins of Austen's sawmill on Burnt River, where the fire started. At TOP RIGHT (2) is a panoramic view of the section swept by the fire, which left the station unharmed. In (3) Mrs. Mona Bodkin, and her father, Mickey Mansfield, veteran auctioneer, are shown. They lost everything except the clothes they were wearing. In the same picture is 14-year-old Johnny O'Toole who helped fight the forest fire. He has many relatives in Peterborough. In (4) are three of the men who helped save Chalmer's home, LEFT to RIGHT: Russell Kellett, Orlo Brandon and Earl Askey. The ruins of the Central Hotel and Poulsom's bakery are shown in (5), the pile of rubble in foreground is the hotel. The remains of Fenelon Falls' $6,000 fire engine is shown at (6). Firemen could not remove it from the path of the flames in time to save it.

Menogue Case Is Dismissed

Declaring that he felt bound to follow the judgment of Mr. Justice Kerwin in a similar case Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning found that the crown had not established a sufficiently strong case to justify sending the accused to trial in a charge against Vincent Menogue, involving a girl under 21 years of age.

Accordingly the accused was dismissed.

The evidence in the case was heard last week and Magistrate Langley reserved judgment after Defence Counsel Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., had announced that he would not call any witnesses.

In giving judgment today Magistrate Langley said that the circumstances in the case before the court were similar to those with which Mr. Justice Kerwin had dealt when he held that there had to be a definite promise of marriage in such cases and not merely a conditional promise.

Suburban Grant Is Discussed

Persuaded by Aldermen Gordon and Bradburn that the statute determine their course, the Board of Works Wednesday night decided that they could not contribute $10,000 to the Suburban Area Commission this year on the basis of $7,000 from the county. The Act requires equal investment in this road system, and the provincial government grants a subsidy equal to the total of the municipal appropriations.

The Board proposed to allocate $6,100 for suburban roads, although the city has already granted $10,000 for that purpose on the notification from the county early in the year and that it was contributing $10,000 for that work. Since then, however, the Ontario government has cut in half the total of its subsidy for county roads, and since that slash was reported the county has been trying to readjust its program of road work for the year so as to allow something for county road improvement, or at least maintenance.

If the county was agreeable to reducing their subruban area grant to $6,100, the city was quite willing to accept this reduction. That would make a total of $12,200 from the two municipalities. The province would contribute another $12,200, making a total of $24,400 from all sources for suburban area roads. Alderman Dutton was instructed to interview the chairman of the Suburban Commission on this revised plan.

No Fetters Now, Hanson To King

OTTAWA, April 30—(CP)—Conservative House Leader Hanson urged in the House of Commons Tuesday that the government "respond to the people's will for total war" in view of the results of Monday's pebiscite in which the majority voted to relieve the administration from any obligations arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising of men for military service.

He made a brief statement when the House resumed sittings Tuesday afternoon, and said that as a result of the plebiscite there were now "no stumbling blocks, real or imaginary," he said. "Let us act now."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said it would be better to postpone discussion on the plebiscite until official returns are complete.

Any steps that might be taken as a result of the plebiscite would be of great importance, and they would be announced in due course by the government.

"Fortunately all members are free now to speak their minds without feeling they are influenced by any past commitments," the Prime Ministers said.

Offensive Opener?

ROME, (from Italian broadcasts), April 30—(AP).—Italian newspapers in comments published today interpreted Hitler's speech Sunday as a prelude to a great Axis offensive.

Il Popolo Di Roma said: "Every time the Fuehrer has spoken himself in the Reichstag this has proved later on to be an announcement of decisive importance."

Messargero called the speech a "solemn announcement of great campaigns which will be launched during the next few months."

Rescue Workers Search For Casualties Amongst Bath Ruins

Air-raid precautions and other volunteer workers are shown searching among the ruins of bombed buildings for casualties in the famous resort city of Bath, which was savagely bombed by German warplanes in reprisal for the Royal Air Force offensive against German objectives. The city was a refugee and evacuee centre, and it is feared that the loss of life is heavy.

Strong U.S. Units Bolster Australian Front

CANBERRA, Australia, April 30 (CP) — Strong additional United States reinforcements have arrived in Australia, Prime Minister John Curtin announced today in a statement to the House of Representatives.

He said the troops were well equipped and included "important technical units."

The prime minister also announced he had created "the prime minister's war conference" consisting of himself, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and such ministers and officers as he might summon to discuss highest strategical questions.

In his statement on the reinforcements, he said:

"Strong additional United States reinforcements which are well equipped and include important technical units have arrived.

"The equipment position has materially improved.

"In addition to acceleration of local production of munitions, supplies of tanks and guns are arriving from overseas in increasing numbers and quantities of vital war equipment have been received from ships originally destined for the Dutch East Indies.

"Supplies of modern United States aircraft have made possible reinforcement of our northern air bases, resulting in constant raiding of Japanese bases in New Guinea, New Britain and Timor."

Mr. Curtin said that Australia is preparing to take the offensive against the Japanese even in the face of an invasion threat which she regards as constant and undiminished.

Danger Still There

"Notwithstanding Japanese losses in aircraft and shipping at New Guinea and elsewhere, the Commonwealth Government regards an outright attack on Australia as a constant and undiminished danger," he said.

"Japanese aircraft losses in Allied operations at Darwin and in New Guinea and elsewhere exceed 150 bombers and fighters, with 100 damaged.

"But Japan is still able almost at will to reinforce Timor and New Guinea.

"Nor have we hitherto been able substantially to weaken the enemy's position in the regions occupied by him in the advance southward."

The Prime Minister spoke twice, once in a long war statement to the House of Representatives and also in a broadcast to Britain reafffirming Australia's loyalty to the Empire.

Although he told the Legislature that Australia must expect Japan to try her utmost to make this continent impotent as a base for the Allied offensive, he predicted in his broadcast that "the turning point in the total conflict" would be the Allied blows dealt in the South Pacific.

The Prime Minister, pointing out that no part of Australia would be immune were the enemy to gain a foothold for land-based bombers, reflected a warning from Air Minister Arthur Drakeford that the Dominion can expect Japanese air raids to grow heavier.

The same indomitable will that the people of Britain showed after Dunkirk also will save Australia, Mr. Curtin said in his message to Britain. He declared the danger of annihilation had cemented the British Empire and that Australia stood proudly in it.

He emphasized the importance of unity in the Southwest Pacific command, with the fighting men of the Dominion and the United States marching as one army under Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"From securely-held Australia, strategy and forces essential to free the Pacific, to hold firmly the Indianocean and to liberate enemy occupied places threatening those oceans can go forward to the offensive," he added.

"This purpose abides with us. It keeps the Axis powers in the west separated from their eastern partner. It is a blow that will prove the turning point in the total conflict."

Moresby Threat Grows.

A correspondent of the Sydney Sun at an advance Allied base foresaw a possible full-scale Japanese attack on Port Moresby, New Guinea, within two weeks. He said at least 15 ships, including seven large transports, were concentrated at Rabaul, New Britain, which lies north of New Guinea, and others were at Lae, across the tongue of southeastern New Guinea from Port Moresby.

A Reuter's correspondent at the same base said the Jaanese are reported to be massing improved types of aircraft, among them a new Zero fighter credited with having more powerful armament and a higher ceiling.

Dr. Drakeford warned that 'raids on a larger scale than any since the first heavy raid on Darwin (when 90 planes were used) may be reasonably expected in Australia.

Editor Pictures Canada Major Influence

TORONTO, April 30 — "Canada occupies a unique position as a mediator of understanding between the United States and Great Britain," Henry R. Luce, editor-publisher of Time Magazine, said here Tuesday night.

"Verbally and theoretically, the British favor a great enlargement of the responsibility of the United States," said Mr. Luce. "But as American leadership develops into actuality, there may be many points of policy and method which will require a far greater measure of mutual understanding and clarification than now in fact exists.

"If I may be quite honest with you, I am not sure that you in Canada have fully discharged your duty in this respect in recent months—either to us or to Great Britain or yourselves. You are part of an Empire which it is your business to reconsider. That involves a reconsideration of the world. We await the results of your reconsideration."

Mr. Luce's brilliant, provocative speech was received with tumultuous applause by the members of the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto who had gathered at dinner in the Royal York Hotel to hear him. It was the first time that Mr. Luce had made a public address in Canada. The speaker was introduced by George McCullagh.

The American editor-publisher minced no words. He said flatly that the chief weakness of the Allied cause lies in the fact that the United Nations have no definite war aims. He did not spare his own country when he probed the faults of the democracies.

No Neat Answer

"We of the democracies are at last beginning to realize that there is no neat, convenient dividing line at which we can wipe our hands, put on our coats and say: 'Now we have had our nasty war—let's sit down to a nice peace. What will you have, chocolate or vanilla?' From our bitter experience we know that, whether or not there can be such a thing as a good war, there can be such a thing as a bad peace.

"In this third year of war, the problem of war aims or no war aims has got into a fine state of scrambled confusion," he said.

Mr. Luce pointed out that Britain and the United States are in positions of equal danger.

"Britain has a war aim—one supreme war aim," he agreed. "She has and has had a task both of gigantic magnitude and of incalculable worth to mankind—the liberation of the world from Hitlerism. . . . Such an aim, I would agree, properly commands our utmost sacrifice of life and treasure. But, however it may be explained, and however unreasonable it may be, the extraordinary fact is that there is in Britain a deeply felt need for clearer and more positive war aims.

"Here with us in North America lies the ample explanation of why Britain cannot produce war aims. Without us, the rest of the freedom-loving world cannot formulate the reasonable vision of the future of the world.

The Old Poker Game.

"All this, I take it, is obvious. And I take it that it is further true that a great part of the rest of the world expects the United States to exercise leadership. Cynically, it might be observed, the politicians of the rest of the world are likely to indulge in a vast amount of poker-playing with Uncle Sam and trading against him. And cynically, the smartest tactics for us might be to play our cards close to the chest.

"Well, right here, we have come to the heart of what I wanted to say to-night. Shall we go on trying to be smart and cagey and clever? Or shall we of North America try the big gamble—the gamble of being honest and direct and courageous? Which is the road from one hell to the next? Which is the road out of this pit of human darkness— out of the pit toward the stars?"

The American editor explained that forces which will "sabotage" American leadership will include the isolationists, some American Fascists, some sincere but misguided internationalists and some pacifists.

"All these contradictory sentiments will unite only in seeking to undermine American leadership in world affairs," he said.

"Now why do I forewarn you of this curious hodgepodge of sentiments in the United States," Mr. Luce said. "I do so because you of Canada can have a great and perhaps even determing influence upon the shape of our thought and the maintenance of our resolves once they are formed.

"But we shall certainly have our try at the high adventure. It is for you Canadians, more than any other people, not only to join us in the adventure, but also to encourage us or to discourage.

"Indeed, it seems to me that responsibility for the evolution of leadership in international affairs rests as fully upon every individual Canadian as it does upon every individual citizen of the United States.

"As one American, I urge you to exercise your responsibilities to the utmost of your personal influence—not only in the development of opinion within Canada, but equally and no less insistently in the United States."

Piggery Blaze Wipes Out Pork For Air Stations

TWEED, April 30.—(ENS).— Six hundred fat market hogs valued at $16,000 were lost early on Wednesday morning, when fire completely destroyed the modern piggery of Charles Parm. Loss of the building was estimated at $7,000.

One hundred and forty animals were saved by Parm and helpers before the flames enveloped the entire building, destroying the remaining six hundred which were to have been marketed yesterday.

The loss is not only a severe one to the owner but to the government as well, for the animals were under delivery contract to local air stations.

The blaze was noticed by a Corbyville man named Tearns, who was returning from his work at 3.00 a.m. He awakened Parm who lives in a brick dwelling some five hundred yards from the piggery. Fire had emanated from the northern end of the two hundred foot building where the cookery is located.

The building was approximately one-third ablaze when he and his helpers arrived. They dashed into the south end of the building and hurriedly opened pens. One hundred and forty of the smaller hogs were freed before intense heat and smoke drove Parm and his associates from the building.

The building, which were erected two years ago following the destruction of its predecessor by fire, was one of the most up to date buildings.

Barn Burns.

While having a fire in her garden to burn refuse, Mrs. William Shaw had the misfortune to have her barn completely destroyed by fire, which caught in the dry grass and soon made way to the frame building.

The building was not long becoming a mass of flame owing to the extremely dry weather. Upon seeing the flames several men rushed to the scene and were able to save the house. Fortunately the breeze blew the flames away from the building.

No Food To Isles

LONDON, April 30 — (CP). — The House of Lords rejected Wednesday an appeal by Lord Portsea to send foodstuffs to Britain's Channel Islands where the 82-year-old peer declared 90,000 persons are starving.

The Islands, including Guernsey and Jersey, are occupied by the Germans.

Members sat silent when Lord Portsea called for a vote, and when none joined him, he murmured. "On your heads be it."

Lord Snell, speaking for the Government, said the plight of the Islanders had been exaggerated.

Peterboro' Rural Schools

Victoria School, Belmont, Was Named For Britain's Queen. . . . Old Havelock School Antedated the C.P.R. Village . . . Rockdale School Was Built in 1869.

VICTORIA SCHOOL, BELMONT

In 1823 the township of Belmont was surveyed, but was not named until 1855 when it was formed from the large township of Anstruther.

Due to an influx of settlers from around Cobourg in those years, the new township's council subdivided the municipality into school sections according to the population, not less than fifty children between the ages of five and twenty-one to each section.

This continued until 1896 when all the property of Belmont and Methuen was included in a school section. Then, a map was made by Mr. Preston, township clerk at that time, designating the boundaries of each school section. That map is still in use, and may be borrowed from the present clerk, Grant Dafoe. A copy is kept at the Court House in Peterborough for the use of the county council.

School section No. 3 is seven concessions wide and nine lots deep—in all thirty-two lots. Its assessed valuation at present is $35,000. Near the close of the school year of 1908, it was found that the old school could no longer be used. The trustees held a special meeting March 21 in that year to settle the question of a new school building. It was moved by Mr. Clark, seconded by Mr. Sexsmith, that the present site be purchased from Thomas Sexsmith for $75. The title deed is dated June 10, 1908, signed by James Freeman, secretary-treasurer and Hugh Fraser. A small addition was made to the grounds on July 1, 1908, when $12 was paid for the corner plot.

The property consists of a rather sharp hill on the side of which stands the school. On June 23, 1908, the trustees agreed to borrow $850 with which to build and furnish the school. This money was raised by issuing ten-year debentures. The building was begun immediately. Mr. Elphiets along with Hugh Fraser, a carpenter, did most of the work. Wood furnishings came from the Marmora Lumber Company. Miss Kelly was the first teacher, and Richard Lees was the school inspector. The building and equipment are insured for $1500. It is a red brick, one-room building facing the road. A hot air jacketed furnace in the basement heats the building through one register in the centre of the floor.

The school's name is "Victoria," and was built in 1893 it was named after Queen Victoria (1837-1901), then reigning.

When a district post office was built on the corner, the name Victoria was applied for, but because of precedent it was disallowed and therefore named Chase's Corner post office because the postmaster's name was Joseph Chase. However, since 1924 the post office has been incorporated into a rural mail delivery from Havelock. (Written by James S. Weir, teacher, 1937-39; copied by Bernice Ellis and Florence Ellis, Victoria School, 1940-41.)

S.S. No. 5, BELMONT

Before this school was built the children of the section attended at an old log building on the right hand side of the road between Rockdale and Cordova. In 1869 it was decided to build a new school. Mr. A. Young contributed a piece of land, and timber was cut from his woods and taken to a sawmill situated along the bank of the river below C. F. Steenburgh's house. Names proposed were Mount Zion and Rockdale. Finally the name Rockdale was chosen. In the years that followed, the building was painted white with green trim, and the ground was enclosed with a red fence.

In 1930 steel roofing was laid on the school and wood shed. During the Christmas holidays of 1939 a new hardwood ceiling was put in. For the year beginning January 1941 the trustees were: Carl Purdy, William Ellis, Fred Varty and the secretary-treasurer, C. F. Steenburgh.

S.S. No. 6, BELMONT

The area of this school section is about nine square miles. It extends south of the ninth concession of Belmont about two miles, and also about two miles east and west of Old Havelock corner.

The early settlers of the section were mostly Irish, having come from the north of Ireland. Some of the pioneers who were interested in the general welfare of the community: Peter Pearce, John Robb, James Johnston, Thomas Johnston, Robert Johnston, John Johnston, Jas. Burgess and John Bannon. Another well known resident of that time was Robert Stewart, an immigrant from Scotland. He had served as a soldier in the Old Country, and for that reason was known throughout these parts as the King of Belmont.

The Old Havelock school house, as it is today was built about 1860. The building of the village of Havelock began about 1881. Children of the village attended the school in this section until about 1886 or 1888.

About the year 1886 there was an agitation to have a school in the village, so, by arbitration, Old Havelock school section was divided and a new school section formed which was called S.S. No. 15 Belmont.

Number 6 school is a frame structure that cost originally around $1,000. The furniture was very old fashioned, two ten-foot desks extending from the front of the school to the back, one on either side of the room. The pupils of course sat on the benches at these desks, the girls on one side and the boys on the other. The teacher's desk was about five feet long. She had only a bench to sit on. The only other equipment was a stove.

The first school board was composed of Peter Pearce and John Robb. Mary Preston was the first teacher. She had a third class certificate and her salary was $300 a year. The subjects taught were necessary for every day life, reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, history and geography.

A year or so after the school was completed, a wood shed was built and the school yard fenced in. The old shed was torn down and replaced with the present one in 1911. A little later a porch was added. The heating, lighting and ventilating systems have remained unchanged. The school clock was bought during Harry Andrews' term as teacher out of the money won by the school at the school parade in Havelock Park in 1907.

The library was begun in 1907, the proceeds of a concert being used to buy books.

Shortly after the school was built it was donated for church services of all denominations. The Methodist minister was Mr. Thistlewaite. After Havelock was incorporated servces were no longer held here.

Some of the students who have gone out into the world and made names for themselves were: Roy Burgess, electrical engineer; Vernon Kniewasson, doctor; Ralph Spencer, minister; Thomas and William Falker, civil service; Gerald Buchanan, teacher; Katherine and Rhoda Falker, teachers.

In the autumn of 1940 a new piano was bought for the school, taking the place of the old organ. During the Christmas holidays of that year the old double seats were removed, and twenty-two new single seats were substituted. A modern teacher's desk was also bought.

End Of a Family

ROCK SEPRINGS, Wyo., April 30 —(AP). — A young physician, who had detected tuberculosis symptoms in himself, administered narcotics to his wife and two small daughters, watched them die and then swallowed a lethal drug dose himself, Coroner J. Warden Opie said last night. Police broke into the family's home to find Dr. J. F. Ryan, 35, lying on a bed beside the body of his wife, about 34. The girls, Virginia 5 and Mary Jane 3, lay dead in their beds with their dolls beside them.

Bomber Shot Up But Flies Home 20 Ft. Above Sea

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, April 30. — A crippling encounter with a Nazi night fighter after Tuesday night's heavy R.A.F. raid on the Kiel naval base was described yesterday by Wing Commander J. J. Fulton of Kamloops, B.C., who managed to nurse home a badly damaged Wellington bomber and land safely.

"We bombed Kiel good and hard and were well out across the North Sea when things began happening," said the commander of an R.C.A.F. Wellington squadron in a graphic account of the return flight.

"A fighter attacked us—he must have seen us against the moon," said Fulton. "He was about 100 yards away when the rear gunner spotted him. Our man shot about twelve rounds before the other guy opened up.

"Cannon shells and machine-gun bullets smashed into our aircraft. The fighter closed to nearly twenty yards. I flung the Wellington over and stuck the nose down and turned into the dark.

"I couldn't get a reply from the rear turret on the intercommunications. It looked as though the gunner had been knocked out. I shouted to the wireless operator to get into the astro-hatch and tell me if the guy was going to attack again. We went down in tight spirals to the water.

"The Wellington was shaking like nothing on earth. I figured the port engine was shaking so I stopped it and opened the starboard engine. We were only twenty feet above the water, unable to climb, and just handing on with the starboard engine working its guts out.

"If the fighter had come on again we couldn't have done a thing. We went staggering along, still twenty feet above the water."

Fulton told how the navigator, with a slightly-wounded arm, went back to assist the rear gunner. The rear turret was badly shot up and the navigator had to chop down the turret doors. He found the gunner, by "a miracle" was only scratched.

"All the time the cylinder head and the temperature of the starboard engine was going up with the flogging she was getting.

"In a few minutes it would have packed up altogether. The only thing to do was to start the port engine and let it shake. It damn nearly shook right off the aircraft. One propeller blade was shot away halfway down.

"We came rattling and shaking home with all the instruments gone except the altimeter and the rate-of-climb indicator. Two wheels hung down. Both tires were flat. There was no brake pressure, no flaps, no air-speed indicator.

"At the base we made a belly landing. The Wellington skidded along quite nicely. We were all unhurt."

Fear Full Moon To Mar Trout Opening

TORONTO, April 30.—A full moon and trout fishing make a pretty poor combination, in the opinion of most anglers, but the fishermen who are preparing to open the trout season tomorrow will have to make the best of it. The moon seems to exert a mysterious influence on the speckled beauties, according to the experts.

But May 1 is the traditional opening day for the rod enthusiasts, and it is expected that the size of the moon will not stop them from matching wits with the elusive fish. War work is certain to keep many away from their favorite sport on opening day, but there will be no lack of anglers to whip the streams and pools.

"The season is exceptionally early," said D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries. "The waters are low and there should be a good take of fish. This is good fishing weather."

United States fishermen are not particularly interested in the May 1 opening of the trout season in Ontario, but later in the month they come across the border in fairly large numbers. Whether such will be the case this year remains to be seen, but Mr. Taylor pointed out that more non-resident fishing licenses were sold from Jan. 1 up to the present time than were sold in the same period in 1941, and 1941 was a record year. Mr. Taylor pointed out, however, that many of these non-resident licenses were for ice fishing in the winter months.

Messroom Chatter From Britain

By LOUIS HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 30.—(CP).—Canadian airmen of an R.A.F. bomber squadron gave the crews of two German freight trains a hot time during a moonlight attack on railway traffic near Lingen.

Two bombers scored hits on the trains both with bombs and machine gun bullets and one was left emitting smoke or steam from its full length.

The airmen were Sgts. Fred S. Hiley, Toronto, and William John Kaufman, Kitchener, Ont., pilots; Sgts. G. H. German, Newmarket, Ont., and Ronald Stewart Coals Island, N.B., navigators; Sgt. G. G. Laronde, North Bay Ont., gunner, and Flt. Sgt. William David Frost, Vancouver, wireless operator.

"House lights came on as we passed over Holland," Hiley reported, "and went out a few minutes later."

Newcomers to the R.A.F., Whitley bomber squadron commanded by Wing Cmdr. P. C. Pickard, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Bruneval fame, include a number of Canadians, among whom is AC1. Gordon Mayot of Brantford, Ont.

Another Canadian who has joined the squadron as an air gunner is AC2. A. J. Tate of Halifax. A merchant seaman before the war he gave up the sea for the air and hopes to 'get cracking soon.'

John Rainville of St. Johns, Que., the only FrenchCanadian in the Canadian Spitfire squadron commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. C. N. S. Campbell, D.F.C., of the R.A.F., has been promoted from flight sergeant to pilot officer

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question.—Would you be so kind as to send me a diet. I am 25 years old, 5' 5" and weigh 155 lbs. I have noticed in most diets that coffee and tea are taken without cream and sugar. Would it be all right to substitute a fruit juice or tomato juice for them? I drink a lot of tomato juice. I enjoy your page very much and your recipes are excellent.

I am sending you a recipe for "Salad Bowl of Greens" which is very easy to toss up and quickly made: One bunch watercress, 1 small cucumber thinly sliced, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 small bunch green onions coarsely chopped, ½ green pepper sliced, 4 sprigs endive cut in halves, ½ head lettuce, French dressing. Wash greens and dry thoroughly in a towel. Chill salad ingredients. Place in a salad bowl the springs of watercress, thinly sliced cucumber, cabbage coarsely chopped, onions, green pepper, and endive. Add sufficient French dressing to coat greens. Toss lightly. Serve very cold.

Well, good luck to you and your page.—I. H.

Answer.—Thanks for the unusual salad. I have sent you a copy of the article we printed last Fall, which gives you a good slimming routine. You have to have will-power and tenacity to reduce, you know. Good luck! Tomato and fruit juices are better than tea and coffee.

Question.—Perhaps the lady who asked for Brandy Snaps meant the following recipe. It is the same one made for the fairs or feasts of Yorkshire, England. Yorkshire people will know. We don't get the same sort of thing in Canada. Here is the recipe. (Sometimes while it is warm it is wrapped round a small roller and makes it curl): 2 oz. butter, 2 oz. golden syrup, 2 oz. sugar, 2 oz. flour, ½ teaspoon ginger. Melt sugar, butter and syrup, add flour, ginger. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered tin and bake in a moderate oven. I generally make mine all in one piece and break it in pieces when it is cold. (Ed's. note.—When changed to volume measurements this recipe would be ¼ cup each butter, sugar and syrup; ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon ginger.)

Here is a favorite with everybody: Pastry-line bun tins with a little jam at the bottom. On top of the jam put the following mixture. (By the way, these are called Surprise Buns. I weigh all my recipes so cannot give you the measures. Perhaps you can help out with this):

Surprise Buns

(Contributed by Mrs. Eversden).

Two oz. butter creamed (½ cup), 2 oz. sugar (¼ cup), 1 egg, 3 oz. ground rice (6 tablespoons), ½ teaspoon baking powder. This makes 12 large size tarts. (Ed's. note—Bake these tarts at about 400 to 425 deg. Fahr.)

I always read your page and find it very interesting—C. E.

Answer.—Thanks for clearing up this matter of Brandy Snaps—it is always a pleasure to receive information from an authentic source such as yours. Thanks also for the Surprise Buns. Write again when we can help you.

Question.—Thanks so much for the canned fowl recipes.

Could you tell me if it is possible to water-pack fruits, or a very light syrup. I've heard of water-packed fruits but never tried them. Would you kindly advise me. I will watch the paper.—Mrs. A. Emery.

Answer.—Since it is the express business of cookery editors and Government dietitians to provide housewives with the information you desire, you may be assured that it will be printed on this page in time for the canning season. (There is no doubt that vegetables and fruits can be packed perfectly satisfactorily with water since it has been being done in home kitchens for diabetics for years.) The only difficulty at the moment is in procuring the fruits and vegetables far enough ahead of the peak of the pack to experiment with and publish the results of the experiments with the products in time for housewives to profit by it. But be assured it is being done, using corn syrup as the chief sweetening agent since it is the cheapest and nearest to a neutral sweet flavor obtainable. If you want to pack something ahead of the season, write me and tell me your particular needs.

Question.—Having read some of your recipes I was wondering if you could supply a canning book on vegetables and fruits. Thanking you, —Mrs. A. V. Bossert.

Answer.—The reply to above letter will interest you. So far we are not ready for you, but will be. There may not be a canning booklet but there will be plenty of material published through this cookery page.

Question.—I would be very pleased if you could send me your syrup recipes, you mentioned in the paper. I also would like to have the recipe called Sour Cream Pie with baked crust, graham whip and California cream.—Mrs. W. Halden.

Answer:

Sour Cream Pie

One cup sour cream, 2/3 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoons flour, 2 beaten egg yolks, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, speck of salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ cup raisins may be added. This may be cooked in two ways: (1) Mix all ingredients together and cook in top of double boiler stirring until thick and pour into baked pie shell and cover with meringue made from two leftover whites plus 6 tablespoons sugar or (2) Mix all ingredients together, pour into unbaked pie shell and bake as you would bake a custard pie, using whites for some other purpose.

The nearest thing I can find to the Graham Whip you desire is called Graham Cracker Dessert and is made thus: Roll graham crackers into crumbs, and line a buttered pie tin with these. Spread a thick filling of mashed apple-sauce or pureed apricots over the crumbs. Cover with more crumbs. Place in oven just long enough to brown, and serve with whipped cream. Use a pancake turner for removing the pieces from the pan.

I'm sorry I cannot locate a recipe for California Cream. I shall have to appeal to our readers for this if they have heard of it. Maybe you could give us a detailed description of it?

CASUAL COMFORT

AFTER ALL the furs and furbelows the diamonds and the decollete that are part and parcel of the professional wardrobe of a great singer, the desire is generally for sweet simplicity and down-to-earth outfits for leisure hours at home. At least this is Lily Pons' idea. We asked her what she liked to wear when she was home and so she posed at her Connecticut place wearing her favorite outfit. It is a true dirndl costume consisting of a flowered challis skirt, with dark velvet corseted bodice and peasant blouse of sheer batiste.

Asparagus with Melted Butter

Rhubarb Upside Down Cake, Coffee

NOTE: There is a surplus of chicken on the market and housewives would be doing patriotic duty if they gave fowl a thought every week, or every time they felt they could afford it. In using chicken you leave more pork for export purposes. To make the Chicken Pie: Select 1 6-lb. fowl, 1½ quarts boiling water, 1 medium onion sliced, 4 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup flour, bit of bayleaf, dash of pepper, 1 rule rich pastry. Prepare the chicken by washing, singing, etc., and washing again—you should always have the butcher draw it—place in large kettle and add boiling water, salt and pepper, onion, bayleaf and other seasonings if liked. Cook slowly until tender (3 hours if a fowl), adding boiling water as necessary. There should be at least 3 cups when done. Taste to see if it needs more salt. Take out ½ cup stock, let cool, and mix to a smooth paste with the flour, add let boil 2 minutes. Distribute pieces of chicken (on bones if you wish) evenly in large baking dish, pour in thick part of stock and enough of the thinner part so that liquid comes to with ½ inch of top of chicken (if meat is wholly covered the crust will soak). Make crust of rich pastry, rolling about ¾ to ½ inch thick. It is usual to make a slit 2 inches long in centre each way to form cross and allow escape of steam. A cup may be inverted inside pie to help hold crust up. Some prefer to let the crust lie loose at the edges allowing gas and steam to escape there also. Bake at 450 for 20 minutes, then reduce to 350 for 30 minutes more. Heat remaining gravy to pass at table. Plenty of gravy is a must.

YOU'D NEVER BELIEVE SHE IS 48 ....

She's one of the peppiest, happiest-spirited women you ever saw. At the time when most women think life is passing them by—she's right in the midst of things—always ready to go places and do things . . . as popular with the men as girls half her age. To look at her you would never believe she was a day over 38.

How does she do it? She gives the credit to Dr. Williams Pink Pills . . . for well she knows how important it is to have plenty of rich, red blood during those years when so many women are "pulled down" in health by bodily changes.

If you feel "always tired", if you look pale and dragged out, if you are suffering from a feeling of nervous exhaustion, are jittery and irritable, you may be paying the price of poor blood make-up. Don't wait—start Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They contain an easily assimilable form of iron—fortified with a generous amount of Vitamin B_1—and are wonderfully effective in helping to build the rich, red blood so necessary to vigor and energy. Margaret Anthony Bride Of Joseph De Noble

Immaculate Conception Church was the scene on Wednesday of the marriage of Margaret Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anthony, to Joseph Ernest, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. De Noble, with Monsignor O'Sullivan officiating. The church was decorated with spring flowers and ferns. Wedding music was played by Miss Bernice Flynn and during the signing of the register Anthony De Noble sang Cesar Franck's "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in floor-length white gown with lace bodice and net skirt with lace inserts three-quarter length sleeves and a sweetheart neckline and a train. Her veil of French tulle hung from a lace halo and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies and white roses. The bride was attended by Miss Louis Anthony, her sister, who wore a pink net gown with sweetheart neckline and a bow and streamers of turquoise blue falling from the neckline, a hat of frilled pink net and carried a bouquet of sweetpeas and pink roses. Mr. Frank Anthony was best man and the ushers were Mr. John De Noble and Joseph Anthony.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home where her mother received, wearing a gown of navy sheer print with a hat of navy straw and a corsage of roses and sweet-peas. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a black crepe gown with a matching hat of black straw and a corsage of roses.

Later the happy couple left on a trip to Toronto and Niagara. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of tan, a print dress and matching accessories. They will live in Peterborough.

Ward Smith,, and Mrs. Arthur Malby read a chapter from this year's study book. The remainder of the meeting was spent working on the layettes for distribution to needy mothers and plans were discussed for a tea to be held at the home of Miss T. Mather on Gilmour street on Saturday afternoon, May 9, to display the layettes and raise funds for next year's work. Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Lynch, Mrs. J. M. Terry and Mrs. A. The marriage took place in Immaculate Conception Church of Georgina McMahon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McMahon, to Cpl. Raymond Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, with Monsignor O'Sullivan officiating. Given in marriage by her father the bride wore cubana blue silk jersey with a sweetheart turban and a nosegay of sweetpeas and roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret McMahon, who wore a frock of beige crepe and brown taffeta and a similar hat to the bride's, and carried a similar nosegay. Mr. Bernard McMahon was best man.

ELIMINATE ALIMONY AND YOU'LL CURTAIL DIVORCE
Wives Would Hesitate to Rush Into Court If They Knew Support Would Be Withdrawn

Dear Miss Dix.—Marriage has gotten to the stage now where for women it is no longer matrimony. It is patrimony. Few women are willing to work as hard to make a home as a man does to support it. They bring no enthusiasm to their job, and when the husband complains they throw it up. I think the trouble could largely be obviated by having a marriage contract that would be as binding on the woman as on the man. If the wife did not keep her end of the bargain, then the marriage could be annulled without alimony. It isn't very often that a woman sues for divorce without asking for alimony. The divorce law are not fair to men. A woman can pack up and leave and then sue her husband for alimony, but if a man leaves his wife she will have arrested for non-support. Women have asked for equal rights and gotten them. They should have them in marriage and should give value received.—A Man.

Answer.—I entirely agree with you, Mr. Man. There are too many women living at ease on alimony that they have not earned. No man should be compelled by the courts to support an absentee wife unless she can prove by disinterested witnesses that she has done her part in making him a good and faithful wife and has been a good housekeeper.

I also agree with you that it would go a long way towards settling the marriage and divorce problem if before marriage every man and woman had a legally-drawn-up contract in which all of their duties and obligations were specifically set forth, as well as how profits and emoluments of the par-t nership were to be divided, and what each had a right to expect in case of the dissolution of the firm.

No Work, No Pay

I think it would stop many of the quitter wives from flying off to Reno if they knew that they would not receive one penny to live on because they were defaulting on their bargain without cause. I think it would make many a slovenly housekeeper get busy with the vacuum cleaner and devote more attention to the cook stove if she knew she could be fired without pay if she didn't give satisfaction at her job.

I think it would make many a husband keep a civil tongue in his head if he knew that his wife could break the contract and get damages because his attitude towards her made the partnership intolerable. And it would be difficult to enforce a marriage contract, but just to visualize in black and what what they were agreeing to do in the holy estate would give any young couple a higher sene of their obligations than they generally have.

Absence May Help

Dear Dorothy Dix.—I am an old maid, not altogether by choice nor without chances, but because in youth I was hampered by responsibilities which forbade matrimony. Four years ago a man a few years my senior declared he loved me and I admitted my love for him but he did not then, and has not since, proposed marriage. He takes me everywhere I want to go, considers my slightest wish, is the kindest, tenderest person I ever saw. He comes to see me every night and goes to see no other woman. He is an unencumbered widower amply able to marry. Besides which I am well off. I have lived half my life in single blessedness and could go on that way to the end, but it humiliates me to know that I have given the big love of my life to a man for a plaything. What would you do?—Fair and Forty.

Answer.—I would go away on a long trip somewhere. All this man needs is a good stiff jolt to wake him up and make him see how big a place you hold in his life and how lonesome he would be without you.

You remember the old story about the bachelor who gave as his reason for not marrying the woman he loved that if he did marry her he would have no pleasant place in which to spend his evenings. There are plenty of men like that. They would like to have part-time wives. They would like to monopolize the women they are fond of. They want some woman to whom they can go with their troubles and their confidences, sure of being petted and flattered and cajoled; women whose houses make an agreeable place to go to; women with whom they can keep up a certain romantic wooing.

But they don't want to marry. They don't want to be bound. They don't want to have to adjust themselves to a wife's whims and peculiarities. Often they don't want to pay a wife's bills, or spend their money in supporting a family instead of indulging themselves. They want the perquisities of matrimony without having to pay the piper.

This is particularly true of widowers who having been married are frequently in the position of the burnt child who dreads the fire. They know that a woman with curl papers in the morning is not as alluring a sight as the same lady with her undulations combed out in the evening.

Evidently your friend belongs to this school of thought, and so if you want him to give you a wedding ring, leave him flat, and let him find out how much he misses you and how necessary you are to his happiness.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Social Workers' Course Planned

In view of the present need for social workers far exceeding the numbers already trained for this work, a plan has been considered to provide special short courses in social work. Increased responsibilities placed upon social agencies by the government have brought a need for larger staffs in those agencies. Also the existing staffs have been depleted as many experienced workers have been loaned to the Dependents' Allowance Board and the Dependents' Board of Trustees under the Department of National Defence. Others are planning to go to England to meet the tremendous need there.

If the numbers interested were sufficient, it might be possible to arrange a course in Peterborough, otherwise this will probably be provided in Toronto.

The Canadian Women's Voluntary Services have under consideration a plan for the training of volunteers for play ground supervision and creche work. Some combination of this work with the broader social work courses might be arranged.

At the present time an attempt is being made merely to find out the need for any such courses and the numbers of people interested. Any one who is interested may contact the office of the Children's Aid Society, in the City Hall, or the office of the Children's Aid Society, in the City Hall, or the office of the C.W.V.S. at 147 Hunter street west, immediately.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

At the annual meeting of the Women's Art Association some doubt was expressed as to whether, in view of war conditions, the association would be able to carry on its usual extensive program of studies. At the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association in Toronto, H.R.H. Princess Alice said, "At no time do our minds and hearts need to be lifted up and out of ourselves—to behold and to listen to what is beautiful—more than at the present, when our thoughts are daily filled with the sordid crimes and tragedies and agonies of war." There is the answer. Beauty is for so many, many people a relaxation, an escape from—but not an evasion of— the heavy tasks and responsibilities of war. If we cut down on art because of wartime conditions, we must also cut down on hockey games, horse-racing, movies, funny paper, radio programs and all other channels by which people maintain their mental equilibrium in an unbalanced world. And no one can say, after the report on the war work done by the association, that its members do not pull their weight in the war effort. Yes, we still need the Art Association, especially in Peterborough, where the arts need all the encouragement they can get. And we need great music, art and writing too, to remind us, when the struggle grows fierce, how incomparably gracious in its finest aspects, is the civilized way of life for which we fight . . . . Since the new year the Red Shield Women's Auxiliary has sent overseas 90,000 garments, and knitted up eight tons of wool. More than 1,000 pounds of candy was also sent for the children . . . . If every home in Canada salvaged one newspaper a week for one year, those newspapers would provide enough fibre board for packing 5,000,000 two-pounder shells for tanks . . . . There are in our city a number of men and women of foreign birth working in our factories. They speak little English; they have no friends and they are sometimes incredibly lonely. A lady in Peterborough has suggested that arrangement be made somehow for these people to meet and get acquainted, and to see how the can be helped. What do you think? . . . When sweetening fruits with sugar, if you can let them stand overnight, less sugar will be required. Also, honey and syrup will make foods sweeter if they stand overnight.

Dinner and Dance Close Season Of Bowling League

The Mercantile Bowling League wound up its season with a gay banquet and dance at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club on Wednesday evening. Mr. William Moorhead, retiring president, presided at the banquet, and in a short speech expressed his appreciation of the willing co-operation of the League and of his executive, and congratulate the prize winners.

During dinner music was played by Jack Marshall, and community singing was enjoyed between courses. The guest speaker, Hon. J. J. Duffus, spoke to the members and congratulated them on the excellence of their organization and of the fine spirit of sportsmanship which prevailed among them. He said that bowling enjoyed two unique advantages over other sports. In bowling there are no champions or professionals; and bowling is the only sport in which a perfect score can be obtained. The Senator congratulated the winners, but said that those who had played their best and lost were also to be congratulated.

Prizes were presented to the winning teams as follows: 1st, Maher's Shoe Store, captained by Mrs. P. De Wolfe, and comprising Misses Helen McFadden, Mr. Ken McVeety, Mr. Jack Kinsman, Mr. P. DeWolfe, Mr. Joe Leith and Mr. Dude Brady; 2nd—City Hall, Detective Sgt. William Meagher, captain, P. C. Clare McGillen, P. C. Harold Mesley, P.C. G. S. Trennum, Misses Clemena Long, Kay Beatty and Kay Elliott. Braund's Stores won the Consolation prize: Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Penrose, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Ward, Mr. William Saunders, Mr. Gordon Wray.

The ladies' high average, high three and high single were won respectively by Miss Clemena Long, Miss Helen McFadden and Miss Margaret Parker. Men's high three, high single and high average were won respectively by P. C. Harold Mesley, Mr. Stan Seabrooke and Mr. William Moorhead.

The draw for the door-prizes donated by the teams in the league was conducted by Mr. Moorhead, Mr. Fred Whatley making the draw. Gifts were presented to the retiring executive, and the new president, Mr. William Jeffries expressed the League's appreciation of the co-operation which they have always received from Mr. Fred Whatley.

Community Chest, Children's Aid Helped by C.W.V.S.

One aim of the Canadian Women's Voluntary Services is to co-relate work of all war services in the community. That aim has been realized again this last week, when two more organizations made use of the Peterborough registration.

Campaign headquarters for the Community Chest needed three full time typists. These were supplied through the C.W.V.S.

The Children's Aid Society is caring for a greater number of pre-school wards, due to war conditions, and despite the general scarcity of help a call for volunteers for two hours in the mornings and part of the afternoons was answered promptly by members of the Junior Welfare League and of Canadian Women's Voluntary Services.

Registration of all women anxious to help win the war by doing what they can right here in Peterborough is still possible at the C.W.V.S. office, Bank of Toronto Building, Hunter street. Office hours are from 10 a.m. to 5.00 p.m. The phone number is 9377.

Pupil Highly Praised

Miss Lillian Smith, pupil of Dorothy Allan Park, won high praise when she sang in the first of the two closing concerts held by the Toronto Conservatory of Music. Hector Charlesworth, eminent music critic, had this to say of her performance, "Among the vocalists, Lillian Smith revealed herself as a lyric soprano of sweet quality and technical skill. She apparently has a rare sense of pitch, for she sang a number so difficult that some singers of celebrity would not dare attempt it. It was Michael Head's unaccompanied ballad, "The Singer," in which the soloist is left absolutely to her own resources. Miss Smith's impeccable pitch and expressive phrasing stamped her as a girl with a future, and she also showed flexibility and finish in Handel's "Mio Caro Bene."

Wise Hostesses Lead Way In Their "Sugarless" Teas

By MARY MOORE

Quote from a Government release: "Iced cakes, candies and cookies served at club teas or private parties should be replaced by sandwiches and salads, and housewives can also help by serving apples, pears, grapes and other fruits which require no added sweetening."

From the spirit in which this type of request is being observed to the letter, it shows how eager Canadian hostesses are to co-operate in the all-out war effort.

Last week I attended a bridge tea given by a bride for her nearest friends, and as I tasted the salad she served, in the back of my mind I was composing this little salute to her.

She served a Cheese Mould and Grapefruit Salad (below) with delicious little pastry fingers (below also) that were so flaky they melted at the first bite,—but what was notable was the lack of any sweets. No cakes, cookies or candy,—nuts took the place of mint wafers.

Everyone was slyly told that their tea or coffee would be all the better when the sugar was left out, and it was only a courageous few who insisted on "just one lump of sugar."

The hostesses who insist on making the sugarless tea popular and show how "it is being done in the best circles" will show the less venturesome ones that it is unpatriotic to pass trays laden with varieties of sugar cookies, etc.

Anyway, you might as well do it now while you have the choice!

Cheese Mould and Grapefruit Salad

One tablespoon gelatine, 3 tablespoons cold water, ½ cup hot water, cheese (use either ¾ cup tightly packed grated strong cheddar cheese OR 8 ounces cream cheese like Baumert or Philadelphia OR ¾ package of spread type cheese), 1/3 cup cream, whipped, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Soak the gelatine in the cold water for five minutes, then dissolve it in the hot water. Mix the remaining ingredients using only ½ cup of the cheese. Add gelatine and pour into moulds (these may be individual ring moulds—which by the way are a nuisance to fill—or you may use demi tasses), OR it may be poured into square dish and chilled and cut into squares when needed for the individual salads. When it begins to set sprinkle remaining cheese over. More cheese may be used if desired.

Marinate the grapefruit sections (which, if canned, should be well drained) in French Dressing for at least ½ hour in refrigerator before using. Place cheese mould in centre of bed of lettuce, and place two sections of the marinated grapefruit well drained of its marinade on either side of the cheese. Garnish with sprigs of watercress and top with maraschino cherry. A stoned prune stuffed with peanut butter is also a nice garnish.

Spring Salad

....and it's not dandelion greens!

Cook enough short thick stalks of asparagus that there will be at least six for each serving. Cook it by standing it in about two inches of boiling salted water, cover for first two minutes, then uncover and let boil hard until bases are tender, but remove from heat immediately. The steam will cook the tops enough. A little soda in the water keeps the color better. Drain well and chill thoroughly.

French Dressing. — 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne pepper, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 6 tablespoons salad. Mix the dry ingredients, put with vinegar (or the vinegar may be replaced with lemon juice) and oil in a bottle kept for this purpose, cork tightly and shake vigorously one minute. That dressing is the one that is most commonly used on salad of all types. For our Spring Salad add 1 teaspoon grated onion and let stand for five minutes, then strain out the onion before serving.

Place stalks of asparagus on bed of lettuce or endive, place a strip of green pepper or pimiento over them to form a band, flood with onion-flavored French dressing as above, at table. This is nice if garnished with celery hearts or radish roses, but for asparagus lovers the dressing is usually enough accompaniment.

Cheese Aspic

I wouldn't want you to think I'd gone off the deep end for cheese suddenly, but I have this "different" cheese salad to give you, and am going to because it can be made very economically.

One package of lime- or lemon-flavored packaged jelly dessert (OR 2 tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 3 cups strained and cleared chicken stock), ½ pound cottage cheese, ½ cup cream, ½ cup minced chives or green onions. (If the chicken stock is used instead of a prepared jelly mixture soak the gelatine in the cold water and dissolve in the hot chicken stock. Cool). Beat the cream and the cheese together until smooth and light, and beat in the chives which should be very small. Wet your moulds. Pour a little of the aspic or jelly into each mould and put in the icebox to set. Now spread a thick layer of the cheese mixture in each, let harden in the icebox, and fill up with aspic.

This aspic is delicious served in many ways. I was introduced to it when it was served in individual moulds which were used as a border to surround a large platter of assorted cold cut—sliced liverwurst, sliced pressed tongue, sliced Virginia ham. Between each cheese mould was a spiced pear. The effect was wonderful—it makes me want a High Tea so I can serve it some Sunday or holiday.

Russian Vegetable Salad

Dressing: Half cup regular mayonnaise, ½ cup cream, whipped; 1 tablespoon powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon mild horseradish. Mix well and use for dressing on: vegetable combination: 1 each of cauliflower flowerets (cooked and chilled); beets and carrots cut into julienne pieces; four each of green string beans, 1 tablespoon of bright green cooked peas for each salad, all chilled. Just before serving pour the dressing over these vegetables which are arranged in an attractive group on lettuce, and top with spoonful of caviar (if you can find any!) or lobster paste, or ball of sardine paste mixed with olives.

You be the one to start the salad tea idea in your block!

Millbrook Personals

Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson, who has been the minister of the Millbrook Presbyterian congregations for not quite three years, has accepted a call to Geneva Presbyterian church, Chesley, where he had preached the last Sunday in March. The call was ratified at the Peterborough Presbytery meeting on Tuesday morning.

Miss Margaret Wood, who spent the winter with friends at Whitby and Toronto, was the guest of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott last week, leaving for Peterborough, where she will remain for the current two or three weeks, before opening the homestead here for the summer months.

Henry Gray, of the Ontario Hydro Commission, local branch, leaves on Monday morning for two months basic training at Peterborough. Mr. Gray has signed up for active service in the Signal Corps.

Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, for the past eleven years rector of the parish of Cavan, had his final service at St. Thomas' church, Millbrook, on Sunday at 7.30 p.m. The local Oddfellows and Rebekah Lodges attended this service in a body.

The Five o'Clock Date

By PRUNELLA WOOD

FEMINIZE your tailleur for the beau date by pinning artificial Northern magnolias on it. Add a cluster to your workaday hat for the same transformation. The posies have mauve veinings.

Hardy perennial blooms help out a girl's fashion appearance a lot...and the hardiest of all perennials are the artificial blossoms. It would be a fine thing to be able to lean out the window and pluck an hibiscus flower to tuck behind your ear, as they say the South Sea Island belles do a dozen times a day. But in Chicago, or New York, or Boise, Idaho, this plan's not feasible.

To the rescue the tremendous artistry of the flower manufacturer, who, with fabric and glue, paint and wire, can fool a honeybee on the zoom with his man-made gardenias, violets, lilies, freezias, magnolias and what-not.

The surest approach to a bandbox appearance for spring is with white accessories. Well, a white false flower nosegay for neckline or bonnet relief turns the trick...and requires no laundering or tacking into place.

By CORA NILL

A full executive meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada was held in Frankford United Church last week.

The sessions opened with a supper meeting served by the local W.M.S. when greetings were brought to the gathering by Mrs. P. E. Bonsteel, Frankford, M. S. president, and Mrs. Harold Terry, W. A. The high light of the sessions was an address at this evening meeting by Mrs. Roger Self, third vice-president of the Dominion Board. Conditions in China, opportunities in India and the Home Field were enlarged on in detail, headed by the subject, "Opportunities in Dark Days."

The sessions resumed on Thursday morning. Mrs. Harris, president of Peterborough Presbyterial, conducted the woship service on the subject "The New Order."

Mrs. Smyth, secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance, was unavoidably absent and her report was presented by Mrs. J. V. McNeely of Oshawa. Five Presbyterials, Cobourg, Kingston, Renfrew, Oshawa and Lindsay exceeded their givings of the previous year. There has been an increase in the budgeting system and in systematic giving.

Presbyterial presidents bringing their reports and problems to the open forum were: Mrs. S. W. Spafford, Belleville; Mrs. S. J. Gray, Cobourg; Mrs. M. G. Johnstone, Kingston; Mrs. F. Harris, Peterborough; and Mrs. James Reid, Renfrew.

Mrs. N. J. White of Brooklin, Associate Helpers secretary, reported receipts of $1,225.00 from this department.

Mrs. A. A. Lapp, periodicals secretary, in presenting her report, urged the value of selecting the right woman for this department, one, she said, who knew her magazines.

The closing worship service was conducted by Mrs. A. Nill, Roseneath. Mrs. Nill's subject was "The Supremacies of Life.", and the threads of thought, service, and purpose, gleaned from the worship servvicees presented at the previous sessions were oven together that the delegates might carry away the fabric.

Musical numbers contributed by Frankford church were: A violin solo, "In a Monastery Garden," by Miss M. Gorham; a duet sung by Mrs. H. Lackie and Mrs. J. A. Warren, and songs by the Mission Band.

Art Association Gives $55 For War Victims

Just about a year ago, the Women's Art Association made a contribution to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and now in today's list of receipts for the fund, they have duplicated this in a much larger way by giving the splendid sum of $55, through their treasurer, Mrs. C. S. Browne, and is the result of work during the past season, all of it aimed at helping along the war effort.

This sum represents a share of the proceeds from a draw held on pictures and craft-work donated by the members of the Association themselves, being composed of the work of Mrs. J. E. R. Munroe, Miss Gertrude Cox, Miss Emily Hand, Mrs. B. V. Moore, and Mrs. C. H. Saunders, and the sum realized is very good evidence of the interest they put into the whole effort.

From the Hilltop Branch of the Junior Red Cross composed of the pupils of S.S. No. 3, Douro, where Miss Mary Walsh is the teacher, comes a donation of $8, which represents part proceeds of a presentation by them of a play entitled "The Builders of Canada," and a draw held on $5 donated by the trustees of the school. Ruth Bolton drew the winning ticket which resulted in Mrs. Roy Scott of R.R. No. 13, Norwood, being the winner. A prize had been offered for the one selling the most tickets, and this was won by Helen Scott. The box at Loblaw's, with only the lapse of one week since its last contribution, continues its good work for the fund with a further $2.50 to help things along, bringing the amount needed to complete the next donation of £500 down to $125.

For the second time in three nights, the ancient cathedral city of Norwich was bombed, and on this occasion the hospital was again attacked and this time set on fire. A sister of the secretary for the fund is a nurse in this hospital. Two churches were also badly hit in this latest exhibition of German cruelty in attacking the civilian life of Britain.

Next Tuesday, the students of the Peterborough Normal School are giving a repeat performance of their recent successful presentation of "Cavalcade of Canada," together with a display of their handicraft work in the school at 8 p.m. There is no admission fee, and everyone is cordially invited to attend. A collection will be taken in aid of the fund.

Popular Songbook Brightens Party

Cowboy songs are always popular. It's just a matter of passing out songbooks, suggest a sentimental tune like "When the Work's All Done This Fall," and the party is a success.

"I am an old cow-puncher
And here I'm dressed in rags.
I used to be a tough one
And go on great big jags."

Soon your shyest guest is singing boisterously! "The Stutterin' Cowboy" is a favorite.

"We sneaked 'round and hid by a window in front,
And watched ol' Bill put on his love-makin' stunt . . .
He stuttered instead and the gal left him flat,
Next mornin' at chow he was meek as a cat."

Poor Bill—the romantic cowboy of "The Border Affair" could have given him lessons!

"Oft I kissed her lips so tender—"

Songs to please everyone—of love and loneliness, whoopee and lament—are to be found in our cowboy songbook. Has words and accompaniments for 18 favorites, including "Home On the Range," "Good-By Old Paint."

For your copy of "Popular Cowboy Songs," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to The Peterborough Examiner Home Service Department, Peterborough. Be sure to write your Name and Address plainly, and the name of the booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN TO CHANCE IT

A RUBBER bridge declarer does not dare endanger his contract by trying a play for an extra trick or tricks which, if it fails, can cause the defeat of the contract. In a match point duplicate, however, it is up to the declarer in the same contract ordinarily to attempt any device for extra tricks which is a bit more likely to succeed than to fail. This would cause more fancy plays in duplicate than in rubber bridge were it not for the fact that sometimes a rubber declarer must strain with even a very unlikely play to make his contract.

In a rubber game among fine players, West took only nine tricks on this deal after the diamond 7 was led to the A. Being obliged to try the club finesse as his only chance to build a ninth trick, he sent the club Q through. Of course, if South won this, a lead through the heart K could cause trouble if North had the A. But that risk was necessary. He then played safely, leading to the club A, running the spades and taking the diamond K for his ninth trick, after which South got the rest of them with the heart A and three diamonds.

Noting that there was a pretty squeeze play in the hand for thirteen tricks, we arranged to have it put into one of the boards for a match point duplicate among fine players. As we hoped, two of them got into the 3-No Trumps and made 7. After the diamond 7 went to the A, and the club Q scored, the spades were run, the club 10 finessed, the A used to drop the K, and the next two clubs gathered in. When the last was led, declarer held the diamond K-2 and the heart K. South had the heart A and the diamond Q-J, the dummy two diamonds in addition to the squeezing club. If South had discarded the heart A, West would have thrown the diamond 2 and scored the two red kings. But South tossed the diamond J, whereupon the heart K was discarded, and two diamonds completed the hand.

Urge Soldier's Family Miss His Punishment

OTTAWA, April 29 — (CP). — An appeal for changes in Army punishment regulations so dependents of soldier offenders will not be included in the punishment was made in the House of Comons on Tuesday by Clarence Gillis (C.C.F., Cape Breton South) himself a veteran of the First Great War.

He said he had heard numerous complaints of soldiers' families going long periods without pay or allowances because of the punishment meted out to the soldier for being absent without leave.

In these cases the men are not punished at all, apart from the fact they are detained, he said. They were well fed, well clothed, and sheltered and had no worries while their dependents were in want and objects of charity.

Defence Minister Ralston said he would not express an opinion at the moment, but he asked Mr. Gillis to give him details of three of the most serious instances of this sort of thing of which he had knowledge.

Mr. Gillis also protested that too stiff punishment was being imposed upon young boys in the Army.

"Young boys who never had jobs or discipline are punished as if they were seasoned veterans who knew K.R. and O. (King's Regulations and Orders) from cover to cover," Mr. Gillis said.

Canada and U.S. Share A.R.P. Training Bill

TORONTO, April 330.—The Canadian Government and the United States War Department have reached an agreement under which a number of selected firemen, from seven Canadian provinces, are to be sent across the border to take a special two-weeks' A.R.P. course in chemical warfare. Transportation and billeting expenses incurred by the firemen will be divided equally between the Federal Administration and the municipalities affected.

Details of the latest A.R.P. training plan were announced by Mayor Fred Conboy of Toronto yesterday after officials of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities appealed to him to make certain that Toronto co-operation will be forthcoming.

The mayor said that Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Federal A.R.P. director, and the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities had prepared a list of Canadian cities which they felt should send firemen to take the special training. Every Province in the Dominion was to be represented with the exception of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Toronto was to send two of its firemen, while the fire departments of Hamilton, Ottawa, Windsor, London, Brantford, Kingston, Sault Ste. Marie, Kitchener, Oshawa, Peterborough, Niagara Falls St. Catharnes, Sudbury, Owen Sound and Sarnia were each to be represented by one man.

Firemen who are selected to take this special training will on the completion of the course, return to act as instructors in their respective localities. Their training in the United States will include the latest methods of dealing with incendiary and high explosive bombs, gas, decontamination, etc. The training schools to which they might be sent are located in California, District of Columbia and Massachusetts.

The training course originated with the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and its had been "enthusiastically endorsed" both by Dr. Manion and the Minister of Pensions and National Health. It had been sanctioned by Federal Order-in Council, he added, and permission for the Canadian firemen to train in the United States had been secured by the Secretary of States for External Affairs through the efforts of the Canadian Minister in Washington.

Millbrook Pastor Conducts Farewell Service

MILLBROOK, Ajril 30—(ENS).—A capacity congregation gathered in St. Thomas' Church on Sunday evening, when Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A. after eleven years' service as rector of the parish of Cavan, delivered his farewell message. His duties will commence in his new parish of Cartwright, with residence at Blackstock, beginning next Sunday.

In honor of the special occasion being observed by a sister congregation, Grace Presbyterian and St. Andrew's United Churches withdrew their evening services, the ministers Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson and Rev. A. L. Sisco, having seats in the chancel, and assisting the rector by reading the Old and New Testament lessons respectively. Another special feature was the annual church attendance of Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 303, including a number of brethren from the Orono Lodge and Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176. Between seventy and eighty members occupied seats at the front of the church.

Warmly welcoming the visiting fraternities, Archdeacon Simpson spoke of their fine record of service. "Work that might not be done were it not for your Order, as a moral force standing for good citizenship, it is to be most highly commended. It was never intended, however, to be put in the place of your church. Should any member do this he is guilty of violating the principles of the Order to which he belongs."

Referring to the presence of his brother ministers at the service, Mr. Simpson said: "I deeply appreciate your generous action in withdrawing your services that your congregations may worship with ours tonight," and went on to point out that "our human relaitonships are subject to change, for just as surely as there was a beginning, there will also be an end. But this is not true of our spiritual relationships; they are independent of time and place."

Red Cross Group Sends Large Box

The Stewart Hall Red Cross Society sent a large box to the Peterborough Red Cross work rooms, the work accomplished during the first quarter of 1942. There were 12 quilts, 11 pairs of soldiers' socks, 6 pairs of long seamen's socks and 18 pairs of khaki gloves among the articles sent.

There were twelve meetings held during the quarter with an average attendance of fifteen.

The financial report for this period showed the total receipts of the society as $117.17, and the total expenditure as $61.59, leaving on hand a balance of $55.58.

Happy Over Relief From Nervous, Upset Stomach

Says Syntona Helped Him After Many Other Things Failed. Also Ended Dizzy Spells, Constipation and Rheumatic Pains.

MR. MOSES MARTIN

"I had been suffering from a weak, nervous stomach for the past three years, and I think I took most everything without benefit, but in three weeks Syntona has given me complete relief," said Mr. Moses Martin well-known Chatham, Ontario, resident, whose home is at 107 William Street South.

"After eating I always filled up with gas and a sour, burning liquid rose in my throat. The gas pains were very bad at times, I'd get short of breath with a full, heavy, bloated feeling in my stomach. Dizzy spells often came over me, I couldn't sleep at night and awakened in the morning with a bad taste in my mouth and feeling tired and unrested. I was very nervous, constipated all the time, and also suffered from rheumatic pains in my arms, limbs and back.

"Finally my family prevailed on me to try Syntona. I have now been taking it three weeks and feel better than I have for years. From the first few doses my stomach felt more comfortable. Then later the sourness, pain, full, bloated feeling and heartburn stopped troubling me after meals. Now I sleep like a log at night, my bowels move regularly, nerves have calmed down and I no longer suffer from dizziness, backache or rheumatic pains."

This famous compound of herbs and roots is praised by grateful men and women all over Ontario. It has helped them and should do the same for you. Get a bottle of Syntona today and prove for yourself the merit of this remarkable medicine.

Mrs. Dunford Hostess To Hall's Bridge W.I.

BUCKHORN, April 30—(ENS).—The regular monthly meeting of the Hall's Bridge Branch of the Womee's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Galvin Dunford with a real good attendance.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Institute Ode followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was answered by each member naming a Father of Confederation.

It was decided not to attend the Summary Day at Havelock. Mrs. Rollie Montgomery read the current events, followed by the reading of the handbook by Mrs. Walton.

The convener of historical research, Mrs. E. Graham, had charge of the program. Mrs. E. Blewett read a very interesting poem on buying an Easter bonnet. Mrs. G. Dunford gave a reading on some of the historic and beauty spots in Canada. The birth of the Spitfire was described in a reading by Mrs. Dave Montgomery. Mrs. H. A. Shearer gave an interesting reading on "The Book Dickens Wrote for his Children." Mrs. Archie Fulton gave a reading on some of the conveniences recently invented to aid the wounded. Mrs. Elliott, in a reading, told of some of the hardships of the early settlers. By means of illustrations and a reading given by Mrs. Walton we learned how the home of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been turned into one of the many historical sights in Canada. An historical sketch of the early settlers in North Smith and a report of the 50th anniversary of the Wesley church were features of the program.

High School Estimates Are Down $2,000 In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, April 30 (ENS)—Public School teachers are to have a room provided for their convenience in the school it was revealed at the regular meeting of the Board of Education here on Monday Evening. The Board approved the recommendations brought in by Property Chairman W. Henson, who outlined the work necessary to make the room available in the basement of the school and they authorized an expenditure of not more than $200 for the purpose.

Finance Chairman H. A. MacArthur announced that his committee had met and in compliance with a communication from the Council were now ready to turn over to estimates for the year. Though Public School estimates remained unchanged at $13,200 the Board derived a little cheer from the fact that High School costs had dropped $2,000 to $6,000. Reason for this drop in costs was no slashing of overhead by the board, but merely a result of Department of Education ruling with regard to supplying transportation facilities for pupils from outlying districts who attended the local High School. Instead of the Board providing these facilities such arrangements are now made through the Rural School Board who pay for this transportation and in turn receive fifty per cent of this money back in the form of a grant from the Department of Education. Under the old scheme the Board annually pocketed about $700 in transportation fees paid by the pupils (charged back against cost of transportation) but now, rural pupils may no longer be forced to pay if it can be shown definitely that they are unable to do so, the cost in such cases being borne by the Department and Rural School Board. Result of all this has been to merely wipe out the $2,000 transportation item but at the same time actually increasing the per pupil cost of education at the local school since the number coming from outside points has dropped. (The total enrolment at the High School this year was only 165, while existing facilities are designed for 215.) From the long range viewpoint this may ultimately mean that the board will consider it necessary to lower operational costs—reducing the teaching staff from 7 to 6.

No Tennis Courts

Christ Church Men's Club has shelved the plan to re-build the tennis court on the commons west of the church it was announced following a report on the grounds given members at their regular meeting on Monday.

A motion to abandon the scheme was passed after a estimate of the cost was brought in. W. A. Kingston addressed the gathering, answering a number of questions raised by members who are interested in building a ping pong table and actual construction of this was left with Adam Yearwood.

Following a request made by the Parish Guild president, Sidney Hopping suggested the club should look into the matter of improving ventilation at the Parish Hall by changing windows so they could be made to open. It was recalled that this was a particularly bad defect when dances were held in warm weather and an insufficient number could be opened. Treasurer Bill Burgiss reported on the proceeds from the dance held last Saturday estimating that net proceeds would probably reach $25.00

Bombed Out Students

A story dealing with the bombed out students of a Chinese university who walked many miles inland studying and hearing lectures as they went, was told under the headinf "Shoe Sole Geography" to members of St. John's Y.P.U. at their meeting on Monday evening. Miss Grace Payne was the speaker and she gave this short topic together with another titled "The Life of the Party", both from the "Onward", a weekly Sunday School paper.

Program for the evening was in charge of Missionary conveners Leila Mitchell and Marie Lisle with the former presiding for the call to worship and reading a message from the "Pathfinder." Miss Ona Mitchell read the Scripture, Miss Marie Lisle lead in prayer; Miss Ruth Taylor gave a reading and Francis DeCarrol a vocal solo accompanied by Miss Jean Tubbs.

During the business period, for which the president, Pearl McComb, presided, the young people completed arrangements for the Plunkett Dinner they plan to hold next Monday, and accepted an invitation to be the guests of the Wooler Y.P.U. for a joint meeting on May 11th. This will be the closing meeting and the visitors will provide the program, arrangements for which were placed in charge of Misses Clara Lucy and Jean Tubbs. Transportation will be arranged by Gerald Sloggett and Jack Bleecker.

Cadet Inspection

Something new will be seen by those who witness the annual High School cadet inspection here on May 6th. For the first time in the history of the school girls will parade with boys, but in their own platoon, reflecting more than anything else the changing temper of people since the outbreak of war. There will be upwards of fifty girl cadets who will take part in the ceremonial in gym suits under their own commander, Rosamund Peloquin and two platoon commanders, Helen Wood and Gladys Grills. Following this they will give a demonstration in physical training.

The cadet inspection will probably be conducted by Captain T. C. Holmes and so far as the boys are concerned the only change in their training has been the addition of semaphore signalling, istruction in Morse code and rifle practice. During the term they have been registered in D.C.R.A., R.M.C., and Imperial Shield competitions. The Corps' officers this year are headed by Cadet Captain Phillip MacDonald plus two platoon commanders, Neil McKenty, Glen Maxwell, and Sergeants Howard Rowe and Charles Black.

Women's Association Holds Afternoon Tea

MILLBROOK, Ajril 30—(ENS).—A generous patronage, considering the unseasonably warm weather, the prevailing housecleaning, and the fact that farmers are now busy on the land, was accorded the afternoon tea and sale of home baking held in the waiting-room on Saturday under the auspices of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church.

Hostesses for the tea tables, which were centred with hyacinths and daffodils, were Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong and Mrs. W. R. Howard; others who helped were Mrs. J. A. Brown and Mrs. Weston C. Fallis. At the bake table sales ladies were Mrs. J. McKnight and Miss Josie Sutton. The president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, extended a welcome to incoming guests, who were glad to rest in the large cool room, after coming in from a temperature of between eighty and ninety out of doors, surely an unusual record for late April.

Farm Jobs Open For 750 H.S. Boys

TORONTO, April 30.—(CP)—Alex Maclaren, director of the Farm Service Force in Ontario, last night told a conference of representative groups called to discuss agricultural problems that 750 high school boys could be placed with farmers immediately if they were available.

He said that it is planned to establish about 20 camps for boys and girls this year, nine more than in 1941. Of these, 12 will be in the Niagara Peninsula for farmerettes.

The first camp for boys opened today at Harrow and two more will open soon at Leamington and Pelee Island.

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture who presided over the conference, said the critical time will come during haying and harvesting time when a large volume of farm help must be supplied the farmers.

The conference met in the provincial parliament buildings and was called by the inter-departmental committee of the Dominion-Provincial war emergency training program.

Delegates to the conference included high school principals, Young Men's Christian Association and Young Women's Christian Association officials, and representatives from various church groups. The conference decided that a special appeal should be directed to parents of high school boys to encourage their children to take farm jobs this summer.

Mr. Maclaren said that wherever placements are made the interests of the students are safeguarded.

Bart Sullivan, regional director for Ontario for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said high school boy leaving part-time jobs to do farm work would have no difficulty in obtaining a permit to resume duties on return to school.

Hitler Gives Duce Orders, 2-Day Parley

BERLIN (from German Broadcasts), May 1—(AP). —Hitler and Mussolini have reached new accord on all military and political aspects of the war, it was asserted today in a communique disclosing the Axis leaders had spent Wednesday and Thursday conferring at Salzburg, Germany.

It was their first meeting since their countries went to war with the United States last December.

Conversations between the two Axis leaders took place in a spirit of close friendship and the indissoluble brotherhood-in-arms of their nations, said the announcement, issued from Salzburg.

"The meeting resulted in a perfect accord of views on the situation created by the overwhelming victories of the tripartite powers and on the further conduct of the war by the two nations in both political and military spheres," the communique added.

(Ja an is the third nation in the group called here "the tripartite powers," but if she was represented at the co erence the communique failec to state that fact).

Renewed expression, it was said, was given to the stern determination of Germany and Italy to ensure final victory by all means in their power.

Both the German and Italian Foreign Ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, were present.

Keitel, Cavallero There

Also attending were Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command; Gen. Ugo Cavallero, chief of the Italian general staff; Dino Alfieri, Italian ambassador to Berlin; and Hans-Georg Viktor Von Mackensen, German ambassador to Rome.

Salzburg is in former Austria, almost 100 miles north of the Brenner pass where Hitler and Mussolini have staged their past meetings.

Mussolini, accompanied by his retinue, arrived at Salzburg Wednesday morning and was greeted by Hitler as he left his special train, the announcement said.

Hitler then accompanied Mussolini to the guest house placed at his disposal by the German government. After lunching together they devoted the afternoon to political talks in which Von Ribbentrop and Ciano took part.

Hitler and Mussolini dined together that evening and met again the following morning with Keitel and Cavallero to discuss military questions.

At the same time the two foreign ministers met once more to pursue the political issues broached the first day, the semi-official account said. Alfieri and Von Mackensen sat in on this conference.

The talks were terminated late in the afternoon at a general conference at which the whole military and political situation was recapitulated, the announcement said.

Although Hitler and Mussolini had not met personally since the United States entered the war, Goering—conmmander of the German air

OTTAWA, May 1.—(CP'—Lt.-Col. John L. R. Sutcliffe, officer commanding the 1st Battalion of the Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hong Kong, has died of illness while a prisoner of war, Defence Minister Ralston announced today.

The information reached national defence headquarters here in a message from the International Red Cross at Geneva.

The date of Col. Sutcliffe's death was not stated and Col. Ralston said further details are being awaited.

58,000 In April

LONDON, May 1—(CP).—The Moscow radio said today that during April the German forces on the Leningrad front lost more than 58,000 officers and men, killed and wounded.

During the same period, Soviet troops destroyed 109 guns, 113 trench mortars, 45 tanks, four armored cars, 225 trucks and large quantities of other arms and equipment, the Russian radio added.

18 Norsemen Die To Satisfy Hun

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 1 —(AP). — In reprisal for the alleged assassination last Sunday of two members of the German security police German occupation authorities in Norway have executed 18 Norwegians.

The policemen were alleged to have been shot down on an island along the coast of Norway. An announcement in Oslo said the executions were carried out at 10:00 o'clock yesterday morning.

Those executed were persons seized while trying to escape to Britain aboard a fishing vessel, the announcement said.

The Norwegians involved were said to have gone to Britain some time ago where they got explosives and weapons and returned to Norway, but how many, if any, of those executed were involved in the slaying of the police was not made clear. Private advices from Norway, however, indicated all 16 had been held in a concentration camp before Sunday's incident.

In London, Norwegian Government sources said the 18 persons executed were among Norwegians arrested last March for planning to escape to Britain from Aalesund.

They said they therefore could not in any way have been implicated in any slaying last Sunday, but rather were picked out arbitrarily for death in the same manner as the German authorities have exacted reprisals in France by executing persons already in their custody for crimes committed against Germans.

One of those put to death was said in London to be Ole Lytzow-Holm, 21 son of Commodore Lytzow-Holm, Chief of the Norwegian Naval Air Force in Britain.

Belgian Blast Kills 250 Razes Factory

By WILLIAM HUMPHREYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 1.—(AP)—A chemical factory at Tessenderloo, in the new industrial district of Northern Belgium—a particulas zone of activity for the anti-German "white brigade" of the conquered Belgians —has been destroyed in an explosion which, according to the German radio, killed 250 persons and injured about 1,000.

Berlin belatedly relayed an announcement today of the Nazi-dominated regime in Belgium that not only the plant but a technical school and a number of nearby houses were destroyed or severely damaged by the blast two days ago. No cause was given.

The announcement emphasized that the factory produced "artificial fertilizers of various kinds and washing preparations for the Belgian market only."

The Free Belgian news agency, identifying the factory as a unit of La Societe Anonyme des Produits Chimiques, asserted contrary to Berlin, that the factory turned out sulphuric acid, synthetic ammonia and nitric acid for explosives and gas. It was reported equipped with

New Power Site Seaway Too Slow

TORONTO, May 1 — (CP). — A major power development on the Ottawa River will be proceeded with at once, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced to-day. This development, likely at Carillon on the northern section of the Ottawa River, will develop 300,000 or 400,000 H.P. and cost from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Mr. Hepburn explained that the issue will be before the Cabinet today when Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission, will make certain proposals to meet increasing demands for power.

The action is being taken, he said, because of uncertainty of the St. Lawrence development.

"We can't wait any longer for a decision in the St. Lawrence development," Mr. Hepburn said.

Japs Massing North Of Australia

Believed Preparing For Stroke At Line From U.S.

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 1—(CP) — Gen. Sir Thomas lamey, United Nations land commander under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, warned today of the Japanese menace to Allied outposts but declared the Allies are building up their forces even as the Japanese reinforce their positions in the island above Australia. Speaking in his first press conference since his appointment as commander of the land forces in the Southwest Pacific, Sir Thomas reported signs of increased Japanese activity which he said might indicate the foe is preparing for an attempt to seize Allied outposts or cut the supply line from the United States.

He explained that Darwin, Northern Australia, and Port Moresby, New Guinea, are the areas menaced.

"We are building up our forces in these areas," he said. "We are now in a much better position than we ever have been to meet the Japanese."

"Increased enemy activity," he went on, "means he has some further plan. I am not going to forecast it....

"Seizure of either Darwin or Port Moresby would not be vital to either side at the moment but would be strategically important to either side to hold these places as a jumping-off point."

He said Allied strength in Australia soon would be "built up to such an extent that it will take a very big expedition to make any impression on this continent."

Gather n Marshalls.

Reports from Australia recently of a concentration of Japanese warships and troop transports among the Marshall Islands in the South Central Pacific have given rise to speculation in informed quarters here that a major thrust against the United States supply line to Australia is imminent.

The Island o: Jaluit, centre of the area in which the Japanese apparently are concentrating, is 1,500 miles north of New Caledonia, where American troops landed recently to join forces with the Free French. An equal distance to the southeast lies American Samoa and 2,100 miles to the northeast is Hawaii.

Because of this strategic location, experts said today, the Japs would

Surprise Swoop Gets 30 Jap Planes At Lae

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 1 — (CP).— Thirty Japanese planes lined up on an airdrome at Lae on the northeast coast of New Guinea were plastered with bombs and machine-gun fire yesterday by daring Allied air raiders, it was announced today.

Three other Japanese planes—all fighters—which attempted to intercept a simultaneous assault on Salamaua, 20 miles to the south, were shot down by Allies bombers which went on to unload explosives on ground installations, a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters said.

"Our losses were slight," the bulletin said.

The attack on Lae, which has been blasted repeatedly during the last two weeks, apparently caught the Japanese flat-footed, for the communique mentioned no opposition by enemy fighter planes.

The communique said that eight Japanese bombers had raided Horn Island off Cape York at the northeast tip of Australia but little damage was done.

In the Philippines the Japanese were reported to have renewed their bombardment of Corregidor, attacking the fortress 12 times from the air yesterday but losing three planes in the assault. The sharp-shooting Corregidor anti-aircraft gunners also were credited officially with damaging two other enemy raiders.

Ghurkas Slay 500 In Tank Battle 30 Mi. Off Mandalay

NEW DELHI, India, May 1 — (CP).—British and Indian troops fighting a delaying action against Japanese attacks toward Mandalay were reported today to have abandoned their positions on the Irrawaddy River bend west of that city and to be withdrawing "successfully" to the north bank.

The wearied forces thus apparently left to the Japanese the area around Myingyan, where the Irrawaddy makes a big bend to the west and where earlier attempts to guard the Allied right flank failed.

A communique said Japanese patrols had penetrated into the Monywar area, 40 miles north of Myingyan and 55 miles due west of Mandalay, but "were being successfully dealt with."

Allied defence continued on the southern front near Kyaukse, less than 30 miles from Mandalay, where the communique described a brilliant and successful fight with tanks by a Ghurka brigade which inflicted 500 casualties on the Japanese at the cost of only 10 of their own.

The bridge at Yyaukse over a tributary of the Irrawaddy was blown up.

Must Keep Chinese Line Open.

Come what may in Burma Allied military men are determined to keep open the supply lines to China and to maintain communications vital to a unified war effort.

The fall of Lashio, announced yesterday by the Chinese, complicatel the situation, for establishment of a Japanese air base there would endanger operations of the big freight planes now carrying war materials into China from India.

Military quarters expressed hope the rugged terrain now lying in the path of the Japanese—the most severe the invaders have yet faced in Burma—may delay their progress toward India's north-east frontier until the arrival of the heavy seasonal rains which are expected to halt large-scale operations within a few weeks.

Possibility that all Burma may be lost, however, is clearly recognized and plans are being laid accordingly.

At present Americans here have taken on the bulk of the work of ferrying supplies to China and the Burma front because they have the big freight planes necessary.

Russia Stronger Says Stalin Since Invasion

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The meeting between Hitler and Mussolini lacks the power of previous conferences of this unholy brotherhood to cause uneasiness among the Allied peoples.

Actually there could have been little call for this parley from the military standpoint, for the Fuehrer completely dominates weakened Italy. However, the meeting was calculated to sound a note of confidence and solidarity at a moment when the Italian people are in the slough of despond and the outside world is well aware of their unhappy state.

It is a matter of deepest interest that this war council while referring to "the overwhelming victories of the tripartite power" (Germany, Italy and Japan), appears to have been devoted to "the further con-

Illness Forces Beatty To Resign

MONTREAL, May 1.—(CP).—Sir Edward Beatty has resigned as president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and is succeeded by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the company, it was announced today

The announcement said Sir Edward had resigned because of ill-health. The change in presidency is effective immediately.

The official announcement said:

"At a meeting of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company held to-day, Sir Edward Beatty, chairman and president, tendered his resignation because of the state of his health.

"Sir Edward was stricken with illness in March, 1941, brought about largely by over-exertion and too close application to his multifarious duties and activities. There has been a marked improvement in recent months, and that improvement, happily, is being maintained; but his doctors have advised him that early and complete recovery can be reached only if he divests himself of some of his burdens and responsibilities.

The directors received his decision wtih deep regret, but agreed that he should not be expected to prejudice his chance of recovery. At their request he will continue to act as chairman of the company, and thus be available for counsel at all times.

The Berlin dispatch added "the present bombing duel is hi[ghly] unpopular with the German peo[ple]," the correspondent said.

An authoritative British so[urce] commenting on the Daily M[ail] story, said "We are going after [the] blighters wherever they are an[d] every chance we get, and tha[t's] final."

He said there had been no [offi]cial or semi-official feelers int[end]ed to coax Britain into an ag[ree]ment to stop bombing the Ger[man] town in return for like security.

Home Secretary Herbert M[orri]son declared in a speech at Sh[ore]ditch that Hitler's "guide [book] blitz" bombings of Britain's his[tori]cal monuments were the "fren[zied] blows of a mad lout who, stun[g by] the carefully-timed and aimed b[lows] of a cool and skilful opponent, [loses] all self-control and runs amok."

Can't Do It Now.

"What he tried to do and fa[iled] to do with overwhelming superio[rity] in the night sky a year ago, he c[an]not hope to do now that his [re]sources are scattered," Mr. Morr[ison] said.

"The cry of German propaga[nd]ists that it is up to us to call [off] our raids to save ourselves sh[ows] they know this very well."

"We aren't going to be bambo[oz]led," the Home Secretary sa[id]. "Bombing by the R.A.F. will [go] through to the end with 100 [per] cent strength.

"The only way the German peo[ple] can stop the air offensive is to ov[er]throw their government. If t[hey] won't do it we will for them."

Thorn in Axis Side, Malta's Defence, Epic

World's Most Heavily Bombed Spot Tosses Back Hottest Batch Of A.A. Scrap

By PRESTON L. GROVER and WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writers

The most heavily bombed spot in the world is a little British island in mid-Mediterranean. Malta, eight miles wide and 17 long, has been bombed more than 2,000 times.

It has the heaviest concentration per area of anti-aircraft guns in the world, on land and on board ship.

From 150 to 200 Axis planes strike at this British carbuncle in Mussolini's sea every 24 hours. Even the goats and donkeys on the rocky hills have learned to crouch in a ditch when the bombs begin to fall.

The attack began on the early morning of June 11, 1940, the day after Italy entered the war, just before France surrendered.

Malta was not ready. It had coastal defences, but it had no fighter planes and no properly defended airports. However, there were four Gladiator seaplanes awaiting shipment in a dockyard storehouse.

They were not, even then, the best fighters Britain had, and they were designed for aircraft carriers. There were also at Malta four seaplane pilots. They had never flown fighter planes. But they took on the defence of Malta.

The four met wave after wave of bombers. They fought all day. They came down only to refuel, repair and take on ammunition.

Many thought Malta could not be held. But the performance of the four Gladiators changed that. One Gladiator was shot down but the remaining three fought on for three months, sometimes grappling with forces 10 times their number. The Maltese called them "Faith, Hope and Charity." Now, two years later, Malta has great numbers of Hurricanes and Spitfires, long-range bombers and terrific ground defences.

German pilots, compelled to bail out over the island, report the ack-ack barrage "paralyzing." "When we took off," said one captured German pilot, "we had no idea what we were getting into."

Veterans of both battles, Malta and Britain, tell you that Malta is worse than Britain ever was because the fighting is over a much smaller area. It is almost impossible to make a forced landing on the island—and the Jerry patrol is on constant watch to strafe any launch trying to rescue pilots down in the sea.

The governor of this island is "a man with a Bible in one hand and a sword in the other."

Gen. Sir William George Shedden Dobbie, 63, is so pious he hates like the dickens to fight on Sunday, but he has to. He is a big, lumbering man with a full English face, pink cheeks white hair and mustache. He regards this war as a crusade.

His troops call him "Old Dob Dob." Otherwise he is referred to as "H. E." or "His Excellency." Only his wife calls him "Will."

Sir William was born in Madras, India. As an officer in the Royal Engineers he fought through the Boer War, the "Irish trouble" and the First Great War. He literally ended the last war, for it was he who wrote and signed the order for the Armistice as a member of Earl Haig's staff. Sir William was governor of Malta for a time before the war. His daughter and wife are with him at Malta. His two sons are elsewhere in the army.

In the beginning some Britons were skeptical about the complete loyalty of segments of the Maltese

Black Magic On Broadway

Awed Silence Rules Manhattan As Lights Doused

By JAMES T. CARTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK May 1. — (AP).—Black magic wrought a miracle on Broadway last night.

For 20 fleeting minutes the ghosts of Flo Ziegfeld and Diamond Jim Brady marvelled at a Times Square they never knew:

The great white way and the heart of Manhattan were dark.

It was a test blackout of startling effectiveness from Greenwihch village to Harlem; the more so in Times Square itself as it sought to attone for its failure Tuesday night to comply with an army order to dim-out voluntarily or face imposition every night of such a total blackout as last nights drill.

At exactly 9.30 p.m., E.D.T., the greatest man-made well of light in the world was plunged into the gloominess of a country lane at midnight.

The incessant honk of myriad taxis; the droning undertone of a million voices in the area; the screams of police whistles — all ceased at 9.30 as if Houdini had waved a hand; vehicles pulled to the curb, lights out; pedestrians clusterel near buildings, in awed silence.

Salzburg Pow-Wow Believed Pep Talk For Duce

LONDON, May 1.—(CP)—Informed British sources said today the purpose of the Salzburg conference of Hitler and Mussolini obviously was to keep the Italian premier in line with the Axis.

"Hitler must keep both ends of the Axis moving in the same direction," one said, "and to do this he must give Mussolini a pep talk."

He added that "Hitler doubtless feels the need to explain his Sunday speech first-hand—for it needs some explaining to the Italian people."

"At the same time," he said, "there is no good reason to hope that Italy can be jacked out of t[he] war now. What can Italians [do] with the Gestapo holding clubs o[ver] their heads?"

Others here pointed out that [...] developments usually had follow[ed] meetings of the dictators.

pulation. Italy had conducted orous propaganda in Malta for eral years, giving scholarships to ny Maltese students and cheap vel facilities to their parents.

When Italy entered the war and became certain that the feeding Malta would become a problem, men and children of the British ony moved into navy and army racks for protection against any sible disorders. It was a need- s precaution.

Made The Citizens Mad.

The first Italian bomb which fell Malta so enraged the islanders at pro-Italian sentiment either d completely or was afraid to ow its head.

Malta is almost one solid village. ere are 10,000 farms on 95 square les. Of important assistance to e people in withstanding the non- p blitz is the marvellous system shelters. Experts agree they are e world's best.

They are hewn out of natural ck. Their construction started ven years ago during the Ethiopian isis. There now are shelters for e bulk of Malta's 270,000 people.

Most shelters have three-decker nks and sanitary facilities. Some ople are living permanently in the elters and do not come out even have babies. Some go to the elters only at night, lining up tside with blankets and waiting, Londoners used to do, until the ren sounds the evening warning.

Many things have changed since yllic, peacetime Malta became a ttleground. The streets are no nger filled with chattering rongs. Missing also are the goats hich used to be milked while you aited. Housewives must walk. uses are reserved for dock workers d such.

ot All Food Rationed.

Certain foods are rationed, espe- ally flour, although some reserves grain are stored in deep tunnels. oap is scarce. One bad night two ain drugstores were hit and a rge share of the island's soap and rug supply was destroyed. Arriv- g ships' crews surrender their own ocks of missing articles to the land's garrison. One officer said at Malta has not yet touched its old-storage reserves.

Nevertheless, bringing food to this ngested, bomb-ridden population the primary problem. Nearly every ip carries food, not only for the eople but for the animals.

One night during a party at the nion Club, bombs fell on either de of the building, cutting guests with glass. The club had no anti- septics. An experienced first-aid- er, the wife of a commander, de- manded that the barman give up all the gin. He protested. She finally settled for all the low-grade gin and used it as a disinfectant.

Malta's buildings, like the shel- ters, are made of rock. There is almost no wooden construction. Thus there is no danger of fire from bomb raids burning a great hole as in the city of London. The enemy's only recourse is to drop high explosives, and the thick, tough walls of Malta will stand a lot of pounding.

In the last 21 months, 4,200 homes have been knocked down. But in only a few places do you see dam- age comparable to London's devast- ated areas. At night Malta is se- verely blacked out—except for the terrible, awe-inspiring sight of can- nonading and giant searchlights.

Children Play Out.

Many children stay on the street during the semi-alert signalled by a yellow flag which is run up when planes are some distance away. A red flag is run up when the raid- ers are ready to attack.

Maltese children have become quite used to the procedure.

"Mama, bombs!" they shout into the house—and mama leaves off cooking dinner to take the chil- dren to the shelter.

Often the children sit at the shelter mouth and watch for the red flags to be lowered. "Bombers gone,' they tell mama—and she hur- ries home to finish cooking.

Malta is the pressure spot close to the heart of Italy, the soft link in the Axis armor. The Axis seem determined to eliminate the island for it stands in the way of convoys supplying Rommel's Libyan army.

Malta's main trouble is that it is isolated from either Gibraltar or Alexandria, the nearest well-defend- ed British bases.

modern machinery at which about 1,000 persons worked when Belgium was free.

Since the coming of the Germans, the Belgian agency said, produc- tion has been increased under Ger- man direction. Tessenderloo is 30 miles northeast of Antwerp, in Lim- bourg province.

Saboteurs Hunting Ground

Much sabotage has been reported in this region, mostly credited to the secret armed organization, the "white brigade" seven of whose members were sentenced to death a week ago.

Factory machinery in this area was damaged in widespread fashion after the German invasion started and isolated incidents have occurred from time to time since then, in- cluding a large number of fires in the fir woods. The fires evidently were set in the hope the wind would spread them to the sites of factories working for the Germans.

This sporadic sabotage was said by the Free Belgian new agency to have done considerable damage to mines as well as factories in the past several months.

It is said bottles of inflammable liquids had been found at the scenes of numerous fires in the coal fields.

The Thiriau works in the iron and coal district of La Croyere were de- stroyed in January, and three weeks ago a transformer explosion stop- ped work in a German-requisitioned factory north of Brussels, the agency said.

The Germans blame the Belgian "white brigade," a secret armed or- ganization, seven of whose members were sentenced to death a week ago.

duct of the war by the two nations" (Germany and Italy). This is to say, we are left to draw the conclu- sion that perhaps Hitler is being forced to abandon his idea of fully co-ordinating the efforts of the European Axis and the Japs. There can be small doubgt that Nippon is bent on feathering its own nest and that it has no intention of playing Hitler's game excepting as it is of benefit to Japan.

No Light Threat.

The Axis conferees announced the "stern determination of Germany and Italy to ensure final victory by all means in their power." That means Germany's stern determina- tion, of course, and it should be said at once that it isn't a thing to be brushed lightly aside by the Allies. The great Hitlerian war machine is terribly dangerous.

A fair answer to this declaration comes from Premier Stalin of Russia in his May Day order of the day to his nation. The Red leader declares that the Soviet, with aid from America and Britain, must and can make 1942 "a year of final de- feat of the German-Fascist armies."

That is mightly encouraging talk, but the thing which strikes me most forcibly in Stalin's statement is that Russia has become stronger since the invasion of 1941. Now that is of vast importance, for we had been waiting anxiously to learn whether the Reds had been weaken- ed as the result of the devastating onslaught of the Germans in the early days when so many vital war industries and other resources were lost to the Bolshevists. It must be assumed that the Russians have made great strides in increasing their industries behind the Urals, and we do know that the United States and Britain now are hitting their stride in providing the Soviet Union with essential war equipment.

Stalin says that while the Soviet has become stronger, Germany has weakened.

Roy E. Cutting Honored At Farewell Dinner

Roy E. Cutting, manager of the Quaker Oats Company's plant in this city for the last eight years, was presented with a beautifully engrav- ed and inscribed silver tray at a farewell dinner by a large number of his friends at the Empress Hotel last night.

The presentation was made by Robert Abbott following an address by Rev. Dr. G. S. Easton extolling the fine qualities of mind and heart and personality with which Mr. Cutting had made a deep and lasting impression upon the memories of all those who have been associated with him in the many spheres of activity and leadership during his work and residence in Peterborough.

More than one hundred of the city's business and professional men paid Mr. Cutting a splendid tribute of appreciation of all that he has been to them in friendship and co- operative effort for the welfare of the community, and returned to him in parting a flowing measure of high regard coupled with their best wishes for his future.

As directing head of one of Peter- borough's major industries, Mr. Cutting has reflected an idealism of responsibility to the employees of the Quaker Oats Company that has con- sistently consulted their well being in various phases of their work and especially in their relations with the company of which he has been to them a kindly, considerate repre- sentative imbued with the present day spirit of industry connoted in the phrase new deal. Employees of the big plant have a particularly warm esteem for Roy Cutting.

Mayor Hamilton was chairman of last night's dinner and with him at the head table were Senator Duffus, Judge Smoke, Rev. Mr. Easton, W. R. Breyfogle, Mr. Abbott, George A. Macdonald, Alderman Bradburn, Ian F McRae, Gordon S. Matthews, Alderman Sullivan, John R. Mar- shall, O. A. Degraw and Mr. Cutting as the honored guest of the assem- bly. Music was provided by the Northrop ensemble, and Adam Haw- ley contributed several exceptionally fine vocal solos.

Gift of Symbolic Key

An incidental feature of felicity was the gift of a large and shining brass key of Peterborough by Mr. Breyfogle, symbolizing invitation and welcome and reminder to Mr. Cut- ting that his friends would be look- ing forward to any occasion of his return.

"We are here tonight to tell Mr. Cutting how much we have learned to appreciate that friendship which is so characteristic of him, to pay tribute to him and to tell him that we are sorry he is leaving us," Mayor Hamilton said. "We want to ask him, too, will he no come back again." During the eight years since he came here a stranger among us he has been fair and generous to the em- ployees of the Quaker Oats Com- pany. He took a personal interest in their affairs, and I know that he takes away their kindest regards and best wishes. The corporation of the city has had much to do with the company, and our relations with Mr. Cutting have always been pleasant.

Assisted the Council

"When we proposed to build a pedestrian bridge above the com- pany's dam there had to be taken into account the possibility of sabo- tage, and if it had not been for the patience of Mr. Cutting we might not have been able to obtain for the residents of that part of the city the land for approaches and the agreement for the construction of the bridge. He said to me once that it cost the company $700 just to give away a small piece of Quaker Oats property to the city."

Mayor Hamilton said Mr. Cutting had been interested in the proposed drive on the east bank of the river north of Hunter street and of fur- ther beautification of the land ex- tending in from the bank. "It has been a dream of his that this im- provement would be done, and the company was willing to give us the property for that purpose. I hope it will be the policy of the company to let the city do that some time, and that Mr. Cutting will see it accom- plished on a return to Peterbor- ough."

His Worship said he wished Mr. Cutting would always feel that the members of the council had the very kindliest feeling for him, and appre- ciated all that he had done during his years in Peterborough.

Rev. Dr. Easton

Rev. Dr. Easton in the role of speaking on behalf of the assembled friends of Mr. Cutting referred to his happy home life, his attachment to Trinity church, his interest in the Rotary Club, and to the quality of his personality and shown in every day life for the period of eight years.

"Mr. Cutting, like the most of us, has come out of an age that was conservative in its outlook, almost reactionary. He has lived in a time that has been marked by rapid change. Some one has said that this change has extended from fingers to government and there has been a tinge of red in both."

Mr. Cutting has been the kind of man who adjusted himself to that element of change, but kept on an even keel, a firm hand on the helm and his eye on the polestar by which to guide his life, Dr. Easton said. Mr. Cutting had also exhibited a living faith, not only in things fin- ished and done but also things in the doing.

Rev. Dr. Easton illustrated the two aspects of faith. In the age of Copernicus it was not easy to have faith in the heliocentric theory of astronomy which was eventually proved to be true, dethroning the earth as the centre of the universe. That kind of faith today was fixed in something finished and done, but in the same field of astronomy the great 200-inch reflector telescopes tell us of great systems vaster than our own indicating an extent of the universe beyond what men had for- merly conceived. That was an ex- ample of faith in things doing.

A Personal Bond

Looking toward the growth of nationalism as seen in the great ad- venture of the thirteen colonies of New England, and the Confederation of the provinces and territories of our own country, Dr. Easton posed the question whether we could take the next step toward an internation- al fraternity, not only by these neighboring countries but even to the larger fraternity of the Anglo- Saxon and American peoples. Men like Mr. Cutting were performing a mission toward that end, living here and making the United States and its peoples better known to Cana- dians. "We hope that he will take back to the United States a better understanding of Canada and its people. And out of his case and thousands of others shall come a lasting international fraternity in which may be found some day places for such peoples as Germany and Japan."

Mr. Cutting's Reply

Mr. Cutting, in his grateful acknowledgment of the honor paid to him and the beautiful gift pre- sented to him, recalled that on his coming to Peterborough a stranger "you took me into your homes and six months later when my family arrived here you welcomed them too. In a short time we felt very much a part of this community. We tried to do what we could to help along the good work. Our children went to school here and played here and as a result of all that living here we felt that we were a real part of this community of Peterborough. I am going back to the United States feel- ing that it will be temporary for I am certainly coming back. As to the future and what it holds in store I haven't the slightest idea."

Mr. Cutting said he was going back to his old home in Amherst, Massachusetts, "and I hope that when any of you people find it pos- sible to be in that direction you will look us up. I am taking back a great regard for Canada and an abiding affection for Peterborough and its people."

Mayor Hamilton requested Mr. Cutting to convey to Mrs. Cutting and their son and daughter "our good wishes for the future and also our deep regret that they are leav- ing Peterborough."

The flight was termed officially "one of the greatest achievements of Canadian fliers in the present war."

The two Canadians were part of an air crew which first sighted the Japanese aircraft carrier fleet and were able to warn Colombo's de- fenders to prepare a hot reception.

The world already has been told the story of the Japanese attack— how 75 planes swooped on Colombo, of which 27 were destroyed and five probably destroyed—but the heroes had not been named until now.

The Canadians' warning was held mainly responsible for the success of Colombo's defence on this Easter Sunday 1942.

Birchall had only just arrived in Ceylon. Many of his flying col- leagues had no time to get acquaint- ed before he captained a flying boat routine patrol, from which he did not return.

Birchall and Onyette were able to flash back the electrifying words: "Jap fleet sighted."

Silence followed the fateful mes- sage.

No other message ever came from Birchall and Onyette. Searching fliers found no trace of them.

Col. Sutcliffe carried on with the remaining Canadian forces until the British garrison in the Fast East colony was compelled to captulate to superior numbers of Japanese last Christmas Day.

Fate of individual Canadians in the Hong Kong defence force is known in a few isolated cases. Sev- eral have been listed previously by the National Defence Department as having died while prisoners of the Japanese.

Little Medical Help

Cause of Col. Sutcliffe's death is not known. However, it was recalled that only last Wednesday, in a re- turn tabled in the House of Com- mons, T. L. Church (Con. Toronto Broadview) was told that the food situation at Hong Kong and Kow- loon where Canadians are held is "unsatisfactory," and that medical services and hospitalization there are "indequate."

This information was based on re- ports received by the government.

Staple diet of the prisoners and internees at Hong Kong and Kow- loon was said to be "soup and rice."

Representatives of the Argentine government—until recently Canada's protecting power in relations with Japan—made requests to the Japan- ese for permission to visit Hong Kong, but that permission was re- fused.

The Canadian contingent of 1,985 officers and men sailed from Canada at the end of October last year and reached Hong Kong in the middle of November. Only a few weeks later Japan entered the war.

Sir Lyman Duff, chief justice, re- cently completed a royal commission inquiry into the dispatch of Cana- dian troops to Hong Kong. His re- port is expected to be issued in the near future.

Blood Donor Service To Be Extended

Blood donors service as a war time project which has been in existence for local needs during the past few months will be extended as soon as possible to include an overseas blood bank, and a clinic will be set up without delay at the premises formerly occupied by Met- calfe Auto Electric at the corner of Brock and Water streets

This additional activity on the part of the Red Cross will entail an expense of $7,500 to cover remodel- ling, re-decorating, and installa- tions, and when the clinic is ready a widespread appeal will be launch- ed for hundreds more voluntary blood donors.

At the present time Ontario has been asked to step its blood quota from 2,000 units a week to 3,000 units a week, and even with this increase, Ontario is only providing fifteen per cent. of the amount re- quired. A unit consists of 400 cubic centimetres, and England alone is providing 100,000 units a week. This demand even before a military of- fensive has taken place will be doubled many times should land fighting develop. The urgency therefore of establishing adequate reserves of blood is obvious.

Men from 18 to 55 years of age will be asked to register with the Red Cross for voluntary blood don- ations just as soon as the clinic is equipped and ready for work, and this means that at least 2,000 regu- lar blood donors will be needed.

The local Voluntary Blood Trans- fusion Service is sponsored by the Red Cross, as well as the Overseas Blood Bank, and both will be car- ried on to the fullest extent possi- ble. However, this added venture of an overseas blood clinic means an added strain on the finances of the Red Cross and citizens are urged to be as generous as their circum- stances will allow.

In Canada at the present time there are 22 Overseas Blood Banks operating across Canada, all in the larger cities and this number will probably be doubled in the next six months.

Farmer Arrested, Had 2 Accidents

Following two accident in which his car was involved, Dennis O'Donaghue, Ennismore farmer, was taken to the police station by Pro- vincial Officers Price Morris and L. A. McClure.

On arrival there it was discovered that O'Donaghue was suffering from an injured arm. He was ordered to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

According to the police report, O'Donaghue's car was in collision at Charlotte and Louis Streets with a bicycle ridden by Kenneth King, 403 Water Street. The cyclist was knocked off his wheel. After that accident O'Donaghue continued west to Aylmer Street and turned north on that street. Near the intersec- tion of Murray Street, his car col- lided with the rear end of a parked car belonging to O. Sugden.

The rear of the parked machine and the front of O'Donaghue's car were damaged considerably by the impact.

Two baby calves that O'Donaghue had in the back of his automobile were not injured.

Hope of Peace Now, Dropped

BERNE, Switzerland, May 1 (AP) —Mussolini will address the Italian council of ministers tomorrow to re- port on his two-day conference with Hitler at Salzburg which Rome dis- patches indicated was devoted to the necessity of increasing the Axis war effort.

The decisions of the two leaders were taken, it was indicated in these dispatches, after it appeared that any hope of peace this spring had been abandoned.

Consistent reports have come from neutral countries outside Switzerland of unofficial overtures toward peace talks begun three weeks ago. The feeling in well-in- formed foreign diplomatic quarters here is that the soundings, though futile, are still not finished.

The two days of talks ranked as probably the most important in the long series of Hitler-Mussolini meet- ings through their years of collabor- ation.

The meeting gained special im- portance because it was their first following Mussolini's recent allu- sions to the need for greater discip- line and morale on the home front and Hitler's Reichstag speech of last Sunday in which he took over pow- er of the most direct sort for the punishment of dissidence.

Rumors of a sweeping political change in Italy and of a possible purge in Germany have been heard since Hitler's speech.

States Inquest Is Not Needed

No inquest will be held into the death of 70-year-old Fred W. Arm- strong of Dummer township, Cor- oner Dr. Munroe of Warsaw, stated today. Armstrong was lost in the bush near his home at White Lake for nine days and nine nights, wan- dering around without food and died on Wednesday, the result of exposure and lack of food.

When he was first found Arm- strong's condition seemed to be sur- prisingly good and after being taken home it was thought that he would recover. However, later a collapse set in and death ensued on the follow- ing day.

The late Fred Armstrong lived for years in Western Canada but re- turned east some years ago. He was well known in the White Lake sec- tion of Dummer township where a number of relatives reside. The funeral was held this afternoon at Trent River.

Obituary

MRS. ADAM GARDNER.

A life-long resident of this dis- trict passed away on Saturday in the person of Annie M. Brown, wife of the late Adam Gardner in her 67th year.

She was a daughter of the late David Brown and Margaret Ann Crawford and was born in Asphodel township, the family moving shortly after to Dummer where she spent her younger days. She was the second of a family of six.

The late Mrs. Gardner was mar- ried to Adam Gardner August 1st, 1905 and resided on the farm in Asphodel now occupied by Howard Gardner. Retiring about 23 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner moved in to Norwood, residing in the house on Queen street where their demise occurred, Mr. Gardner pre- ceasing her December 15th, 1939.

She was a life long member of the Methodist church and after church union of the United church of Canada and was always a very regular attendant up until the past few months when her health would not permit. Although of a quiet and unobtrusive disposition she possessed a dry wit and sense of humor which endeared her to all who knew her.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Percy Parker (Jennie) of Roseneath, one son Howard Gardner of Aspho- del, one sister Mrs. James Brown, Belmont street, and one brother, John Brown of Dummer.

Funeral services were held from her late residence on Monday afternoon conducted by Rev. M. I. Robinson, minister of Norwood United church. Rev. Mr. Robinson took a portion of the last verse of the 4th chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, "And be ye kind one to another" for his text. Hymns used during the service were 'Rock of Ages' and 'Abide With Me' and a solo 'In The Garden' was sung by Mrs. R. H. Gardner. Ac- companiments were played by Mrs. Rork Ferguson who also played for the deceased's wedding 37 years ago.

A profusion of floral offerings paid mute tribute to the esteem of numerous friends and relatives.

Interment was made in Norwood cemetery. Pall bearers were all nephews: Roy, Horace and Max Brown and George, Percy and Warden Gardner. Two grandsons, Arnold Parker and Allan Gardner were flower bearers.

Western M.P. Charges 3 Biggest Plants Slowing Production

By C. R. BLACBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, May 1.—(CP).—A spe- cial committee of 24 members of the House of Commons has been set up to examine government war ex- penditures with the unequivocal assurance of Prime Minister Mac- kenzie King that it will not be limited or restricted in its scope.

Mr. King's resolution setting up the committee was adopted unani- mously just before adjournment last night after the House had de- bated it two days.

A feature of yesterday's debate was the charge made by C. E. John- ston (N.D. Bow River), that some war industries, including 'perhaps, the three largest plants in Canada' making trucks and similar equip- ment, were 'deliberately slowing down production.'

He asserted, too, that war indus- tries were 'deliberately held back by the government.'

This drew from the Prime Minis- ter a challenge to Mr. Johnston to make specific charges and the pro- mise, if he did so, to set up a committee before which he might prove them.

In yesterday's debate, as on the previous day, some members charg- ed that the government's manner of dealing with parliament was bringing thta body into disrepute and to a state of uselessness.

This criticism arose over the practice of the committee—consti- tuted last night on exactly the same lines as last session—of hold- ing meetings in camera.

Defends Secret Sessions.

War Services Minister Thorson, who was chairman of the War Ex- penditures committee last year, de- fended the secret sittings. He said they were productive of more in- formation and that more speed was possible when the press was not present to report speeches.

Mr. Thorson said it would be quite in order for the committee to investigate the Munitions and Spu- ply Department, as several members had suggested, and he was sure every facility would be given.

Those who opposed the secret sit- tings said they did so particularly because the information obtained at such meetings could not be used in parliament, yet often leaked out to the press and into radio speeches. This aspect of the question was not dealt with by the government.

Several members said they saw a possibility of "big business" influ- encing the war effort adversely and to its own advantage. This was first brought up yesterday by Angus Mac- Innis (C.C.F. Vancouver East), who said the committee should examine that situation.

He said this was taking place in the United States, and declared that in the First Great War big business was able to influence both warring factions so that certain iron ore mines were left untouched on

Variety Show Of Kinsmen Held Tonight

An entertainment highlight with an appeal to both young and old will go on the air at eight o'clock this evening, when the Peterborough Kinsmen Radio Variety Show swings into high gear. It is the most ambitious show ever staged in this city in a war charities appeal, in that it is studded with top ranking stars of the radio world, and does not feature just one or two.

Alan Savage, talented master of ceremonies from CFRB, Toronto, will direct the three hour presentation, and Romanelli's ten-piece orchestra will provide a background of music that should thrill every music lover in the district. Patricia Bailey, celebrated blues singer of the radio world, will be on hand, sharing the spotlight with the veteran entertainer, Frank Oldfield, and Jimmy Namarro. Oldfield has made several trips to Peterborough to sing at banquets and other functions, and his smooth baritone voice has won him a host of friends in Peterborough. Jimmy Namarro's talents have been directed at mastering the xylophone, and music critics laud him as the best in Canada.

Mrs. Jessie Pattison Spencely will be heard along with Adam Hawley, baritone, Victor Cremasco, boy soprano, Joey McMahon, boy soprano, Miss Olga Westbye. Other local entertainers who are scheduled to take part are Doreen Hogg and Kenneth Simmons in a Scottish song and dance routine, Grace Hoggs, tap dancer, Leahy Bros., old time orchestra, Alf Standon, pianist and the Salvation Army octette, composed of eight saxophone players.

The show has been arranged to obtain donations for the Milk For Britain Fund, and draw tickets are being sold for prizes which will be drawn for during the program, and the names of the winners announced on the air. Radio Station CHEX will broadcast the program as a remote control feature from the Collegiate Auditorium, and tickets for admission to the auditorium are also being sold by members of the Kinsmen Club in order that people may see the show, should they wish to. Donations will also be accepted over the telephone and collectors have been stationed at different places in the city to visit the homes, from which phone calls originate, and accept the donations.

250,000 Pickerel Fry Put In Stoco

TWEED, May 1—(ENS)—Tweed Fish and Game Club placed 250,000 pickerel fry in Stoco Lake, this week. The fish were brought from Glenora Hatchery in Prince Edward County. Bass and maskinonge fry will be placed in the lake at a later date. The local Club has been consistently stocking the lake for the past five or six years.

Chief Russell William, a known Indian doctor of Peterborough, was found guilty of an offence under the Medical Act in police court in Tweed on Thursday afternoon, before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd. He was fined $50.00 and in addition was assessed $50.75 costs. Col. B. C. Donnan, K.C., represented The College of Physicians and Surgeons and R. A. Bradshaw, Peterborough, acted for the accused. It is alleged that he prescribed certain remedies for Mrs. Williams Rogers, and not being a registered physician, was unable to carry out the practise of a doctor.

Controls No Snag

CHICAGO, May 1. — (CP) — Henry W. Morgan of Montreal, past president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in an address prepared for delivery here yesterday said that various wartime controls in Canada had not cramped business.

"Business had kept up and indeed forged ahead in considerable volume above last year's figures," Mr. Morgan told the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Morgan said that shortages in many lines of consumer goods was in prospect, "but a slow down in business will not come, in my opinion, from the public's distaste of substitute articles, but rather from the necessity of rationing manufacturers' goods to the retailer."

Seventy-five Attend Emergency Class

PORT HOPE, May 1—(ENS).—Seventy-five members of the Emergency War Classes gathered in the Library Hall for a review of the lecture material already given and the subject matter as Emergencies in the home.

Mrs. Britton was in charge of this lecture and began her review with the importance of immediate attention to haemorrhage. Some of the common causes of home accidents such as rugs at the top of stairs, cildren's toys left lying around, turning on electric appliances while damp and unlabelled poisons.

Common accidents and how to treat, for example children swallowing safety pins, nails, etc., the treatment would be to give bulky food, not laxatives.

Also covered were such minor accidents as a foreign body in the eyes or ears and treatment; also lead poisoning and falls causing internal injuries, the signs and treatment.

Boils were listed as external infection not internal as is so often thought and the treatment was listed as hot compresses.

Also covered in this review were earaches, hiccoughs, hives, mosquito and spider bites, poison ivy, poison oak and the treatment of each was given.

Fractures were thoroughly reviewed—how to distinguish each and the bandaging and splinting of such.

Swimming and the types of rescue and resuscitation.

The meeting was thrown open for questions which were ably answered.

It was announced that next week's lecture would be in charge of Dr. Vivian and will deal with wounds—the types, infection of ounds, and treatment. Burns—the classification of such, scalds, fire burns, electric burns and their treatments.

Fast Time At Last

Fort William, May 1 (CP).

FORT WILLIAM, the last holdout against Daylight Saving Time as adopted by Canada, Feb. 9, will advance its clocks one hour starting next Monday, city council decided last night.

Fort William and Port Arthur had continued on Eastern Standard Time which they adopted in 1909 by special legislation. On April 6 Port Arthur adopted daylight time but Fort William city council decided that the change in this city would not be made until May 1. At Wednesday's meeting it was decided to change the time on May 4 for the start of a new business week.

At the time of the adoption of daylight time throughout the Dominion, both councils agreed that as the two cities are located practically astride the line dividing the Central and Eastern Time zones they already were on daylight time.

Magistrate Reserves Judgment In Cobourg Dog-Poisoning Case

COBOURG, May 1.— (ENS)— Judgment was reserved Thursday by Magistrate R. B. Baxter in connection with a charge against Councillor Joseph Delanty of leaving strychnine poisoning in a place accessible to animals. The Crown's case was heard two weeks ago, after which adjournment had been made until yesterday afternoon. John Callahan, K.C., of Toronto, was present for the hearing, as associate defence counsel with T. F. Hall, K.C.

John Gutteridge was the first witness called. A carpenter by trade he told the court of making an examination of the shed where the defendant said he had placed the poison for rats. The shed had a cement floor, and the walls were of sound construction. There was no place where other than a large mouse or a small rat could gain admittance. There was no room for a cat or a dog to get in, he testified.

Similar evidence was given by Joseph Patterson, Cobourg builder, who said that he had examined the shed in question and found no place where a cat or dog could get in. There was no hole big enough for a rat either, he declared.

"There has been evidence that rats were in the shed, so if you found no hole big enough for a rat, then they must have got in by the door" suggested Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

"That would be right," stated Patterson.

"Rats are scary creatures and you would hardly find a rat entering the door while a human being was going in at the same time, would you?" asked Mr. Deyman next.

"I don't think so," replied Mr. Patterson.

"The natural conclusion then would be that the door had been left open and the rats had got in. Is that right Mr. Patterson?"

"It would seem so," he replied.

Recalled to the stand, Mr. Gutterside said that a small rat could get through one of the holes.

Mr. Callahan took over the examination, when the defendant took the stand.

Troubled By Rats

"I had trouble all winter with rats all over the house," testified the defendant. "They chewed up vegetables in the cellar and got into the back shed. I tried a commercial preparation and it didn't work. A Mr. Guthrie from Belleville was in my house one night and he heard the rats. He advised me to get some hamburg steak and strychnine and cautioned me to be careful that no children or animals got near it. After I mixed some strychnine with some porridge and bacon fat on January 22, I put it in the shed and locked the door. I found out next day that it hadn't been touched so, I burned it and decided to try hamburg steak with it. I got the strychnine, first at Caldwell's and then at Bergin's," testified the defendant.

"I understand that Chief Carey testified at the last hearing that you told him that you had put some poison in a hole for cats. Did you?" asked Mr. Callahan.

"Absolutely not," replied the witness.

"On January 29," continued the defendant, "I bought some strychnine and hamburg steak and put it out in the shed and locked the door. I always kept the door locked anyway because I had some meat in there, which I got in December, 1941, as some of it had been stolen before. The next day I found that the steak and poison had been touched so I brought in what was left and burned it. There was no poisoned meat left around. Any time there was poison in that shed, the door was locked," testified Mr. Delanty.

Neighbors Had Dogs

Continuing, he said that his immediate neighbors had dogs and there had been no complaint from them of poisoning. Quested as to the contents of the stomachs of the poisoned dogs and of stew, carrots and chicken bones found in them, Mr. Delanty said that the stew didn't come from his place because a lady who boarded there, disliked stew, and so none of it was prepared.

"There was absolutely no opening in that shed where a dog or cat could get in," stated the defendant. He added that he had two children of his own and the children of the neighbours played with his youngsters, and for that reason he was particularly careful to see that no poison was left around.

"After I made the second purchase of strychnine, I saw Chief Carey. He asked me about some dogs that had been poisoned. I told him that I had purchased it for rats. I did not tell him that it was for cats," stated the defendant.

"Why didn't you use traps," asked Mr. Deyman.

"I had no traps and furthermore, I took Mr. Guthrie's advice to use poison," replied Mr. Delanty.

"You signed the poison book in Mr. Caldwell's drug store?"

"Yes".

"For what purpose or use did the entry read in the poison book? It said 'cats', did it not?"

"Yes".

"Was that word 'cats' written in the book when you signed it?"

"It might have been anything, I didn't look to see."

"Did you find any dead rats around after you used the poison?"

"No, but there was a bad smell in the back shed."

"You heard Chief Carey said that you told him that you had got the strychnine for cats and had put it in a hole?"

"I certainly didn't tell him that."

"If you had wanted to poison rats would it not have been a good idea to place it outside?"

"I put it in the shed where I had seen the rats.",

"Do you keep coal in the shed?"

"Yes."

"You have to go in and out of the shed to get the coal for your kitchen range?"

"Yes," replied the witness.

Chief Carey was called back to the stand.

"There was some evidence given by John Delanty that you told him that Joe Delanty had told you that the poison had been purchased to kill rats," began Mr. Deyman.

Mr. Callahan objected.

"Your witness brought it up," the magistrate ruled.

"We never discussed the matter. I went there to get Joe Delanty to sign the slip for a special council meeting," said the chief.

Mr. Callahan, in his argument, stated that there had been no evidence that the dogs had been poisoned with strychnine, beyond the opinion of the veterinary. A chemical test was the only definite way. The symptoms found by the vet could have been the result of ptomainne poisoning, Mr. Callahan said.

"I want to draw the attention of the court to the fact that Mr. Delanty destroyed the poisoned food the day after he had put it out, January 23. Mr. Vagg's dog was poisoned on January 25. Where could he have got the poison then?" asked Mr. Callahan.

Crown Attorney Deyman summed up the evidence in a brief address to the court.

Sir Thomas Educates His Public

We are always delighted by the goings-on of the celebrated British conductor, Sir Thomas Beecham; he is one of those untrammeled souls who speaks his mind with considerable force whenever anything displeases him. He sees no reason why he should pretend that he approves of something when it actually fills his soul with loathing, and he is always ready to do a little crusading in the cause of music.

His latest exploit happened in Montreal on Tuesday last when Sir Thomas shouted "Silence" at an audience which applauded a chorus before the orchestra had finished playing. The opera was Gounod's Romeo and Juliet. When next Sir Thomas appeared his audience greeted him with a mixture of boos and applause, and his orchestra stood up and applauded him vigorously.

In our opinion, Sir Thomas was quite right. If people do not know how to behave at a musical performance someone must tell them, and who better than the conductor? We glory in his courage. So many people spend their days choking down their wrath over annoyances of one sort and another, that we are delighted to hear of an instance where a man said his say, like a man, at the right time.

This Matter Of Grammar

Not long ago we commented in these columns on an editorial which had appeared in the Brantford Expositor, condemning radio speakers who affronted their hearers with ill-prepared addresses, bad grammar and slovenly diction; we approved heartily of our contemporary's stand on the matter, and the Expositor did us the honor to reprint what we had said. Shortly afterward they received this message:

THE BLIND LEADS THE BLIND Or
As others read us

Son, there is no such thing as bad grammar. You mean bad english. Grammar is the art of speaking or writing a language correctly.

We hope we have taught you something, that you will take the hint, and either stop writing editorials or take a short course in grammar.

"Abusus non tollit usum."

In point of fact, the referance to "bad grammar" was not in the Expositor, but in the piece which it quoted from the Examiner, and so we feel justified in saying a few things to this anonymous critic who thinks that there is no such thing as bad grammar. We have heard that one before; it is a favorite public school bogey and we do not believe in it. Neither does the Shorter Oxford English Dictionary, which gives this as one definition of the word: "An individual's manner of using grammatical forms; speech or writing as it conforms to or violates grammatical rules; also speech or writing that is correct according to these rules"; this use of the word dates from the year 1586 and the example which is given to illustrate it is from Macaulay. He employs it thus: "He had German enough to scold his servants... but his grammar and pronunciation were very bad." Now who says that there is no such thing as bad grammar?

The Expositor has knocked our critic over the head with the authority of the Fowler brothers and we have hit him when he was down with the Oxford Dictionary. Now let us ask him a question or two. Why does he spell English with a small "e?" Would he not be well advised to take a short course in spelling? And why does he address the Editor of the Expositor as "Son?" Does he not know that all editors are venerable by virtue of their office, just as cabinet ministers are honorable by virtue of theirs? And why, if he is shaky in his English (as he obviously is) does he venture upon little snippets of Latin? And does he not know that no one can stop writing editorials of his own volition? Writing editorials is a gift akin to prophecy and demoniacal possession, and its possessor regards it as a sacred trust. To the flames with this anonymous critic!

Death Of a Crusader

Some men seem born to fight the wrongs and injustices of the world; it is not a happy fate, for the crusader inevitably brings upon himself much abuse and disapproval. Woe to anyone who attacks the immeasurable lethargy of his fellow-men! But the crusader must fight as a fish must swim, and if he gets his way in one direction he very soon starts a crusade for a new object. Strife and all the unpleasant circumstances which go with it are the breath of life to him.

Such a crusader was the Reverend Alfred Henry Tyrer who died in Toronto on Tuesday last. His two principal crusades were conducted in favor of birth-control and the reform of the Church of England. His manual, Sex, Marriage and Birth Control, is reputed to have had a larger sale than any other book published in Canada and it enjoys a very large circulation at present. On the subject of Church reform his chief work was And a New Earth, which was published about a year ago and which caused considerable controversy. It was Mr. Tyrer's habit to publish and distribute his own books and in his campaigns, conducted by mail, he showed an ingenuity and a flair for publicity which would have carried him far if he had chosen a business career.

In his lifetime Mr. Tyrer fought many battles, and he always fought like a gentleman. Some of his critics accused him of fighting evils which did not exist, and certainly some of his fears for mankind seemed groundless to other observers, but he was always completely sincere and none of his enemies ever accused him of seeking anything for himself. His personal example was rather more convincing than his writing, for his enthusiasm with the pen was sometimes greater than the robustness of his theories. In one matter, however, he was deserving of the admiration of all Canadians; he was an earnest advocate of better mental hygiene in this country, and his personal experience gained while working in rural areas taught him at first-hand the essential wickedness of ignorance and narrowness of thought.

This country owes a debt which will never be able to repay to such men as A. H. Tyrer. They do not attract enough attention to become widely known, and yet their influence is far-reaching and the ideas which they spread give food for thought to many people who would otherwise do little thinking, if any. The Reverend Mr. Tyrer was a doughty fighter for the right as he saw it, and such men must always command respect and a measure of affection.

Miserable Plight Of Finland

In every great war a certain number of comparatively inoffensive countries suffer entirely disproportionate losses. Finland is a case in point. First she fought Russia, with Germany on the Russian side; now she fight Russia again and this time Germany is on her side. The explanation for this game of military musical chairs will doubtless emerge in time, but at present no really satisfactory theory is available and the only thing which emerges clearly is that Finland will lose heavily, and is being reduced to a miserable plight at this moment.

One of the surprises in the news during the past week has been the revelation that German troops are fighting in every part of Finland; even sources so well placed as Stockholm were unaware of this. Yet on the Karelian front last week 600 Germans were killed; the Finnish casualties were 440 dead. Since November, 1939, the Finns have lost 50,000 dead and something like 150,000 wounded; this amounts to one-quarter of their total armed forces.

The situation on the Finnish front has long been unsatisfactory to the Germans, and it appears that Hitler means to make some changes there. The Nazi General Engelbrecht has been removed from his command of the Lake Ladoga sector, because his achievements there have not been satisfactory to Hitler.

The real difficulty in Finland, however, is agricultural, for many farms have been abandoned by families which no longer have men to work them. Not only are men scarce, but seed to plant is scarce also. It seems that the threat of starvation hangs over Finland, and her German ally can hardly be depended upon to do anything about that. The whole Finnish situation is one of hardship and sorrow, with no possible prospect of betterment when the war is over.

Spreading The News

Congratulations, we feel, are due to The Canadian Press—the co-operative news gathering agency operated by the newspapers of this country—for the able job which it did in spreading the news of the plebiscite results. The rapidity with which the returns from all parts of the Dominion were gathered, tabulated and made known to the public was the result of an excellent piece of co-operation between the Government, the two telegraph agencies, and The Canadian Press, which acted as a sort of clearing-house, sending the results to newspapers, to the C.B.C. and to private broadcasting stations across Canada.

For the first time the Dominion Government bore a share of the expense of making the plebiscite results known; returning officers at rural polls were authorized to phone or wire their results to constituency returning officers at the expense of the Government. The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National telegraph services placed thousands of miles of leased wires at the disposal of The Canadian Press without charge. As a result, it was possible to predict the all-Canada Yes vote two hours after the polls had closed in Ontario. Considering the unusual difficulty of compiling the returns—much greater than in the case of a general election—this was something of a record.

Great credit must be given, first of all, to the returning officers, their deputies and the poll clerks, who furnished their results to the newspaper offices. This was the first time that they have been asked to do so, and their co-operation was so complete that returns were in such offices as the Examiner long before they would have been available by the means used during general elections. The patience and speed of these men made possible the whole rapid spread of the news.

The regional reports which made the tabulation of the vote possible on a progressive Yes and No basis were supplied to the central bureaux of The Canadian Press at Montreal and Toronto by local newspapers such as the Examiner which sent in their information. The whole complex business was handled with a despatch and accuracy which made the plebiscite result known to the public in the shortest possible time, and we feel that The Canadian Press deserves this brief round of applause as a reward for its work. Although, like the telegraph companies, The Canadian Press is a private organization, it does much valuable public service.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There has been an epidemic of soap-stealing in Scotland. Who said that cleanliness was next to godliness?

It was Hitler, says a contemporary, who put the "germ" in German. The same fellow took the "It" out of Italy.

"Tar or whitewash a rat and its companions flee in terror," says a science note. This sounds like the ideal treatment for Quislings.

The extra pair of trousers which men are denied on their wartime suits are probably being made into slacks for women. More and more it becomes a woman's world

The Shoshone Indians in the U.S. have volunteered to buy $500,000 worth of war bonds. The St. Catharines Standard suggests that their slogan should be: "Swamp 'em with wampum."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that a cow need only smell a sprig of garlic for ten minutes for the flavor to appear in her milk. And of course if she eats it, the milk will bring tears to your eyes.

A firm of monumental masons in Washington have prepared a tombstone for Hitler. Our personal bet is that when Hitler dies no one will know how or where, and no stone will mark the spot where he lies.

Chicago retailers have agreed to ban fancy boxes for Christmas gifts when next that season comes around. This, we feel, shows a growing optimism; there was a time, not so long ago, when any such statement would have been followed by a lugubrious "If there is a next Christmas." At least we have reached that stage of the war where we no longer think the world is coming to an end.

DEMOCRACY

The right to grouch and caterwall,
To cuss our leaders one and all;
The right to lift my voice and speak
And stick up for the old and weak;
The right to live as I see fit
To dream, and get away with it.

The right to own a radio,
To turn the dial and let 'er go,
And sit at ease and listen in
To Singapore . New York, Berlin,
With no eyes watching in the gloom—
For I am master in this room.

The right to raise my kids, and make
Small sacrifices for their sake;
To go to meetings if I like
And buy my son a brand new byke,
To take my family to a show
Just any time we wish to go.

To make a living as I can,
To walk erect and be a man,
Upright. undaunted and uncowed—
These are the things of which I'm proud,
Because their roots are broad and deep
That loving, I shall die to keep.

Even Einstein Makes Mistakes

LEOPOLD INFELD, professor at Toronto University, has written a book ("Quest" — Doubleday Doran) which, in addition to being a sincere and deeply moving story of the horrid racial persecution of the Jews in Poland and Germany, should be an inspiration to the lads and lasses who struggle with multiplication, division and the other more profound abysses of mathematical knowledge. In Lewis Carroll's undersea school, it will be remembered, arithmetic was divided into ambition, distraction, uglification and derision.

This is not a review of Prof. Infeld's book. The purpose is to single out two stories he tells, the inspirational quality of which he seems, himself, to have overlooked. In passing, however, it must be said that this is not a humorous, light-hearted autobiography. Far from it. Prof. Infeld has suffered much, and his pages tell the story of persecution at times with almost unbearable realism.

PROF. INFELD is a mathematician, whose professional activities are carried on in the exalted sphere of Einstein and relativity. Einstein helped him in his student days at Berlin and succored him in 1936 at the beginning of the deluge. Einstein got him a berth at Princeton and made him his comrade in pursuit of truth.

Prof. Infeld tells that he became convinced that "gravitational waves do not exist." And he believed he could prove it by calculations. He told this to a fellow mathematician who was skeptical. Infeld thereupon handed his friend the pages containing his calculations.

"The idea is okay," said the friend. "There must be some trivial mistake in your calculations."

The narrative proceeds: "He began quickly and efficiently to check all the steps of my argument, even the most simple ones, comparing the results on the blackboard with those in my notes. The beginning checked beautifully. I marvelled at the quickness and sureness with which he performed all the computations. Then, near the end, there was a small discrepancy. He got plus where I got minus. We checked and rechecked the point; he was right. At one place I had made a most trivial mistake, in spite of having repeated the calculations three times!....Thus my whole result went to pieces. Although it was a very small matter, I felt very downcast at the moment, as does every scientist in similar circumstances even though he has accustomed himself to disappointment. He feels the collapse of hope, the death of the creation of his brain. It is like the succession of birth and death.

"My friend tried to console me: 'It happens to everyone. The most trivial mistakes are always most difficult to detect.'"

Now Einstein was to give a lecture in a day or two and Infeld knew that if his own calculations had been wrong then the Great Master himself must have made an error.

"The next day I went to Einstein and announced: 'My result was wrong. I believe that the waves do exist.'

"Einstein said simply: 'I found a mistake in my paper last night. My proof is wrong too.'"

THE dramatic aspect of this situation lay in the fact that Einstein was to lecture the following day on the very paper in which the mistake had been found.

Infeld proceeds: "I admired the skill, charm and honesty with which Einstein performed the difficult task of lecturing about a result which had been destroyed less than a day before. He lectured for 45 minutes, stating the subject, the idea of the proof and the mistake which he had made. Finishing, he said: 'If you ask me whether there are gravitational waves or not, I must answer I do not know. But it is a highly interesting problem.'"

No doubt it is. Yet it probably is not half as interesting to the young students of today as the fact that even Einstein makes mistakes.

NAZI A NICKNAME

THE name of "Nazi" is so universally used in English that hardly anyone realizes its being something of a nickname. Indeed, it would seem unduly formal, even in the most serious article or book, to speak all the time of the "National Socialists." Yet "Nazi" is never used in the Third Reich.

It is probably of Austrian origin: "Sozi" was, even before 1914, the popular abbreviation for "Sozialist" in the rather smart, amusing Vienna dialect, and "Nazi" looks like its companion piece. Or was "Sozi" perhaps also used in Munich? About 1925 the name most commonly used for the National Socialists in Austria was "Haken-kreuzler" ("the men of the swastika"). It would be interesting to find out when "Nazi" was substituted for it, and when, and by what ways, it has come to us.—Manchester Guardian.

NOT FAST ENOUGH

A man caught a boy in his garden stealing apples, and handed him to the police.

As it was the boy's first offence the magistrate let him off, but told him never to yield to such temptation again, adding:

"Ye should have flown from the Evil One."

"So I did, sir," replied the boy, "but he grippit me afore I got over the fence!"

King Who Built Leningrad

THE successful resistance of Leningrad to weighty Nazi onslaughts is in keeping with tradition, for the city was built only by overcoming stupendous difficulties.

When Peter the Great began his dream city in 1703 he chose the weirdest site. In the wild and uninhabited delta of the Neva he found an island which was subject to terrible floods. In summer it was a disease-laden heap of mud; in winter it was surrounud for months by ice four feet thick.

The island offered nothing adequate in the way of foundations for a city, so Peter's enormous army of workmen were started on the job of driving in countless piles brought from other parts of Russia.

Where were the materials for his projected city? He merely demolished a city some distance off and brought the spoil to the chosen spot. The inhabitants were brought, too. The fortress was built in five months, though the earth needed to raise it was so scarce that his army of workmen had to carry it in their skirts and bags from the nearby countryside, for wheelbarrows were unknown.

THE growing city was without any commercial life, so Peter ordered the trade of Archangel to be deflected to St. Petersburg. He ordered a canal to be made to connect the old and new capitals. Wealthy merchants were compelled to start an export trade. Whole families of nobles, artisans and shopkeepers were forcibly removed from Moscow and had to set up homes and business in the new city.

Defence became imperative. A barren island twenty miles away was turned into a town and naval base and strongly fortified. Today as Kronstadt it co-operates with Leningrad in resisting the strongest military machine the world has ever known.

From his three-roomed house Peter personally directed all these activities, and the city went up according to a plan he himself had made. His strong personality left an indelible mark on every phase of the national life.

There were difficulties in the Russian Church which he settled by abolishing the office of Patriarch and appointing a new Synod with himself as Head of the Church.

He imbued his people with some of his own thoroughness. Having given Russia her first Navy, he was told by his own Court of Admiralty that he would not be granted the rank of vice-admiral until he had proved his merit!

A MAN of fixed determination, the "Mad Czar" let nothing stand in his way. He married a Swedish woman captured by his army and raised her from obscurity to share his power. He had made no mistake, for later he confidently nominated her as his successor.

Leningrad was a city of 80,000 when Peter the Great died; today it numbers over three million population. They all share the unmastered spirit of the man who led them there. — Montreal Star.

On Your Knees

THE way to plant a garden is on your knees. You have to bow to the earth. You must get your fingers in the soil—bare fingers that can feel the inner warmth of spring. Now and then you will pause and sit back on your heels and listen to the cardinal whistling in the maples that stand in opening bud against the April sky. When you return to the task, the sun will be hot on the back of your neck; you may even shed a few drops of sweat into the open seed drills.

You know this soil. You know the feel of it, the smell, the growing warmth within it. You have spaded it, raked it, removed the stones, put in the fertilizer. You feel it there beneath your knees, firm and enduring. It has been here for untold ages, and it was green with life long before man came to stir it for his own purposes or even to press a hurrying footprint into it. Yet you know it for your own because it has welcomed you each spring that you have come to commune with it.

It will be here for ages after you have gone, each season's moldering leaves adding to it, each spring's return clothing it once more with green. Seeds will fall here, and take root, and come to flower and fruit. Kneeling here in the sun, you know these things. And you cover the seed and mark the row, and move on to the next.

And perhaps as you sit back on your heels once more you think of men and women in England, in France, in the Balkans, in Russia, in China in Germany and in Japan who are on their knees, even as you, even as millions before you, with their bare fingers in the enduring soil, planting, hoping, silently praying. — New York Times.

Disaster Looms In Burma

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, May 1 —(AP)—A new major disaster for the United Nations is looming in Burma, although its scope and consequences can not yet be gauged.

A Japanese armored spearhead has not only captured Lashio, severing the main British-Chinese communication line, but possibly has pushed north of that rail terminal to positions astride the Burma Road itself.

If that is true a desperate race of British and Chinese troops must be on west of the break to escape entrapment and establish a new line to the north for defense of the route to India. That would mean both evacuation of Mandalay and surrender of the last oil fields still within British lines.

Grave fears are expressed in London and Chungking about the fate of both the British forces on the Irrawaddy Front and the Chinese on the Sittang, west of Lashio. Should General Stilwell's Chinese troops fail to hold the Eastern Burma flank against a Japanese effort to turn westward down the railroad to Mandalay, the plight of defending forces still far south of Mandalay on both river fronts would be desperate.

JAPS PUSH NORTHWARD

There is an even graver threat to the Allied right flank, however, if it is true, as London intimates, that the Japanese are forging northward from Lashio along the Burma Road instead of westward toward Mandalay. This would menace the last communication route between the Irrawaddy Front and China.

An off-shoot feeder for the Burma Road runs west from Wanting, 100 miles or so north of Lashio, to Bhamo in the Irrawaddy valley. It affords communication between the British and Chinese armies even with the Mandalay-Lashio Railroad cut. It also affords, however, a chance for the enemy to stab around the Wanting-Bhamo bend far in rear of the British troops presumably already falling back northward up the Irrawaddy.

The presumable new defense front to hold both the road to India and the road to China must include that Wanting-Bhamo connection unless British and Chinese forces are to be completely separated from each other. That gives the London suggestion that the enemy is driving northward from Lashio especially ominous meaning.

Bleak as the prospect in Burma seems to be, there are still certain relieving elements in the situation. One is that the strength and sustained striking power of the Japanese armored force that made the amazing dash to Lashio in four days is yet to be revealed.

It made its 170-mile forced march through difficult and all but roadless mountain country, apparently almost unopposed. It has now lost the surprise value which aided it. It also has been subject to cumulative human fatigue and mechanical wear and tear as well as battle casualties. That may be expected to limit its effective radius of further self-sustained action.

Another factor is the close proximity of the wet monsoon that deluges Burma and India for months beginning mid-May. That foreshadows a lull in the Burma front.

Short of complete entrapment of the British-Chinese forces west of the Lashio break-through, monsoon weather may still intervene in time to limit the scope of the Allied disaster.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

And it came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spake unto the children of Israel, according unto all that the Lord had given him in commandment unto them....

Now therefore hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes and unto the judgments, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the Lord God of our fathers giveth you .... Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.—Deut. i, 3; iv, 1, 6.

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.—Gal. vi, 7, 8.

Secret Process Tire Solution? Tests Stand Up

WASHINGTON, May 1— (AP).—Within a week or two, United States Government experts will crowd into a little glass laboratory, not far from Washington and demand a showdown from a man who says he can make rubber from natural gas, grain, and either woodpulp or coal.

The turn of events in that laboratory may spell the end of the rubber shortage—or spell D-U-D in large, crestfallen letters.

Anyway it will be a chapter in one of the war's strangest stories.

For weeks, harried by the critical rubber situation, the experts have been checking into the inventor's claims, testing his product, attempting to analyze it, and losing sleep over its mysteries. Not even to-day will any of the Government men pass official judgment. His name is not released for publication.

It the consensus that there's never been any material quite like it—except rubber itself. Known synthetic rubber reactions are missing, the analyses seem to show crude rubber while actual tests with tires indicate qualities superior to synthetic and equal or superior to crude.

Scientifically, the experts say, it's almost unbelievable; therefore they have their fingers crossed. Thus far, the inventor has refused to disclose vital details of his process or permit Government representatives to witness actual production.

But, since there's just a chance the inventor can do what he says he can do—make rubber that's better and cheaper than crude, using raw materials with which the United States is amply supplied—the Government isn't missing any bets.

It was agreed that the inventor would build a small model production plant—of glass, for reasons of economy — and arrange for the showdown. To date, the Government hasn't spent a dime and hasn't made any commitments, but its hand is ready in its pocket on this one.

The inventor hasn't held out for millions of dollars. His reasons for moving so cautiously, he says, involve fears of a "run-around." The process has not been patented, he says armed men have ransacked his office and threatened him and a protective police guard has been assigned to his family.

If the tests in the glass laboratory prove his claim, the Government experts add dryly, the inventor and his process will become a military secret so fast his head will swim. Plus armed guards, spytraps and all the fixings.

Here in Washington, using materialts supplied by him, officials have supervised the retreading of four times. All have been placed on taxicabs and now have run about 3,000 miles. Under stress of taxi driving, they have performed notably.

Some High Tales If Stanley Cup Could Talk

By ROBERT CLARKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, May 1 — (CP). — The stories the Stanley Cup could tell—if it could only talk.

There was the time when it was booted, in drop-kick fashion, over a bridge rail and into a river. That happened in the early hours of the morning after a victory celebration. And the booter, after a good sleep, woke up horrified, hurried to the scene of his feat and regained the famous hockey trophy.

Another time it was being carried in an automobile by members of a team celebrating a cup victory. A stop was necessary and everyone piled out of the car. The man holding the cup placed it on the sidewalk. Then everyone clambered back and the Stanley Cup was left on the sidewalk. It was still there some time later, when the worried occupants of the car returned.

Those are stories of two decades ago. The Stanley Cup doesn't get such casual care nowadays, says President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League.

"I'd like to have a dollar for every time the Stanley Cup has been filled with champagne," said Calder. And he went on to tell of two of the most famous celebrations in connection with the winning of the cup.

$3,700 Celebration.

A decade and a half ago, when New York Rangers had won the cup in a series with Montreal Maroons, a celebration was arranged in a Montreal Hotel. Ranger officials figured that about 35 persons would attend. What wasn't counted on was the big dance that was going on in an adjoining salon. Next day, when the Rangers got the bill, it was for $3,700, because everybody next door had moved in to sample Stanley Cup champagne.

Somewhat the same thing happened some years later when Detroit Red Wings, the team backed by Millionaire James D. Norris, won the cup in Toronto. Only the bill for that party didn't stack up to the one presented to the Rangers. It was in the neighborhood of $2,000.

Calder can reach back through the years for innumerable stories concerning the many trophies that are part of the N.H.L. One of the best concerns the O'Brien Cup, put up before the First Great War by Senator M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew, Ont., for an Eastern Pro League, and which now goes to the team finishing first in the N.H.L. standing.

"Leagues were folding fast in those days and it was passed from league to league, finally dropping out of sight," says Calder. "I thought that it would be nice to get it for the N.H.L. and received permission to do so from Senator O'Brien's son Ambrose. And then I started to hunt for it. And do you know where I finally found it? In a bowling alley in Montreal. The proprietor was using it as a water trough for his dogs."

Ballplayers Tops On Playing Superstitions

By HAROLD ATKINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, May 1.—(CP)—If you're one of those gents who believe '13' is an unlucky number or that you won't get toothaches if you put your left sock on first, then maybe you should have been a baseball player.

It's well known around the sporting fraternity that ball players are generally a superstitious bunch. One who can give testimony to this is Bill O'Brien, trainer with Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League.

One of his price yarns concerns George Stallings who managed Royals in 1928, the year they made their return to the International loop after being out of organized ball for almost three decades.

Apparently Stallings was a major leaguer when it came to superstitions and would do anything possible to avoid running against the mysteries of the unknown. Among his worries was never to cross the diamond from the opposition's dugout unless accompanied by someone else.

On one of these jaunts in Buffalo, Bill was the party of the second part, when suddenly Stallings cried —look! and pointed to a woman wearing a yellow outfit behind the Montreal dugout.

"Get her out of there," said Stallings, "that canary suit will plague us...Tell her anything but get her to move." Bill tried to reason with Stallings that it was pretty awkward situation, but the manager insisted, and gave Bill some folding money to induce the woman to change her seat. The diplomatic venture failed, the woman standing on her rights that she paid for the seat and would keep it, despite the bribe.

For eight innings Royals couldn't do anything right and Buffalo Bisons were rubbing it in as they piled up an 8-0 lead. Going into the ninth inning, Stallings turned his glances toward the stand to find the woman had left her seat.

Believe it or not, Royals came back in their half of the ninth to pound out nine runs and win the ball game.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, May 1 — (CP). — A budding controversy over Sunday baseball in Canada is likely to burst into full bloom during the next few weeks. Industrial workers in wartime have had work-weeks lengthened without suitable provision for the relaxation they formerly found at week-night hockey or baseball games.

Canadian sports organizations have carried on despite increased expenses and some minor criticism. But this carrying-on usually is on a peacetime footing if possible, and is of no value to men and women who have left peacetime routines far behind. For these workers who sit at machines six long working days a week, Sunday is the only respite.

Sunday baseball seems to be one of the answers to the problem and a move to relax legislation making illegal the playing of games on Sunday has been supported by most sports commentators. A piece by Bill (Niagara Falls Review) Gaynon the other day summed up the general sportswriting attitude. He wrote: "A baseball follower has as much right ot attend his favorite sport as the chap who spends his Sunday afternoon....at golf, tennis, swimming, boating or listening to some favorite radio program."

Incidentally

Holes-in-one have become so common in recent years that you'll appreciate the fresh approach shown by Jim Campbell on a Vancouver course... His tee shot on the 165-yard 11th at Capilano landed in a lake, then his companions each dropped a shot on the green within easy two-putting distance....but they couldn't shade Campbell....He canned his second tee shot.

Joe (Winnipeg Free Press) Ryan, commenting on Victoria's protests after losing to Montreal in the second game of the Canadian basketball final: "The Victoria club.... hopes to bring home the bacon with a five-man team. Maybe they can. But if they can't, it would be nice if Mr. Nichol (Victoria manager) would admit that maybe that factor beat them and not the whistle-tooters."

Boston's Kitchener line got more publicity per working day after they left Bruins than before....Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley quotes Art Ross with this addition to the Kraut legend: "When they came to me in the middle of the season and suggested that they should go into the Royal Canadian Air Force, I said: 'Go ahead, that's just what I'd want you to do.' I knew I was kissing the Stanley Cup good-bye, but what would you have done if you had been in my shoes?"

Vic (Kitchener Record) McKenty opines that Lew Hayman's enlistment in the air force is a tip-off that the R.C.A.F. will win the Canadian rugby football championship this year . . . Syl Apps took part in a recent campaign to enlist men for the Canadian (Reserve) army in Toronto, doing his urging from a downtown recruiting depot . . . Someone asked Alf Kunkel of the Ottawa Flyers whether the 1941 Allan cuppers, Regina Rangers, for whom Kunkel also played, could have beaten Flyers. Said Kunkel: "Yes. There was a hockey team."

Campbellford C.W.L. Elects Officers

CAMPBELLFORD, May 1—(ENS)—An increase in members and the large amount of war work done during the year were highlights of the annual report of the Catholic Women's League. The president, Mrs. Robert Lee, presided during the hearing of the reports and Rev. J. V. McAuley addressed the gathering commending them on their excellent work during the past year and urging the need for still greater efforts in the future. It was indicated that not only was the membership increased, but that National and Diocesan obligations were fulfilled and parish work greatly assisted.

In the realm of war work members contributed sweaters, scarfs, socks, mitts, caps, gloves to the soldiers, while to the local branch of the Red Cross Society they gave quilts, blankets and clothing for bomb victims. Cash outlay included $25.00 to the I.O.D.E., $5.00 to Chinese War Relief, $50.00 to the Red Cross Society. They sent 13,000 cigaretes to overseas soldiers, purchased a $50 Victory Bond, and completed a $25 quota of War Savings Stamps. Total receipts for the year were $1,299.79, with expenses of $1,235.16, leaving a balance on hand of $64.63. Following the naming of officers members expressed their thanks to Rev. J. V. McAuley for his wonderful assistance and guidance during the past years and he brought the meeting to a close with a prayer.

The officers for next year are: Honorary chaplain, Rev. J. V. McAuley; president, Mrs. Robert Lee; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. Heffernan; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. V. Farrell; 3rd vice-president Mrs. P. J. Kelly; treasurer, Mrs. C. Black; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Kelleher; recording secretary, Mrs. Geo. O'Sullivan; councillors, Mrs. J. H. Cunningham, Mrs. S. Bibby, Mrs. J. Kelleher, Mrs. F. Macoun, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. D. N. O'Keefe.

Air Mine Laying Risky But Dull

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, May 1 — (CP).—A Canadian Hampden bomber squadron commanded by Wing Cmdr. A. C. Pitt Clayton, D.F.C. and Bar, of Vancouver, shares with other British air units a job that at times is one of the dullest airmen are called upon to perform—the risky task of laying mines in enemy waters

A mine doesn't necessarily have to blow up a ship to fulfil its mission.

"You'd be amazed if you knew how mine-laying ties up shipping," said Clayton, sitting like a busy executive behind his desk in the squadron commander's office.

"If we keep dropping mines the Germans have to keep ships to sweep them. These vessels, therfore, can't be used for anything else and jobs they would ordinarily do have to be done by other ships. So it goes all along the line. Even if ships aren't sunk by the mines, they help to tie up enemy shipping, and that's a pretty good idea, I think."

Sgt. Pilot Dick Gordon of Hagersville, Ont., veteran of two raids, said it was quiet "and that is the only way to have it."

Among the observers is Sgt. D. G. Irwin, Stratford, Ont.

Sgts. Jack Dafoe, Woodstock, Ont., J. E. Galloway, Milton, Ont., are two of the Canadian wireless operator-air gunners with the squadron.

NEW YORK, May 1. — (AP) — Latest report from Louisville is that if there's a "sleeper" in the Derby this year he must still be asleep . . . Probably the old reason the 700 newspapermen who are down to cover the race haven't made 700 different selections is that there aren't that many horses in the race . . . Our informants offer Sweep Swinger and Apache as their feed-box specials but we can't help wondering if there wasn't some reason why the Texas folks were pouring their dough into the future books on Hollywood. Those Irish horses are bred for distance and from here it seems that a mile and a quarter may be a long way for some of the Derby nags to travel . . . Eddie Arcaro has definitely alected Devil Diver as his mount . . . Whirlaway will stay at the Downs long enough to pay his respects to the winner and then will be shipped to Pimlico Sunday to run in the Dixie.

ROWE GOES TO DODGERS AFTER 9 YEARS WITH DETROIT TIGERS

Schoolboy Rowe Bartered To Daffy Dodgers

DETROIT, May 1—(AP).—The American League pitching career of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe—one without parallel 'n the last decade for sheer brilliance and contrasting setbacks—came to an end yesterday when Detroit Tigers sold the 30-year-old right hander to Brooklyn Dodgers.

While the purchase price was undisclosed it was reported that Larry MacPhail peeled $15,000 off the Brooklyn payroll to complete the transaction that sent the towering Arkansan into the National League. He will join the Dodgers today at Pittsburg.

Break For Manders.

Rowe, who shares with Smoky Joe Wood, Walter Johnson and Robert (Lefty) Grove the league record of sixteen consecutive victories, was starting his tenth season with the Tigers and ten days ago defeated Chicago White Sox for his only 1942 victory. Only once in his career did he have a twenty-victory season, but he compiled a remarkable record of 105 victories and 62 defeats.

The sale of Rowe came as a surprise in some quarters, yet it was fresh evidence that the Tigers intend to string along with young talent that has given the club a tremendous lift in the ne season. By disposing of Rowe, the Tigers elected to keep 25-year-old Harold Manders, former University of Iowa right hander, and cousin of Bob Feller, who would have been cut adrift to reduce the squad to the league playing limit.

Rowe, a native of Texas, but gaining first prominence as a spectacular high school athlete at El Dorado, Ark., spent one year in the minors—at Beaumont of the Texas League—before joining the Tigers in 1933.

The six-foot-four-inch giant won seven and lost four that season, but the following year, under dynamic Mickey Cochrane, who had become Detroit's manager, he put together his sixteen straight victories, won twenty-four and lost eight for the season and pitched Detroit to its first pennant in twenty-five years.

Popular In Detroit.

More than any other player Detroit's baseball madness of that year was created by Rowe and his blazing fast ball.

The Schoolboy won one and lost one in the rollicking world series that October against St. Louis Cardinals, but the next two seasons were nineteen-game winners. It was in 1937 that the Schoolboy suffered misery in his right arm, and after a dismal season agreed to go back to Beaumont in an effort to regain his pitching finesse.

When Rowe returned in 1939 he no longer had a fast ball, but was primarily a control pitcher. He had indifferent success the first year, but in 1940 won sixteen and lost three for the surprise pennant winners. Last year while winning eight and losing six he was thirty-sixth in the league in effectiveness.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

One thing stands out clearly in the big league races. They haven't found a way to stop either the Cleveland Indians in the American loop or the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National circuit. Both outfits won again yesterday. It was Cleveland's eleventh victory in a row, a 6 to 1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics. The Indians got steady pitching from Vernon Kennedy and grabbed off the final game of the series from the A's without the least trouble. Besse was the losing pitcher. Boudreau's club, getting lots of help from their rookie players are sweeping right along, and are two full games in front of the New York Yanks who vaulted back into second place yesterday by salvaging the last game of the series with the lowly St. Louis Browns who had beaten them twice. This time the Brownies didn't really have a chance because Ernie Bonham tossed a four-hitter to score a cleancut shutout 3 to 0. Harris and Hollingsworth threw them in for the Browns.

* * * * * *

With their ace pitcher, Heber Newsome on the hilltop Boston Red Sox took the series from Detroit Tigers two games to one by winning yesterday 8 to 3. The Red Sox made thirteen hits off the delivery of Fuchs, Henshaw and Manders, including Ted Williams' third home run of the season. The blow must have felt good to last year's batting champion who has been in one of the worst slumps in his career. The closest American League game of the day and the best pitching duel in either loop was the battle between the Washington Senators and the Chicago White Sox, won by the former 1 to 0. It was a tidy contest between Wynn on the mound for Washington who allowed the Pale Hose only five hits and the veteran Ted Lyons who yielded four blows and yet had to admit defeat by the smallest possible margin. It was the second tough luck game in succession that the Chicago Sunday pitcher has run into this season.

* * * * * *

As for the Brooklyn Dodgers they are making every post a winning one. They had quite a struggle on their hands yesterday before they finally beat the Cincinnati Reds 11 to 8 in a knock-him-down-and-drag-him-out contest in which both clubs had to call on their pitching reserves. Dolph Camilli was once again the Dodger hero. Tuesday he came through with a homer in the ninth to tie up the ball game and yesterday he hammered out two circuit clouts, his fifth and sixth of the season and the second of the two long Camilli raps, coming in the ninth, won the verdict for the Bums. Pollett flashed a four-hit effort to pitch the Cards to a 7 to 3 win over the New York Giants, with Hal Schumacher the losing pitcher. Tobin the star of the Boston Braves pitching staff who has been throwing one good game after another held the Chicago Cubs to five hits yesterday and Boston won the argument by 3 runs to 2. In the other National League fixture the Phillies turned on the Pittsburg Pirates and took them for a 6 to 3 ride, with Hoerst pitching steady ball to make the win possible.

Better Forget It

Agitation for Sunday baseball at Niagara Falls should be nipped in the bud by baseball authorities. There is no necessity for scheduled games on Sundays, especially in that district where the clubs are only a few miles apart and twilight baseball is a simple matter, and the only possible reason for the demand for Sunday fixtures is the hope of bigger gate receipts. The diamond pastime is in a bad way in Ontario now and this move for the launching of a wide-open Sunday is not going to help to make friends for the game. Our own opinion is that the Niagara promoters would do well to forget the whole thing and be satisfied with twilight and Saturday afternoon games. Baseball needs all the friends it can muster to keep alive in this province and there is nothing to be gained by alienating a large section of public opinion.

* * * * * *

That ten-man hockey may prove to be a blessing in disguise is the opinion of Ken Colling, Belleville sports scribe who discusses the point in the following interesting paragraphs: "Veteran hockey moguls like Billie Hewitt, Ross Clemens and others state that every effort will be made to keep the game alive next season, but they issued a word of warning that many civilian players of the past season will not be playing another year. For instance in the past two years there has been a decrease of 48 per cent of the players registered in the C.A.H.A. Two years ago the Dominion parent body had 25,000 players registered, but this year only 13,000 signed certificates. Another year the Service Forces may have to sponsor teams to keep the game going and it has been suggested clubs reduce their rosters to ten players. which would mean only four alternates would be permitted. Maybe a ten-man team would be a blessing in disguise."

* * * * * *

Puck patrons attending the final Port Arthur-Ottawa Allan Cup game in Toronto agreed the style of hockey dished up was far superior to that played in the N.H.L.," continues Colling. "Then there was "Sweeney" Schriner's recent verbal blast against present-day hockey tactics, which may set the rule-makers thinking. At any rate a ten-man team should tend to create more and better stick-handlers (almost a forgotten art) and better combination team play. Lovers of hockey, as the game was originally intended, hold stick-handling and neat passing is much more entertaining than the present close-checking, goalmouth-crowding and helter skelter sytle of play. Yes, a ten-man team may bring back the lost arts of the game and prove a blessing after all."

Two Softball Meetings

Church organizations wishing to enter teams in the Church Softball League this season are reminded that there will be a meeting of the league at the Y.M.C.A. Monday night for the purpose of receiving new entries and completing organization for the season. Entry forms may be obtained from the Y.M.C.A. office Saturday night and churches intending to affiliate with the league are asked to have these forms picked up to simplify the handling of entries. The Church League expects to operate bantam, juvenile and junior sections this season and teams coming within these respective age groups will find a hearty welcome. And while the subject of sofbtall teams intending to join the Men's City League should not fail to notice that there will be a meeting of the league Tuesday night. They are asked to have representatives present at that meeting.

See Fitzsimmons With Chance To Cop 4th Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sport Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1.—(AP)—Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the sage of Sheepshead Bay, is the oldest of the trainers conditioning horses for Saturday's Kentucky Derby but he'll find no respect for his age when he sends Apache in quest of the $75,000 pot of gold.

The 67-year-old trainer, who tightened the saddle garth on Gallant Fox in 1930, Omaha in 1935, and Johnstown in 1939, is the only trainer with a chance of tying the record of four winners established by the late Dick Thompson for E. R. Bradley.

He'll even find his runner-up position jeopardized by Ben Jones, The Parnell, Mo., ex-cowhand who has captured two of the last four Derbies with Lawrin (1938) and Whirlaway (1941). Jones' hope is Sun Again.

As trainers go in this business, where it takes years to learn the whim of horses this is a young man's Derby. Just five of them have passed the 50-year mark. They range all the way down to 30-year-old Art Fletcher who'll challenge with the lightly regarded Fair Call.

Roy Waldron the beau brummel of the group is the only other trainer who ever has saddled a winner. He won the 1940 renewal with Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' long shot Gallahadion, and bids Saturday with Dogpatch, another outsider from the same stable.

Among the trainers is A. J. (Alex) Wilson, strapping ever-smiling man of 42 years from London, Ont. He is handling Sweep Swinger. Wilson rode Sea Soldier to seventh place in the 1932 Grand National at Aintree but has been training flat runners since 1935.

Canadian Meds Tie Scots 10-10

KIRKCALDY, Scotland, May 1. —(CP Cable)—Winding up an exhibition hockey tour of Scotland, the Royal Canadian Medical Corps played a 10-10 tie last night with the Scottish Selects, a team composed mainly of Canadians resident in Scotland.

In a fast and exciting game Sonny Pratt of Winnipeg, was the high scorer for the Canadian team with four goals. Bill Hogarth of Fort William, Ont., got three, Lloyd Styam of Magog, Que., two and Bill Stenback of Fort William one.

The Medicos won only one game during their tour, defeating Scotland 9-5 at Paisley. The Scots won 10-8 at Dunfermline and 10-7 at Falkirk

The Canadians' line-up: Goal, Ted Russell of Montreal; defence, Hogarth and Ken Goody of Cobourg, Ont.; forwards, Stenback, Pratt and Styam; subs, W. J. Rooker of Grimsby, Ont., G. R. Clark of Port Arthur, Ont., A. Todd, G. Nesbitt and H. Pearce, all of Fort William.

Dominoes Take Oilers 40-36

By ALAN DUCKETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, May 1—(CP).—The battle over the officiating a thing of the past, Victoria Dominoes today needed only one victory to be crowned Dominion senior basketball champions for the fourth time in less than 10 years.

The Dominoes, playing the kind of basketball for which they are noted, handed Montreal Oilers a 40-36 beating last night in the third game of the Dominion best-of-five final and thereby took a 2-1 edge in the series. The fourth game will be played here Saturday night.

Dave Nichol, the manager of the west coast team, who had protested over the officiating during the second game, expressed himself as "satisfied" with the referees, Chuck Malis and Frank Ulley, of Montreal, following last night's tilt. Ulley and Malis refereed the second tilt.

Ronnie Wilson, who paced the Oilers when they ousted Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers from the playdowns in the eastern semi-finals, was the leading scorer on the floor. The red-headed forward, a sergeant in the Canadian (Active) Army, snapped in 10 field goals and made good on four of six free shots awarded him for a total of 24 points.

Victoria's Norm Baker was second in the scoring with 15 points, while third was Coach Art Chapman of the western team with 11 points. Pat Griffin, tall Montreal centreman, was missing from the Oilers' lineup. He suffered an eye injury in the opening game Monday, and was used only sparingly in Tuesday's second game.

Press Boys Pick Devil Diver

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1.—(AP)—The press box experts today picked Devil Diver to win Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

Of 26 on-the-scene turf writers and radio announcers who ballotted in the annual Associated Press poll 10 chose either Devil Diver or the Greentree Stable enry of the Diver and Shut Out.

Surprisingly enough, although Alsab has been beaten in his last seven races he got the "place money" with six voting for him to win, three of them from the hometown of his owner, Al Sabath.

CAMILLI'S BIG WAR CLUB NOTCHES 2 HOMERS, DODGERS WIN 11-8

Giants Stop Leafs By 6 to 3; Two Home Runs

By The Associated Press

Baseball fans who like to see home runs are getting their money's worth in the International League these days.

Fourteen circuit clouts spiced the proceedings in four games yesterday, six of them at Buffalo where the pace-setting Newark Bears crushed the Bisons, 15-5. Four homers were hit at Rochester and two each at Toronto and Montreal.

Newark bombarded five Buffalo pitchers with 19 hits, five of which were for four bases each. Lloyd Christopher and Bill Johnson walloped two homers each and Bud Meth eny got one.

Lambert (Dutch) Meyer, recently acquired by the Bisons from the Detroit Tigers, smashed one of Johnny Babich's offerings for a three-run homer. It was Babich's third victory of the year.

Baltimore Orioles remained a half-game behind Newark by defeating Rochester Red Wings, 8-6. George Staler of the Orioles got two homers, each ith two mates aboard. Ed Robinson of Baltimore and Jim Ripple of the Red Birds also hit for the circuit.

Jersey City Giants stopped a two-game Toronto winning streak, beating the Maple Leafs, 6-3.

There were only two homers in this game, one by Buster Maynard of the Little Giants, and the other by Nick Gregory of Toronto.

Montreal Royals let the Syracuse Chiefs do all the home run hitting as they on out over the Chiefs 5-4 with a two-run rally in the last of the ninth. Ed Lukon and Eddie Shokes hit home runs for the Chiefs.

Derby Winner? It Is Tough Picking Favorite In Derby

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, May 1.—At about five minutes to six, Central Standard times, tomorrow, you're going to hear plenty of "I told you so's" from racing bugs who have picked the winner of the 68th Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Ky., which should be just over at that time.

But now, just a day before post time, it's pretty difficult to find prognosticators who can put their finger on even the favorite, let alone the winner, of the horse racing classic, for the Derby this year is wide open.

In the last 10 years there have been many favorites, and outstanding ones, too.

In 1930 Gallant Fox, the winner went at $1.19 to the $1. In 1931, Twenty Grand, the winner, was less than even money. In 1932 Tick On was $1.86 to the $1. Tick On finished sixth.

In 1933 the entry of Ladysman and Pomponious was slightly more than even money. Ladysman finished fourth. In 1934, Cavalcade, the winner, was three to two. In 1935 Nellie Flag was three to one. In 1936 Brevity, which finished second, was four to five. War Admiral, the winner in 1937, was three to two. Fighting Fox, the favorite in 1938, was hardly more than even money. Fighting Fox finished sixth.

Johnstown the winner in 1939, was 60 cents on the dollar. Bimelech, the favorite two years ago, was only 40 cents on the dollar. Whirlaway, the 1941 winner, was not quite three to one.

Requested Favorite

At the moment the favorite for the Kentucky Derby is Requested. Alsab's dismal showing of late will probably keep his odds up.

There were 150 horses nominated for the Derby this year. But of this total, which cost each owner $25 and which costs another $500 to enter their horses in the race, perhaps a dozen will go.

Most racing authorities agree that the ultimate starters probably will come from this group Alsab, Requested, Apache, Sun Again, Some Chance, Bright Willie, Devil Diver, American Wolf, With Regards, Boot and Spur, Bless Me, Dog Patch, Shut Out, First Fiddle, Sir War, Fair Call, Valdina Orphan Sweep Swinger, *Fairymanah, Man's Man.

Our opinion is that the horses which will get the most play and which have the best chances of starting are: Alsab, Requested, Sun Again, Apache, Devil Diver, Shut Out, With Regards, Sweep Swinger.

Alsab Top Money Winner

Last year Alsab topped all two-year-olds with 15 victories in 22 starts earning $110,600. Some Chance of the Calumet Farms and trained by Ben Jones, was second with five wins out of 23 starts. He earned $81265. Sun Again, another Calumet Derby horse, won four out of seven races, earning $45,455. He twice took the measure of Some Chance. Sun Again, most probable starter of the two Calumet horses, ran third in a six-furlong sprint to Devil Diver in the Keeneland opener.

Requested, owned by Ben Whitaker, won nine out of 16 starts last year, earning $49,850.

Devil Diver, the Greentree Stable hopeful, won four out of 12 starts and finished second seven times for $63,359 last year In his first start this year, he beat Whirlaway at six furlongs.

A bit about each of the probable Derby starters may help you pick your own favorite—or it may make you more puzzled than ever.

Bits About the Horses

ALSAB—Bargain colt bought by Chicago attorney, Al Sabath, for $700. He beat Requested twice last year, once in a match race. He also beat Bless Me by a neck in the Walden Stakes at Saratoga. Has failed to win a race this year in seven tries.

REQUESTED—Chestnut colt by Questionnaire-Fair Perdita. Questionnaire was one of the great handicap performer of his time. He was beaten by Alsab twice yast year, and also was trimmed by Shut Out and Sun Again in the Tremont Stakes. Owner Whitaker bought him for $1,300. With Eddie Arcaro up, he won the Flamingo in February beating Alsab easily. Last Saturday he won the rich Wood Memorial at Jamaica, easily taking the measure of most of the Derby eligibles.

BLESS ME—Owned by Col. E. R. Bradley, already winner of four Derbies. Bless Me ran six times last year, winning four and finishing second twice. He lost to Alsab by an eyelash in a mile and one-sixteenth race. Has failed to show a thing this season.

SUN AGAIN—Owned by Warren Wright of Calumet Farm. Raced seven times last year, but was injured just when he was beginning to show his stuff. He beat his stablemate, Some Chance, twice and ran third to Requested in the Tremont Stakes.

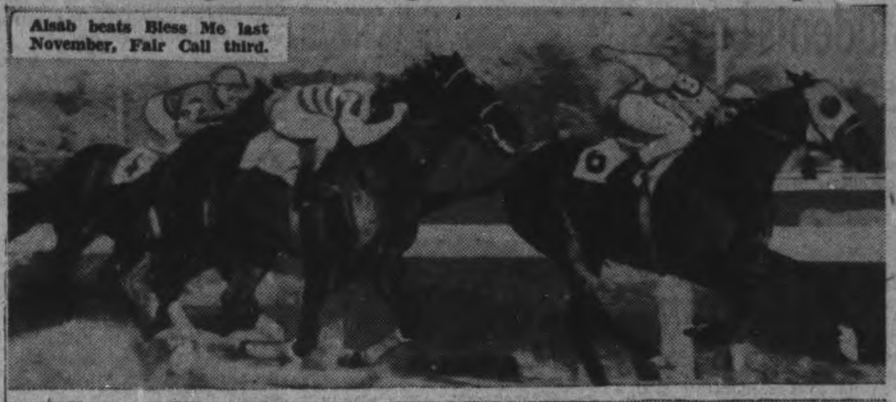
WITH REGARDS—Best claim to fame is his most recent effort in winning the Arkansas Derby with ease. With Regards, son of Jack High-Footloose, and owned by T. P. Grimes, won three straight at Oakdawn Park, and in winning the Arkansas Derby set a new track mark for the mile and one-eighth. Last year, With Regards started six times, winning three.

DEVIL DIVER—Owned by the Greentree Stable, and a son of St. Germans-Dabchick. St. Germans sired two Derby winners, Twenty Grand and Bold Venture. Heralded as a champion the first time he went to the post, Devil Diver didn't win until his fourth race. Last year he started 12 times and never finished out of the money. He beat Some Chance and Shut Out among others and won $39,950 in the Hopeful Stakes.

AMERICAN WOLF—Scored important victory at Hialeah in the Bahamas, beating Alsab and Requested. Son of Neddie-American Air and owned by Mrs. A. F. Sherman. Went to the post 10 times last year, winning four and finishing second four times.

APACHE — Owned by William Woodward and trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. Started 12 times last year, winning three and earning $15,075. He was very impressive in winning the $5,000 Experimental Handicap at Jamaica recently.

SWEEP SWINGER—Claimed by T. D. Buhl, Detroit, from the Greentree Stable for $2,500. The rangy, shuffling chestnut, doesn't look the part of a big stake winner, but his flying fourth in the Chespeake two weeks ago, his triumph in the Endurance Handicap, and his stretch whirl to close a chunk of ground on Alsab and Bless Me in the Walden, show that he can run the better part of any afternoon. The one-mile and a quarter Derby distance will be just to his liking.



Alsab beats Bless Me last November, Fair Call third.

Bright Willie wins Biscayne, Alsab fourth.

Requested wins East View stakes last summer.

Devil Diver wins Hopeful last August, Shut Out is second.

There was quite a ruckus about Dolph Camilli during the winter, most baseball fans will remember. By accident or design Brooklyn Dodgers obtained waivers on the stocky slugger who led the National League in 1941 in home runs and runs batted in and was voted the most valuable player.

Perhaps fearing a holdout struggle and feeling the Camilli had reached his peak, President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers discussed deals for him with New York Yankees and both Boston clubs.

Now there is another rumpus going on around Camilli. This time the veteran first baseman is causing it with his big war club.

After being ill for five days and out of uniform, Camilli returned to the lineup this week in Brooklyn's important series with the Reds and hit four home runs in three games to help the Dodgers sweep the slate and run their spring surge to 14 victories in 17 games.

Yesterday the Dodgers were trailing 8-6 at the end of five innings. In the sixth Camilli hit his fifth homer of the season. In the eighth he singled the tying run across and in the ninth again homered, this time with two on, to win the game.

The Dodgers also moved to bolster their pitching yesterday by buying Schoolboy Rowe from Detroit for a price estimated at $15,000. The big fellow had started only one game for the Tigers this year and won it.

Cleveland Wins 11 Straight

Cleveland continued to burn up the American League by crushing Philadelphia Athletics again 6-1 to extend its winning streak to 11 games.

Vern Kennedy kept the A's nine hits well spaced and Colonel (Buster) Mills put him in front with a single with the bases loaded in the first inning and drove in another run with a single later.

New York Yankees regained second place by pouncing on St. Louis Browns 3-0 behind the four-hit hurling of Big Ernie Bonham, who racked up his second shutout and third straight triumph of the young season. Joe Gordon was out of the champs' lineup for the first time since April 25, 1939, ending a string of 471 American League games, because of a pulled muscle in his back.

Early Wynn pitched Washington Senators to a 1-0 decision over Chicago White Sox in a breathless mound duel with old Ted Lyons. The latter allowed only four hits to Wynn's five, but one of the Nationals' bingles was a triple by Stan Spence in the first inning and he came home on an infield out. It was Chicago's seventh straight loss.

Boston Red Sox raided Detroit Tigers 8-3 with Dick Newsome pitching six-hit ball and Ted Williams shaking his slump for a homer.

Howie Pollet, southpaw sensation of the National League when he came up last August, captured his first 1942 victory with a four-hit effort that brought St. Louis Cardinals a 7-3 verdict over New York Giants. Pollet himself drove in three runs.

The Phils backed up Frank Hoerst's nine-hit pitching with four home runs by Dan Litwhiler, Ron Northey, Nick Etten and Benny Warren to beat Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3.

Boston Braves completed a sweep of their series with Chicago Cubs by winning 3-2 on Jim Tobin's five-hit hurling.

Jim Tobin and Buddy Gremp, Braves—Tobin pitched five-hit ball against Cubs and Cremp drove in two runs with homer and double.

sabotage and guerilla warfare are said to have weakened the Nazi rear while Hitlerian purges battle casualties and restriction of reinforcements seriously affected the invading troops.

Destroying European Culture

"The German Army," Stalin said, "is an army of medieval darkness, called upon to destroy European culture in order to institute the slave-driver culture of German bankers and barons."

He said the German Fascists had been represented as nationalists defending the integrity of Germany from attacks, as socialists seeking to defend the interests of the working people, as the bearers of European culture.

Of each idea he said: "This, of course, is a lie."

"The peoples of all freedom-loving countries are looking to the Soviet Union as a force which is capable of saving the world from the Hitlerite plague," Stalin went on.

"Among these freedom-loving countries the first place is occupied by Britain and the United States of America, with whom we are connected by ties of unity and friendship, and who are giving our country more and more military assistance against the Fascist invaders."

The premier declared Red Army troops had become "fiercer and more merciless" as a result of German treatment of military prisoners and civilians and reported disappearance of "the complacency and lack of responsibility with regard to the enemy which was found among the men in the first month of the war."

He issued a five-point memorandum charging all fighting men to master their weapons and strategic duties and urged guerillas in occupied territories to "spare no bullets against the invaders."

He praised the working people for turning the holiday into a day of labor. The mass demonstrations which have marked the last 24 years of Russian celebration of May Day were cancelled.

Nevertheless, every city, town and village arranged for display of red banners, revolutionary slogans — which now emphasize the necessity of "everything for the front"—and huge portraits of Lenin, Stalin and other Bolshevist leaders.

the battlefront.

John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) raised the question of civilian flying clubs — which provide elementary training for pilots and observers in the Commonwealth Air Training Plan — making excessive profits now that the plan has grown so far beyond its original size.

Defence Minister Ralston, later in the debate, replied that recommendations of the committee last year for reducing these profits and controlling the use to which they would be put had been adopted.

Not Near Capacity

Mr. Johnston said his experience was that many war plants were not working at anything near capacity. Delegations of workmen had reported that the factories they worked in, producing army trucks, were "deliberately slowing down production."

"I do not need to tell honorable members what plants I have in mind because they know. These are, perhaps, the three largest plants in Canada."

He added that another delegation would be here shortly to tell the government that a large paper plant was working only three days a week.

Questioned by Conservative House Leader Hanson, Mr. Johnston said he was referring to "the Abitibi plant."

"And the St. John Paper Company in Quebec," interjected Edouard Lacroix (Lib. Beauce).

Steel Mill Quits at 5 P.M.

Mr. Johnston said that, while Munitions Minister Howe was claiming there was a shortage in steel, a rolling mill in Calgary stopped work at five o'clock every afternoon. The Bow River member said a worker in the plant had told him that the plant could easily triple its production.

Aircraft factories, with a little expense, could almost double their output. He declared that for parliament to sit idly by "knowing that these manufacturers are deliberately held back by the Government" was a shame.

"If manufacturers say they are deliberately held back by the Government they are saying something which they know nothing whatever about," interjected Prime Minister Mackenzie King, "less than what my honorable friend knows.

"It seems to me my honorable friend has been made an easy mark by some of these concerns," Mr. King added, and his followers pounded their desks, shouting "Hear! Hear!"

"Go ahead and clap," retorted Mr. Johnston. "Clap this one off: I had the president of the Ottawa Car and Aircraft in Ottawa tell me he was working on planes for which he did not have a Government contract.

"He said: 'The only reason why I don't shut down is that we are in hope that the Government will accept it. But we cannot wait on the Government. They are too slow'."

He said this Ottawa aircraft firm had laid off 900 men recently and asked the Prime Minister if they had been put back to work.

"My knowledge of these things is not as full as my honorable friend's seems to be," Mr. King said.

"I have not that—I cannot think of the exact word—omniscience; it is something much of the same character—I have not that entire knowledge of the entire war effort that my honorable friend appears to have," the Prime Minister added.

"Then I am sorry for the Prime Minister," Mr. Johnston replied.

"He is taking everything that is being said to him as gospel truth," Mr. King continued.

Ready To Probe Charges.

"If he is prepared to make a charge with respect to any single contract or any single industry which is not performing its duty because it is held back by the Government, then I will certainly give him a committee of inquiry, immediately. But if he cannot he had better not make those reflections."

Those Alberta Tar Sands.

Mr. Johnston spoke of the Alberta tar sands and said he had been informed by the Department of Munitions and Supply that these resources could not be developed practicably.

"So far as I can find out the only source the Government got this information from was the big oil business, from men directly or indirectly financially controlling or interested in production of oil in this country," he said.

"My information is that it is a definitely established and proven fact that we can get oil and gasoline out of these tar sands and sell them on the commercial market to compete with the big oil companies," he declared.

"I think there should be an investigation of this. I am quite convinced that Imperial Oil is not going to expand our oil industry unless they are forced to do so, or unless some other steps are taken to expand this industry."

Mr. Howe said his Department was one of the first to be investigated by the committee yet, from the tone of statements made in the House, it would appear that someone was preventing such investigation.

Members of the committee who now criticized the Department were in fact criticizing themselves, having been instructed to investigate it and having been afforded all facilities to do so.

"It is very damaging to the war effort to have distrust built up about the Department of Munitions and Supply...

"If there is anything wrong with my Department there is no one more anxious to know about it than I am. We have men on watch constantly for irregularities or wrongdoing.

"I can assure honorable members that if there has been any irregularity the guilty party will be punished to the full extent that the courts provide punishment."

Mr. Howe said his files were open to the committee and, while contracts no longer were published, by International agreement, they could be disclosed to a committee sitting in camera.

Charge Secrecy Violated.

J. A. Marshall (N.D. Camrose) protested that information given the committee in camera was later divulged in newspapers and magazine articles and he accused members of the House of violating the secrecy of the meetings.

As a member of the committee he said he was ready to do his part 'to see that we win the war and to see, too, that proper punishment is meted out to those human buzzards who would feed on the lives of patriotic Canadians.'

R. W. Gladstone, (Lib. Wellington outh) contended that 'red tape' and unbusiness-like procedure had slowed up the work of the committee last session. Meetings were held up because of lack of shorthand reporters to record the evidence and he said he was convinced that it was not necessary to have a complete record of all proceedings.

Mr. Gladstone suggested the committee again sit through the Parliamentary recess and that a substantial grant of money be provided to enable the committee to work without interruption due to lack of funds. The committee should sit continuously during the life of the present Parliament, he said

Ottawa To Make Medical Students Loans

OTTAWA, May 1 — (CP). — Medical students in Ontario universities are to be given financial assistance by the Federal Department of Labor through a new arrangement made with university authorities, Labor Minister Mitchell announced yesterday after a final meeting of university representatives and officials of the Departments of Labor and National Defence.

"All medical students, other than freshmen, who need aid and who agree to enlist in the armed services when they reach the second last year of their course will receive loans up to approximately $300 a year, Mr. Mitchell's statement said. "The universities will select the students to be helped. Each university will administer its own fund and will make collection of the loans.

"When they reach the second last year of their course, students who are physically fit and have a good academic standing will be enlisted in the Army. They will be given leave of absence with pay till graduation, when they will be posted as medical officers."

Mr. Mitchell said it became necessary to work out a special plan for Ontario universities when the Provincial Government declined to participate in the original student aid program. Under the original plan the Federal and Provincial Governments co-operate on a 50-50 basis, and engineering, science, and dental students, who pledge their service to the nation after graduation, are covered. In British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec, and Nova Scotia, all co-operating on the 50-50 basis, the money is paid as an outright grant. In Manitoba, at the request of the Provincial Government which pays half the cost it is loaned.

A Federal Matter.

The Ontario Government declined to co-operate as it considered the plan a war measure and the sole responsibility of the Federal Government, Mr. Mitchell said. A proposal that it divert some of its $300,000 grant to the Royal Canadian Air Force School at Galt, Ont., to students' aid was rejected.

The training branch of the Labor Department has estimated that the Ontario scheme will cost the Federal Department of Labor $150,000, less repayment of the loans. This figure includes the cost of accelerating the medical course to speed graduation of doctors. The speed-up will be obtained largely by shortening summer vacations.

"It is thought probable that a similar arrangement will be worked out with the Ontario universities to give aid to dental students," Mr. Mitchell said. "The plan will be enlarger to take in engineering and science students only if the war demand for them makes it necessary."

LIGHTNING SPLITS FLAGPOLE.

The permanent residents at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club got a jolt Thursday evening when lightning struck the flagpole just in front of the main entrance to the clubhouse. The bolt shattered the pole, sending a shower of splinters on to the house, and the ground, and then grounded in the rockpile at the base of the pole, dislodging several of the cobblestones, which were set in concrete.

CLAIMS RECRUITS

"We are getting quite a few recruits these days," Maurice Ketcheson of the C.C.F. told the Examiner this morning. "It would surprise you to know some who are quietly interested in the Federation and who believe that the people's hope for the future lies only through the policies of the C.C.F. I am in touch all the time ith Noseworthy, Coldwell, Gillis and our other members of the Commons."

TRUCK TURNS OVER.

A Cooney transport truck was extensively damaged five miles north of Port Hope on Highway 28 the other day when the driver pulled over to the side of the road in an effort to avoid striking a truck turning into a farmer's laneway. The big left front wheel of the transport hit a culvert and the machine turned over, and its cargo of empty beer bottles and kegs was scattered. The driver of the other truck was Elford Goheen, R.R. 2, Port Hope.

Big Rainstorm Stalls Anglers

A downpour of rain starting early Friday morning put a substantial crimp in trout fishing activities in the Peterborough district, and the majority of fishermen who had planned a jaunt to their favorite stream, were in to work on time this morning, having taken a rain check on the trip.

Others who braved the elements had not returned at noon, so no survey could be made of the results. It is believed, however, that the downpour, which was in excess of three-quarters of an inch would swell the trout streams and make them very muddy. However, if the fishermen had used live bait in these swollen streams, they should have been able to bring home the bacon.

Red Cross Comes To Aid Of Kinmount

Food rationing for 60 persons made homeless by a fire that destroyed the greater part of Kinmount village Tuesday night ended today with the arrival there of supplies and a donation of $1,000 from the Victoria branch of the Red Cross Society.

All of the 12 stores in the village were destroyed by the fire and people had to ration their food until supplies arrived. A temporary grocery store has been set up in a lodge hall by C. H. Thompson, who lost his store in the fire.

Direct communication with outside points was established today when telephone repairmen moved a building to the site of the destroyed exchange and erected new poles and installed wires.

Members of the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club and Rotary club have formed a Kinmount Good Will Fund to further aid the villagers. The fund will be turned over to a committee appointed by the people of Kinmount. Contributions are expected from every part of the province.

Peterborough Interested

The timely action of the Victoria Red Cross in contributing $1,000 for Kinmount relief was grateful news to local citizens who were anxious about the fire-stricken neighbors of the northern village.

Several citizens proposed that a local fund be opened for the assistance of families who lost their homes and furniture in Tuesday's fire.

It was also suggested that either the Peterborough Red Cross or the Community Chest Fund should make a contribution from this community. Some questions have also been asked about the county and city councils doing something in the dire need of some 60 people on Peterborough's border.

"We helped Halifax and other communities that suffered from disaster, and now when a comparatively major loss strikes people in our own vicinity we do nothing whatever about it," one citizen said this morning. "If a fund is opened here I am willing to contribute to it and I think something should be done about it."

The Examiner is willing to accept contributions and turn them over to the committee handling the fund in Kinmount.

Airman Heard Wife, Daughter

AC 1 Frank Smart, R.A.F., formerly employed as a fitter in the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough, heard his nine-year-old daughter Doreen, and his wife, the former Edna Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Simmons, 250 Euclid Avenue, in a regularly featured BBC broadcast from England.

Mr. Smart and his family went to England four years ago where he later joined the R.A.F.. He has survived one plane crash and returned to Canada a short time ago for advanced training near Kingston, where he was ill for a time.

AC 1 FRANK SMART

The intimate details of the broadcast were given in a detailed letter from Mrs. Smart and Doreen, to the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, Euclid avenue.

"We were allowed to say forty words," Mrs. Smart wrote, "and I cut mine down so Doreen could say more. Everyone was so kind to us, and we had a number of pictures taken which have appeared in several papers.

"The poor child was terribly nervous in the studio and kept saying 'I have a pain in my stomach,' but after the rehearsal she felt much better. Miss Welch wanted to say 'hello' and then add a few other remarks. Doreen, on the verge of tears finally compromised on 'Hello Daddy, thanks, for the sweets.' I said 'Give my love to Mother and Dad and the folks on Euclid avenue.'

"After the broadcast we had tea and biscuits and Miss Welch gave a signed photograph to Doreen and kissed her."

17 Ready To Face Derby Barrier

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1.—(AP)—Seventeen horses—16 colts and one gelding—were entered today for tomorrow's 68th running of the Kentucky Derby.

The entries were completed half an hour before the entry box was scheduled to close.

Heading the field were Mrs. Payne Whitney's threat of Devil Diver and Shut Out, and Ben Whitaker's Requested. Back of them in the consensus were Alsab, With Regards, Sun Again, Apache, Valdina Orphan, the imported Hollywood, Sweep Swinger, Dogpatch, Fair Call, Fairy Manah, Sir War, First Fiddle, and the two rank outsiders from California—Boot and Spur and First Prize. Sweep Swinger was the lone gelding.

First in the entry box was Dogpatch owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, and last was the high-speed With Regards, owned and trained by the Colorado rancher, T. D. (Pinkie) Grimes.

The first of 17 is the biggest since War Admiral whipped 19 others in 1937.

If all 17 entered got to the post, this richest Derby of all time will pay the winner $65,225 out of a gross value of $87,250.

If there is mud when the race goes off at 5:30 p.m. tomorow, it would reduce the field by at least one, for Dogpatch's handlers have said the son of Bull Dog would stay in his barn in case of an off track.

The draw for positions placed Mrs. Whitney's Pair in good spots with Devil Diver getting stall number 5 and Shut Out, No. 3. Requested was not so fortunate, drawing No. 14 while With Regards, generally rated the speed horse of the field, will have to start from the unfavorable outside spot.

The No. 1 position went to Fair Call. Outside of him in order were: First Fiddle, Shut Out, Sweep Swinger, Devil Diver, Hollywood, Alsab, Sir War, First Prize, Sun Again, Fair Manah, Dogpatch, Boot and Spur, Requested, Apache, Valdina Orphan and With Regards.

40-Mile-An-Hour Effective Today

The 40-mile per hour speed limit on provincial highways went into force officially today and will be strictly enforced.

Most motorists have been driving in accordance with the new limit for some weeks so that the official arrival of the 40-mile regulation will not be a drastic change for them. The few who have been stepping on the gas as usual had better watch their step, however for traffic officers have been instructed to lay charges against all offenders and the penalties are not light.

The fine for a first offence is $15 and the penalty is stepped up sharply for subsequent offences. Charges are laid, not under the Highway Act, but under special regulations and motorists are warned that the new law has teeth and that they will be used.

Retail Section Is Organized

Plans are shaping up well for the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Chest Drive which gets underway on May 15, and on Friday the headquarters of the drive, located in the old Department of Agriculture office on George street, released a list of the team captains for the retail section.

W. Chris. Hughes is chairman of the retail section, while W. E. Foley, is vice-chairman, and the team captains are as follows—Paige Rowell, Chas. H. Elliott, H. C. Sootheran, Chief George Gimblett, D. J. Fitzgerald, Chas J. Ray, Frank Hughes, J. Selkirk, J. J. Dorris, Fred Hills, G. A. McCague, A. E. Cauley, H. S. Longhurst and Floyd Curtis.

The retail division team captains select their own canvassers and a team consists of from three to six men.

Wartime Houses Use Vacant Lots

A suggestion from Wartime Housing to build on separate lots owned by the city was briefly mentioned at the Board of Works meeting Wednesday night.

"Yes, if they put in a foundation and basement," was the comment of members of the council.

The proposed lots would have the advantage of existing water and sewer connections, sidewalks and roadways.

"The cost of making new roads is usually not given much attention," Mayor Hamilton remarked, "but it is a very considerable item."

Whether the project of building on lots which could be bought from the city is proceeded with will depend on the attitude of Wartime Housing to the council's attitude demanding that the houses be built on permanent foundations instead of posts

School Groups Donate $30 To War Victims

A sea of shining uplifted faces, singing the familiar hymn "Fling Out the Banner" then bowed in prayer, led by their headmaster, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, was the prelude on Thursday to a presentation to the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, from three separate groups of girl students of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational Schools.

Due, perhaps, to their taking part in the sterner necessities occasioned through service on behalf of the war, the boys appeared to be very much in the minority in this assembly with which it very appropriately commences its day's work, which was reminiscent of days long past for the secretary of the fund, the true value of which will most likely be more apparent to this rising generation when they have the larger responsibilities of life to face in the days that are to come. It is significant that all three sums of money given to the fund were from groups composed of girl students, and in connection with this, they also presented Miss Dorothy Kirn with $40 for the War Work Finance Committee, who have been doing really good work on behalf of the Red Cross, among the financing of the mobile kitchen for use in England.

Mrs. Rightmyer, who has charge of the night sewing classes presented $10 to the fund on behalf of her group; Miss June Wallis presented $10 on behalf of the day classes sewing group which is under the charge of Miss H. Gerrard, and Miss Eleanor Shirley presented $10 on behalf of the P.C.I. Girls' Glee Club, which is under the direction of Miss I. A. Weddell.

In response to this presentation, the secretary of the fund contrasted their outlook on life and opportunities in comparison to the regimented youth of Germany, and their safety in comparison to the students in schools in Great Britain, urging them to continue their very excellent record on behalf of the war through the sale of war savings stamps and certificates, and the many other assists they have given to various other war charities.

Draw for Tablecloth

Mrs. O. Church of Sherbrooke street west, made and donated a cross stitch black and red tablecloth to the fund, and the ladies of the Star of Bethlehem L.O.B.A. sponsored the sale of tickets for a draw on it which has realized $17.60 for the fund, and appears in today's list of receipts. The draw was made by Mrs. Stan Cummings and resulted in Mrs. L. Bass of Port Hope Highway being the winner with ticket No. 29.

One personal donation from a regular contributor of help to the people of Britain is also noted, and the fund management very gratefully acknowledges the gift of printed official letter-head stationery from Wilf Hardill of the Commercial Press, and some draw tickets from Don Clarke of the Peterborough Printing Co. Ltd. Only $70 is now needed to complete the 17th donation of £500.

FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND FANCOTT

going overseas at any time now."

"Men are lucky," said Peggy.

"Why?" asked Nigel with a sudden smile.

Peggy shrugged. "They can be soldiers, sailors, airmen. I'd like to fly. Girls aren't allowed to do any of the interesting things."

"They just have to be one of the interesting things."

Peggy's green eyes rested on Nigel's face as he stared up into the sky. "Am I interesting?"

Nigel grinned at her ingenuous frankness. "Well," he said doubtfully, "I wonder." He turned to meet her green eyes and saw the flash of humor in them and laughed aloud. "You are fishing."

"No," she replied. "I'm not. I think Fay is interesting. I'd like to be like her."

"You aren't so very bad as you are," he countered. "Why do you want to be like her?"

"I'd like to do things. She has had success, money, knows fascinating people. Just—" she finished naively, "—things."

Nigel laughed. "Fay doesn't seem to think it was such a success."

"How do you know?" asked Peggy with surprise.

"She was telling us last night. I gathered the big time had its drawbacks."

"That's because she's a marrying type of girl."

He demurred at that. "Perhaps it was because the kind of success she had was too full of parasites—like our friend Baldy."

"I suppose a girl like that could marry almost anyone." This remark was an attempt to sound out Nigel and he rose like a fish.

"I expect so." He gave a sigh of resignation as though at that moment, lying in the sun, it was not nearly so hard to face the fact as it had been the night before.

"Do you think she would marry for love . . . that is, if she fell in love with some quite ordinary man?"

Nigel shrugged his shoulders. "Why not?"

"I was just thinking," mused Peggy. "She'd make a lovely sister-in-law."

"What do you mean?" There was an edge of interest in Nigel's voice.

"Why, haven't you noticed yet?" Peggy registered childish deep surprise.

"Noticed what?" asked Nigel. He was looking at her now with a slight concern.

Peggy lay back on the warm rock, her head cushioned on her hands and her eyes filled with that limpid innocence her sister knew so well.

"She thinks he's wonderful. She told me herself this morning . . . before breakfast too! And, of course, anyone can see what he thinks."

Nigel took his eyes from the colorful figure by his side. He lay down again and said nothing. The slight wedge that Peggy had slipped between his common sense and his jealousy was very effective. There was a distinct pang of pain, but whether it hurt his heart or his self-esteem he did not bother to question. What surprised him most was that in the warmth of the sun, after such a pleasant swim, it did not annoy him nearly as much as it might have done.

But it brought back to him the fact that he had not seen Fay this morning. He sat up abruptly and looked about for the canoe.

"The canoe has gone," he announced.

Peggy fluttered. "Oh!" she exclaimed. "What shall we do?"

"I don't know. It's too far to swim."

"We'll have to wait," said Peggy. "Someone is sure to come. Let's have another swim."

They did, and after it sprawled comfortably on the sunbaked rock to dry again. Whereupon Peggy opened Round Two. For an amateur, she did remarkably well. Half an hour later anyone seeing the two figures lying there and hearing the murmur of conversation and the exchange of laughter would have concluded that the two people had known one another for a very long time.

BY A WATERFALL

CHAPTER XIV

There was no scheming brain like Peggy's to guide the course of human affairs in another corner of Ferdy's woodsy domain. Below the house the lake narrowed to flow clearly into a dancing stream. This stream cut through thick woods to a narrow cleft of of rock in the creek bed, gathering pace there to tumble over the fall of 20 feet and settle foamingly into a wide pool. The course then broadened, between wide ledges of flat rock, and made its way along a more placid bed. The fall, pine-flanked and sparkling, the deeps below it and the blanched banks about it, made a scene Ferdy never tired of painting.

Fay and Michael were enjoying the scene, themselves, Ferdy's progress with paints and canvas and the conversation they shared, quite as much as their host. Michael's usual reserve melted under Fay's warm smile and her radiant interest. She asked of his experiences in England with the First Division in such a way that be knew she was talking for more than whiling away time. Finally, embarrassed at having so much of the conversation pivoting about himself, he turned it adroitly toward her life in New York, her plans on leaving it behind.

"I'd like to get to England," she said. "I'd like to do something real to help."

"But you can do that here," Michael countered. "You'd be wasted driving an ambulance or doing office work in uniform. With a voice like yours . . . why, in camp the fellows would get a great kick out of your singing. It's just the kind of thing we couldn't get enough of over there and I expect it's the same over here."

There was a thoughtful look on Fay's face. Michael continued, "Why don't you organize a concert party, get the Legion to sponsor you? I'll bet you'd have so much work to do you'd never get around to thinking of anything else."

Fay turned to him eagerly. "That IS an idea! I could speak to my father about it. He wants me to go on singing and he doesn't want me to go back to New York. I could get . . . let me think . . . what about your sister? Does she do anything besides sing?"

"That kid?" laughed Michael. "She's hardly finished high school."

"Just like a brother, aren't you?" Fay smiled. "She's got a voice, if I'm not mistaken."

"She's always dancing around the house," said Michael.

"Maybe there's something there, then. I know—we'll get Baldy to work out a program for a mixed party. He's really quite good when he can forget his troubles."

"That squirt?" said Michael without enthusiasm.

"He isn't bad. They say that when he was on the stage he was one of the best slapstick comedians on the circuits. Then he tried to go refined and flopped."

"He'd never leave New York."

"I know. But he could work out a balanced show for us and we could pick up some other people in Montreal or Toronto."

* * *

Michael looked at her a little wistfully. "With your name—your stage name—it would go over big."

Fay shook her head. "I want to forget my stage name."

"But why?" asked Michael. "You are so young, you've got everything ahead of you . . . once you get rid of Baldy and the rest of his crowd."

"It can't be done," laughed Fay. "And anyway I don't want that kind of success."

"Why?" asked Michael, as unable as Peggy to understand how any girl could resist it.

"A year or so ago it seemed the most wonderful thing in the world and I loved it, but I guess there must be something wrong with me. This is the kind of thing I really love . . . being in a place like this in the summer . . . or like last night, singing in the evening to a few people I like. You can't imagine how restful and natural it is compared with the stress and strain of New York, the long hours, the fuss of keeping up appearances, the endless stream of people wanting something from you—money, time, endorsements, recommendations, entertainment . . . and the men, all kinds of them, nice enough people except they wouldn't be giving you a second glance if you were plain Mary Smith, or if they weren't gluttons for limelight and reflected glory. They propose like crazy, and their promises are thinner than their consciences."

Fay passed a slender hand across her forehead as if clearing her mind of cobwebby memories best forgotten. "Another year of it—" she shuddered. "Honestly, Michael, I think I'd have been a nervous wreck. As it was I felt like some person quite strange to myself, living a false existence, with no more sense of values or of contact with real people than an oyster under a glass counter. No. I know now what I want from life. It isn't that kind of thing."

Michael gazed down at the water rushing between the narrow ledge at his feet. "What kind of thing do you want?"

"Just what any girl wants eventually, I suppose."

Michael felt himself impelled to go on asking her, wanting not to break this thread of easy understanding that had grown between them.

But at this moment Myra and Baldy hove into sight.

There was a gasp of astonishment and concern from the two seated on the ledge and a burst of laughter from Ferdy. For Myra and Baldy had set out from the wharf in the red canoe, overestimating their joint skill. What skill Myra had Baldy canceled, and before they knew it they were in the stream at the end of the lake, unaware of the race that led to the fall.

In the first moment that the three below saw them they were hanging on, scared out of their wits by their predicament and expecting something like death or mutilation on the rocks below the falls. But the falls were harmless, more like an exaggerated watershoot. There was a split second when the bow of the canoe and both occupants shot over the edge and plunged into the deep pool below.

There was a spectacular splash, then the canoe bobbing overturned to the surface and a spluttering pair yelling in unison for help.

Michael and Fay dashed for them and both dived at the same time.

A moment later Fay hauled Myra to the ledge and Michael hoisted Baldy out by the scruff of his neck.

Ferdy had taken everything very casually. He saw it was unnecessary to rush to the rescue, and had caught the canoe before it reached the ledges.

Now he laughed at the dripping four. Baldy managed to look the most bedraggled in his ruined immaculateness. Myra ran him a close second with wet hair streaming over her face. Fay had saved her own hair from getting wet and her white linen suit clung limply but no unbecomingly to her limbs.

"This is my favorite swimming hole," said Ferdy.

Myra and Baldy glared at him.

Heirs Don't Bid As Whitney Treasures Sold

By AMY PORTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 1.—The treasures in the Harry Payne Whitney mansion are gone.

As the furnishings and decorations of the thirty-eight-soom Fifth Avenue showplace went under the auctioneer's hammer the three children of the late Harry Payne Whitney looked on. Their mother, Mrs. Whitney, died recently after completing arrangements for the auction.

The son, Major Cornelius Vanderbilt (Sonny) Whitney, came in with his wife and took a seat far back in the great ballroom, which he remembered from the days when the Whitneys entertained on a lavish scale.

The daughters, Mrs. George McCollough Miller and Mrs. Barklie Henry, came in together.

None of them made bids as the auctioneer, Hiram H. Parke, called out, "What am I bid for this fine picture of cattle, I mean of some sheep and a shepherd? Eight hundred—eight hundred—who'll say eight-fifty?—It cost Mr. Whitney many times what you're paying."

Highest bid of the day was $42,000 for a group of four Brussels Renaissance tapestries. An agent bought them for an unnamed museum in New England.

A suite of Louis XV Beauvais tapestry furniture with elaborate gilt frames was sold for $26,000.

Total of sales for the day was $220,379, and it is expected that the final sales will bring the total to more than twice that amount—though still far, far less, as the auctioner said, than Mr. Whitney paid for the things at the turn of the century.

No Army Supply Holdup

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP).—Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of the army's services of supply, said yesterday that ocean shipping is the United States worst war shortage, but that so far "there has never been a carlaod" of army shipments held up at ports for want of cargo space.

"We hope now to be able to extend that to other shipments also, Gen. Somervell told a press conference.

"Transportation is going to be the bottleneck of our whole war effort," he said, adding that ocean shipping was the limiting factor, with rail transportation to date moving with speed and efficiency.

The orders were issued on behalf of H. G. Smith administrator of knitted goods.

1-a-Day Delivery Hits Newspapers

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP).— The problem of multiple deliveries of newspapers, presently facing a ban under a Government order effective May 15, probably will be considered on an industry-wide rather than an individual basis, a United States Office of Defence Transportation spokesman said today.

As the order stands, no more than one delivery may be made to any person in any one day—which would have the effect of ending the present practice of delivering several editions of a newspaper daily to the news-stands. The order applies to all commodities and prohibits all special deliveries by rubber-tired vehicles, including special delivery mail.

However, a representative of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association has been conferring with defence transportation officials and has indicated a request will be made for modification of the local carrier delivery order as it applies to newspapers, the spokesman said. He explained it is unlikely such requests will be handled on an individual newspaper basis.

The letter of the order, it was explained, apparently would not prevent delivery of two different editions to two neighboring homes or news-stands, although such would be regarded as a violation of its spirit.

Asked about the effect of the one-trip-a-day delivery of a few newspapers which publish around the clock under one name, the O.D.T. spokesman said it appeared possible that but a single delivery could be permitted.

It was indicated, however that many such problems are to be taken up by the O.D.T. and industry representatives. It was explained also that Joseph B. Eastman, director of O.D.T. could grant such general or special permits as might be necessary.

Regency Rake Ruffles

By PRUNELLA WOOD

GREAT consternation swept over the fashion laywomen when the government said it was to "freeze" the current silhouette, to keep radical changes which use up too much fabric out of the style picture and to save the clothes we bought at Easter time from looking "dated" by mid-summer.

Your reporter, for one, is more than content with the fashions of the moment, and hopes they stick around a long time. Never was the silhouette prettier or purer, never the colors in use of greater range and subtler combination. Classics abound, and it's the perfect classic which makes best-dressed lists, rather than the breath-taking novelty. The beautiful ensemble sketched here today is of 1942, but timeless; and it's lovely in color, too.

Isabell Legrow Bride Of Leo McCormack

Sacred Heart Church, decorated with pink snapdragons, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Thursday, when Isabell Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Legrow, and Leo Vincent, son of the late Mr. Jerry McCormack and Mrs. McCormack, were united in marriage. Rev. Father Houlihan performed the wedding ceremony and the music was played by Mr. John Armstrong. Mr. Anthony De Noble sang Cesar Franck's "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked beautiful in a floor-length gown of stiffened French lace, perfectly plain, and fitted, with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length veil of white tulle with a single gardenia in her hair, and carried a shower bouquet of Better-time roses and sweetpeas. She was attended by Anne McCormack, sister of the groom, who wore shadow blue triple sheer chiffon with lace insets and a matching halo with pink taffeta streamers to the waist-line. She carried a nosegay of old-fashioned flowers, batchelor buttons, roses, sweetpeas and carnations, in pastel shades. The groom was attended by John Legrow, sister of the bride, and the ushers were Aleric Letellier and George Hawks.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to 50 guests at Hooper's Palm Rooms, after which a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received wearing a black and gold dress, a black felt hat and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, who wore a black marquisette gown, a black and white straw hat and a corsage of red roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Toronto and St. Catharines. For travelling the bride wore a beige and brown printed silk jersey dress with brown accessories and a red fox fur, the gift of her father. On their return they will live at 176 Lock Street.

Women In Industrial Parade

Not long ago this attractive Canadian girl looked upon a file as something used solely to manicure her nails. Today, after joining thousands of other girls in war industries, she can handle a file as deftly as any man in turning out parts in an aircraft factory. It is estimated that between 50,000 and 75,000 women are now employed in industrial war work. Thousands more will be required to cope with manpower requirements as industry expands and men enlist.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe Addresses W.C.T.U. Meeting

"If God be for us, who can be against us " asked Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe when addressing the local W.C.T.U. yesterday at the Y.W.C.A.

In quoting from St. Paul's letter to the Romans, and applying it to the temperance cause, he went on to reassure his hearers that even in the face of apparent failure, no one could really be against this work when God was for them.

The question in the mind of a great many people today is "What's the use?" When people are depressed, the day is always dark however bright it may seem. If we determinedly combat this feeling of futility which comes from a succession of disappointments, the gloom and darkness will surely pass away.

This may get worse before they get better; many thing may happen which we do not like to see, yet graduall, right will triumph. Peopple have always felt it rather in vain to do the Lord's work. Even back to the days of Malachie, the prophet, said, "It is vain to serve God." I wonder, said the speaker, if this mood is caused because the worker realizes that he is not doing what they should, for even in the best services, self is often put first.

This mood of depression may come from attacking the task from the wrong viewpoint, with no trust in God. If we put our trust in Him, our work cannot fail. Some people expect spectacular or dramatic results, but it all takes time and you need patience.

The shortest way out of this mood is to look unto Jesus and not at the question, "What is the use?"

In conclusion the speaker pointed out that Jesus had reason to be depressed, but He went on without complain to Calvary. Even in His last hours, Jesus told others "to be of good cheer"— to have courage. We need an everlasting vision of Christ before us to be successful in this work, said Mr. Sutcliffe in closing this very encouraging message.

Fitting in with this theme was the day's scripture lesson from Psalm 61, a prayer of faith and trust in God, read by Mrs. J. H. Rowe, and follwed with earnest prayer by Mrs. A. J. Throop.

The president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, presided throughout and led the clip sheet responsive service on the theme "Beverage Alcohol and War." The fact was stressed that men whose strength and work were needed for their country were being lost as they use gasoline and tires in delivering beverage alcohol, which is a deplorable state of affairs in a Christian country in war time.

During the business session the County convention — Peterborough and Northumberland—was announced to take place at Plainville on June 11th.

This meeting, held under the department of law, legislation and Sabbath Temperance, with Mrs. J. H. Rowe was superintendent, was closed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe.

From the umbrella hung pink streamers which were attached to the gifts on the tabel. After opening her gifts, Miss Sopha made a suitable expression of thanks to her friends and everyone enjoyed a program of games and contests. Luncheon was served and a delightful evening was brought to a close after the guests had had their tea-cup read.

Church Year Meeting Well Attended

More than 200 ladies and gentlemen were present at the monthly meeting of the Women's Church Year, which was held on Thursday evening in All Saints' Parish Hall.

The president, Mrs. J. C. Adams, was in the chair, and opened the meeting with a hymn, after which she led in prayer. Mrs. I. H. Boddy read the lesson.

The president voiced her appreciation of the large number of people present. The months came forward the money collected and once more a large sum was realized. The meeting then sang the doxology and the National Anthem, after which it was announced that a large number of articles had been knit for the Navy.

Miss Mary Hanlon favored the meeting with a beautiful solo, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade.

The treasurer then gave her report, and the Rev. W. A. Filer introduced the speaker for the evening in the person of Miss Esther Robkin, who was born in Russia. She gave an interesting talk, outlining the amazing advance that had been made in Russia during the past 25 years, in the educational, and industrial life of the country.

Mrs. Percy Hooper then rendered a violin solo and Mrs. Douglas Weir sang a solo, both accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Logan. Miss Isobel Connolly moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, soloists and accompanists. Rev. Mr. Filer closed the meeting with prayer, after which refreshments were served by Miss Rose Williams and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, May 28, at 2:30 p.m., when Miss Olga Johnston will be the speaker.

Gymnastics and Dancing Displayed In Y.W.C.A. Gym Review

The elaborate pantomime form taken by the "Y" pageants in the past is gone, at least for the duration, but the snappy gym review, with stress on physical fitness which has taken its place is a very satisfactory substitute. The work of the gymnasium classes was exceptionally good, particularly among the senior classes. The work of the very young children, if somewhat lacking in precision, was performed with naturalness and obvious enjoyment. The babies' dumbell drill, in which the youngsters sang nursery songs with actions, was greeted with affectionate enthusiasm by the audience. A display of club swinging by a small group prompted the wish that more of this effective work should be taught in gym classes.

A lovely flower waltz performed by a special ballet group was executed too quickly. This is perhaps better than being too slow, but there is a happy medium. The dance was performed with grace and abandon, but some of the langorous grace of a waltz was lost in the tempo. A ballet by the junior ballet class was enhanced by the youth and natural grace of the performers, but their interpretive ballet "Playtime" was more original and more effective.

A display of couple gymnastics and pyramid work by the senior gym class was remarkably good, and brought "ah's and ah's" of suspense from the audience. This class also gave a display of Medau Eurhythmics, a difficult act, performed on the whole with precision and grace. Both these displays require confidence and concentration and the girls showed plenty of both.

Trio gymnastics, requiring concentration and co-operation, was performed by the girls of senior and intermediate gym classes. The rhythmics by the intermediate gym were well done, as were the Danish fundamentals by seniors and intermediates. A folk dance by the cadets was lacking in that precision of step expected of folk dances but a display jumping, in which quite surprising heights were reached seemed more in their line.

The junior gym classes contributed an Irish character dance and some fine skipping exercises. A Doll Dance by the babies dancing class was effective chiefly because of the unselfconsciousness of the youngest dancers, who behaved with a charming naturalness. Semaphore Flag Signalling and Morse Code by the junior gym was smartly done but these displays are not terribly interesting to watch. One of the numbers performed with greatest correctness and effectiveness was one called Russian Rhapsody, by the Senior Ballet. It deserved better lighting and would have been more effective on the stage but it was a fine performance.

In a group of special features the Archery Club, new this year, gave an effective display, and a special group did breath-taking things on the flying rings. The babies and juniors gave a display of rope-climbing and skipping, and babies who climbed to the roof of the gym on ropes almost stole the show. Last of this group was short game by the Badminton Club, who put on a better show at any of their Saturday night games.

An added feature of this year's display was a showing by the Y.M.C.A. Body Building and Weight-Lifting Class, who gave a display of bronze modelling. Their bodies painted bronze, these boys assumed statuesque poses on a platform in the middle of the gym and were spot-lighted from the gallery. Unfortunately, the light was most unsatisfactory but it is hoped that this will be improved for Friday's performance.

Pianists throughout the review were Jean Melvin and Marjorie Dillon and the entire production was under direction of Caroline F. Littlefield, physical director of the Y.W.C.A.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, May 2

According to the most powerful or sidereal operations this should be a day of conquest and achievements if new ideas, plans, objectives, with discreet but aggressive action be pursued. There may be a strong proclivity to drastic or over energetic procedure or to meet obligations and duties with resentment or unfriendliness, while an amiable, logical and prudent course would assure the co-operation of large organizations, political or other public agencies whose support is imperative. Be restrained and reasonable even if confronted by peculiar or trying circumstances or temporary frustrations.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of splendid opportunity for hitting high spots of accomplishment and appreciation, especially in new, radical, revolutionary or strange propositions or unusual objectives, even though such efforts be subject to postponements, frustrations, obstacles or surprising and irregular situations. The inclination may be toword battering down such opposition by drastic action or main force, with over aggressive and unreasonable tactics. The tendency to resent or sidestep obligations and normal duties should be restrained for amiable compromise and friendliness, which may attract support of large bodies of political, community, or co-operate interest. Ateention to health is not amiss.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, energetic, and determined to gain conspicuous headway in its novel projects. It maly be imbued with revolutionary ideas, much ingenuity and originality, with danger of carrying such to extremes

YOUNG WAR BRIDE FACING NEW PROBLEM IN LIVING

Better for Her to Establish Own Than Return to Her Parents

Now that Johnny has gotten his gun and gone marching off to war, one of the head-achey problems of the day is, what is his young bride to do? Where is she to live, and how? Is she to wish herself off on his family or her own? Is she to keep on with her job, if she has one, or just sit pretty and suck her thumbs for the duration? Shall she continue to go about with her crowd, or stay at home weeping and writing letters to Johnny telling him how lonesome she is? It is difficult to make a good guess at answering these questions because about every human complication enters into them. To begin with, the girl is neither maid, wife nor widow—or she is all three of them, according to the point of view, and this triple role is a hard one for an inexperience actress to fill. Then there are family conditions to be taken into consideration, and the personal equation youth and youth's natural craving for pleasure, for excitement, its facility for shirking responsibilities and the ease with which it dries its tears and forgets its troubles and anxieties. Also its money question. It is idle to say that the great majority of these war marriages were simply the result of war hysteria and should never have taken place. No doubt thousands upon thousands of craven draft dodgers married in order to hide behind their wives' skirts. Thousands upon thousands of silly girls married just because all the other girls were getting married and they were afraid that if they didn't snatch a husband while they could they might be left old maids.

Rushing Into marriage

Thousands upon thousands of boys and girls who have never even imagined they were in love, married because the boy was going away from his home and to fight for his country, and this threw them both into a sad and sentimental mood, which neither realized that they would recover from before the ink on the wedding certificate was dry.

And thousands upon thousands of other young couple, who really loved each other and were planning to marry when they had saved up enough to adequately finance a home threw prduence and common sense to the winds and rushed into marriage regardless of consequences.

But no matter for what reason these youngsters married, they did it. War marriages are among the major casualties of war, and the problem is now to save these romantic boys and girls from having their lives wrecked by their emotionalism as completely as it could be done by shot and shell.

Going Home to Mama

Of course when Johnny is called to active duty and has to leave his young wife alone, the first impulse of her loving parents is to say: "Come home to aFther and Mother and bring the children," if any. But this plan rarely works out satisfactorily. Some times Father and Mother have barely bread and butter enough for themselves and when they have to divided it with Susie and her hungry brood it puts them all on starvation rations. Often after the children married, Father and Mother gave up their big house and went to live in a small cottage or flat, and when their sons and daughters dump themselves and their offspring upon them, the horrors of a concentration camp having nothing much upon the crowded quarters they are forced to live in.

And, no matter how much they love their grandchildren when they can have their society in broken doses, to have a lot of healthy, restless, noisy kids perpetually under foot gets upon old peoples' nerves and drives them frantic.

Make Home of Your Own

Also, it is a law of Nature that no woman who has ever been mistress of her own home can go back to her old home and fit into it. Her place in the family circle automatically closes when she leaves it. Her welcome under the old roof is the frosty one of the self-invited guest. And so the wise woman never goes back home to stay. She makes herself a home of her own.

The temporary war widow who has a job should hold on to it with both hands and her teeth, because, for one thing, it enables her to be financially independent and so not to add the anxiety about whether she has plenty to eat and a comfortable place to stay, or is starving, to her soldier husband's other worries; and, for another reason work is her salvation. The weary time of waiting for Johnny to come back to her will not go so slowly if she is hard-driven to get her daily task done, and if she has work that is so interesting and so exacting that she has to concentrate her whole mind upon it and so cannot eat her heart out wondering what has happened to him.

The girl who has never prepared herself to make a living because she expected to marry it, should face the fact that her playtime, her time of idle irresponsibility, is over. She should not make herself a parasite on her family or her friends. She should go on her own and stand on her own feet. She should fit herself to be self-supporting and to meet whatever fate comes to her when the war is over.

Girls and Money

Dear Dorothy Dix.—What do you think of girls paying their own way when they go out with young men? I am a working girl and make a good salary. The boy with whom I go out doesn't make as much as I do, and naturally he doesn't often have money to be throwing around on a good time. Do you see harm in a girl paying her own expense for an evening of fun? Some boys may scoff at the idea, and even think that a girl is running after them if she offers to pay her way, if their excuse is that they can't afford to take her around. I have enough sense to know when a boy is lying and when he is telling the truth. And it seem so hard for us to be denied good times just because there is some convention about a boy always paying the bills.—Penelope.

Answer.—I agree with you. Other times, other manners. Now, when girls are wage-earners and make as much as boys do, I see no reason why they should not split the expenses of an evening's amusement.

FRANTIC WEEKEND

By EDMUND FANCOTT

MAROONED

CHAPTER XIII

Of course at the moment—Peggy qualified her plotting—she wasn't really interested in anyone like Nigel. It would be fun to see if she could win some of his devotion from Fay's lovely direction, but Baldy was her mark. Baldy, she was ambitiously sure, knew the show business from props to pocketbook and back again. Smart as he was, and with his New York background, he could set any talented girl on the way to an exciting and glamorous—not to mention profitable—career. Her family had scorned her singing and still thought of her as the baby of the family. It would be grand to show them what she could do, to come home from New York with lovely clothes and lots of money bringing presents for all the family.

But Baldy could wait a little. If she could keep Fay out of his way he could be kept up at the house for the whole weekend, and it wasn't smart maneuvering to rush a man like that. The thing was to get him aware of her, appreciative of her possibilities.

That was a thought that pleased her.
